Fosston city council to put up yield signs

Fosston — The Fosston city council voted recently to put up four yield signs on Second street just east of the entry to the Fosston Sports complex. According to the police chief, there have been at least five or six accidents a winter at those two intersection and he adds that people don't realize that those two blocks aren't a through street. One of the city council members, who lives on that street, indicated that people drive too fast past the school now and he worries that it may get even worse without adding the yield signs. (Thirteen Towns)

Engineer to study Oklee landfill

Oklee — The proposed landfill near Oklee came one step closer to reality Monday when the Red Lake county board approved $3,500 for an engineer planning study, which is required by the Minnesota Pollution Control agency. The county has an option on a 10-acre site near Oklee for an above ground landfill. (Oklee Herald)

Kittson county schools search for superintendent

Kittson County — Beginning February 2, Kittson Central and Kennedy schools will have no superintendent. The districts' shared superintendent, Jerry Scott formally resigned recently and now the two districts are discussing whether to advertise for another shared position or just for a position at Kittson County Central and consider the Kennedy situation later. (Kittson County Enterprise)

Author to speak at Grygla school

Grygla — Author William Kirtland, formerly of Bemidji, will give a presentation at the Grygla school January 7. Kirtland, now a professor of education at Boise state university, has written numerous books and short stories, including teacher guide books. His book, "Billy," the story of a Minnesota boy growing up in the 1940's, will be reviewed in his presentation. A presentation for parents will take place from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. (Grygla Eagle)

Grafton landmark mangled in accident

Grafton, ND — The marquee sign hanging outside the Strand Twin theatre in Grafton suffered $1,500 in damages earlier this month after a city patrol clipped the extending sign while plowing snow. The sign was new when the theatre was rebuilt following a fire in 1945, almost the original building was built in 1915. The owner reports that he has plans to repair the sign within a couple of weeks. (Walsh County Record)

Fertile Christmas Bird count reports results

Fertile — Even with snowy conditions, those venturing forth to count birds were treated to a nice variety for the first official Fertile Christmas Bird count on December 18. In total 24 separate species were counted and 454 individual birds were seen.

Snowmobiles to tanks, Machinewell performs

Manufacturing company at Grygla produces parts for many types of machines and industry

by Mark Gison
Staff Writer

Snowmobiles and M1 Tank artillery have something in common — both have parts created in Grygla.

Machinewell, Inc., founded in 1976, makes components for machines.

Julie Bergstrom, vice president of financing and sales, estimated that Machinewell makes 120 to 150 different parts and a quantity of "maybe a million parts a year."

Ron Palm, production vice president, said the company's chief customers are Arctco, Polaris and military contractors. Examples of parts Machinewell makes include tie rods, air motor shafts and valves.

Military contractors out of St. Petersburg, FL and Minneapolis order most of the parts. The parts then go to assembly plants in Iowa or Tennessee for assembly.

Machinewell has submitted the lowest price quote on the military project for six years. The M1 Tank project required around 150,000 parts in 1992, Bergstrom said. Palm estimated that each part required two minutes to make. All of the parts would require 5,000 hours or 208 24-hour days to build.

Every aspect of the project is government regulated, Palm said, down to the thickness of the plastic bag each part is shipped in.

The military parts are made year-round, Palm said, with the busiest seasons being summer, late fall and early winter. February and March are the busiest months for snowmobile products, Palm said.

The company hires one full-time salesman, who operates out of Brainerd, to sell its products.

Terry Wells, Machinewell's namesake, was the company's original owner. In 1985 a group of independent shareholders purchased the company from Wells.

Wayne Kehler is currently the corporation's president. Kehler is also president of Krueter Manufacturing, a company located in Goshen, IN, and formerly located in Thief River Falls. Machinewell also services Krueter Manufacturing with parts.

Machinewell is located in 10,000 square feet of buildings. One of the buildings was previously the Grygla lumberyard. The company moved three years ago into the larger buildings with the help of loans and grants from Grygla and the state.

At that time, Machinewell employed 28 people, gradually growing from the two original workers (Bergstrom and Wells).

These parts are made by Machinewell, Inc. and are used in M1 Tank artillery. Machinewell made around 150,000 of these parts this year. Each part takes about two minutes to create.

For Deb Panek, her loss is her gain

Former Goodridge area resident and Lincoln high school grad on track to lose 154 pounds

Times Editor

Deb Panek isn't nearly the woman she used to be......and she likes it that way!

Before the rural Thief River Falls native and 1978 graduate of Lincoln high school reaches her weight loss goal early in 1993 she will have shed more weight than she has remaining. Her success and her attitude have impressed not only her family and friends but the personnel in the weight loss program she has been following.

"The people at Nutri/System want to use me in their advertising program when I reach my goal," she said. "And I have to honestly say that their program has not only been the most successful but the easiest of anything I have tried to lose weight—and I've tried a lot of them!"

How successful has the program been? So far since she reached her peak weight of 297 pounds she has lost 127 pounds to a present weight of 170. She set her mind to weight loss in mid 1991 and officially started on the Nutri/System program Oct. 11, 1991. Her goal is to reach her pre-determined "ideal" weight of 147 pounds by March 1, 1993.

Despite her outstanding success in the program, Deb admits to being somewhat impatient that she didn't reach her goal earlier. People connected with the program in Nashville, TN, where she attends weekly classes and purchases her supplies, tell her she is too goal oriented.

"After thinking about it for awhile I guess I have a tendency to agree with them," she said. But she will also insist that goal-setting is an important adjunct to a weight loss plan if you really expect it to work for you.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Panek of rural Goodridge, Deb grew up in the Mavie community northwest of Goodridge and attended the Thief River Falls schools. She graduated from Northland Community College, attended the University of North Dakota for one year and in 1986 earned a Bachelor of Science degree in education from Bemidji State University. Between school sessions she worked at various jobs to help pay for her education.

Following graduation from BSU she took an elementary teaching job in El Paso, TX, and taught there for four years. She is now in her third year of teaching severely handicapped students in a junior high school program in Dickson, TN, about 35 miles from Nashville.

She said it was about in third grade that she became noticeably overweight and that she continued to remain heavy throughout high school and her adult years. When her weight crept near the 300 pound mark she seriously decided it had

Polk county courthouse broken into

Crookston — This week the Crookston police department received a report that someone had broken into the Polk county courthouse. There was no damage to any of the outside doors but some inside doors were damaged. The lock to the court administration office was damaged and pry marks were visible to the cafeteria door. Entry was not, however, gained to these offices. The door to the motor vehicle department was damaged and entry was gained but nothing appeared to be missing. The incident remains under investigation. (Crookston Daily Times)

Bruestle helps promote Bemidji events

Bemidji — Martin Bruestle, co-producer of Northern Exposure, on a holiday visit to his parents' home in Bemidji, did his part to promote several positive things in that community. He spoke to a Rotary group Monday and was master of ceremonies for three performances of the Paul Bunyan Playhouse "Home for the Holidays" show Saturday. He told the Rotary club that he has used sound tracks of frogs and crickets recorded at a marsh near his parents' home on Big Turtle Lake for the program. His father has also been an extra on the program. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Crookston woman rescued from river

Crookston — A Crookston woman who drove a snowmobile off the Otter/Tail Dam into the open waters of the Red Lake river last Saturday was taken by ambulance to Riverview hospital and released Sunday morning. Irene Torgerson was rescued by her snowmobiling partner, Dwight Johnson, also of Crookston, who ran down to the river and pulled her out of the water. She had been pulled onto the ice by the time the police arrived on the scene. (Crookston Daily Times)

Crookston Market street closed

Crookston — Beginning January 4, Market street in Crookston from Robert street to Second street, will be closed for about five days. Access to the city parking lot and rear entrances of businesses on Main street will be provided at the Market street entrance on Robert street. The closure is required for Burlington Northern railroad to demolish and remove the old depot. (Crookston Daily Times)

Soupçon For The Holidays

Just in time for New Year entertaining, here are some party foods for you.

Here are a few chip or cracker dip ideas for you. Keep your dips nice and cold by placing and serving dish in a bowl of ice garnished with parsley or mint. Use fresh parsley, chives, etc., available in stores now, for the best flavor:

Shrimp Chip Dip

2/3 cup (4 1/2 ounce) can of shrimp pieces, drained
1/4 cup chili sauce
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon horseradish
dash of Tobasco sauce
1 cup dairy sour cream

In bowl, blend chili sauce, lemon juice, salt, pepper, horseradish and Tobasco. Fold in sour cream and then shrimp pieces. Cover and chill. (Use as dip or spread.)

Devil Dip

1 cup cottage cheese
1 can (2 1/4 ounce) deviled ham
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon grated onion
dash of pepper

Beat all ingredients in mixing bowl. Cover and chill. (1 teaspoon spaghetti sauce mix may be added to this dip for even more zip.)

Zippy Cheddar Spread

2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
1/3 cup half and half
3 tablespoons chopped onion or chives
1 tablespoon ketchup
1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire
1/4 teaspoon salt
dash cayenne pepper

Combine ingredients, beating until fluffy. Cover and chill.

"Pate" Spread

1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
1 cup (4 ounces) crumbled Bleu cheese
1 cup (1/2 pound) liver sausage (liverwurst)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated onion
1/2 clove garlic, crushed
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire
1/4 cup finely chopped celery
3 tablespoons chopped parsley

Mix cream cheese, Bleu cheese and liver sausage until smooth. Blend in lemon juice, onion, garlic and Worcestershire. Stir in celery and parsley. Cover and chill.

Your guests will love these pretty, bite-sized cheese balls:

Cheddar Balls

1 pound Cheddar cheese
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 teaspoon Worcestershire
1/2 teaspoon paprika
chopped smoked sliced beef
chopped parsley
red apple

Cut Cheddar into small pieces and allow to come to room temperature.

In mixing bowl, beat cheese until smooth and creamy. Add onion, Worcestershire and paprika and continue to beat until thoroughly blended.

Shape into 1-inch balls. Roll half of the balls in the chopped beef, and the other half in parsley. Refrigerate.

Just before serving, spear each ball with a toothpick and place in red apple for serving.

(Cheddar mixture may be shaped into a log and rolled in nuts.)

Serve these hot from the oven:

Flakey Cheese Puffs

1/4 cup butter, softened
2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire
dash of cayenne pepper
1 cup flour

In bowl, blend together butter, cheese, Worcestershire and pepper. Gradually add flour.

Shape into a ball, wrap in waxed paper and chill.

Take about one-fourth of the dough from the refrigerator at a time, and shape into 3/4 inch balls. (Use flour on hands to roll easier.)

Place 2 inches apart on baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees for 12-15 minutes. Serve immediately.

(Balls may be made ahead and kept in refrigerator until baking. They may also be baked ahead and frozen, then reheated directly from the freezer in preheated oven, baking for 10 minutes.)

Another hot tidbit. Use some of these lovely thin-sliced party breads for this one:

Crab Meat Toasties

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
1/3 cup instant nonfat dry milk
2/3 cup water
2 egg yolks, beaten
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup (7 1/2 ounce can) crab meat, drained and flaked
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
1/4 teaspoon basil
6 thin slices of bread with crust removed

In small saucepan, melt butter, onion and green pepper until tender.

Mix dry milk, water, egg yolks and salt and add to saucepan. Cook 5 minutes, stirring constantly.

Blend in crab meat, parsley and basil and let stand until cool.

On baking sheet, toast bread at 450 degrees, just on one side. Cut into squares or other shapes.

Spread crab mixture over untoasted side of bread and bake for 10 minutes. Serve hot.

And here are a couple of very tasty, non-alcoholic drink-ideas for your party:

Ruby Red Cocktail

4 cups tomato juice
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon grated onion
1 1/2 teaspoons celery salt
1 bay leaf
4 drops Tobasco
1 cup dairy sour cream, if desired.

In pitcher, combine tomato juice, sugar, lemon juice, onion, celery salt, bay leaf and Tobasco. Cover and chill.

Before serving, remove bay leaf and pour into chilled glasses. Top with dollop of sour cream, if desired.

Hot Buttered Cranberry Punch

2 cups (1 pound can) jellied cranberry sauce
1/3 cup packed light brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/8 teaspoon cloves
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
1/8 teaspoon salt
2 cups water
2 cups unsweetened pineapple juice butter pats
stick cinnamon

In saucepan, crush cranberry sauce with fork. Mix in sugar, cinnamon, allspice, cloves, nutmeg and salt.

Gradually add water, beating with mixer until smooth. Stir in pineapple juice.

Heat to boiling and then simmer for five minutes. Pour into punch cups or bowl, floating butter pats on top. Serve with cinnamon stick.

Polk county courthouse broken into

Crookston — This week the Crookston police department received a report that someone had broken into the Polk county courthouse. There was no damage to any of the outside doors but some inside doors were damaged. The lock to the court administration office was damaged and pry marks were visible to the cafeteria door. Entry was not, however, gained to these offices. The door to the motor vehicle department was damaged and entry was gained but nothing appeared to be missing. The incident remains under investigation. (Crookston Daily Times)

Bruestle helps promote Bemidji events

Bemidji — Martin Bruestle, co-producer of Northern Exposure, on a holiday visit to his parents' home in Bemidji, did his part to promote several positive things in that community. He spoke to a Rotary group Monday and was master of ceremonies for three performances of the Paul Bunyan Playhouse "Home for the Holidays" show Saturday. He told the Rotary club that he has used sound tracks of frogs and crickets recorded at a marsh near his parents' home on Big Turtle Lake for the program. His father has also been an extra on the program. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Crookston woman rescued from river

Crookston — A Crookston woman who drove a snowmobile off the Otter Tail Dam into the open waters of the Red Lake river last Saturday was taken by ambulance to Riverview hospital and released Sunday morning. Irene Torgerson was rescued by her snowmobiling partner, Dwight Johnson, also of Crookston, who ran down to the river and pulled her out of the water. She had been pulled onto the ice by the time the police arrived on the scene. (Crookston Daily Times)

Crookston Market street closed

Crookston — Beginning January 4, Market street in Crookston from Robert street to Second street, will be closed for about five days. Access to the city parking lot and rear entrances of businesses on Main street will be provided at the Market street entrance on Robert street. The closure is required for Burlington Northern railroad to demolish and remove the old depot. (Crookston Daily Times)

Soupçon For The Holidays

by Sherry LaCoursiere

Just in time for New Year entertaining, here are some party foods for you.

Here are a few chip or cracker dip ideas for you. Keep your dips nice and cold by placing and serving dish in a bowl of ice garnished with parsley or mint. Use fresh parsley, chives, etc., available in stores now, for the best flavor:

Shrimp Chip Dip
2/3 cup (4 1/2 ounce) can of shrimp pieces, drained
1/4 cup chili sauce
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon horseradish
dash of Tabasco sauce
1 cup dairy sour cream

In bowl, blend chili sauce, lemon juice, salt, pepper, horseradish and Tabasco. Fold in sour cream and then shrimp pieces. Cover and chill. (Use as dip or spread.)

Devil Dip
1 cup cottage cheese
1 can (2 1/4 ounce) deviled ham
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon grated onion
dash of pepper

Beat all ingredients in mixing bowl. Cover and chill. (1 teaspoon spaghetti sauce mix may be added to this dip for even more zip.)

Zippy Cheddar Spread
2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
1/3 cup half and half
3 tablespoons chopped onion or chives
1 tablespoon ketchup
1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire
1/4 teaspoon salt
dash cayenne pepper

Combine ingredients, heating until fluffy. Cover and chill.

"Pate" Spread
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
1 cup (4 ounces) crumbled Bleu cheese
1 cup (1/2 pound) liver sausage (liverwurst)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated onion
1/2 clove garlic, crushed
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire
1/4 cup finely chopped celery
3 tablespoons chopped parsley

Mix cream cheese, Bleu cheese and liver sausage until smooth. Blend in lemon juice, onion, garlic and Worcestershire. Stir in celery and parsley. Cover and chill.

Your guests will love these pretty, bite-sized cheese balls:

Cheddar Balls
1 pound Cheddar cheese
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 teaspoon Worcestershire
1/2 teaspoon paprika
chopped smoked sliced beef
chopped parsley
red apple

Cut Cheddar into small pieces and allow to come to room temperature.

In mixing bowl, beat cheese until smooth and creamy. Add onion, Worcestershire and paprika and continue to beat until thoroughly blended.

Shape into 1-inch balls. Roll half of the balls in the chopped beef, and the other half in parsley. Refrigerate.

Just before serving, spear each ball with a toothpick and place in red apple for serving.

(Cheddar mixture may be shaped into a log and rolled in nuts.)

Shape into a ball, wrap in waxed paper and chill.

Take about one-fourth of the dough from the refrigerator at a time and shape into 3/4 inch balls. (Use flour on hands to roll easier.)

Place 2 inches apart on baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees for 12-15 minutes. Serve immediately.

Slow Drains?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again!

The secret? Clean drains don't run slowly. The "slows", or periodic clogs, are signals that a thick layer of "gook" is choking your pipes. Just like the "ring" that sticks to the side walls of your bathtub, this gook sticks to the inner side walls of your pipes.

Old-fashioned drain openers cannot remove this build up. They run along the bottom of your pipes. Even a small tunnel in the gook lets them flow out to the sewer, leaving the gook behind!

Now you can make your pipes run like new with Plumb Clean®. Not a drain opener, it's an advanced plumbing cleaner. Its revolutionary one-of-a-kind formula attaches and penetrates into the waste. Then, in just one to three weeks, it liquifies years of build up that drain openers can't even reach. Cleans from sink to sewer, not just the trap. Plumb Clean® is so effective it is money-back guaranteed!

SAVE MONEY. Because drain openers can't reach the gook on the sides of your pipes you have two choices. Call a plumber and spend $60-$120, or save money and use Plumb Clean®.

Now don't be fooled by look-alikes. Their label has safety cautions instead of a guarantee. And since they aren't as strong, their directions have you use twice as much. So, if your drains have the "slows", get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean® today!

Two snowmobile accidents reported to sheriff's office

Pennington county sheriff's department responded to two reports of snowmobile accidents Wednesday, December 30. Two people were taken to Northwest Medical Center.

Officials had to use a rescue sled to get one victim out of a wooded area. At about 3:51 p.m. Wednesday, the sheriff's department received a report of an accident on a marked trail behind Northland Community College. According to the report, Roger Widing of Anaheim, CA, using an Arctco snowmobile, was following a trail when his passenger Cheryl Widing distracted him. Widing lost control of the snowmobile and it struck a tree. Cheryl Widing was resuced with a snowmobile sled donated to the sheriff's department by the SnoDrifters snowmobile club and taken by ambulance to Northwest Medical Center. Damage to the 1992 Arctic Cat snowmobile was estimated at $2,000.

At 11:39 a.m. the sheriff's department received a report of an accident at Third street and Railway avenue in St. Hilaire. According to the report, a snowmobile owned by Doug Amiot, Thief River Falls, and being diven by Brian Amiot of Staples, was going south on Railway avenue and a pickup driven by Ernest Stoker, Clearbrook, was going west on Third street. The vehicles collided at the intersection. Amiot hit the brakes of his snowmobile and slid sideways and slightly backwards before the collision.

Damage to the snowmobile was to the right side and rear and estimated at $200. Amiot had a bruised leg and was taken by private vehicle to Northwest Medical Center. Damage to the pickup was to the right side and estimated at $800.

State patrol investigates TRF accident

Three vehicles received moderate damage following an accident at the intersection of Highway 59 and Brooks avenue in Thief River Falls.

According to a spokesperson for the Minnesota state patrol, the patrol received a report of an accident at that intersection at about 6:10 p.m. According to the accident report, a 1985 Chevrolet four-door vehicle driven by Michelle Mary Paulson, Thief River Falls, was stopped facing south on Brooks at Highway 59. At the same time a 1989 Toyota stationwagon driven by Troy Rolland Klevgard, Thief River Falls, was going west on Highway 59. A 1985 Ford pickup driven by Alan Maurice Newton, route 4, Thief River Falls, had been going north on Brooks and was attempting to cross Highway 59 but because of ice was unable to cross before the Klevgard vehicle struck his vehicle. After impact, the vehicle spun around and struck the Paulson vehicle.

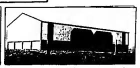
Damage to the three vehicles was described as moderate. All drivers were wearing seat belts at the time. No charges were filed in the accident.

Cattle reported missing to LEC

Cattle, valued at $1,300 have been reported missing to the sheriff's department in Thief River Falls.

A black Angus cow and calf owned by Scott and Brian Olson of Norden township are missing. The owners did not find any fence damage and suspect that they were taken. However, Thief River Aviation will conduct an air search. The sheriff's department is investigating the incident as a possible theft.

Jason Tangquist receives degree



Jason Tangquist, son of Paul and Evadell Tangquist of Thief River Falls and a 1988 graduate of Lincoln high school, received a bachelor of arts degree in psychology from the University of Minnesota at commencement ceremonies for the College of Liberal Arts December 13 in Minneapolis.

America Tried A Communal System ....350 Years Ago!

President-elect Bill Clintoo is receiving a good deal of advice these days, much of it from liberals pushing socialist planning and ever more government controls and largesse. But the president-to-be might do well to study the lessons of the very first community of our nation's forefathers at Plymouth Bay more than 350 years ago.

Writing in his Behind the Headlines column for America's Future, Philip C. Clarke gives this account of that bit of history and its relevance to today:

At Hillsdale College in Michigan, the authors of a recent commentary in the institution's highly acclaimed publication Inprimis, did some research on how the Plymouth settlement governed itself. Their conclusion sounded startling. "The Pilgrims," they discovered, "were Communist. At least, they set out to be."

As related in Inprimis, "Plymouth Bay Colony was established as a commune according to the socialist dictum, 'From each according to his ability, to each according to his need.' And so each Pilgrim contributed his harvest to a common storehouse from which everyone withdrew food as needed.

"However," the account continues, "the assurance that they would be fed from the common store, regardless of their contribution to it, had a peculiarly disabling effect on the colonists. Soon there were more needy consumers than able producers, and the Pilgrims very nearly starved to death.

"Desperate to avert tragedy," it went on, "Governor William Bradford proclaimed that each colonist would thereafter be free to do whatever he chose with the fruits of his labor. In other words, he established a free market. Governor Bradford recorded the outcome of his experiment in economic freedom in his diary, from which the following is adapted."

"The freedom had very good success," Gov. Bradford wrote. "It made all hands very industrious, so that much more corn was planted than otherwise would have been by means I, or any other, could use. It saved me a great deal of trouble and gave for better results.

"The women went willingly into the field and took little ones with them to set corn," he wrote. "Before, they would allege weakness and inability, and to have forced them to work would have been thought tyranny and oppression.

"By this time," said the leader of the first Plymouth Colony, "the harvest was come and, instead of famine, now God gave them plenty. And some of the abler and more industrious sort had food to spare to sell to others, so as any general want or famine has not been amongst them since to this day."

Concluded the Inprimis account: "Thus was born the miracle of America's abundance. And those who today propose central planning, common ownership, redistribution of wealth and government handouts are advocating a system that Americans have already tried and abandoned more than 350 years ago!"

In our estimation, columnist Clarke writes, the experience of the Plymouth Pilgrims is a parable for all times—and all countries. Throughout the world, wherever people have thrown off the yoke of tyranny and turned to democracy and self-government, nation after nation has striven to develop a system of free markets. Even in the birthplace of the modern communist state—the former Soviet Union—reform leaders are desperately attempting, however slowly and painfully, to bring about economic freedom as well as political liberty.

Like the Plymouth settlers, they have tried the communist way and it didn't work. Indeed, there's never been a substitute for private initiative. It's a fact of life our own economic tinkerers should heed before taking the socialist road to ruin.

America's Doors Are Still Open

If one believes the words of a popular song from a few years back and the complaints of some special interest civil rights activists, the United States is closing its borders to people of the sort who it once welcomed with open arms. Statistics would indicate that such is not the case at all.

The U.S. Bureau of the Census recently reported that nearly one-fourth of the United States' nearly 20 million foreign-born residents entered the country between 1985 and 1990—the last year for which figures are available. The material was drawn from 1990 decennial census "long form" data.

Tables in the report show that the number of foreign-born persons entering the United States has increased every five years since the early 1960s, from 1.5 million in 1960-64 to a peak of 5.6 million in 1985-90.

"About 7.9 per cent of the nation's population was foreign born in 1990, which was the highest proportion in the past four decades," noted Susan Lapham, bureau analyst. She said that more than one in five—4.3 million—of the country's foreign-born population were born in Mexico. Germany fell from second in 1980 at 849,000 to fifth in 1990 at 712,000 while the Philippines went from seventh at 501,000 to second with 913,000.

Seven other countries—Canada, Cuba, United Kingdom, Italy, South Korea, Vietnam and China—contributed at least 500,000 people each to the foreign-born population living in the United States. Among the 25 largest groups, El Salvador, Taiwan, Guatemala, Haiti and Laos appeared on the list for the first time.

In 1990, seven of every 10 residents of Hialeah City, FL, were foreign-born. Other cities with more than half their population foreign born were Miami, FL at 60 per cent; Huntington Park, CA, at 59 per cent; Union City, NJ, at 55 per cent; Monterey Park, CA at 52 per cent; and Miami Beach, FL and Santa Ana, CA, at 51 per cent each.

This is not to comment on the advantages or disadvantages to the United States resulting from the foreign-born population. It is merely to indicate that America is not turning its back nor closing its doors in an introspective way as some people would like to have other Americans believe.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

This description of farming was given to me by my daughter for Christmas. The author is unknown, but it contains so much truth and feeling that I wanted to share it with your readers.

I Believe In Farming

I believe a man's greatest possession is his dignity and that no calling bestows this more abundantly than farming. I believe hard work and honest sweat are the building blocks of a person's character. I believe that farming, despite its hardships and disappointments, is the most honest and honorable way a man can spend his days on this earth.

I believe my children are learning values that will last a lifetime and can be learned in no other way. I believe many of the best things in life are indeed free: the splendor of a sunrise, the rapture of wide open spaces, the exhilarating sight of your land greening each spring.

I believe true happiness comes from watching your crops ripen in the field, your children grow tall in the sun, your whole family feel the pride that springs from their shared experience.

I believe when a man grows old and sums up his days, he should be able to stand tall and feel pride in the life he's lived. I believe in farming because it makes all this possible.

Sincerely,
Melvin Joppru

4-H public speaking event set

Pennington county 4-H public speaking contest will be conducted Monday, January 25, at 7 p.m. at the courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls. Division winners in all age divisions will advance to the contest at the Red River Valley Shows.

Topic for the senior division is "Valuing Differences: How I Respond to Diversity." Participants in Cloverbud, Beginner and Intermediate divisions may use the same topic or select another topic of their choice.

To register, contact the county extension office by January 15. A schedule will be mailed after the number of participants and categories are known, according to Van Swanson, county 4-H club agent.

Recognition plaque for 25 years of service to the Minnesota State Patrol was received this week by Wally Haaton (center), communications officer at the patrol office in Thief River Falls. He is shown with communications officer Ray Paulson (left) and Captain Lynn Daniels. Haaton began his duties with the patrol in Thief River Falls Dec. 28, 1967 and has served at this station since that time, working under direction of four different captains. He previously served for seven and a half years as a patrolman with the Thief River Falls police department. A letter of commendation from Michael S. Jordan, Commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Public Safety, accompanied the plaque and congratulated Haaton on reaching a "significant milestone in your career."

4-H project meetings on January 9

Project meetings for Pennington county 4-H club members will be held Saturday, January 9, at the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls.

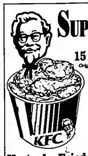
From 9 to 9:50 a.m. sessions will be held for public speaking in the board room and woodworking in the meeting room. From 10 to 10:50 a.m. meetings will be held for wildlife in the board room and food pyramid in the meeting room. From 11 to 11:50 a.m. the sessions will be for home environment in the board room and lawn and landscape in the meeting room.

The sessions are open to parents as well as 4-H club members and there is no charge. They are informal and there is ample opportunity to ask questions. Bring cameras to take photos; attending the meetings can be used in project records, according to Van Swanson, county 4-H club agent.

Daniel Pagnac joins navy on delayed entry

Daniel Pagnac, son of Rebecca Pagnac of Thief River Falls and a 1992 graduate of Lincoln high school, has enlisted in the U.S. Navy for guaranteed training at the navy's seaman apprentice school.

Enlisting under the delayed entry program, Daniel will report to the recruit training center in San Diego, CA, in March for active duty where he will undergo basic training.



Following basic training, he will begin four weeks of schooling at San Diego in the seaman apprentice field. Under that program, persons who have not chosen a specific career field receive general shipboard and nautical training prior to being assigned to a navy ship. Once they are aboard ship they may train in a job or request additional navy schooling in a field for which they are qualified.

Home decorating workshop Jan. 8

"New Life For Your Home" is the theme for a home decorating workshop to be conducted Friday, January 8, at 1:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls.

Karen Kirkeby will provide information on home decorating, including painting techniques for special effects, wallpaper removal and application, refinishing wood surfaces and planning a color scheme for a new look.

Anyone interested in new ideas for home decorating is invited to attend the program sponsored by the Pennington county extension service. For further information contact Deb Zak at 681-2116.

TIP appeals for monetary support

Tip Appeals For Support

TIP (Turn in Poachers), Inc., is appealing to concerned citizens for support.

"Today, we need monetary support from Minnesotans and conservation organizations," said Pat McGuire, TIP president. "In the past, we've asked mainly for support in stopping poachers. However, we cannot continue our mission of stopping poaching and educating the public about TIP and the poaching problem without funding. Lip-service support will not pay rewards or fund our educational programs."

TIP, Inc., is a nonprofit statewide membership organization. Unlike most anti-poaching programs in the U.S., TIP receives no money from the State of Minnesota or hunting or fishing license fees. Almost all of TIP's funding comes from membership donations and banquets.

"The economy, competition for funding with other conservation organizations and the perception that TIP is a part of the DNR have had a great impact on our finances in the last several years," McGuire said. "We need concerned people and organizations to support TIP through memberships and banquets."

Since its inception in 1981, TIP has been responsible for 3,552 poaching arrests. More than $11[illegible] has been paid in rewards. TIP has also promoted the program through advertisements statewide, news releases, magazine articles and membership newsletters. In addition, it provides approximately 18,000 graduates of the Youth Firearms Safety Program with a one-year free membership in TIP.

"These programs are expensive," McGuire said. "It takes money. We have many more educational programs on poaching and its impact that we have not been able to undertake due to lack of funding. We need the support of our citizens to fulfill our mission and to protect the fish and wildlife resources of our state."

Membership donations to TIP are tax deductible. Membership categories are associate - $15; contribution - $40 (includes current wildlife art print); sustaining - $100; and sponsor - $500. A junior membership in TIP, for youngsters 17 years old and under is $5. Membership donations may be sent to TIP, Inc., 5701 Normandale Road Edina, MN 55424.

Any person or group wishing to sponsor a banquet for TIP should call the TIP office at 612-922-5493 or write the above address.

Dozens of machines are used to make 120 to 150 different parts each year at Machinewell, Inc. Some of the machinery is computer-programmed to make intricate cuts in metal.

Machinewell builds parts for machines

was Polaris two years ago, then Polaris bought its own plant in Osseo, WI. Now only a fraction of Machinewell's work is for Polaris.

After Polaris quit ordering parts, Machinewell cut workers and switched the focus of its operation.

Machinewell purchased another vertical mill and three turning centers, known as CNC machinery. The machines make intricate cuts and grooves in metal in accordance with computer-programmed instructions.

"Now with CNC machinery, we're making far more intricate, difficult parts. We had one CNC for six years and decided to branch out in that area after Polaris left because we already had our foot in the door," Bergstrom said.

"It (business) is really slow right now," Bergstrom said. "I think it's more (the recession) than anything."

Bergstrom said the location of Machinewell has pluses and minuses. Bergstrom said shipping was one of the rough spots to Machinewell's location. The company sends most of its products to Minneapolis to be plated, then the products are shipped back to Oryglа for inspection and packaging before being shipped to the customers.

"It's something that you battle in the industry that Minneapolis doesn't have to put into the part price. That can be rough," Bergstrom said.

Labor in the area is a benefit, Bergstrom said. "People in town are good conscientious workers and that's certainly a plus."

Arts council is accepting applications

Arts Council of the Northwest Regional Development Commission is accepting applications for grants of up to $500 for individual artists.

Supported with funding from the McKnight Foundation, the program provides artists with grants for specific projects which contribute directly to their creative and professional growth and development. Deadlines are Feb. 1, 1993 and (if funds remain available) May 3, 1993.

Artists may apply for assistance with costs associated with the production and presentation of work, professional training, supplies and other services. Applications are encouraged from individuals working in literary, performing or visual art.

Application guidelines and forms are available from Linda Nelson, Arts Council Director, NWRDC, 525 Brooks Avenue So., Thief River Falls, MN 56701 or calling 681-2637 or 1-800-450-2637.

Kristen Vatthauer of Red Lake Falls recently won third place prize of $300 in the National 4-H Beef Ambassador competition held in Louisville, KY. Held in conjunction with the North American International Livestock Exposition, the contest involved preparation of a recipe using one pound of ground beef and presentation of a five to eight-minute talk on the promotional aspects of beef. Kristen represented Minnesota in the contest.

Kristen Vatthauer, daughter of Donald and Kathy Vatthauer of Red Lake Falls and a junior at Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls, recently won third place and a $300 cash prize in the National 4-H Beef Ambassador competition in Louisville, KY.

Kristen represented Minnesota in the contest which involved 30 4-H club members from throughout the nation. Their challenge was to be the best at turning one pound of ground beef into a prize-winning dish. The contest was held in conjunction with the North American International Livestock Exposition.

The competition included preparation of a recipe that used at least three ounces of ground beef per serving and the presentation of a five to eight-minute illustrated talk on the promotional aspects of beef.

The 4-H Beef Ambassador program was established five years ago by the American National Cattle-Women, Inc., as a national 4-H competition to encourage 4-H members to learn nutritional and economic values, cooking principles and versatility of beef and understand the beef industry and importance of beef as an agricultural product.

The event is sponsored annually by the American National Cattle-Women, the Beef Industry Council, federal, state and local extension services and the North American International Livestock Exposition.

The Vatthauer family raises registered Angus cattle. Kristen's recipe for the competition was for Popover Pizza and came from her church cook book. The recipe is as follows:

POPOVER PIZZA

Ingredients:
- 1 1/2 pounds ground beef
- 1 medium onion
- 1 1.5 ounce package dry spaghetti mix
- 15 ounces tomato sauce
- 1/2 cup water
- 8 ounces Mozzarella cheese, shredded
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon cooking oil
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup flour
- Parmesan cheese

Method:

Brown the ground beef and onion. Drain off fat. Stir in dry spaghetti mix, tomato sauce and water. Simmer mixture for 10 minutes. Spoon mixture into greased 9x13 inch pan. Top with Mozzarella cheese.

Beat eggs, milk and oil. Add salt and flour. Pour batter over beef mixture and sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese.

Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes (set oven at 375 degrees if using a glass pan). Turn over on plate when served. Other toppings such as pepperoni, olives, bacon, etc., can be added.

Serves eight; 370 calories per serving.

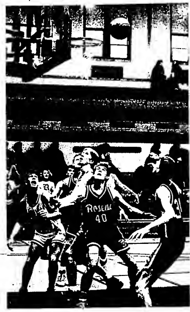
"The economy, competition for funding with other conservation organizations and the perception that TIP is a part of the DNR have had a great impact on our finances in the last several years," McGuire said. "We need concerned people and organizations to support TIP through memberships and banquets."

Since its inception in 1981, TIP has been responsible for 3,552 poaching arrests. More than $220,000 has been paid in rewards. TIP has also promoted the program through advertisements statewide, news releases, magazine articles and membership newsletters. In addition, it provides approximately 18,000 graduates of the Youth Firearms Safety Program with a one-year free membership in TIP.

"These programs are expensive," McGuire said. "It takes money. We have many more educational programs on poaching and its impact that we have not been able to undertake due to lack of funding. We need the support of our citizens to fulfill our mission and to protect the fish and wildlife resources of our state."

Membership donations to TIP are tax deductible. Membership categories are associate - $15; contribution - $40 (includes current wildlife art print); sustaining - $100; and sponsor - $500. A junior membership in TIP, for youngsters 17 years old and under is $5. Membership donations may be sent to TIP, Inc., 5701 Normandale Road Edina, MN 55424.



Any person or group wishing to sponsor a banquet for TIP should call the TIP office at 612-922-5493 or write the above address.

Dozens of machines are used to make 120 to 150 different parts each year at Machinewell, Inc. Some of the machinery is computer-programmed to make intricate cuts in metal.

was Polaris two years ago, then Polaris bought its own plant in Osseo, WI. Now only a fraction of Machinewell's work is for Polaris.

After Polaris quit ordering parts, Machinewell cut workers and switched the focus of its operation.

Machinewell purchased another vertical mill and three turning centers, known as CNC machinery. The machines make intricate cuts and grooves in metal in accordance with computer-programmed instructions.

"Now with CNC machinery, we're making far more intricate, difficult parts. We had one CNC for six years and decided to branch out in that area after Polaris left because we already had our foot in the door," Bergstrom said.

"It (business) is really slow right now," Bergstrom said. "I think it's more (the recession) than anything."

Bergstrom said the location of Machinewell has pluses and minuses. Bergstrom said shipping was one of the rough spots to Machinewell's location. The company sends most of its products to Minneapolis to be plated, then the products are shipped back to Grygla for inspection and packaging before being shipped to the customers.

"It's something that you battle in the industry that Minneapolis doesn't have to put into the part price. That can be rough," Bergstrom said.

Labor in the area is a benefit, Bergstrom said. "People in town are good conscientious workers and that's certainly a plus."

Arts council is accepting applications

Arts Council of the Northwest Regional Development Commission is accepting applications for grants of up to $500 for individual artists.

Supported with funding from the McKnight Foundation, the program provides artists with grants for specific projects which contribute directly to their creative and professional growth and development. Deadlines are Feb. 1, 1993 and (if funds remain available) May 3, 1993.

Artists may apply for assistance with costs associated with the production and presentation of work, professional training, supplies and other services. Applications are encouraged from individuals working in literary, performing or visual art.

Application guidelines and forms are available from Linda Nelson, Arts Council Director, NWRDC, 525 Brooks Avenue So., Thief River Falls, MN 56701 or calling 681-2637 or 1-800-450-2637.

Kristen Vatthauer of Red Lake Falls recently won third place prize of $300 in the National 4-H Beef Ambassador competition held in Louisville, KY. Held in conjunction with the North American International Livestock Exposition, the contest involved preparation of a recipe using one pound of ground beef and presentation of a five to eight-minute talk on the promotional aspects of beef. Kristen represented Minnesota in the contest.

Kristen Vatthauer, daughter of Donald and Kathy Vatthauer of Red Lake Falls and a junior at Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls, recently won third place and a $300 cash prize in the National 4-H Beef Ambassador competition in Louisville, KY.

Kristen represented Minnesota in the contest which involved 30 4-H club members from throughout the nation. Their challenge was to be the best at turning one pound of ground beef into a prize-winning dish. The contest was held in conjunction with the North American International Livestock Exposition.

The competition included preparation of a recipe that used at least three ounces of ground beef per serving and the presentation of a five to eight-minute illustrated talk on the promotional aspects of beef.

The 4-H Beef Ambassador program was established five years ago by the American National Cattle-Women, Inc., as a national 4-H competition to encourage 4-H members to learn nutritional and economic values, cooking principles and versatility of beef and understand the beef industry and importance of beef as an agricultural product.

The event is sponsored annually by the American National Cattle-Women, the Beef Industry Council, federal, state and local extension services and the North American International Livestock Exposition.

The Vatthauer family raises registered Angus cattle. Kristen's recipe for the competition was for Popover Pizza and came from her church cook book. The recipe is as follows.

POPOVER PIZZA

Ingredients:

1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1 medium onion
1 1.5 ounce package dry spaghetti mix
15 ounces tomato sauce
1/2 cup water
8 ounces Mozzarella cheese, shredded
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon cooking oil
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup flour
Parmesan cheese

Method:

Brown the ground beef and onion. Drain off fat. Stir in dry spaghetti mix, tomato sauce and water. Simmer mixture for 10 minutes. Spoon mixture into greased 9x13 inch pan. Top with Mozzarella cheese.

Beat eggs, milk and oil. Add salt and flour. Pour batter over beef mixture and sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese.

Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes (set oven at 375 degrees if using a glass pan). Turn over on plate when served. Other toppings such as pepperoni, olives, bacon, etc., can be added.

Serves eight. 370 calories per serving.

Deb Panek on track to lose 154 pounds by March gone far enough.

"I had tried a number of things to lose weight over the years but none worked for me," she said. "I tried Weight Watchers for six months and gained four pounds. I tried diet pills that were supposed to suppress appetite and burn up calories and that was a total waste. I tried counting carbohydrates and that didn't do anything."

What did help some was limiting fat intake to 20 to 30 grams per day. She lost 24 pounds under that system, then hit a plateau for about two months. She heard that her older brother David had lost 55 pounds on the Nutri/System program and she decided to give it a try for herself.

Deb drove to Nashville and talked to the nutritionist involved with the program there. It was determined that her "ideal" weight would be 147 pounds (she is five feet, six inches tall). Since the weight loss would have to be more than 100 pounds to make that goal, it was necessary for her to consult her doctor.

"He said, 'Great! Go ahead!'" Deb recalls. She has had no need for further medical consultation during her program, although she meets with the nutritionist every week to set goals and work out any problems. She also attends weekly classes and purchases the program's foods on a weekly basis.

Start-up fee under the Nutri/System program is generally based on anticipated weight loss. In Deb's case, that would have been about $1,500. She was advised that the company was planning a promotion in the near future, however, which offered "all you can lose for the cost of a 10-pound program." That cut the start-up cost to about $300.

The system involves a total commitment to the program. Except for fruit, vegetables and skim milk which are purchased at a grocery store, all foods consumed are purchased from Nutri/System. Deb was placed on a 1,500 calories per day system which involved three meals and three snacks per day. Her costs for food ran from $59 to $65 per week—not much different from her previous costs for less nutritional foods.

"From the standpoint of volume I ate more under the program than I did before I was on it," Deb said. "I never felt hungry and never felt weak or tired because of what I ate. For the first 10 months I averaged a weekly weight loss of three and a half pounds. I lost nine pounds the first week and about two months ago I lost seven pounds in one week. And there were a few weeks when I had no loss or even gained a pound or two."

Also part of the program is drinking 64 ounces of water a day. "I'm learning to hate water!" Deb said. Deb also walks six miles a day and does aerobic exercises for an hour three times a week. She also rides horseback occasionally—which she says burns more calories than walking.

After having difficulty losing more weight recently, Deb had her daily calorie intake cut to 1,000 calories. It has meant little difference in amount of food on the daily menu but a change in types of food consumed. And it is working well enough so that the March 1 date for reaching the 147 pound goal seems realistic.

"Once I reach my goal I go on a one-year maintenance program," she said. "If I stay within five pounds of my goal weight for six months I get half my start-up fee back. If I maintain that weight for a year I get most of the other half back. And they gradually wean you off the Nutri/System food."

Benefits of weight loss? Deb says there are many, not the least of which is a feeling of accomplishment, satisfaction and a little pride.

"I was told when I lived in El Paso that I had arthritis because of pain in my joints," she said. "After I lost my first 40 pounds of weight I also lost the pain in my joints.

"I think I have more self confidence, although I'm not really an outgoing person. I used to hate going out in a crowd, but I don't mind social mingling now."

She is able to buy and wear more fashionable clothing and is more conscious of her appearance, although she says she has made little if any change in make-up or hair style because of her weight loss.

She has gone from a size 26 1/2 dress to a size 11-12. She used to make all her own slacks because she couldn't buy ready-made pants. "Now I can shop at any store in the mall!" she exclaims happily. "I love to shop now, because I can try on clothes and they fit."

And the most fun is seeing the double-takes, puzzled looks and admiring glances from people who knew her before and were unaware of—or hadn't seen her since—her weight loss.

"I came home last April for a baptism and didn't tell anyone I was going to be here," she said. "We all went to a fish fry in Goodridge. My parents saw me there but didn't know who I was until someone told them it was me holding the baby."

The recognition factor has been multiplied among former classmates and co-workers. "I went back to visit at El Paso and the people I worked with there couldn't believe it was me," she said.

If there is an unbeliever in the crowd, it is probably Deb herself. "When I look in a mirror, I still see myself the way I was," she said, "not the way that people tell me how I look. Maybe that will change in time."

Deb kept a few of her old clothes and takes them out from time to time. "It's good motivation," she laughs.

How much weight has Deb Panek lost since she started her weight loss program in mid-19917 More then the weight represented by the dozen 10-pound bags of sugar shown with her in the photo above. The former rural Goodridge resident and 1978 graduate of Lincoln high school has shed 127 pounds and when she reaches her goal of 143 pounds will be less than half the weight she was when she started the program. Her current goal date is March 1, '93.

Campaign to urge donations

In an effort to increase public awareness of organ donation, the Kidney Foundation at the Upper Midwest Foundation is launching a special holiday campaign to urge people to consider making a personal committment to organ donation by signing their driver's license or a Uniform Donor Card. Theme of the campaign is "Sign your name to save a life."

"The critical shortage of organs available for transplantation is an unnecessary problem, but one that can be lessened by Americans' realizing that they have the ability to help save someone else's life someday," said Dr. Charles Smith, Foundation president.

More than 28,000 Americans are waiting for organ transplants, but five or six Americans die each day because of a lack of organ donors. In 1991, more than 9,000 Americans received kidney transplants, but an additional 21,000 continue to wait.

This number could be drastically reduced if more people chose to sign donor cards and explained their feelings about organ donation to their families.

"Becoming an organ donor is easy," remarked Dr. Smith. "Just sign the back of your driver's license or an organ donor card from the Kidney Foundation. Then talk to your family about your wishes," he explained.

For more information about organ donation and a Uniform Donor Card, contact the National Kidney Foundation of the Upper Midwest, 920 South 7th Street, Minneapolis, MN 55415 or call (612) 337-7300.

The National Kidney Foundation helps more Americans prevent, treat and cure kidney and urinary tract diseases than any other voluntary health agency. The Kidney Foundation is committed to the goal of ensuring that everyone who needs a transplant is able to get one. The work of the National Kidney Foundation is funded entirely by public donations.

Warren sanctuary for the birds (and animals)

Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary wildlife is active in winter as well as summer

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Winter is far from a dead season at the Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary.

Dozens of different birds flutter to and fro: black-billed magpies, downy woodpeckers and blue jays to name a few. Through the years bird watchers have spotted over 147 bird species at the sanctuary.

The sanctuary, about five miles east of Warren on Highway 1 and three miles south, encompasses 640 acres.

Deer tracks follow well-worn paths through the sanctuary's human-made habitats including forests, wetlands and prairie.

Prairie grasses, the area's original vegetation, were plowed under as the ground was broken for farming and have since been replanted using harvested prairie grass seed from the Crookston area.

Eldor Omdahl donated the land to the sanctuary in 1982. Eldor and Stella Omdahl purchased the farm land in 1949 and began planting trees. In 1959 Eldor began digging ponds and waterways.

"In a way it's natural. We have a bunch of birds here and lots of food for them. In some ways it's better than nature because we can manage it more intensely," said Joe Gartner, sanctuary manager.

Some management experiments include a bluebird trail, lined with bluebird houses, and a hummingbird garden filled with plants hummingbirds use for food.

Gartner said the sanctuary plans to build a wildlife landscaping trail this summer featuring different vegetation and structures people can build for wildlife habitat. "What we're trying to be is a demonstration area," Gartner said.

The sanctuary also sponsors programs for area schools. It sponsored 26 programs for 673 people in 1992 at the sanctuary and 21 programs for 1,200 people at area schools.

A primary sanctuary goal is to build a wildlife center which would provide more space for wildlife education. Currently the sanctuary is headquartered in a farm house, where the director lives and works nine months out of the year.

The center will cost around $150,000 of which the sanctuary has raised $15,000. Gladwin Lynne, a Friends of the Sanctuary member and one of the sanctuary founders, said the sanctuary intends to intensify fundraising activities beginning in January.

The sanctuary is funded by CRP acreage, which includes some of its prairie grass area. The sanctuary also rents out one-fourth of its land for farming. Other funds come from the sanctuary gift shop and memberships to the Friends of the Sanctuary.

Gartner said at least 200 people stopped last year on their way through the area. "Not as many local people as I'd like to see coming out here. That's why we're doing more activities," Gartner said. Gartner said the sanctuary tries to host an activity one Sunday afternoon each month.

One activity the sanctuary sponsors is owling. Owl hoots are recorded. When the tape is played in the woods, owls, which are territorial birds, come out to investigate. Gartner said this allows the opportunity to see the secretive screech owl.

Other owls sighted at the sanctuary include the saw-whet owls, great horned owls and long-eared owls.

The sanctuary assists predatory birds, such as the owls, by maintaining mouse houses — small wood, flat-roofed boxes for mice.

Wood ducks and mallards compose many of the waterfowl at the sanctuary.

"People have told me of remarkable years when we get thousands of waterfowl. We have one really large pond on the edge of the property. It tends to get different species of ducks." Gartner said one year sandhill cranes nested in some sanctuary marshland.

Many waterfowl avoid the waterways because they are surrounded by trees, a roost for predatory birds, Gartner said.

Other birds, such as waxwings and bluebirds, are attracted by the sanctuary's fruit trees. "It's really something to come here and see some of the flowering trees. It's almost like the Washington, D.C. cherry blossoms. We should have a sanctuary cherry blossom festival. It's amazing the number of hummingbirds and bees that come around from the scent.

"I think the sanctuary should use birds to teach people about the environment, because they're really good indicators of what's going on," Gartner said. Birds serve as good environmental indicators, Gartner said, because they are specific about their habitat. A decrease in the number of sandhill cranes, for example, could point to a decrease in marsh land.

The increasing migration of birds also point to environmental factors.

Bomb scare is actually Christmas gift

Lake Bronson — A bomb scare in Lake Bronson Saturday night caused much commotion and rumors, until it was discovered on Sunday that the "bomb," left in the restroom of the Cenex station, was a part-time employee's idea of a funny Christmas gift for the manager. A small foil-wrapped package with a red bow on top and a sign on the side that said "Hitler" was found and the incident reported to the fire department, who blocked off the street and called the Grand Forks Air Base for help. When told their bomb squad was unavailable, a bomb expert from Brainerd was called. After the story got around, a part-time employee, Peder Splide, admitted he had left the package, but had had no idea of the trouble he had caused. (North Star News)

Mahnomen — A Mahnomen Fire department tanker overturned in icy conditions on Highway 200 early last Tuesday morning. The vehicle was leaving a smoking furnace call at the Emil Uhlir residence and on its way to a structural fire in Twin Valley. When Walz started to slow the vehicle, which was carrying 3,000 gallons of water, the brakes locked and it skidded about 400 feet before tipping over. (Mahnomen Pioneer)

Arrests made on drug charges here

Arrests have been made but an investigation into what may be a major drug ring is continuing.

Police in Thief River Falls released the following statement about the investigation Friday morning:

"The Thief River Falls police department received information about a quantity of schedule III controlled substance arriving at a local Thief River Falls residence. A search warrant was then obtained for that residence and a group of individuals brought in for questioning. Subsequently two additional search warrants were obtained for a residence in Thief River Falls and Sanders township and additional individuals brought in.

"This investigation was a combined effort of the Pennington County Attorney's office, the Thief River Falls police department, the Pennington County Sheriff's department, Bureau of Criminal Apprehension and Paul Bunyan Task Force. An ongoing investigation by these agencies and other jurisdictions is continuing."

Pennington county board of commissioners were sworn in Tuesday by Ninth District Judge Dennis Murphy (second row, far right). All five commissioner seats were on the ballot this year because of the re-districting that took place last year. Three incumbents were re-elected. Two new members, Charles Naplin and Arden "Bud" Comstock, took their place on the board Tuesday. Seated in the front row are Ken Olson, auditor, and Dave Olin, county attorney. In the back row are Skip Swanson, chairman, Charles Naplin, Ken Murphy, vice-chairman, Arden Comstock, Don Jensen, and Judge Dennis Murphy.

Pool at Ada center closed for repairs

Ada — The pool at the Dekko community center will be closed for the next few weeks while repair work is done to the tiling around the pool area. The problem has proved to be a difficult one to solve, with water ponding on the north and southwest sides of the pool. This is the second time the contractors have been back to try to solve the problem, removing tile and building up the floor to create necessary slope to drain the water. (Norman County Index)

Video cameras installed on Crookston buses

Crookston — When school resumed this week, "Silent Witnesses, rode on many of the buses. Boxes for the video cameras have been installed in all 14 of the route and over-the-road buses. Each camera can record, visually and with sound, the actions of student riders. The district has over 1,000 students that ride buses each day. Cost of the project was about $3,000 with most of the expense covered by contributions from service organizations. (Crookston Daily Times)

Mistake may cost county $23,000

Beltrami County — A mistake by the Beltrami county highway department may cost the county as much as $22,764. The problem arose because a highway department employee failed to require a performance bond in a contract for the installation of fuel tanks and pumps at the county garage. The contractor has since filed for bankruptcy and has not paid money owed to nine subcontractors, who have turned to the county for payment. Although the law does not allow mechanic's liens against public property, the county is still accountable because state law requires all contracts over $10,000 to be secured by a performance bond. Soupçon

By Sherry LaCoursiere

Today's recipes will include nutrition information for those of you who are watching such things this month. All recipes this week are from Betty Crocker cook booklets and are good for healthy eating, whether you are watching your weight or not.

Enjoy something good that just tastes like it is filled with calories, but isn't:

Ham-Topped Potatoes

3 medium baking potatoes
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 cups skim milk
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup shredded Swiss cheese (2 ounces)
2 cups cut-up, fully cooked smoked extra lean ham (8 ounces)
1 package (10 ounces) frozen asparagus cuts, thawed and drained.

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Bake potatoes about an hour, until tender.

Mix cornstarch and milk in 2-quart nonstick saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils.

Stir in mustard, pepper and cheese. Cook, stirring constantly, until cheese is melted.

Stir in ham and asparagus and heat through.

To serve, cut potatoes in half lengthwise, and spoon sauce over potato halves.

A hearty meal, this main dish will tempt everyone's taste buds:

Italian Sausage and Vegetables

1 spaghetti squash (3 pounds)
1 pound bulk Italian sausage
1/2 cup chopped onion (1 medium)
1 cup coarsely chopped zucchini (1 medium)
1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
1 large clove garlic, crushed
1 tablespoon dried basil leaves
3 cups coarsely chopped tomatoes (4 medium)
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Prick squash with fork. Bake about 1 hour or until tender.

(To microwave squash, prick several times with fork; place on microwavable paper towel. Microwave on high for 8 minutes and turn squash over. Microwave 8 to 11 minutes longer, or until tender. Let stand 10 minutes.)

Cook sausage and onion in 10-inch nonstick skillet over medium heat about 10 minutes, stirring frequently, until sausage is done. Drain.

Stir in zucchini, parsley, garlic and basil. Cover and cook 3 minutes. Stir in tomatoes and cheese.

Cut squash in half, remove seeds and fibers. Remove spaghetti-like strands with 2 forks. Toss squash with salt and pepper

Serve sausage mixture over squash.

Fried pork? Yes you can - serve this one with a sauerkraut side dish for a hearty German-style meal:

Pretzel Pork

6 lean pork rib chopped, about 1/2 inch thick
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons water
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 cup crushed pretzels
2 teaspoons reduced calorie margarine

Trim fat from chops and remove ribs. Pound chops until 1/4 inch thick.

Mix egg, water and garlic powder. Dip chops into mixture and then coat with pretzels.

Heat 1 teaspoon of the margarine in 10-inch nonstick skillet over medium heat.

Cook 3 pieces pork about 8 minutes, turning once, until done. Remove from skillet and repeat with remaining margarine and pork.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 225 calories, 25 g protein, 3 g carbohydrate, 15 g fat, 115 mg cholesterol, 150 mg sodium, 370 mg potassium.)

This dish would be part of a delicious Sunday brunch or a quick main dish meal:

Smoky Beef and Cheese Quiche

1 1/2 cups hot cooked rice
1 tablespoon chopped fresh chives
1 egg white
1 package (2.5) ounces smoked sliced beef
3 eggs
1 egg yolk
1 can (12 ounces) evaporated skimmed milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shredded mozzarella or Monterey Jack cheese (2 ounces)
1/4 cup finely chopped onion (1 small)
8 tomato slices

Heat oven to 350 degrees.

Spray pie plate with cooking spray.

Beat rice, chives and egg white with fork. Turn mixture onto pie plate and spread evenly on bottom and halfway up side of pie plate with rubber scraper. DO NOT LEAVE ANY HOLES. Bake 5 minutes.

Cut beef into small pieces and sprinkle in baked crust.

Beat eggs, egg yolk, milk and salt. Stir in cheese and onion. Carefully pour into crust. Bake 25-30 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

Immediately run knife around edge to loosen crust and then let stand 10 minutes before serving.

Give the whole family a treat with your own tasty chicken kabobs that not only look good, but taste good too, and are very low in fat, calories and sodium:

Ginger Chicken on Skewers

1 teaspoon grated lime peel
1/4 cup lime juice
1 tablespoon olive or vegetable oil
2 teaspoon finely chopped gingerroot
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
4 small chicken breast halves (2 pounds), boned and skinned
12 whole medium mushrooms
1 medium green bell pepper, cut into 18 (1-inch) squares
1/2 large red onion, cut into 12 (1x1/2-inch pieces)

Mix lime peel, lime juice, oil, gingerroot, pepper and garlic in glass or plastic bowl or heavy plastic bag.

Remove excess fat from chicken and cut into 1-inch pieces.

Stir chicken, mushrooms and pepper squares into lime mixture, cover and refrigerate at least 3 hours, stirring occasionally.

Set oven control to broil.

Alternate chicken, mushrooms, pepper squares and onion on each of 6 metal skewers. Reserve lime mixture.

Place skewers on rack in broiler pan and broil with tops 3-4 inches from heat for 8-10 minutes, turning and brushing with lime mixture once. Cook until chicken is done.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 155 calories, 22 g protein, 5 g carbohydrate, 5 g fat, 60 mg cholesterol, 50 mg sodium, 300 mg potassium.)

Soupçon

by Sherry LaCoursiere

Today's recipes will include nutrition information for those of you who are watching such things this month. All recipes this week are from Betty Crocker cook booklets and are good for healthy eating, whether you are watching your weight or not.

Enjoy something good that just tastes like it is filled with calories, but isn't:

Ham-Topped Potatoes

3 medium baking potatoes
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 cups skim milk
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup shredded Swiss cheese (2 ounces)
2 cups cut-up, fully cooked smoked extra lean ham (8 ounces)
1 package (10 ounces) frozen asparagus cuts, thawed and drained.

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Bake potatoes about an hour, until tender.

Mix cornstarch and milk in 2-quart nonstick saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils.

Stir in mustard, pepper and cheese. Cook, stirring constantly, until cheese is melted.

Stir in ham and asparagus and heat through.

To serve, cut potatoes in half lengthwise, and spoon sauce over potato halves.

A hearty meal, this main dish will tempt everyone's taste buds:

Italian Sausage and Vegetables

1 spaghetti squash (3 pounds)
1 pound bulk Italian sausage
1/2 cup chopped onion (1 medium)
1 cup coarsely chopped zucchini (1 medium)
1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
1 large clove garlic, crushed
1 tablespoon dried basil leaves
3 cups coarsely chopped tomatoes (4 medium)
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Prick squash with fork. Bake about 1 hour or until tender.

(To microwave squash, prick several times with fork; place on microwavable paper towel. Microwave on high for 8 minutes and turn squash over. Microwave 8 to 11 minutes longer, or until tender. Let stand 10 minutes.)

Cook sausage and onion in 10-inch nonstick skillet over medium heat about 10 minutes, stirring frequently, until sausage is done. Drain.

Stir in zucchini, parsley, garlic and basil. Cover and cook 3 minutes. Stir in tomatoes and cheese.

Cut squash in half, remove seeds and fibers. Remove spaghetti-like strands with 2 forks. Toss squash with salt and pepper.

Serve sausage mixture over squash.

Fried pork? Yes you can - serve this one with a sauerkraut side dish for a hearty German-style meal:

Pretzel Pork

6 lean pork rib chopped, about 1/2 inch thick
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons water
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 cup crushed pretzels
2 teaspoons reduced calorie margarine

Trim fat from chops and remove ribs. Pound chops until 1/4 inch thick.

Mix egg, water and garlic powder. Dip chops into mixture and then coat with pretzels.

Heat 1 teaspoon of the margarine in 10-inch nonstick skillet over medium heat.

Cook 3 pieces pork about 8 minutes, turning once, until done. Remove from skillet and repeat with remaining margarine and pork.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 225 calories, 25 g protein, 3 g carbohydrate, 15 g fat, 115 mg cholesterol, 150 mg sodium, 370 mg potassium.)

This dish would be part of a delicious Sunday brunch or a quick main dish meal:

Smoky Beef and Cheese Quiche

1 1/2 cups hot cooked rice
1 tablespoon chopped fresh chives
1 egg white
1 package (2.5) ounces smoked sliced beef
3 eggs
1 egg yolk
1 can (12 ounces) evaporated skimmed milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shredded mozzarella or Monterey Jack cheese (2 ounces)
1/4 cup finely chopped onion (1 small)
8 tomato slices

Heat oven to 350 degrees.

Spray pie plate with cooking spray.

Beat rice, chives and egg white with fork. Turn mixture onto pie plate and spread evenly on bottom and halfway up side of pie plate with rubber scraper. DO NOT LEAVE ANY HOLES. Bake 5 minutes.

Cut beef into small pieces and sprinkle in baked crust.

Beat eggs, egg yolk, milk and salt. Stir in cheese and onion. Carefully pour into crust. Bake 25-30 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

Immediately run knife around edge to loosen crust and then let stand 10 minutes before serving.

To serve, cut into 6 wedges and top each with a tomato slice.

(Recipe serves 6 with each serving containing 235 calories, 19 g protein, 22 g carbohydrate, 8 g fat, 190 mg cholesterol, 1000 mg sodium, 360 mg potassium.)

Give the whole family a treat with your own tasty chicken kabobs that not only look good, but taste good too, and are very low in fat, calories and sodium:

Ginger Chicken on Skewers

1 teaspoon grated lime peel
1/4 cup lime juice
1 tablespoon olive or vegetable oil
2 teaspoon finely chopped gingerroot
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
4 small chicken breast halves (2 pounds), boned and skinned
12 whole medium mushrooms
1 medium green bell pepper, cut into 18 (1-inch) squares
1/2 large red onion, cut into 12 (1x1/2-inch pieces)

Mix lime peel, lime juice, oil, gingerroot, pepper and garlic in glass or plastic bowl or heavy plastic bag.

Remove excess fat from chicken and cut into 1-inch pieces.

Stir chicken, mushrooms and pepper squares into lime mixture, cover and refrigerate at least 3 hours, stirring occasionally.

Set oven control to broil.

Alternate chicken, mushrooms, pepper squares and onion on each of 6 metal skewers. Reserve lime mixture.

Place skewers on rack in broiler pan and broil with tops 3-4 inches from heat for 8-10 minutes, turning and brushing with lime mixture once. Cook until chicken is done.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 155 calories, 22 g protein, 5 g carbohydrate, 5 g fat, 60 mg cholesterol, 50 mg sodium, 300 mg potassium.)

Crystal Pepsi in area stores starting today

Named "Best New Product of the Year" in a grocery products poll conducted by the nation's leading new products tester, Doug Hall, Crystal Pepsi is being introduced to the local area today.

Distributed through Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Thief River Falls, Inc., the new drink is a clear, caffeine-free, low sodium cola with 100 per cent natural flavorings and no preservatives.

"Crystal Pepsi beat out more than 16,000 new products in the poll, achieving the highest score for any beverage in the poll's history," stated Rod Stetten, route manager for the local bottling company.

Laboratory research and development on the product took 15 months, nearly 3,000 formula variations and involved more than 5,000 consumers in the testing process.

Bash The NRA.... Pass A Few More Laws.... We Favor Education

Two by-lined stories in the Sunday, January 3 issue of the Star Tribune published in Minneapolis, ran under the single headline "Legislature facing a cross-fire on gun control." Sub-heads for the separate stories proclaimed "Advocates of restrictions plan a full-scale campaign" and "Senator plans a bill to curb accidental shootings by kids."

The stories by Patricia Lopez Baden and Chuck Haga were basically fair. They presented quoted opinions from several people with varying viewpoints as they relate to gun control issues. But the emphasis was on introduction and promotion of more legislation that would be restrictive and threatening to owners of firearms.

The avenues are familiar—a push for a ban on "assault weapons," the need to "get guns off the streets" and concern for "child protection" as a result of accidental shootings of and by children. How could anyone with a humane nerve in his or her body object to efforts to protect society on any or all of these fronts? And how come the National Rifle Association (NRA) wants everyone to carry a gun, loves military weaponry for individuals, doesn't care about safety of children and won't consider any kind of firearms reform?

In Lopez Baden's story in the January 3 Trib, state Sen. Richard Cohen of St. Paul said he is looking at introducing a statewide ban on assault weapons. "I don't have a clear sense of where the legislature is yet," he is quoted as saying. "And the NRA is extremely powerful. But at some point we have to ask ourselves at what price do we sacrifice the common good to protect the convenience of a few."

The perception being tossed about is that the NRA is some evil force opposing the public good. Witness the article by Otis Pike of Newhouse News Service on the December 17 Star Tribune's Commentary page and headlined "To help Somalis, take away guns."

"If you like the National Rifle Association, you've got to love Somalia," Pike writes. "It is a kind of NRA heaven where everyone not only has a gun, they consider themselves less than virile if they don't walk around with that gun in hand." He later comments that "the Bush administration comes down on the side of the NRA" when special envoy Robert Oakley said that "the Somalis have the right to bear arms" and "they don't want to be disarmed at gunpoint by foreigners."

"The visible presence of all those guns may give comfort to some Somalis (and the NRA), but it makes the Marines a little nervous," he wrote in his commentary.

The suggestion that the NRA is somehow allied with or has taken a position in favor of armed thieves and looters in Somalia is ludicrous, but it is indicative of the malice directed toward the organization. The NRA is commonly referred to in the media as "powerful" but that power is rarely defined. What strength it has is in the resolve of its members and the logic of its positions and how they are determined. The fact is, despite its detractors, that the NRA is usually reasoned and correct.

We certainly have nothing against disarming criminals and protecting children, but we are very skeptical that those goals can be accomplished by the legislature passing more laws. Enforcement of existing laws—if they are indeed enforceable—might be more effective. Our greater concern is that legislators and others would feel that they had accomplished something meaningful by creating new laws while the problems would continue and the only real result would be more cost and inconvenience to firearms owners.

Another concern of firearms owners is that legislation purported to be aimed at specific problems would be applied in other areas. This is supported by the statement in Lopez Baden's story which states: "Advocates of gun control have seized on bans on assault weapons as a starting point (emphasis is ours) in their fight for stricter gun laws."

Fully automatic weapons are already illegal under federal law. Semi-automatic guns from pistols to rifles and shotguns are in common use for a number of worthwhile and legal purposes. They would be at risk under legislation claimed to be directed at semi-automatic "assault weapons."

In Lopez Baden's story, Michele St. Martin, executive director of the anti-gun Citizens for a Safer Minnesota, is said to acknowledge that so-called "assault weapons" constitute less than one-half of one per cent of guns on the street, yet she terms them "the gun of choice for gangs and drug dealers." Who is trying to fool whom?

It would never fly with gun control advocates, but what would probably be the most effective means of preventing accidental shooting of and by children would be a few hours of mandatory firearms safety training in the schools. Youth firearms safety training on a voluntary basis has contributed extensively to safe handling of guns and reduction of accidents in outdoor and sporting situations. Similar training for all youngsters would make them aware of the proper handling—or refraining from handling—of firearms.

Help for setting up such a program would be willingly provided by, believe it or not, the NRA. It has first class instructional and safety materials that would be both affordable and effective. It has a long history of youth safety education, developed, prepared and presented with finances and time voluntarily provided by responsible and concerned members.

It would be great if those who profess to have the safety of children as their concern would get behind such an educational program, but don't bet on it happening. Could it be that banning the guns is the greater goal than saving the children?

We wonder.

Prowlers rebound with 4-2 win over Rams

Freshman Kaine Martell had a hand in all four Thief River Falls goals Tuesday as the Prowlers bounced back from an embarrassing 13-3 Saturday drubbing at the hands of Moorhead with a 4-2 Section 8 high school hockey win over previously unbeaten Roseau.

Martell, elevated from third line status to the Prowlers' top line as a replacement for injured senior Rick Ostby, made the most of the opportunity by scoring twice and assisting on the other two goals as Thief River Falls once again hit .500 for the year at 6-6. Roseau fell to 8-1.

"It was a great effort," said Glenn Chiodo, who picked up his first win over Roseau in his sixth season as Thief River Falls head coach. In fact, it was the Prowlers' first win in the series since the 1985-86 season, and their first victory at Roseau since 1984-85.

The timing could not have been better. After losing big time to the Spuds, the Prowlers were faced with the prospect of losing back-to-back games for the first time this year. Now they have the opportunity to put together their first two-game winning streak with a Tuesday trip to Crookston.

"It was a huge game for us," acknowledged Chiodo. "The kids played hard. I was proud of the effort."

Roseau began the scoring just 1:36 into the game when Scott Severson's slap shot from the point got through a crowd and went past Thief River Falls goalie Trevor Haugen.

Thief River Falls got the equalizer at 10:19 when Jason Svir used his speed to get around a defenseman, cut across the goal mouth and slipped the puck under Roseau goalie Ross Boldt.

The Prowlers out-shot the Rams 16-5 in the second period and came out of it with a 2-1 lead when Martell elected to shoot the puck on a 2-on-1 rush and blasted the 25-footer past Boldt at 7:17.

"We had a little lull in the first period and they got that early goal on us," noted Chiodo, "but we picked up a lot of momentum in the second period."

It was a back-and-forth third period that began with a game-tying Greg Foster goal from the point at 2:46.

That deadlock lasted until 13:14 when Thief River Falls defenseman Shano Skeim, who had picked up assists on the Prowlers' earlier goals, sent a slap shot from the top of the face-off circle through a bunch of bodies and past Boldt.

Roseau pulled the goalie in favor of an extra attacker with 1:24 left, but the Rams' rush came to an abrupt end by a whistle when the officials ruled the skater left the bench too soon. The result was a face-off at center ice and Thief River Falls pressure kept Boldt from getting off the ice down the stretch.

The Prowlers then wrapped it up when Martell turned a 2-on-1 into a 4-2 final at 14:26.

"It was a very good high school hockey game," mentioned Chiodo. "Both teams played well. The third period was a real dog fight."

Scoring

First period - Roseau - Scott Severson (Kevin Wensloff-Todd Hagen), 1:36; TRF, Jason Svir (Shane Skeim-Kaine Martell), 10:19.

Second period - TRF, Martell (Skeim), 7:17.

Third period - Roseau, Greg Foster (Ryan Hokanson-Jason Lovejoy), 2:46; TRF, Skeim (Carter Rogalla-Martell), 13:14; TRF, Martell (Svir-Nathan Knutson), 14:26.

Goalie Saves

TRP - Trevor Haugen 9-6-7-21; Roseau, Ross Boldt 8-15-9-32.

Championship honors in the junior varsity portion of the Dec. 28-30 Rochester Mayo invitational high school hockey tournament went to a 3-0 Thief River Falls team that beat Mayo 4-0, Minnetonka 5-4 and Rochester John Marshall 3-1. Members of the team include, front row left to right, Ben Engelstad, Corey Anderson, Jered Lee, Jeremy Breiland, Ryan Skibicki, Jeff Lundgren, Seamus Duffy, Jason Breiland, Tim Barry, and Tony Helsa; back row left to right, Jason Cota, Cory Jenkins, Matt LeMoine, Brian Fogarty, Cole Furuseth, Cayler Olson, Scott Grand, Justin Brunkhorst, Jason Jensen, Brad Daniels, and coach Bill Stock. Not present at the time of the picture were Joby Looker, Brian Howe and Brad Svir.

Turnovers, fouls lead to TRF loss

Detroit Lakes turned a 12-8 first quarter deficit into a 30-22 halftime lead and went on to beat Thief River Falls 57-38 Tuesday in boys high school basketball.

"We did some good things in the first quarter, but they came out and put some pressure on us in the second quarter and forced us to turn it over," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke.

The Prowlers wound up with 26 turnovers and they sent the Lakers to the free throw line 31 times. The visitors cashed in on 18 of those opportunities at the line.

"You're not going to win too many games turning the ball over 26 times and giving the other team 31 free throws," said Brekke.

The Lakers went to 3-3 with the win. The host Prowlers fell to 0-7.

"We're just not getting consistent performances out of some of our players," explained Brekke. "We made a few changes, and we'll probably make some more. We're just not improving. I can take not winning, but not the fact that we don't seem to be heading in the right direction. It's not too late to get something going if we can just put some consistent, smart basketball together."

Thief River Falls was 15-for-36 from the field (42 percent) and 6-for-12 at the line. Detroit Lakes shot just 38 percent from the field on a 18-for-48 showing.

The Prowlers finished with a 29-27 rebound edge, but the Lakers turned the ball over just nine times, compared to the two-dozen Thief River Falls turnovers.

Pioneers resume play

Northland Community College men's and women's basketball teams were scheduled to re-open their 1992-93 schedules today (Saturday) with a nonconference doubleheader against the Grand Forks Air Base teams – the women's game at 12-noon and the men's game at 2 p.m.

Both Northland teams have been idle since a Dec. 22 twinbill at Minneapolis Community College.

Northland women will have a 7 p.m. Tuesday game in Moorhead against the Concordia College junior varsity before joining the Northland men for the start of the Minnesota Community College Conference schedule - a Jan. 15-16 weekend trip that includes Friday night games in Hibbing and Saturday afternoon games against Rainy River in International Falls.

Coach Rick Nikunen's Northland women are 3-4 for the year. Coach Mark Dannhoff's Northland men are 2-7.

Gators remain unbeaten

An improvement on defense keyed a 58-49 Badger/Greenbush-Middle River boys high school basketball win at Roseau Tuesday.

Behind five first quarter field goals by Jeff Taylor, the Rams grabbed a 19-11 lead by the first break. But they netted just 13 points over the next two quarters to fall behind 25-24 at halftime and trailed 42-32 at the start of the fourth quarter.

"We started out playing very tense basketball," noted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We stood around and watched Taylor take it to us in the first quarter. But we tightened things up defensively the rest of the night."

Taylor finished with a game-high 18 points, but Badger/Greenbush-Middle River won it by spreading its offense among four double figure scorers – Ryan Rislov and David Blazek with 12 points each; John Sparby and Matt Kuznia 10 apiece.

"We had very good balance," mentioned Sparby. "Percentage-wise we did not have a great night, but we had a lot of different people scoring for us."

The results extended the Gators' season-opening winning streak to six games.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 19-for-58 from the field (33 percent) and a busy 16-for-27 at the free throw line. Roseau went 17-for-44 from the field (39 percent) and 12-for-17 at the line.

Ueland gets 400th win

Marshall County Central boys high school basketball coach Ron Ueland reached a milestone Tuesday when the Nordics' 75-54 victory at Warroad presented him with his 400th career win.

In his 26th year as head coach of the Nordics after a two-year stint at Nevis, Ueland's overall won-loss record is 400-218. His Newfolden teams have won three District 32 (now Section 8A Sub Section 4) titles and 10 North Border Conference crowns.

"It's been a lot of fun," said Ueland. "But there have been some huge disappointments, too. I've been real fortunate, though. I've had a lot of great people to work with over the years."

How much longer will Ueland lead the Nordics? He doesn't know. "When you're younger, you can project and build for the future," he said. "Right now I'm just concerned about victory No. 401. In all honesty, over the last few years I've been coaching from one year to the next. We'll just have to see how much longer it goes."

Hockey JV tops Rams

Ben Engelstad scored twice and Jeff Lundgren came up with 14 of his 28 saves in the third period Tuesday as the Thief River Falls junior varsity high school hockey team held off Roseau 5-4.

Matt LeMoine, Jason Coto and Brian Fogarty also scored for the 6-3-1 winners. Tim Barry picked up two assists.

Basketball JV wins

Eric Bjorgaard scored 16 points and Nathan Anderson had 11 Tuesday as Thief River Falls beat Detroit Lakes 67-63 in boys junior varsity high school basketball.

Thief River Falls, 5-2 for the year, led at the quarter stops 16-11, 29-20 and 55-36.

Girls win JV game

Thief River Falls girls beat Fergus Falls 44-31 Thursday in junior varsity high school basketball.

Lisa Rendulich scored 14 points for the 2-4 winners, who had quarter leads of 11-3, 19-11 and 36-23.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River got by Warroad 44-37 Thursday in a girls high school basketball game played at Badger.

It was the first outing since Dec. 22 for the 6-3 Gators. "We didn't play well at all," acknowledged Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "We were lucky to win it."

The Gators' Sheree Nelson came off the bench to hit a free throw and two 15-foot field goals to break a 32-32 fourth quarter tie and the Gators maintained the lead down the stretch.

EGF Sacred Heart..............50
Marshall County Central 33

Marshall County Central girls failed to cash in on first quarter scoring opportunities Thursday and it cost the Nordics a 50-33 decision at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

"We had many opportunities to build a lead in the first quarter," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "They were missing three-pointers, and we were missing easy shots."

Marshall County Central had a 5-4 lead at the end of a low-scoring first quarter, but ran into turnover problems after the first break and Sacred Heart capitalized, building a 23-11 halftime lead.

Marshall County Central struggled with a 14-for-48 shooting night from the field (29 percent) and went 5-for-9 at the free throw line. Sacred Heart was 21-for-62 from the field (34 percent) and 4-for-12 at the line. The Eagles had a 35-29 rebound edge; the 3-5 Nordies had more turnovers, 27-20.

Turnovers and rebounds hurt Goodridge/Grygla Thursday in a 46-35 girls high school basketball loss to Valley North.

Early success on the offensive boards provided the host Raiders with a 26-12 halftime lead, and the Wolverines killed any comeback hopes with a mistake-filled offensive effort.

"We had too many turnovers," pointed out Goodridge/Grygla coach Mike Gast. "Offensively we just didn't click."

Jeremy Engelstad scored 25 points and Rick Warne had 14 for the 3-2 winners, who opened the game with a 12-0 head start en route to quarter leads of 18-2, 33-8 and 50-19.

"We got off to a real good start," acknowledged Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "We took good shots, and they fell for us."

Jeremy Anderson had a 12-point night for the Wildcats, who struggled through a 23 percent 13-for-56 shooting night.

"I was very pleased with our defense, and our rebounding," said Johnson. "We got a lot of points off our rebounds and our transition game."

Grygla-Gatzke went 24-for-66 from the field (36 percent) and 8-for-15 at the free throw line, where Tri-County had a 9-for-18 game. The Eagles had a 42-38 rebound edge and the Wildcats had more turnovers, 12-9.

RLCC girls win 46-43

Red Lake County Central girls produced the first points of the night, then waited until overtime for their second lead – and a 46-43 high school basketball win over Fertile-Beltrami at Plummer.

After beginning with a 2-0 edge, the Mustangs found themselves trailing 11-5 at the end of the first quarter. They came back for a 21-21 halftime tie, but fell behind 35-31 in the fourth quarter and faced a 41-39 deficit before Jill Radniecki hit a rebound basket at the buzzer to force overtime.

There were 15 seconds left in a 43-43 overtime tie when Angel Mickelson grabbed the rebound on a missed Red Lake County Central rebound and scored to give the Mustangs their first lead since that game-opening basket.

A free throw by Rachel Demarais with three seconds left finished the scoring.

"We worked pretty hard, but we made a lot of silly mistakes, and our free throws really hurt," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto, whose 5-2 team struggled through a 10-for-27 night at the line. The 17 misses included seven front ends of bonus opportunities.

Dawn Bachand had a 17-point, 10 rebound game for the winners, while Radniecki netted 12 points. Jodi Schear led Fertile-Beltrami with 16 points.

The Falcons had free throw problems of their own with a 1-for-7 showing. The Mustangs finished with a 32-28 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 21-18.

Olson leads MCC past Warroad

Tim Olson scored 32 points to help lead the Marshall County Central boys past Warroad 75-54 Tuesday in a high school basketball game played at Warroad.

Ivan Hirst added 19 points and Jake Rantanen 10 for the Nordics, who went above .500 for the first time this year at 4-3. Wade Steinbring led Warroad with 18 points.

Marshall County Central trailed 14-12 at the first quarter stop, but went ahead 33-30 at halftime, gained a 49-45 third quarter edge, then had a strong finishing kick in a 26-9 fourth quarter scoring blitz.

"We were tight at the start," reported Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We didn't play with a lot of intensity early on. At the end we became a lot more aggressive against their pressure defense and broke it open. Travis Knutson came off the bench and gave us the spark we needed."

Both teams shot well. Marshall County Central was 34-for-49 from the field – a school-record 69 percent showing – and Warroad had a 52 percent 22-for-42 night. Free throw figures were similar, with the Nordics going 7-for-12 and the Warriors 6-for-11 at the line. The winners had a 22-15 rebound edge. Warroad topped the turnover figures 12-10.

Mustangs beat Huskies

A strong start sparked unbeaten Red Lake County Central past host Goodridge 66-46 Tuesday in boys high school basketball.

The Mustangs ran their season-opening win streak to eight games by turning a 13-9 first quarter lead into a 33-17 halftime cushion, then maintained a 51-34 third quarter spread.

"We played with them in the second half, but we got so far behind by halftime it was just impossible to catch up," explained Goodridge coach John Rahn, whose team fell to 2-5.

Aaron Chaput led the winners with 18 points. Mitch Smsky netted 16 points to lead the Goodridge scorers.

Neither team shot very well, with Red Lake County Central turning in a 38 percent 22-for-58 performance and Goodridge finishing with a 33 percent 18-for-55 night. The Mustangs did capitalize on 16 of 21 free throw opportunities, while the Huskies went 6-for-15 at the line. The winners finished with a 32-25 rebound edge.

Mustangs beat buzzer

Aaron Chaput beat the buzzer with a rebound basket Thursday to give Red Lake County Central a 57-56 boys high school basketball win over Fisher/Climax.

It was the ninth straight win for the unbeaten Mustangs, who have a pair of two-point and a pair of four-point wins to their credit this winter.

"There's a little luck involved in this game," acknowledged Red Lake County Central coach Todd Fore.

The Mustangs had narrow quarter leads of 23-21, 32-31 and 43-42 before a late-game three-point basket by Jared Midboe provided Fisher/Climax with a 56-55 lead. And the host Knights had a chance to build on that advantage with a bonus free throw situation with 20 seconds left. But the first shot was off the mark, and Red Lake County Central came up with the rebound.

There were five seconds left when the Mustangs' Ryan Salberg went to the line for a 1-and-1 opportunity. He, too, missed the first attempt, but Chaput came up with the rebound and the game-winning basket.

Red Lake County Central was 25-for-61 from the field (41 percent) and 5-for-11 at the free throw line. Fisher/Climax went 21-for-47 from the field (45 percent) and 11-for-17 at the line. The Mustangs outrebounded the Knights 29-25, and also topped the turnover charts 11-8.

Joe Gartner is the Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary resident manager. He stands by a collection of sanctuary birds which died of natural causes.

Audubon sanctuary haven for wildlife

North Dakota and the Red River Valley were not good corridors for birds to migrate east or west. Now shelter belts and patches of trees provide shelter for birds, not native to the prairie, to migrate, Gartner said.

"I'm thinking of the tropical rain forest where they're cutting down trees, except we're doing the reverse. We've removed the prairie and we've planted it with trees," he said.

The sanctuary is hosting a winter naturalizing open house at the sanctuary Sunday, January 10 from 1 to 4:30 p.m. A program at 2 p.m. will include a series of mini-hikes identifying winter trees and shrubs, animal tracking, identifying winter weeds and looking for animal foods and feeding signs. The program is free and open to the public.

Sanctuary headquarters hours vary, but the sanctuary is open for hiking, picnicking and nature study seven days a week. For more information call the sanctuary at 745-5663.

Take them home with you today.

Like most new parents, we're real proud of the newest additions to our family...7-UP and Diet 7-UP. Sure, neither of them look a whole lot like the rest of the family. And they've been hanging around with the red and white crowd for quite awhile. But you know as well as we do that deep inside, 7-UP and Diet 7-UP are as good as they are clear. We're going to do everything we can to make them as at home in the Pepsi family as they ever were over at...well, you know where.

To make sure you can help make 7-UP and Diet 7-UP feel at home, we're giving you, for a limited time, a FREE 20-oz. non-returnable bottle of either one. All you have to do is shop in the area shown on the map above, and present the coupon we've included at right. Look for 7-UP and Diet 7-UP in the same places you've bought them all along. They'll be in a little different place on the shelf...they won't be with that old bunch anymore. They'll be with the rest of the Pepsi family — Pepsi, Diet Pepsi, Mountain Dew, A&W and Squirt. We hope you can take 7-UP and Diet 7-UP home with you...and maybe some of their new friends, too.

Rep. Peterson holds office hours in R.L.F.

Agricultural issues and questions about the new Congress and administration were major items of discussion when Seventh District Congressman Collin Peterson held an open house at his office in Red Lake Falls Wednesday morning.

Constituents came from Crookston, Oklee, Fertile, McIntosh, Oslo and Climax in addition to Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls. Office manager Deb Hans said that from 30 to 40 people stopped to visit with the Congressman.

Agricultural interests represented included the Minnesota Rural Life Commission, Minnesota Agri-Women and the Farmers Union in addition to a number of individual farmers interested in farm program changes or developments. Congressman Peterson presented his views regarding his expectations of the direction Congress and the Clinton administration will take in this session.

Delegations from the Polk and Red Lake county boards of commissioners were among groups represented at Wednesday's open house.

Rep. Peterson said he looks for significant activity during the first 100 days of the new administration in several areas of emphasis and interest for President Clinton.

Persons wishing to contact Congressman Peterson may do so through the district office at 2603 Wheat Drive, Red Lake Falls, MN 56750, phone 253-4356 or 1133 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, DC 20515, phone 202-225-2165.

Candlelight ski tour set for Old Mill

Marshall County — Old Mill state park and northwest Minnesota's new Onordic Gnomes cross country ski club will host an evening of skiing by candlelight January 16 from 6 to 9 p.m. Two kilometers of trail at the park will be lit by the warm glow from luminaries which will guide skiers along the trails. Hot refreshments and goodies will be available around the stone fireplace in the picnic shelter following the tour. The trails are in excellent condition with eight inches of base and 15-20 inches of snow in the park. (Messenger)

Wikstrom installs new switchboards

Greenbush — Technicians have been installing 26 new digital switchboards in the Wikstrom telephone area. The new switchboards will replace the old step switch units that have surpassed their 20-year guarantee. The new ones will offer features like call waiting and call forwarding and can be updated instead of requiring the entire system to be replaced at some point. Cost of each new unit is about $140,000. Workers will install the switchboards between now and April and the tentative operation date is set for May. (Greenbush Tribune)

Lengby city remodels old community hall

Lengby — After sitting empty for nearly 20 years, the Lengby community hall is being remodeled from the floor to the roof. The city decided to fix up the building after realizing that there was no place for the youngest and oldest residents to go for entertainment. Plans include making the building available for roller skating, teen dances, card playing and other activities. A new roof and floor have been installed and electric floor heat added, as well as insulation put in the outside walls. (Thirteen Towns)

Lead in city's water supply easily treatable

Thief River Falls water treatment plant will conduct a corrosion control treatment project at the water treatment plant as soon as improvements to the plant are completed.

Recent tests of residential tap water revealed that some of the homes do not meet standards set for lead contamination, said Al Lamm, water department supervisor. Lamm cautioned against panic. There are some inexpensive solutions.

The Safe Drinking Water Amendments of 1986 began a process of reducing the allowable limit of lead and copper in drinking water. The standard for lead in water was reduced from 50 micrograms of lead per liter of water to 15 micrograms per liter. Copper remained at 1300 micrograms per litre.

As a result of this legislation and lawsuits, the effect was to make utility companies responsible for the quality of water that comes out of residential water taps — even for changes in quality due to the home-owners plumbing.

As required by law, the water department plant in Thief River Falls tested 40 residential homes. Testing procedure requires that a litre of cold water be taken without flushing the system. That is, the first litre out of the tap was tested. The water also had to be "standing" at least six hours in the pipe and faucet.

People should not assume that every house has a problem with lead in its water supply, Lamm said. Sites chosen to be tested also had to meet other standards. For example, they could have no softwater treatment or clean water devices attached to the faucet. Sites were selected based on their potential for lead and copper. Buildings had to meet the following requirements:

- single family homes with lead service lines and/or lead soldered copper pipes built between 1982 and 1985;
- mulitiple family homes with lead service lines and/or lead soldered copper pipes;
- homes with lead solder copper pipes built before 1982.

The object, was to test for a "worst case scenario" in order to obtain information on the potential accumulation of lead from drinking water in this community, Lamm said.

Murder charges filed against Oklee man Wed.

Second degree murder charges have been filed against an Oklee man.

Red Lake County sheriff's department announced Tuesday that at 5:10 p.m. Tuesday, January 12, in the city of Crookston, Duane Lowell Parsley, 22, Oklee, was arrested without incident at his sister's residence in Crookston. The arrest was pursuant to a criminal complaint and warrant issued by District Judge John Roue, Polk County. The pending charges are murder in the second degree.

Assisting in the arrest was the Crookston police department, Minnesota state patrol and Red Lake county sheriff's department.

A bond set at $10,000 was posted Wednesday afternoon. Parsley's next appearance is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. January 20 in a Red Lake county courthouse.

Dutch elm disease takes fewer trees

Number of trees removed in Thief River Falls because of Dutch Elm Disease declined last year.

City Forester John Johnson issued his annual report to the city council recently. Johnson reported that 128 trees on public property were removed and 81 on private property. Trees removed because of Dutch elm disease totaled 209. In 1991, 238 trees were removed because of Dutch elm disease. The number of trees removed because of Dutch elm disease has been dropping since 1989 when 344 trees were removed because of Dutch elm disease.

In addition to the 209 trees removed because of Dutch elm disease, 23 trees were removed because of other disease or problems.

A total of 151 boulevard and park stumps were ground out, cleaned, filled with black dirt and seeded. The grinding was conducted by a contractor. The park department staff cleaned, filled and seeded the stump holes.

While 232 trees were removed last year, 167 trees were planted throughout the city during 1992. A matching grant from the Minnesota department of natural resources and Small Business Administration provided for 50 trees in Red Robe Park. The Thief River Falls Noon Lion's club purchased and planted 31 trees in Lion's park. The electric department contributed trees, equipment and manpower to plant

Agassiz Chess Club has all the right moves

Dale Penner and Bruce Highness battle each other on the chess board last Wednesday night. They were competing in an Agassiz Chess Club tournament with two other club members.

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

It's seven o'clock. Downtown Thief River Falls is shrouded in darkness. Traffic on Main Avenue is nil. Behind the curtains and "closed" sign at Johnnies Cafe, kings, queens and knights engage in battle. Welcome to the Agassiz Chess Club.

The club attracts chess players from around the region. They share chess knowledge and play tournaments in and out of the club.

Chess can be intense. "One guy was nearly in tears when he beat me," said Bruce Highness, club founder and owner of Johnnies Cafe. Losers have been known to throw chess pieces and Highness said he is wary of speaking to "hot" players after a match.

Highness said he probably doesn't take chess as seriously as other players, but can occasionally become upset during a match, as was the case at a recent Grafton, N.D. tournament when he ran out of his allotted time for chess moves.

Highness became involved in chess when his wife bought him a computer chess board two years ago. The computer beat Highness several times and he decided to buy a chess book, gradually becoming more involved. "Two years ago I was completely rotten at chess," Highness said.

Devotees thoroughly study chess. Club member Glen Proechel of Red Lake Falls owns 100 books on the subject. "I'm an amateur, but at times I take it seriously," Proechel said.

Proechel, a 40-year veteran of the chess board, was a high school state chess champ and has played numerous tournaments over the years, earning the "expert" title.

The United States Chess Federation sanctions tournaments and awards players their rank based on performance. In chess the primary player rankings are, from highest to lowest, master, expert, and A, B, C, D and E.

Highness is at level B. He beat Proechel at the Grafton tournament and won the "biggest upset" award.

Some club members, such as John LeDuc, do not compete in USCF tournaments. "I'm not at that level. I enjoy playing once a week, but who knows what the future holds," LeDuc said.

LeDuc's father taught him chess when he was seven years old, but since he joined the club he has

Rep. Peterson holds office hours in R.L.F.

Agricultural issues and questions about the new Congress and administration were major items of discussion when Seventh District Congressman Collin Peterson held an open house at his office in Red Lake Falls Wednesday morning.

Constituents came from Crookston, Oklee, Fertile, McIntosh, Oslo and Climax in addition to Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls. Office manager Deb Hans said that from 30 to 40 people stopped to visit with the Congressman.

Agricultural interests represented included the Minnesota Rural Life Commission, Minnesota Agri-Women and the Farmers Union in addition to a number of individual farmers interested in farm program changes or developments. Congressman Peterson presented his views regarding his expectations of the direction Congress and the Clinton administration will take in this session.

Delegations from the Polk and Red Lake county boards of commissioners were among groups represented at Wednesday's open house.

Rep. Peterson said he looks for significant activity during the first 100 days of the new administration in several areas of emphasis and interest for President Clinton.

Persons wishing to contact Congressman Peterson may do so through the district office at 2603 Wheat Drive, Red Lake Falls, MN 56750, phone 253-4356 or 1133 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, DC 20515, phone 202-225-2165.

Candlelight ski tour set for Old Mill

Marshall County — Old Mill state park and northwest Minnesota's new Gnordic Gnomes cross country ski club will host an evening of skiing by candlelight January 16 from 6 to 9 p.m. Two kilometers of trail at the park will be lit by the warm glow from luminaries which will guide skiers along the trails. Hot refreshments and goodies will be available around the stone fireplace in the picnic shelter following the tour. The trails are in excellent condition with eight inches of base and 15-20 inches of snow in the park. (Messenger)

Wikstrom installs new switchboards

Greenbush — Technicians have been installing 26 new digital switchboards in the Wikstrom telephone area. The new switchboards will replace the old step switch units that have surpassed their 20-year guarantee. The new ones will offer features like call waiting and call forwarding and can be updated instead of requiring the entire system to be replaced at some point. Cost of each new unit is about $140,000. Workers will install the switchboards between now and April and the tentative operation date is set for May. (Greenbush Tribune)

Lengby city remodels old community hall

Lengby — After sitting empty for nearly 20 years, the Lengby community hall is being remodeled from the floor to the roof. The city decided to fix up the building after realizing that there was no place for the youngest and oldest residents to go for entertainment. Plans include making the building available for roller skating, teen dances, card playing and other activities. A new roof and floor have been installed and electric floor heat added, as well as insulation put in the outside walls. (Thirteen Towns)

Lead in city's water supply easily treatable

Thief River Falls water treatment plant will conduct a corrosion control treatment project at the water treatment plant as soon as improvements to the plant are completed.

Recent tests of residential tap water revealed that some of the homes do not meet standards set for lead contamination, said Al Lamm, water department supervisor. Lamm cautioned against panic. There are some inexpensive solutions.

The Safe Drinking Water Amendments of 1986 began a process of reducing the allowable limit of lead and copper in drinking water. The standard for lead in water was reduced from 50 micrograms of lead per liter of water to 15 micrograms per liter. Copper remained at 1300 micrograms per litre.

As a result of this legislation and lawsuits, the effect was to make utility companies responsible for the quality of water that comes out of residential water taps — even for changes in quality due to the homeowners plumbing.

As required by law, the water department plant in Thief River Falls tested 40 residential homes. Testing procedure requires that a litre of cold water be taken without flushing the system. That is, the first litre out of the tap was tested. The water also had to be "standing" at least six hours in the pipe and faucet.

People should not assume that every house has a problem with lead in its water supply, Lamm said. Sites chosen to be tested also had to meet other standards. For example, they could have no softwater treatment or clean water devices attached to the faucet. Sites were selected based on their potential for lead and copper. Buildings had to meet the following requirements:

- single family homes with lead service lines and/or lead soldered copper pipes built between 1982 and 1985;
- multiple family homes with lead service lines and/or lead soldered copper pipes;
- homes with lead solder copper pipes built before 1982.

The object, was to test for a "worst case scenario" in order to obtain information on the potential accumulation of lead from drinking water in this community, Lamm said.

Murder charges filed against Oklee man Wed.

Second degree murder charges have been filed against an Oklee man.

Red Lake County sheriff's department announced Tuesday that at 5:10 p.m. Tuesday, January 12, in the city of Crookston, Duane Lowell Parsley, 22, Oklee, was arrested without incident at his sister's residence in Crookston. The arrest was pursuant to a criminal complaint and warrant issued by District Judge John Roue, Polk County. The pending charges are murder in the second degree.

The charges against Parsley relate to the shooting death of Steven James Klasen, Oklee.

Assisting in the arrest was the Crookston police department, Minnesota state patrol and Red Lake county sheriff's department.

A bond set at $10,000 was posted Wednesday afternoon. Parsley's next appearance is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. January 20 in a Red Lake county courthouse.

Dutch elm disease takes fewer trees

Number of trees removed in Thief River Falls because of Dutch Elm Disease declined last year.

City Forester John Johnson issued his annual report to the city council recently. Johnson reported that 128 trees on public property were removed and 81 on private property. Trees removed because of Dutch elm disease totaled 209. In 1991, 238 trees were removed because of Dutch elm disease. The number of trees removed because of Dutch elm disease has been dropping since 1989 when 344 trees were removed because of Dutch elm disease.

In addition to the 209 trees removed because of Dutch elm disease, 23 trees were removed because of other disease or problems.

A total of 151 boulevard and park stumps were ground out, cleaned, filled with black dirt and seeded. The grinding was conducted by a contractor. The park department staff cleaned, filled and seeded the stump holes.

While 232 trees were removed last year, 167 trees were planted throughout the city during 1992. A matching grant from the Minnesota department of natural resources and Small Business Administration provided for 50 trees in Red Robe Park. The Thief River Falls Noon Lion's club purchased and planted 31 trees in Lion's park. The electric department contributed trees, equipment and manpower to plant

Dale Palmer and Bruce Highness battle each other on the chess board last Wednesday night. They were competing in an Agassiz Chess Club tournament with two other club members.

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

It's seven o'clock. Downtown Thief River Falls is shrouded in darkness. Traffic on Main Avenue is nil. Behind the curtains and "closed" sign at Johnnies Cafe, kings, queens and knights engage in battle. Welcome to the Agassiz Chess Club.

The club attracts chess players from around the region. They share chess knowledge and play tournaments in and out of the club.

Chess can be intense. "One guy was nearly in tears when he beat me," said Bruce Highness, club founder and owner of Johnnies Cafe. Losers have been known to throw chess pieces and Highness said he is wary of speaking to "hot" players after a match.

Highness said he probably doesn't take chess as seriously as other players, but can occasionally become upset during a match, as was the case at a recent Grafton, N.D. tournament when he ran out of his allotted time for chess moves.

Highness became involved in chess when his wife bought him a computer chess board two years ago. The computer beat Highness several times and he decided to buy a chess book, gradually becoming more involved. "Two years ago I was completely rotten at chess," Highness said.

Devotees thoroughly study chess. Club member Glen Proechel of Red Lake Falls owns 100 books on the subject. "I'm an amateur, but at times I take it seriously." Proechel said.

Proechel, a 40-year veteran of the chess board, was a high school state chess champ and has played numerous tournaments over the years, earning the "expert" title.

The United States Chess Federation sanctions tournaments and awards players their rank based on performance. In chess the primary player rankings are, from highest to lowest, master, expert, and A, B, C, D and E.

Highness is at level B. He beat Proechel at the Grafton tournament and won the "biggest upset" award.

Some club members, such as John LeDuc, do not compete in USCF tournaments. "I'm not at that level. I enjoy playing once a week, but who knows what the future holds," LeDuc said.

LeDuc's father taught him chess when he was seven years old, but since he joined the club he has

Beltrami county historical society in limbo

Beltrami County — The Beltrami county historical society has been in limbo since the chamber of commerce announced plans to replace the old waterfront building where the society is located with a new building. The historical society had been a sub-tenant of the chamber until the lease with the city was reworked to recognize each as separate tenants. This made it easier for the society to apply for grants, but now it is in a bind. The society doesn't have the $750,000 necessary to build a new building, but can't apply for most grants without a long-term lease. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Baudette maintenance department has two fires

Baudette — Business is anything but usual for the city of Baudette's maintenance department these days. The main city garage, as well as four vehicles and miscellaneous equipment was lost to a fire last Friday night, which, according to the state fire marshal's office, resulted from spontaneous combustion in an area where oily rags were stored. A second fire at the city's power plant near the International Bridge did less damage, but could have been serious. Three small transformers were on a wood platform above the main control board. It is thought that the platform gave way and knocked the transformers into each other to cause the fire. (Baudette Region)

Soupçon For The Holidays

by Sherry LaCoursiere

How about a few more main dish meals today? These are some delicious chicken recipes, since most of you are probably watching your budget as well as your waistline after the holidays.

Minnesotans love wild rice, don't they? Here is an easy meal you can make in minutes, using that Minnesota favorite:

Skillet Chicken and Wild Rice

2 cups cooked chicken, cubed
2 1/4 cups water
1/3 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 small onion, chopped (1/4 cup)
1 can (10 3/4 ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 package (6 ounces) seasoned long grain and wild rice

Mix all ingredients in 10-inch skillet. Heat to boiling and then reduce heat.

Cover and simmer for 25-30 minutes, until rice is tender and liquid absorbed.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 180 calories, 14 g protein, 11 g carbohydrate, 8 g fat, 40 mg cholesterol, 750 mg sodium, 170 mg potassium.)

You'll love this chicken and rice dish—it is just a little different:

Chicken with Fruit and Cheese

4 boneless, skinless chicken breast halves (1 pound)
1 tablespoon margarine or butter
1 tablespoon water
1 jar (4 1/2 ounces) strained pears baby food
2/3 cup cranberries
2 cups hot cooked brown rice
1 green onion, with top, sliced
2 tablespoons crumbled feta cheese (1 ounce)

Heat margarine in 10-9 inch skillet until hot. Cook chicken in margarine until brown on both sides. Add water.

Spoon pears over chicken. Heat to boiling and reduce heat and cover and simmer for 10 minutes.

Sprinkle cranberries over chicken. Cover and simmer about 5 minutes longer or until chicken is done. (If you can't find cranberries, try green grapes.)

Serve with rice and sprinkle with onion and cheese before serving.

(Recipe serves 4 and each serving contains 370 calories, 43 g protein, 29 g carbohydrate, 8 g fat, 105 mg cholesterol, 230 mg sodium, 520 mg potassium.)

The kids will love these, and so will your budget:

Glazed Chicken Drumsticks

12 chicken drumsticks (2 pounds)
3 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 tablespoon chili sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/8 teaspoon garlic powder

Place drumsticks in ungreased shallow glass pan.

Mix remaining ingredients and pour over chicken. Cover and refrigerate at least 1 hour.

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Line broiler pan with aluminum foil and place chicken on rack in broiler pan. Brush drumsticks with remaining sauce.

Bake 50 to 60 minutes until done.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 295 calories, 30 g protein, 7 g carbohydrate, 15 g fat, 125 mg cholesterol, 860 mg sodium, 360 mg potassium.)

This chicken dish is a little different too. You will love it with a little rice side dish:

Spiced Chicken with Fruit

2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon red cayenne pepper
2 1/2 pound cut-up broiler/fryer chicken
1/2 cup pineapple chunks
1/3 cup raisins
1/2 cup pineapple juice or orange juice
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon cloves
orange sections
chopped fresh parsley

Heat oil in 12-inch skillet.

Mix salt and red pepper and sprinkle over chicken.

Cook chicken in oil over medium heat for 15-20 minutes, until light brown on all sides. Reduce heat and add remaining ingredients except orange sections and parsley.

Cover tightly and simmer 20-25 minutes, until thickest pieces of chicken are done.

Garnish with orange sections and parsley.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 375 calories, 31 g protein, 16 g carbohydrate, 20 g fat, 100 mg cholesterol, 280 mg sodium and 420 mg potassium.)

The historical society had been a sub-tenant of the chamber until the lease with the city was reworked to recognize each as separate tenants. This made it easier for the society to apply for grants, but now it is in a bind. The society doesn't have the $750,000 necessary to build a new building, but can't apply for most grants without a long-term lease. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Baudette maintenance department has two fires

Baudette — Business is anything but usual for the city of Baudette's maintenance department these days. The main city garage, as well as four vehicles and miscellaneous equipment was lost to a fire last Friday night, which, according to the state fire marshal's office, resulted from spontaneous combustion in an area where oily rags were stored. A second fire at the city's power plant near the International Bridge did less damage, but could have been serious. Three small transformers were on a wood platform above the main control board. It is thought that the platform gave way and knocked the transformers into each other to cause the fire. (Baudette Region)

Soupçon For The Holidays

by Sherry LaCoursiere

How about a few more main dish meals today? These are some delicious chicken recipes, since most of you are probably watching your budget as well as your waistline after the holidays.

Minnesotans love wild rice, don't they? Here is an easy meal you can make in minutes, using that Minnesota favorite:

Skillet Chicken and Wild Rice

2 cups cooked chicken, cubed
2 1/4 cups water
1/3 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 small onion, chopped (1/4 cup)
1 can (10 3/4 ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 package (6 ounces) seasoned long grain and wild rice

Mix all ingredients in 10-inch skillet. Heat to boiling and then reduce heat.

Cover and simmer for 25-30 minutes, until rice is tender and liquid absorbed.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 180 calories, 14 g protein, 11 g carbohydrate, 8 g fat, 40 mg cholesterol, 750 mg sodium, 170 mg potassium.)

You'll love this chicken and rice dish—it is just a little different:

Chicken with Fruit and Cheese

4 boneless, skinless chicken breast halves (1 pound)
1 tablespoon margarine or butter
1 tablespoon water
1 jar (4 1/2 ounces) strained pears baby food
2/3 cup cranberries
2 cups hot cooked brown rice
1 green onion, with top, sliced
2 tablespoons crumbled feta cheese (1 ounce)

Heat margarine in 10-9 inch skillet until hot. Cook chicken in margarine until brown on both sides. Add water.

Spoon pears over chicken. Heat to boiling and reduce heat and cover and simmer for 10 minutes.

Sprinkle cranberries over chicken. Cover and simmer about 5 minutes longer or until chicken is done. (If you can't find cranberries, try green grapes.)

Serve with rice and sprinkle with onion and cheese before serving.

(Recipe serves 4 and each serving contains 370 calories, 43 g protein, 29 g carbohydrate, 8 g fat, 105 mg cholesterol, 230 mg sodium, 520 mg potassium.)

The kids will love these, and so will your budget:

Glazed Chicken Drumsticks

12 chicken drumsticks (2 pounds)
3 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 tablespoon chili sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/8 teaspoon garlic powder

Place drumsticks in ungreased shallow glass pan.

Mix remaining ingredients and pour over chicken. Cover and refrigerate at least 1 hour.

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Line broiler pan with aluminum foil and place chicken on rack in broiler pan. Brush drumsticks with remaining sauce.

Bake 50 to 60 minutes until done.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 295 calories, 30 g protein, 7 g carbohydrate, 15 g fat, 125 mg cholesterol, 860 mg sodium, 360 mg potassium.)

This chicken dish is a little different too. You will love it with a little rice side dish:

Spiced Chicken with Fruit

2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon red cayenne pepper
2 1/2 pound cut-up broiler/fryer chicken
1/2 cup pineapple chunks
1/3 cup raisins
1/2 cup pineapple juice or orange juice
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon cloves
orange sections
chopped fresh parsley

Heat oil in 12-inch skillet.

Mix salt and red pepper and sprinkle over chicken.

Cook chicken in oil over medium heat for 15-20 minutes, until light brown on all sides. Reduce heat and add remaining ingredients except orange sections and parsley.

Cover tightly and simmer 20-25 minutes, until thickest pieces of chicken are done.

Garnish with orange sections and parsley.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 375 calories, 31 g protein, 16 g carbohydrate, 20 g fat, 100 mg cholesterol, 280 mg sodium and 420 mg potassium.)

To The Editor:

Minnesotans must realize the radical effects of the so-called Freedom of Choice Act (FOCA). It is designed to stop any state regulation and any limits whatsoever on abortions. This radical proposal will:

(1) Allow abortions any time during pregnancy;

(2) Permit abortions for any reason—even birth control;

(3) Allow repeat abortions and sex selection;

(4) Require Americans to pay for them with tax dollars;

(5) Bar 24-hour waiting requirements;

(6) Prohibit parental consent on minor's abortions; and

(7) Allow lawsuits against hospitals which do not participate in abortions.

We all get certain freedoms and choices under our Constitution, but what line and paragraph says a woman can 'use' these to end her baby's life? Please contact your Senator and Representative and ask him to vote 'no' on FOCA; 30 million aborted babies is more than enough! Let's pray and fight for the lives of these precious babies.

Sincerely,
Dorothy Pederson

Bergman, Gillie buy 'Exponent' at East Grand Forks

Rollin Bergman and Julie Gillie, owner-publishers of the Warroad Pioneer, have purchased "The Exponent" weekly newspaper at East Grand Forks from Warren and Annette Strandell. The ownership change was effective January 2.

Bergman has 34 years of newspaper experience, mostly at the "Norman County Index" in Ada, and Gillie has published "The Northern Light" at Williams for the past eight years.

The Strandells founded "The Exponent" in July of 1979 and have published it continuously since that time. Warren served as editor-publisher and his wife as business manager. Strandell said he plans to announce a career change next month and that they plan to continue living in East Grand Forks where they have been residents since 1969.

"While we are finding it a bit difficult to walk away from 'our baby,'" Strandell said, "we do so now knowing that in Rollin Bergman and Julie Gillie "The Exponent" has two of the finest and most progressive weekly newspaper publishers in the region."

Pete Myszkowski, who joined the staff of the East Grand Forks paper a year ago, will become its editor. He is a native of Warren—as are the Strandells—and a graduate of Moorhead State University.

Compulsive Gambling Also Teen Addiction

"Compulsive gambling among teens is not only growing, it's becoming the addiction of the '90s," states Valerie C. Lorenz, PhD, executive director of the Compulsive Gambling Center, Inc., in Baltimore, MD.

Quoted in "Women's Day" magazine, Dr. Lorenz was asked why teens are so vulnerable to gambling addiction. "The same reasons, experts say, that they have higher rates of violence, car crashes and run-ins with the law than other age groups," she said. "Lack of self-control, low self-esteem."

Henry Lesieur, PhD, professor of criminal justice at St. John's University and editor of "The Journal of Gambling Studies," said that "We don't know what the result will be of the river boats, the Indian casinos, the video lotteries.....It's like opening a tiger's cage without knowing whether the tiger has claws."

"Fresh Facts," a publication of the Minnesota Planning Office, noted in August that Minnesota's Indian tribes had recently committed funds to compulsive gambling treatment and prevention. Betty George, executive director of the Minnesota Council on Compulsive gambling, told us on Thursday that the tribes conducting gambling in the state are planning to raise $100,000 in support of the council.

The Minnesota council is one of only three in the nation which conducts a 60-hour course for counselors seeking to be certified as compulsive gambling counselors. The certification is provided by the National Council on Compulsive Gambling with which the Minnesota council—a non-profit organization—is affiliated and is required in many cases for reimbursement.

George said that compulsive gambling is a "tricky addiction" and that effective counseling requires specialized training.

In 1988 when the Minnesota council was formed, there was one certified compulsive gambling counselor in the state, George said. Today there are 166. Calls to the council from professionals seeking training to counsel persons with gambling problems now averages three a day, compared with about one a week a year ago. Professionals are seeing an increasing number of people requiring counseling for gambling addiction. The 60-hour course has been offered since 1990.

George said that the council also receives an average of four to six calls a day from gamblers and their families or associates looking for help in dealing with the gambling addiction. She said that the number of calls from parents of adolescents who have gambling problems is on the increase and that research shows adolescents have four times the risk of adults of becoming addicted. Most people diagnosed as compulsive gamblers began gambling at the age of 14.

George attributes the rapid rise in addiction cases and the demand for training in counseling to a number of factors, most notably availability and advertising, along with official-state sanction of the practice which seems to give it credibility. Availability means the convenience of being able to find gambling opportunity nearby with casinos, charitable gambling and the state lottery. Advertising is, of course, intended to stimulate interest in gambling as an enjoyable recreational pursuit. Even the subtle change of the word gambling to gaming is intended to increase the aura of respectability of the activity, George said.

"Young people don't have beans in their ears," George said. "They hear the advertising and see the billboards."

The calls coming into the council office in Duluth have little to say about enjoyment and glamour, however.

George said a recent caller was a woman concerned about her mother, who was in her late 60s. The older woman was spending every night at the casino, missing grandchildren's birthday parties and other special family events that she would never have missed previously. Her finances were described as being in great disorder.

Another caller was an employee of a mid-sized business who was concerned about her boss, his business and her job. She said she did the accounting for the company and had seen her boss "go through a couple of hundred thousand dollars in the last couple of years" and feared he would soon lose his business.

George said the calls are typical of those seeking help for others, although many callers are also in need of help themselves. She said a survey of a group of 54 people identified as compulsive gamblers was taken in northeastern Minnesota and 98 per cent said they had been involved in illegal activity as a result of their gambling addiction.

The Minnesota Council on Compulsive Gambling would like to see an independently-done cost to benefit analysis of gambling in Minnesota. George said it would not be easy but that it could be done and is believed necessary to have an accurate view of the actual impact of the various forms of gambling on the state and its people. We believe such an analysis would be very revealing and would encourage an effort to have the study done.

Commissioner promotes job creation program

The number one priority for Minnesota is job creation, said Department of Trade and Economic Development Commissioner Peter Gillette. Gillette visited Thief River Falls Tuesday to discuss the Governor's six point plan for small employer job growth.

Gillette said the program proposed by the governor is not the most complete program. In view of the state's current projected budget deficit, it is a beginning. It is not an end, he added.

The governor's six point plan is also not for everyone. If you really look around, Gillette said, the employment tradeoffs among large companies is pretty much a wash. Most of the job creation in the state takes place among small and medium sized companies.

One of the reasons Minnesota, and other states are in tough straits, is because there is more and more pressure from the federal government to take care of the state's own social problems. In addition, there are more demands for services at the same time taxpayers are saying enough is enough.

In order to maintain those services without raising taxes, "we must make the economic pie bigger," Gillette said.

The first point in the governor's plan is to close the current $769 million budget gap without new taxes. Governor Carlson has pledged to close the gap between the state's projected spending and resources without new taxes. He believes the structural problem that has caused consecutive budget gaps in recent years must be solved with reductions in the growth in state spending and he will present his budget proposal in January 1993.

The second step in the governor's plan is property tax abatement and credit for small and growing businesses.

Governor Carlson is proposing to give cities and counties the authority to grant targeted property tax reductions to new or expanding companies to stimulate local job growth. Currently, some local governments have a limited ability to offer economic incentives to business through a complex program known as tax increment financing (TIF). This new property tax abatement will not replace TIF, and will enable neighboring cities and counties to work together to design regional incentives for new and expanding businesses in their regions.

Governor Carlson's budget will also include funding for a property tax credit program targeted to Minnesota's small manufacturing employers which will reduce their effective property tax rate by approximately 30 per cent. This new "Workstead" program will be patterned after the Homestead Credit program, and will apply to businesses with fewer than 100 employees who own industrial property.

The third step in the governor's program is the elimination of sales tax on replacement equipment for small business.

Currently Minnesota waives the sales tax on new capital equipment for business, but imposes a 6.5 per cent sales tax on machines that replace existing capital equipment. Governor Carlson proposes eliminating this tax on all employers with fewer than 100 employees in an effort to help growing companies invest in job growth and invest in the best technology available.

The fourth step in the governor's plan is worker's compensation cost reduction.

Governor Carlson will press for additional legislative and administrative changes to further reduce the costs of workers' compensation for Minnesota employers. The administration will also press for a legislative mandate requiring that excess premiums be refunded to employers by July 1993. This could result in refunds of up to $300 million.

The Carlson administration will also propose a systemic change in Minnesota's workers' compensation system to the 1993 legislature. The change will involve the creation of a personal workers' compensation "IRA" account for each employee which would give workers an incentive to exercise restraint in their utilization of the system. If a worker's account is not overdrawn upon retirement, he or she will be entitled to the unexpended proceeds.

The fifth step in the plan is regulator and permitting reform.

Governor Carlson has issued an executive order requiring each state agency to eliminate or revise any rules or regulations which do not have an immediate, necessary and substantial impact on achieving the interest intended to be protected. The governor is deeply committed to making Minnesota's regulatory requirements more clear and regulating agencies more responsive.

The governor's budget will include funding for a computer based regulatory compliance system which will dramatically speed clearance for development projects and facilitate the permitting approval process. A small business assistance representative has also been designated to help employers understand pollution regulatory requirements and help them through the approval and permitting process.

The sixth step in the plan involves making technology and capital accessible to small business.

The governor's budget proposal includes full funding for Minnesota Technology and the Agricultural Utilization and Research Institute in Crookston. The administration will also see to protect Minnesota Technology's equity investment fund of $7 million, which has been designated for investment in small manufacturing firms.

The governor also proposes $1 million in new funding to finance programs through Minnesota's Capital Access Program. This program provides additional financing protection to lenders who loan to growing small and medium sized businesses. The state's $1 million contribution to this program will leverage $15 million in available capital for Minnesota's promising small businesses.

The governor's budget will also include $6 million in new dollars to recapitalize the loan programs within the six regional Minnesota Initiative Funds and fund a new $6 million capital loan program to stimulate small business growth in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Gillette encouraged those in attendance to spread the word about the plan and contact state legislators to encourage them to support the plan.

Sparby to offer bill on election changes

Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls says he plans to introduce an elections reform bill a little later in the 1993 legislative session.

"I don't have the bill in final form yet," Sparby told The Times and Northern Watch in a telephone interview Thursday morning. "I have met with Secretary of State Joan Growe to talk about some of the revisions that I think need to be made to reduce costs and better serve the voters."

Among possible suggested changes which Rep. Sparby listed as examples involve mail ballots and recount provisions. Mail balloting is now permitted in communities of 400 or less, and Sparby proposes raising that level to 1,000. Recounts are mandated by law when there is less than a 200-vote difference between candidates. Rep. Sparby said recounts are costly and he believes the margin could be reduced to a 100-vote difference.

Early days of the session have been busy with reorganization efforts and the major controversy to date has involved the Indian fishing rights question on part of Mille Lacs lake, he said.

Support for border crossing change asked

People interested in seeing a change in status and operation at the Highway 59 border crossing near Lancaster are being encouraged to contact legislators.

Ken Berg, a member of a group calling itself The Highway 59 Committee, said the group recently put in its formal request to change the status and operation of the Lancaster/Tolstol Station. Berg said, if approved, this will facilitate easier access for truckers, buses, public and other users. He said the group appreciates the help it has received in the past, but would like those who support their effort to take five mintues to help them and the economy of communities and regions along the Highway 59 corridor.

He is urging those who support the effort to call: Sen. Paul Wellstone at 1-800-642-6041, Sen. Dave Durenburger at 1-800-752-4226, Congressman Collin Peterson at 202-225-2165.

The request asks that the station be reclassified to Port of Entry, an upgrading of the facility to handle commercial cargo and vehicles, as well as an extension of hours from 6 a.m. to 12 a.m. Midnight year round with sufficient staffing to support hours.

January is donor month

Mayor Bob Reeve has proclaimed January to be Volunteer Blood Donor Month in Thief River Falls, urging citizens in good health to donate blood regularly and asking all citizens to pay tribute to those citizens who donate blood for others in need.

The proclamation notes that there is a "need for additional healthy, regular volunteer donors to join the ranks of those who already give of themselves so generously" and that "there is no substitute nor replacement for blood."

Mayor Reeve also points out that January has been declared National Volunteer Blood Donor Month by the President of the United States.

Police receive report of credit card scam

Residents are once again being warned not to provide credit card information over the phone.

A local woman contacted the police department in Thief River Falls Tuesday to report a suspected credit card scam. She reported that she received a First class envelope in the mail. The letter said she was a prize winner and only had to call a 1-800 number to receive one of many fabulous prizes. When she called the number they asked her for her VISA number and the expiration date on the card. The woman wisely objected to providing that information.

Police Chief Ken Froschheiser strongly advises people not to give out that kind of information to strangers over the phone.

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON –A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientists may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the project of National Dietary Research, aptly named Food Source One, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids has been a windfall for some overweight people. A Metairie, Louisiana nurse lost 71 pounds. She stated "I never had to sacrifice the foods I dearly crave!" "Food Source One is very easy and anyone could do it." says a Niagara Falls, New York woman who lost 26 pounds and 15 inches. "The results are great." she added.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

Penalty shot ends overtime game...

Pirates edge Prowlers 3-2

Sophomore Chris Peterson scored on a penalty shot in sudden-death overtime Tuesday to give Crookston a 3-2 Section 8 high school hockey win over Thief River Falls.

Peterson's goal 5:49 into the eight-minute showdown left the frustrated Prowlers 6-7 for the year, and continued their season-long bounce between the win and loss column. Thief River Falls hat been unable to win two-in-a-row all year, and yet has not lost back-to-back games, either.

Punctuated by a never-ending series of play-stopping whistles, the renewal of the Crookston-Thief River Falls rivalry was hardly an artistic success. Overtime produced the best action of an otherwise forgettable hockey game.

"We didn't play a real fluid game," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo. "We put on enough pressure to win the hockey game (the Prowlers out-shot the Pirates 34-23), but I've never seen a game played so slowly. We must of set a record for stoppages."

Peterson opened the scoring when he held off a defender and knocked the puck past Thief River Falls goalie Eric Dowers, who had come out to challenge the shooter, at 4:05 of the first period.

Thief River Falls went ahead 2-1 with a pair of second period goals as defenseman Marc Haugen watched his shot from the blue line trickle through the pads of Crookston goalie Steve Sims at 9:57 and Carter Rogalla picked up a loose puck in the slot, walked in on Sims and placed a wrist shot into the upper corner at 13:56.

The score remained unchanged until Crookston freshman Matt Hoppe found himself stationed by the side of the net with the puck. He waited several moments before flipping the shot past Dowers to tie it 2-2 with just 1:41 remaining in regulation time.

Both teams had overtime scoring opportunities turned aside by the goalies until Peterson, after splitting the defense, was pulled down by Jason Svir with 2:11 left.

Awarding of a penalty shot at that point in what was a rough-and-tumble hockey game was not well received on the Thief River Falls side. "They (officials) go the entire game allowing all kinds of things to happen, and then call a penalty shot in overtime," said Chiodo in head-shaking fashion. "It was a penalty – no one is arguing that. Jason tripped him. But a penalty shot?"

MCC boys out-score Grygla-Gatzke 70-62

Playing without injured Ivan Hirst, one of their top front line performers, the rest of the Marshall County Central boys picked it up a notch Tuesday as the Nordics out-scored Grygla-Gatzke 70-62 in a high school basketball game played at Newfolden.

Hirst is shelved indefinitely by a knee injury. But his loss was lessened by a 25-point, 19-rebound game from Tim Olson and a 17-point, 8-rebound game from Dean Engen as the Nordics moved to 5-3.

"With Ivan out of the line-up, this was a really a huge win for us," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "Tim and Dean picked up the slack inside, and our bench came through big-time."

Marshall County Central had quarter leads of 18-12, 36-27 and 49-40, although Grygla-Gatzke used a first half finish and second half start to take a brief third quarter lead.

Shane Borg and Jeremy Tallum joined Olson and Engen in double figures for the winners with 11 and 10 points, respectively. "Jeremy came off the bench and did a great job for us," pointed out Ueland.

A game-high 27-point game by Jeremy Engelstad led the Eagles.

"They're a very good basketball team," said Ueland of Grygla-Gatzke. "We're very happy to pick up a win against them."

Marshall County Central was 26-for-55 from the field (47 percent) and 14-for-23 at the free throw line. Grygla-Gatzke went 23-for-51 from the field (45 percent) and 13-for-17 at the line. The Nordics controlled the boards 38-14.

"We just couldn't get over the hump," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "I have to tip my hat to Newfolden the way they went out and got the job done without Hirst. They played well."

Ueland, in his 28th year as a head coach and 26th year directing the Nordics, picked up win No. 400 the previous week at Warroad. The game ball from that night, autographed by members of the current Marshall County Central team, was also presented to Ueland as part of the program.

Bemidji girls run past Prowlers

Bemidji ran its record to 10-1 Tuesday with a third quarter blitz that carried the Lumberjacks to a 65-38 North Sub-Section 8AA girls high school basketball win over Thief River Falls.

The visiting Lumberjacks had a 13-6 first quarter lead and a 29-16 halftime advantage, but really took charge with a 27-4 third quarter run that opened up a 56-20 scoreboard gap.

Thief River Falls fell to 4-7 with the loss.

"Bemidji has a really good team," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse. "The best team won."

A Bemidji press ignited the Lumberjacks' third quarter blitz. The Prowlers wound up with 22 turnovers for the night, and watched the winners convert many of those mistakes into baskets.

"We haven't had trouble with a press all year," noted Wiltse, "but Bemidji's press definitely hurt us. They play really good defense, and the have a very good transition game."

Amy Adams scored a game-high 20 points for the Prowlers, but none of her teammates had more than six points. Four Bemidji scorers finished in the 9-to-14-point range, led by Jess Thompson's 14 points.

Thief River Falls shot 30 percent from the field (17/57) and struggled through a 4-for-14 night at the free throw line. Bemidji shot 47 percent from the floor (28/59) and went 9-for-14 at the line. The Lumberjacks finished with a 26-19 rebound edge. Bemidji had 17 turnovers.

Gators hold off Huskies 58-55

Underdog Goodridge took unbeaten Badger/Greenbush-Middle River into the final moments before surrendering a 58-55 boys high school basketball decision Tuesday at Goodridge.

The 2-7 Huskies went up 18-11 in the first quarter, had a 34-30 halftime lead and held on to a 50-49 third quarter edge. The 8-0 Gators did not go ahead until the final 80 seconds when a four-point play by Ryan Rislov and an ensuing steal by Trent Wahl kicked off a game-winning Badger/Greenbush-Middle River run.

"We had some turnovers, missed some lay-ups and we didn't make our free throws down the stretch," said Goodridge coach John Rahn. "It was a case of our youth against their experience."

However, Rahn was more that happy with the Goodridge showing against the highly-regarded Gators – four days after the Huskies played on near-even term with defending Section 8A champion Clearbrook/Gonvick before losing ground at the end of an 80-66 loss.

"I can't fault the kids for their effort," offered Rahn. "We played well. I was tickled to death we were in a position to win the game at the end."

Rislov scored 18 points and Matt Kuznia had 14 for the winners, who have been battling a flu bug recently. Mitch Smsky led the Huskies with 17 points, while Travis Kotrba had 11 and Eldon Quam 10.

"I thought they (Huskies) played an excellent ball game," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "They took us out of our flow offensively. We just never really got going. We were lucky to win."

Goodridge shot 53 percent from the field (23/43), but went just 8-for-20 at the free throw line. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 51 percent from the floor (22/43) and went 7-for-14 at the line. The Huskies out-rebounded the Gators 25-23.

RLCC boys rally for win

Unbeaten status of Red Lake County Central was in jeopardy Tuesday until the Mustangs produced a 29-point fourth quarter to emerge with a come-from-behind 70-59 boys high school basketball win at Mahnomen.

The Indians trailed 14-11 at the end of the first quarter, but went ahead 37-24 at halftime and had a 49-41 edge entering the final period.

A busy 24-for-37 night at the free throw line proved to be the deciding factor in the win for the 10-0 Mustangs, who were out-scored from the field.

"They're a very physical team," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Todd Fore. "That's why we got so many free throws."

It wasn't a very pretty win, admitted Fore. "Our second quarter was terrible," he said. "It was ugly. They scored 26 points against us. We didn't do a thing – no offense, no defense, nothing."

But the Mustangs made amends with a 20-0 fourth quarter run.

Red Lake County Central was 22-for-46 from the field (48 percent), while Mahnomen went 26-for-48 (54 percent). The Indians were 5-for-8 at the line. The winners had a 30-24 rebound edge.

Mustangs lose two in EGF

Back-to-back trips to East Grand Forks resulted in a pair of high school basketball losses for the Red Lake County Central girls, who absorbed a 71-38 pounding at the hands of East Grand Forks Senior High Tuesday and suffered a 72-47 setback at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart Thursday.

The losses dropped the Mustangs to 5-4.

East Grand Forks 71
Red Lake Co. Central 38

East Grand Forks did a number on Red Lake Lake County Central Tuesday – 71-38.

"They dominated," acknowledged Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "They have a good transition game. They scored a lot of points off their fast break."

East Grand Forks led at the quarter stops 19-10, 44-19 and 60-29.

The winners had four double figure scorers, led by Tara Hecht with 17 points. Dawn Bachand matched that total for the Mustangs, but she was their only double figure producer.

Red Lake County Central shot 33 percent from the field (17/52) and went 4-for-11 at the free throw line. With its collection of fast break baskets, the Green Wave shot 58 percent from the field (30/52) and added an 8-for-12 showing at the line. East Grand Forks had a 30-28 rebound edge. Red Lake County Central had more turnovers, 22-13.

Red Lake County Central fell victim to a school-record 33-point scoring performance by Nicole Fontaine as the Mustangs fell to the Eagles 72-47 Thursday.

Sacred Heart had quarter leads of 19-10, 36-28 and 55-41. The Eagles' final spread was inflated by a 10-0 Sacred Heart finish.

"At least the effort was there in this one," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "It wasn't there Tuesday. We didn't play all that bad; we're just not hitting the easy shots."

Dawn Bachand had a 20-point, 8-rebound game for the Mustangs.

Red Lake County Central went 17-for-57 from the field (30 percent) and 13-for-19 at the free throw line. Sacred Heart was 28-for-55 from the field (51 percent) and 10-for-18 at the line. Gators edge Nordics

Twenty-six Marshall County Central turnovers spelled the difference Thursday as the Nordics lost a 44-41 girls high school basketball game to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River at Newfolden.

"We gave them a game – something we didn't do last time," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde, "but it was really frustrating with all those turnovers. Most of them were unforced errors – mistakes on our part."

Gators hold on to defeat Eagles 62-51

Grygla-Gatzke cut a 17-point second quarter deficit to a one-point game at the end of the third quarter, but saw its comeback bid fade down the stretch in a late-reported (Jan. 8) 62-51 boys high school basketball loss to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

"They (Eagles) played a good ball game," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We had a good second and good fourth quarter. We were not consistent."

The Gators had quarter leads of 18-12, 35-28 and 42-41, then doubled the visiting Eagles 20-10 over the final eight minutes.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 40 percent from the field (25/62) and went 7-for-15 at the free throw line. Grygla-Gatzke shot just 30 percent from the floor (19/64) and made 12 of 17 free throws. The Gators out-rebounded the Eagles 41-18, and also had more turnovers, 12-8.

Swimmers win 57-39

Thief River Falls won 10 of the 11 events Thursday as the Prowlers swamped Fosston/Bagley 57-29 in boys high school swimming at Fosston.

It was the Prowlers' first dual meet outing of the 1992-93 season.

"The varsity kids swam really solid times, and the junior varsity kids showed a lot of improvement," said Thief River Falls coach Ryan Lokken. "We're going in the right direction, and a win here and there doesn't hurt, either."

Penalty shot ends overtime game...

Pirates edge Prowlers 3-2

Sophomore Chris Peterson scored on a penalty shot in sudden-death overtime Tuesday to give Crookston a 3-2 Section 8 high school hockey win over Thief River Falls.

Peterson's goal 5:49 into the eight-minute showdown left the frustrated Prowlers 6-7 for the year, and continued their season-long bounce between the win and loss column. Thief River Falls has been unable to win two-in-a-row all year, and yet has not lost back-to-back games, either.

Punctuated by a never-ending series of play-stopping whistles, the renewal of the Crookston-Thief River Falls rivalry was hardly an artistic success. Overtime produced the best action of an otherwise forgettable hockey game.

"We didn't play a real fluid game," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo. "We put on enough pressure to win the hockey game (the Prowlers out-shot the Pirates 34-23), but I've never seen a game played so slowly. We must of set a record for stoppages."

Peterson opened the scoring when he held off a defender and knocked the puck past Thief River Falls goalie Eric Dowers, who had come out to challenge the shooter, at 4:05 of the first period.

Thief River Falls went ahead 2-1 with a pair of second period goals as defenseman Marc Haugen watched his shot from the blue line trickle through the pads of Crookston goalie Steve Sims at 9:57 and Carter Rogalla picked up a loose puck in the slot, walked in on Sims and placed a wrist shot into the upper corner at 13:56.

The score remained unchanged until Crookston freshman Matt Hoppe found himself stationed by the side of the net with the puck. He waited several moments before flipping the shot past Dowers to tie it 2-2 with just 1:41 remaining in regulation time.

Both teams had overtime scoring opportunities turned aside by the goalies until Peterson, after splitting the defense, was pulled down by Jason Svir with 2:11 left.

Awarding of a penalty shot at that point in what was a rough-and-tumble hockey game was not well received on the Thief River Falls side. "They (officials) go the entire game allowing all kinds of things to happen, and then call a penalty shot in overtime," said Chiodo in head-shaking fashion. "It was a penalty – no one is arguing that. Jason tripped him. But a penalty shot?"

MCC boys out-score Grygla-Gatzke 70-62

Playing without injured Ivan Hirst, one of their top front line performers, the rest of the Marshall County Central boys picked it up a notch Tuesday as the Nordics out-scored Grygla-Gatzke 70-62 in a high school basketball game played at Newfolden.

Hirst is shelved indefinitely by a knee injury. But his loss was lessened by a 25-point, 19-rebound game from Tim Olson and a 17-point, 8-rebound game from Dean Engen as the Nordics moved to 5-3.

"With Ivan out of the line-up, this was a really a huge win for us," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "Tim and Dean picked up the slack inside, and our bench came through big-time."

Marshall County Central had quarter leads of 18-12, 36-27 and 49-40, although Grygla-Gatzke used a first half finish and second half start to take a brief third quarter lead.

Shane Borg and Jeremy Tallum joined Olson and Engen in double figures for the winners with 11 and 10 points, respectively. "Jeremy came off the bench and did a great job for us," pointed out Ueland.

A game-high 27-point game by Jeremy Engelstad led the Eagles.

"They're a very good basketball team," said Ueland of Grygla-Gatzke. "We're very happy to pick up a win against them."

Marshall County Central was 26-for-55 from the field (47 percent) and 14-for-23 at the free throw line. Grygla-Gatzke went 23-for-51 from the field (45 percent) and 13-for-17 at the line. The Nordics controlled the boards 38-14.

"We just couldn't get over the hump," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "I have to tip my hat to Newfolden the way they went out and got the job done without Hirst. They played well."

Bemidji girls run past Prowlers

Bemidji ran its record to 10-1 Tuesday with a third quarter blitz that carried the Lumberjacks to a 65-38 North Sub-Section 8AA girls high school basketball win over Thief River Falls.

The visiting Lumberjacks had a 13-6 first quarter lead and a 29-16 halftime advantage, but really took charge with a 27-4 third quarter run that opened up a 56-20 scoreboard gap.

Thief River Falls fell to 4-7 with the loss.

"Bemidji has a really good team," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse. The best team won."

A Bemidji press ignited the Lumberjacks' third quarter blitz. The Prowlers wound up with 22 turnovers for the night, and watched the winners convert many of those mistakes into baskets.

"We haven't had trouble with a press all year," noted Wiltse, "but Bemidji's press definitely hurt us. They play really good defense, and the have a very good transition game."

Amy Adams scored a game-high 20 points for the Prowlers, but none of her teammates had more than six points. Four Bemidji scorers finished in the 9-to-14-point range, led by Jess Thompson's 14 points.

Thief River Falls shot 30 percent from the field (17/57) and struggled through a 4-for-14 night at the free throw line. Bemidji shot 47 percent from the floor (28/59) and went 9-for-14 at the line. The Lumberjacks finished with a 26-19 rebound edge. Bemidji had 17 turnovers.

Gators hold off Huskies 58-55

Underdog Goodridge took unbeaten Badger/Greenbush-Middle River into the final moments before surrendering a 58-55 boys high school basketball decision Tuesday at Goodridge.

The 2-7 Huskies went up 18-11 in the first quarter, had a 34-30 halftime lead and held on to a 50-49 third quarter edge. The 8-0 Gators did not go ahead until the final 80 seconds when a four-point play by Ryan Rislov and an ensuing steal by Trent Wahl kicked off a game-winning Badger/Greenbush-Middle River run.

"We had some turnovers, missed some lay-ups and we didn't make our free throws down the stretch," said Goodridge coach John Rahn. "It was a case of our youth against their experience."

However, Rahn was more that happy with the Goodridge showing against the highly-regarded Gators – four days after the Huskies played on near-even term with defending Section 8A champion Clearbrook/Gonvick before losing ground at the end of an 80-66 loss.

"I can't fault the kids for their effort," offered Rahn. "We played well. I was tickled to death we were in a position to win the game at the end."

Rislov scored 18 points and Matt Kuznia had 14 for the winners, who have been battling a flu bug recently. Mitch Smsky led the Huskies with 17 points, while Travis Kotrba had 11 and Eldon Quam 10.

"I thought they (Huskies) played an excellent ball game," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "They took us out of our flow offensively. We just never really got going. We were lucky to win."

Goodridge shot 53 percent from the field (23/43), but went just 8-for-20 at the free throw line. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 51 percent from the floor (22/43) and went 7-for-14 at the line. The Huskies out-rebounded the Gators 25-23.

RLCC boys rally for win

Unbeaten status of Red Lake County Central was in jeopardy Tuesday until the Mustangs produced a 29-point fourth quarter to emerge with a come-from-behind 70-59 boys high school basketball win at Mahnomen.

The Indians trailed 14-11 at the end of the first quarter, but went ahead 37-24 at halftime and had a 49-41 edge entering the final period.

A busy 24-for-37 night at the free throw line proved to be the deciding factor in the win for the 10-0 Mustangs, who were out-scored from the field.

"They're a very physical team," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Todd Fore. "That's why we got so many free throws."

It wasn't a very pretty win, admitted Fore. "Our second quarter was terrible," he said. "It was ugly. They scored 26 points against us. We didn't do a thing – no offense, no defense, nothing."

But the Mustangs made amends with a 20-0 fourth quarter run.

Red Lake County Central was 22-for-46 from the field (48 percent), while Mahnomen went 26-for-48 (54 percent). The Indians were 5-for-8 at the line. The winners had a 30-24 rebound edge.

Mustangs lose two in EGF

Back-to-back trips to East Grand Forks resulted in a pair of high school basketball losses for the Red Lake County Central girls, who absorbed a 71-38 pounding at the hands of East Grand Forks Senior High Tuesday and suffered a 72-47 setback at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart Thursday.

The losses dropped the Mustangs to 5-4.

East Grand Forks 71
Red Lake Co. Central 38

East Grand Forks did a number on Red Lake Lake County Central Tuesday – 71-38.

"They dominated," acknowledged Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "They have a good transition game. They scored a lot of points off their fast break."

East Grand Forks led at the quarter stops 19-10, 44-19 and 60-29.

The winners had four double figure scorers, led by Tara Hecht with 17 points. Dawn Bachand matched that total for the Mustangs, but she was their only double figure producer.

Red Lake County Central shot 33 percent from the field (17/52) and went 4-for-11 at the free throw line. With its collection of fast break baskets, the Green Wave shot 58 percent from the field (30/52) and added an 8-for-12 showing at the line. East Grand Forks had a 30-28 rebound edge. Red Lake County Central had more turnovers, 22-13.

Red Lake County Central fell victim to a school-record 33-point scoring performance by Nicole Fontaine as the Mustangs fell to the Eagles 72-47 Thursday.

Sacred Heart had quarter leads of 19-10, 36-28 and 55-41. The Eagles' final spread was inflated by a 10-0 Sacred Heart finish.

"At least the effort was there in this one," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. It wasn't there Tuesday. We didn't play all that bad; we're just not hitting the easy shots."

Dawn Bachand had a 20-point, 8-rebound game for the Mustangs.

Red Lake County Central went 17-for-57 from the field (30 percent) and 13-for-19 at the free throw line. Sacred Heart was 28-for-55 from the field (51 percent) and 10-for-18 at the line. Gators edge Nordics

Twenty-six Marshall County Central turnovers spelled the difference Thursday as the Nordics lost a 44-41 girls high school basketball game to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River at Newfolden.

"We gave them a game – something we didn't do last time," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde, "but it was really frustrating with all those turnovers. Most of them were unforced errors – mistakes on our part."

Gators hold on to defeat Eagles 62-51

Grygla-Gatzke cut a 17-point second quarter deficit to a one-point game at the end of the third quarter, but saw its comeback bid fade down the stretch in a late-reported (Jan. 8) 62-51 boys high school basketball loss to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

"They (Eagles) played a good ball game," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We had a good second and good fourth quarter. We were not consistent."

The Gators had quarter leads of 18-12, 35-28 and 42-41, then doubled the visiting Eagles 20-10 over the final eight minutes.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 40 percent from the field (25/62) and went 7-for-15 at the free throw line. Grygla-Gatzke shot just 30 percent from the floor (19/64) and made 12 of 17 free throws. The Gators out-rebounded the Eagles 41-18, and also had more turnovers, 12-8.

Thief River Falls won 10 of the 11 events Thursday as the Prowlers swamped Fosston/Bagley 57-29 in boys high school swimming at Fosston.

It was the Prowlers' first dual meet outing of the 1992-93 season.

"The varsity kids swam really solid times, and the junior varsity kids showed a lot of improvement," said Thief River Falls coach Ryan Lokken. "We're going in the right direction, and a win here and there doesn't hurt, either."

stops 11-10, 26-20 and 37-30. The Nordics came back to take a four-point lead with 2 1/2 minutes left and a steal gave them a chance to do even more damage. Instead, they gave the ball right back to the visitors and wound up with a three-point loss.

"We had a opportunity to win the game," noted Mjelde. "We just didn't take advantage of it."

Krissi Super of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River led all scorers with 24 points. Tricia Pederson and Sara Lokstad both scored 12 points and Sandi Gustafson had 11 for Marshall County Central. Gustafson also came up with six steals to earn post-game praise from Mjelde: "Sandi had an outstanding game for us. She was the reason we were in game."

Both teams were 19-for-47 from the field (40 percent). The Nordics went 3-for-4 at the free throw line, where the Gators were 2-for-3. The difference wound up being four three-point baskets by Super. The Nordics had a 26-23 rebound edge. The Gators finished with 16 turnovers.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River is 8-3. Marshall County Central fell to 4-6.

Deanna Kotrba went 10-for-10 at the free throw line as part of a 20-point night that helped lead Goodridge/Grygla past Kittson County North 62-53 Thursday in a girls high school basketball game played at Goodridge.

The win put the Wolverines at 4-7, but Goodridge/Grygla coach Mike Gast wasn't satisfied with his team's showing. "We had too many un-forced turnovers," he said. "Our passing wasn't real good. We didn't take care of the ball very well. Whatever the score is, I want to play well. I was disappointed."

The winners had quarter leads of 9-8, 28-21 and 43-29.

Brandi Stratton scored 15 points and had 12 rebounds for the Wolverines, and Kristy Johnson contributed 14 points. LaVonne Nelson of Kittson County North led all scorers with 21 points.

Goodridge/Grygla was 22-for-63 from the field (35 percent) and a productive 18-for-25 at the free throw line. Kittson County North was 23-for-64 from the field (36 percent) and 6-for-21 at the line.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS Water Department announces that the maximum limit for Turbidity in drinking water was exceeded during the month of December 1992.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand, or organic matter in water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with the Chloramine used for disinfection. However, the high turbidity level did not create a health hazard because the Water Department is able to maintain effective levels of chloramine for disinfection.

The Thief River Falls Water Purification Plant is currently in the construction stage of a 5.7 million dollar expansion and remodeling project. This project will enable compliance with the water quality requirements of the 1986 Amendments to the Safe Drinking Water Act.

Please be assured that the water is safe to drink. Any citizen seeking additional information should contact Allen J. Lamm, at the Water Purification Plant, phone number 681-5809.

Chess players form league

"learned techniques I would never have thought or dreamed of."

"Some players are cautious and others make impetuous blunders," said Proechel who admitted his weak point was inconsistent strategy.

"Psychological warfare is a big factor," said Highness, whose long hair and "lucky tattoo," often throw opponents off guard. "If they think they can whup you right away, you're ahead of them. I usually wear my NRA hat to tournaments."

Techniques provide strategy for countless chess moves. Proechel's longest chess game involved 175 moves by each player.

Chess does not always end when a match is finished. Proechel uses a small magnetic set to analyze chess moves "at any time."

"I tend to leave that stuff at home," LeDuc said. "Its tough to daydream about things like that." For Highness, chess is a six month activity and fishing takes priority in the summer.

Lead in water treatable

Of the 40 samples taken in Thief River Falls, eight semplea contained lead levels over the maximum allowable (15 micrograms per litre). None of the samples were above the old standards of 50 micrograms per litre. The law requires, however, that 90 per cent of the residencex tested be below the standard and that the 36th sample be under the limit. The 36th sample was at 19 micrograms per litre. All of the samples tested for copper met the standards. The highest amount of copper in a sample was 520 micrograms per litre.

Thief River Falls is not alone in its findings of lead levels that exceed government thresholds. In recent tests of 660 water operators, 130 found lead leveis that were too high. Ten systems had levels exceeding 70 parts per billion. Charleston, SC, for example, recorded 211 parts per billion.

Copper is an essential nutrient, but lead can have serious health affects. Lead is a common metal found throughout the environment in lead-based paint, air, soil, household dust, food, certain types of pottery porcelain and pewter, and water. Lead can pose a significant risk to health if too much of it enters the body. Lead builds up in the body over many years and can cause damage to the brain, red blood cells and kidneys. The greatest risk is to young children and pregnant women. Amounts of lead that won't hurt adults can slow down normal menial and physical development of growing bodies. In addition, a child at play often comes into contact with sources of lead contamination — like dirt and dust —that rarely affect an adult. It is important to wash children's hands and toys often, and to try to make sure they only put food in their mouths.

Lead in drinking water, although rarely the sole cause of lead poisoning, can significsntly increase a person's total lead exposure, particularly the [illegible] of infants who drink baby formulas and concentrated juices thot are mixed with water. The EPA estimates that drinking water can make up 20 per cent or more of a person's total exposure to lead.

Lead is unusual among drinking water contaminants in that it seldom occurs naturally in water supplies like rivers and lakes. Lead enters drinking water primarily as a result of the corrosion, or wearing oway, of materials containing lead in the water distribution system and household plumbing. These materials include lead-based solder used to join copper pipe, brass and chrome plated brass faucets, and in some cases, pipes made of lead that connect a house to the water main (service lines).

In 1986, Congress banned the use of lead solder containing greater than 0.2 per cent lead, and restricted the lead content of faucets, pipes and other plumbing materials to 8.0 per cent.

When water stands in lead pipes or plumbing systems containing lead for several hours or more, the lead may dissolve into drinking water. This means the first water drawn from the tap in the morning, or later in the afternoon after returning from work or school, can contain farily high levels of lead.

"There's no need to panic, because there's a very simple solution," said Lamm.

Tests to determine lead content cost between $20 ond $40. The city of Thief River Falis does not conduct these tests. A list of approved labs will be made available.

For its part, the water department has been removing lead service lines where it finds them.

Higher concentrations of lead in water may not always be found in older homes. Lamm said lead is used in brass foucet fixtures, for example, and the newer the fixture the more likely the concentration of lead in the water will be higher. Remove loose leod solder and debris from the plumbing materials installed, by removing the faucet strainers from all taps and running the water from three to five minutes. Thereofter, periodicolly remove the strainers and flush out any debris that has accumulated over time.

Purchose or leose of a home treatment device may olso help eliminate lead concentrotions in weter. Devices such os reverse osmosis systems or distillers can effectively remove lead from drinking water. Some activated carbon filters moy reduce lead levels at the tap.

Another measure is to hove an electrician check the wiring in the house. If grounding wires from the electricol system ore ottached to pipes, corrosion may be greoter. Check with a licensed electrician.

Purchase of bottled woter for drinking ond cooking is onother solution.

The simplest solution is to let the water run from the tap before using it for drinking or cooking any time the water in a faucet has gone unused for moer thon six hours. Flushing the tap means running the cold water faucet until he water gets noticeably colder — 30 seconds to one minute. If your house has e lead service line to the water main, you may have to flush the water for a longer period of time.

Flushing tap woter is a simple and inexpensive way to protect your health. Lamm estimates thot running the cold water tap for ono minute twice a day for one month costs about 8 cents.

Lamm advises that it is extemely important never to use hot water from the tap for cooking or boby formula. Hot water pipes generally contoin higher concentrotions of lead because hot water is more corrosive.

In any event, the water department will continue its education efforts. More information will bo made available to the public. Future tests will also be conducted.

Fifty-one trees were planted on boulevards as replacements for last elms. The street department provided o backhoe and operator for the boulevard plandngs.

The water department is providing o 1,000 gallon credit per tree to each resident who waters the tree planted in front of their residence.

A pilot tree pruning program is being initiated during the winter of 1992-93. The program involved pruning trees that obstruct traffic control devices, trees within the right-of-way on Third street from the Holiday Station to the west end of the foirgrounds, treex in the right-of-way on mojor collector streets, and trees in Centennial park.

Johnson reported that the pruning program began November 19. To date, he said, the city has pruned 124 trees. Work has been dono on trees on the west end of Centennial pork, Highway 59 east of Third street bridge, and stop signs throughout the city. Pruning operations were suspended on the Highway 59 islands January 5 due to icy roads.

Johnson added that they ore pruning trees by request from residents, until the Highway 59 road conditions improve.

This spring, residents will observe chonges in downtown parking lots. A motching grant from the Minnesota department of natural resources was applied for and awarded to plant trees in and around parking lots in the central business district. The $50,000 project will involve participation from the park and recreation department, street department, technicsl services department and volunteers from local service ond fraternal organizations.

The city plans to continue with its tree planting progroms in the coming year.

Northern Expressions school seeks students

School of the Arts now accepting applications for 1993-94

Now accepting applicatioos for the 1993-94 school year, Northern Expressions School of the Artx hopes to at least double its first year enrollment of 16 next year, according to Marie Hvidsten, coordinator of the program conducted ot Lincoln high school.

"The school will have six areas for students to choose from," Hvidsten said, "including dance, literary arts, media arts, music, theater arts and visual arts. The music area includes bond, vocal and orchestral music. Each student will have an individualized learning plan that will be developed by the student, parent and school advisor."

Hvidsten said that arts and academics are stressed equally and are integrated so that students come to understand the relationships among subject areas. Students elect to study one art area in depth through a two-hour block of class time but are exposed to all six art areos through o one-hour interdisciplinary class called "Expressive Connecdons."

In addition to the exposure to other arts areas, the school attempts to relate lostrucdoa in the arts to how that educadoo can be applied in "real life." instructors bring to the classroom people who have real life experiences in those art areas and arrange for performances or other participadon in public presentations. Emphasis is placed on use of the art medium as well as knowledge about it.

Hvidsten said the instructors pay o great deal of attention to "experiential learning," or having the students learn by doing in addidon to reading and listening. An example is in the music area where students are to compose a musical selection. Computer equipment has been obtained to assist them in the project. Attempts are also made to utilize area cultural resources to as large an extent as possible.

"The school is deslgoed around learning and mastering outcomes rather than seat time," Hvidsten said. "It is for the student who has a love for the arts and may want to explore an art area more extensively than through what is ovailable in the general school curriculum. It is also for students whose development in an art area has reached a point where they can benefit from the concentrated program the art school has to offer."

Kozojed taken to Fargo for medical tests

Capt. Tony Kozojed, who suffered a heart ottack while driving to Thief River Falls from the Twin Cides to take over dudes as commander of the state patrol's district office here Tuesday, January 19, was transferred from Fosston hospital to a Fargo hospital by ombulance this morning for assessment of his physical condidon.

After serving os Chief of the state patrol for two years, Kozojed was replaced in that position the previous week and assigned to Thief River Falls by Michael Jordan, recently-appointed Commissioner of the Department of Public Safety. Jordan is the third commissioner of the department in two years under Gov. Arne Carlson.

Lt. Charles Jones, who has accepted the duties of district commander at Thief River Falls on a temporary basis and Kozojed can assume the commander's position, said that Kozojed began suffering symptoms of the heart attack while driving north on highway 59. He radioed for assistance about 12:30 p.m. when in the Winger area and continued driving to the state's weigh statioa along highway 2 east of Erskine.

Trooper Curt Backer, who is stadoned in Bagley but was on patrol in the area and monitored Kozojed's call, arrived at the weigh station shortly after Kozojed and transported him to the Fosston hospital himself. Fosston police chief Jim Berg, also passing through the area, provided assistance to Kozojed for a brief time prior to Backer's arrival.

Lt. Jones said he called the Fosston hospital and a doctor was waidng to initiate treatment upon Kozojed's arrival.

Inidally listed as being serious, Kozojed's condition had been upgraded to stable prior to his being taken to Fargo this morning. Tesdng will be done to determine the extent of damage which may have been done by the attack.

Grand Jury to be called in Red Lake Co.

A grand jury will be called in Red Lake County to hear evidence surrounding o shooting incident January 9 in which Steven James Klasen, 20, Oklee, was killed.

Red Lake County Attorney Dan Geller said he requested a grand jury to hear the evidence to make sure things are done properly.

Originally, the shooting death of Steven James Klasen was considered occidental. However, after further information was obtained Parsley was arrested and formally charged with two counts of second degree murder on January 12 in a Ninth District court. A bond set ot $10,000 wos posted Wednesday, January 13.

On Wednesday, January 20, Geller requested a grand jury to hear the evidence. The duty of a grand jury is to determine whether the evidence warrants formol charges. Geller said it wos his understanding that the charges of second degree murder remain in effect until an indictment is made by the grand jury, if it decides to indict Parsley oo formal charges.

The grand jury will be called in Red Lake county. It has been a long time since o grand jury has been called in that county. One estimate said the last grand jury to be called in Red Lake county was in March of 1957.

A moose, bobcat and gopher are among o few of the critters peering ot visitors as they leave and enter the building.

"You get people who think it's gross and look at you funny. I suppose it's almost like being a mortician," Skoglund said. He responds, "Well it's my job. That's what I like to do."

Skoglund has operated his business since 1986 and started taxidermy as a hobby four years earlier. He initially read books to learn the trade. "I do a lot of hunting ond fishing and instead of having someone else do the taxidermy for me I do it myself," Skoglund said.

To learn more tricks of the trade, Skoglund went to a Duluth taxidermist who took on students. He studied taxidermy for three months, starting with pan fish. Now Skoglund mounts a multitude of animals, but not every animal

Crookston Food Bank buys Bridgeman building

Crookston — The North Country food bank became the official owner of the Bridgeman Building in Crookston recently at a cost of $122,000. All but $13,000 was raised through savings, loans and grants. The food bank launched a public appeal November 24 to raise the remaining funds. To date, just over $11,000 has been raised. The food bank board is hoping to raise the last of the money by its 10th anniversary in April. The purchase of the building will allow the food bank to operate from its present location at 424 N. Broadway with no danger of the building being sold. (Crookston Daily Times)

Northern Expressions school seeks students

School of the Arts now accepting applications for 1993-94

Now accepting applications for the 1993-94 school year, Northern Expressions School of the Arts hopes to at least double its first year enrollment of 16 next year, according to Marie Hvidsten, coordinator of the program conducted at Lincoln high school.

"The school will have six areas for students to choose from," Hvidsten said, "including dance, literary arts, media arts, music, theater arts and visual arts. The music area includes band, vocal and orchestral music. Each student will have an individualized learning plan that will be developed by the student, parent and school advisor."

Hvidsten said that arts and academics are stressed equally and are integrated so that students come to understand the relationships among subject areas. Students elect to study one art area in depth through a two-hour block of class time but are exposed to all six art areas through a one-hour interdisciplinary class called "Expressive Connections."

In addition to the exposure to other arts areas, the school attempts to relate instruction in the arts to how that education can be applied in "real life." Instructors bring to the classroom people who have real life experiences in those art areas and arrange for performances or other participation in public presentations. Emphasis is placed on use of the art medium as well as knowledge about it.

Hvidsten said the instructors pay a great deal of attention to "experiential learning," or having the students learn by doing in addition to reading and listening. An example is in the music area where students are to compose a musical selection. Computer equipment has been obtained to assist them in the project. Attempts are also made to utilize area cultural resources to as large an extent as possible.

"The school is designed around learning and mastering outcomes rather than seat time," Hvidsten said. "It is for the student who has a love for the arts and may want to explore an art area more extensively than through what is available in the general school curriculum. It is also for students whose development in an art area has reached a point where they can benefit from the concentrated program the art school has to offer."

Northern Expressions School of the Arts is a tuition-free magnet school for the Seventh Congressional District of Minnesota and

Kozojed taken to Fargo for medical tests

Capt. Tony Kozojed, who suffered a heart attack while driving to Thief River Falls from the Twin Cities to take over duties as commander of the state patrol's district office here Tuesday, January 19, was transferred from Fosston hospital to a Fargo hospital by ambulance this morning for assessment of his physical condition.

After serving as Chief of the state patrol for two years, Kozojed was replaced in that position the previous week and assigned to Thief River Falls by Michael Jordan, recently-appointed Commissioner of the Department of Public Safety. Jordan is the third commissioner of the department in two years under Gov. Arne Carlson.

Lt. Charles Jones, who has accepted the duties of district commander at Thief River Falls on a temporary basis until Kozojed can assume the commander's position, said that Kozojed began suffering symptoms of the heart attack while driving north on highway 59. He radioed for assistance about 12:30 p.m. when in the Winger area and continued driving to the state's weigh station along highway 2 east of Erskine.

Trooper Curt Backer, who is stationed in Bagley but was on patrol in the area and monitored Kozojed's call, arrived at the weigh station shortly after Kozojed and transported him to the Fosston hospital himself. Fosston police chief Jim Berg, also passing through the area, provided assistance to Kozojed for a brief time prior to Backer's arrival.

Lt. Jones said he called the Fosston hospital and a doctor was waiting to initiate treatment upon Kozojed's arrival.

Initially listed as being serious, Kozojed's condition had been upgraded to stable prior to his being taken to Fargo this morning. Testing will be done to determine the extent of damage which may have been done by the attack.

Grand Jury to be called in Red Lake Co.

A grand jury will be called in Red Lake County to hear evidence surrounding a shooting incident January 9 in which Steven James Klasen, 20, Oklee, was killed.

Red Lake County Attorney Dan Geller said he requested a grand jury to hear the evidence to make sure things are done properly.

Originally, the shooting death of Steven James Klasen was considered accidental. However, after further information was obtained Parsley was arrested and formally charged with two counts of second degree murder on January 12 in a Ninth District court. A bond set at $10,000 was posted Wednesday, January 13.

On Wednesday, January 20, Geller requested a grand jury to hear the evidence. The duty of a grand jury is to determine whether the evidence warrants formal charges. Geller said it was his understanding that the charges of second degree murder remain in effect until an indictment is made by the grand jury, if it decides to indict Parsley on formal charges.

The grand jury will be called in Red Lake county. It has been a long time since a grand jury has been called in that county. One estimate said the last grand jury to be called in Red Lake county was in March of 1957.

Development '93 conference set

To present ideas to individuals and groups that will stimulate economic and community development in Minnesota's Seventh Congressional District, a one-day Development '93 conference will be sponsored by Congressman Collin Peterson February 12 at the junior high school in Detroit Lakes.

Registration will be conducted from 8 to 9 a.m. with the conference being held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Pre-registration at $10 includes lunch. Registration will be $20 at the door.

The conference will feature more than 100 workshops and booths dealing with a wide variety of potential business and community development opportunities. Tourism, service sector businesses, crop alternatives, animal production potentials, market development concepts, manufacturing and community development ideas are all major areas that will have specific ideas presented.

A listing of the conference participants and subject areas was included in a recent mailing to postal patrons from Congressman Peterson's office. Several Thief River Falls and area people will be presenters at the conference.

"One of my primary goals as congressman is economic development," Rep. Peterson said. "The key to prosperity for our district is more jobs, industrial development, value added processing and community development.

"I am sponsoring this conference," he continued, "to provide a format to promote diversification and new opportunities to the area. It will be an assembly of workshops and exhibits being offered by entrepreneurs who have been successful in their ventures."

For additional information, contact Terry Stallman in Rep. Peterson's office, phone 847-5056.

AIDS case mock trial team topic

Housing rights of people with AIDS will be argued by Lincoln high school students participating in the mock trial competition sponsored by the Minnesota State Bar Association.

Participants this year include seniors Karmen Ortloff, Lisa DeLap, Heather Borgen and Jenny Saustad and juniors Ami Harbott, Heather Shafland, Jenny Nicholson and Angelique Goulet. Ortloff and DeLap are the only students returning from last year's mock trial team.

Teacher coach of the team is Cal Lindberg and he is assisted by attorney coaches Mike Jorgenson and Lisa Jones. First two trials for the team will be February 3 and February 11.

Lincoln students will be among 186 teams competing this yeas in Minnesota. Mock trial is an academic program that teaches students about the law and our legal system.

In the competition, students assume the roles of attorneys and witnesses and argue a fictitious case. Each trial is decided by volunteer lawyers who serve as judges. Statewide more than 600 lawyers and judges volunteer to assist with

Ryan Skoglund builds taxidermy business

Former school building at Holt is workshop, display area and living quarters for hobbyist turned businessman Animals greet visitors in the entryway to Ryan Skoglund's Holt taxidermy shop. Skoglund caught and mounted the animals. He went into the taxidermy business in 1986.

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Ryan Skoglund lives among the animals — but not before he stuffs them. Skoglund is a taxidermist.

Dozens of mounted animals line the hallway of the old Holt School, home to Skoglund's taxidermist workshop and his apartment.

A moose, bobcat and gopher are among a few of the critters peering at visitors as they leave and enter the building.

"You get people who think it's gross and look at you funny. I suppose it's almost like being a mortician," Skoglund said. He responds, "Well it's my job. That's what I like to do."

Skoglund has operated his business since 1986 and started taxidermy as a hobby four years earlier. He initially read books to learn the trade. "I do a lot of hunting and fishing and instead of having someone else do the taxidermy for me I do it myself," Skoglund said.

To learn more tricks of the trade, Skoglund went to a Duluth taxidermist who took on students. He studied taxidermy for three months, starting with pan fish. Now Skoglund mounts a multitude of animals, but not every animal.

Legislators consider school for blind at Grafton

Grafton, ND — Talk about moving the North Dakota School for the Blind from Grand Forks to Bismarck prompted Grafton area legislators to put their bid in to bring the school to their community instead recently. It is hoped that the school would use the facilities of the Developmental Center which presently has three units open for residential living. The center already provides services for 31 blind clients, five of whom are school age. (Walsh County Record)

Crookston — The Crookston school board recently approved the purchase of an automatic telephone answering system for McKinley school to handle the tremendous number of calls received each day. Can enzyme regimen end obesity?

WASHINGTON -- A nutritional research organization says that a special enzyme regimen can promote extremely fast, yet safe weight loss.

National Dietary Research, an organization whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, says that the regimen called the Metabolase Plus Thermogenic Weight Loss System utilizes biological information often overlooked in diet programs. With the Metabolase Plus System, you consume at least 6 meals a day from a wide variety of foods followed by the enzymes to overcome the body's natural resistance to weight loss.

To demonstrate the effectiveness, NDR sponsored a promotion where free samples were given to 50 people. The results found that women following the regimen lost over a pound a day and men lost over two pounds a day. The director of research and development at NDR cautions that these results may not necessarily be indicative of what the average consumer could expect because the rate of weight loss for individuals varies.

A firm located in Tampa, Florida has exclusive distribution rights to the enzyme regimen. The Metabolase Plus Thermogenic Weight Loss System is available through physicians, pharmacies, and health food stores without a prescription. However, because of the overwhelming demand, quantities are sometimes limited.

Little Texas band to play at St. Hilaire

Little Texas, an emerging band in the country music field with one Top Ten single to its credit, will perform at the St. Hilaire Fun Fest and Country Jam at the park in St. Hilaire Saturday, June 19.

The group took its name from the last paved highway on the road to a farm south of Nashville, TN, owned by Warner Bros. representative Doug Grau, where the group rehearsed—Little Texas Lane. It had performed for eight months without finding a satisfactory name until it needed one for a showcase in June of 1989.

The six-member group hit the Top Ten with "Some Guys Have All The Love," which went to number six spot in "Radio & Records" and to number eight in "Billboard."

Now the band has produced an album featuring the single "First Time for Everything" and also including "You and Forever and Me," "I'd Rather Miss You," "Just One More Night," "What Were You Thinkin'," "Down in the Valley" and "Better Way."

Members of the band include Tim Rushlow (lead vocals), Dwayne O'Brien (acoustic guitars, vocals), Porter Howell (electric and acoustic guitars, vocals), Brady Seals (keyboard, lead vocals and background vocals), Duane Propes (bass and vocals) and Del Gray (drums).

Little Texas will perform the evening of June 19 following performances by four area bands. Admission will be $10 in advance or $15 at the gate for the afternoon and evening. Advance ticket sales will begin in May.

Little Texas, an emerging country band with a Top Ten single ("Some Guys Have All The Love") already to its credit, will be the feature band for the St. Hilaire Fun Fest and Country Jam in June.

Hallock to "Play It Again, Sam"

Hallock — The Hallock community theatre will begin its 10th season with "Play It Again, Sam," an adult comedy by Woody Allen as the 26th production of the theatre. The play will be performed January 28-30 at 8:15 p.m. at the Hallock city hall. There will be a dinner theatre by reservation only for the Saturday night performance. Connie Nelson is the director of the play. (Kittson County Enterprise)

Plans to move post office operations shelved

Bemidji — Plans to move the Bemidji post office operations to Duluth have been "indefinately postponed." Postal officials are now planning to hire up to eight new employees, some possibly part time, to replace some retired workers. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Legislators consider school for blind at Grafton

Grafton, ND — Talk about moving the North Dakota School for the Blind from Grand Forks to Bismarck prompted Grafton area legislators to put their bid in to bring the school to their community instead recently. It is hoped that the school would use the facilities of the Developmental Center which presently has three units open for residential living. The center already provides services for 31 blind clients, five of whom are school age. (Walsh County Record)

Automatic phone system approved for Crookston school

Crookston — The Crookston school board recently approved the purchase of an automatic telephone answering system for McKinley school to handle the tremendous number of calls received each day. Callers will be greeted by a recorded message and told which button to push for the person they wish to speak to. The system costs about $15,000 to install and, over a five-year period, would cost about $16,900. Adding a receptionist for a five year period, which is the alternative, would cost about $120,000. (Crookston Daily Times)

Service honors Martin Luther King Jr.

Bemidji — The Bemidji state university campus ministry association sponsored a noon service last Friday in commemoration of the Rev. Dr. King on his birthday. About 375 people came to participate in the program. Annie Henry, BSU associate professor of professional education, led the group in singing "Lift Every Voice and Sing" and guest speakers included Jocelyn Tiggs, a BSU student who grew up in the South, and Rev. Walt Scott. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Fertile Sandhills ski outing set for January 24

Fertile — To become more familiar with the Fertile Sandhills trails, the public is invited to come out January 24 to ski, hike or snowshoe along the various trail routes. "Hosts" who are familiar with the trails will lead groups on tours on the Sandhills along these trails. Anyone who is interested is asked to meet at the parking area by the satellite dishes (west on Jefferson avenue) at 1:30 p.m. when a brief overview of the trails will be provided and maps distributed. A fire will be stoked up along the river trail just downstream from the Strem bridge for people to warm up throughout the afternoon or to use for roasting marshmallows or hot dogs. (Fertile Journal)

Can enzyme regimen end obesity?

WASHINGTON – A nutritional research organization says that a special enzyme regimen can promote extremely fast, yet safe weight loss.

National Dietary Research, an organization whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, says that the regimen called the Metabolase Plus Thermogenic Weight Loss System utilizes biological information often overlooked in diet programs. With the Metabolase Plus System, you consume at least 6 meals a day from a wide variety of foods followed by the enzymes to overcome the body's natural resistance to weight loss.

To demonstrate the effectiveness, NDR sponsored a promotion where free samples were given to 50 people. The results found that women following the regimen lost over a pound a day and men lost over two pounds a day. The director of research and development at NDR cautions that these results may not necessarily be indicative of what the average consumer could expect because the rate of weight loss for individuals varies.

A firm located in Tampa, Florida has exclusive distribution rights to the enzyme regimen. The Metabolase Plus Thermogenic Weight Loss System is available through physicians, pharmacies, and health food stores without a prescription. However, because of the overwhelming demand, quantities are sometimes limited.

Little Texas band to play at St. Hilaire

Little Texas, an emerging band in the country music field with one Top Ten single to its credit, will perform at the St. Hilaire Fun Fest and Country Jam at the park in St. Hilaire Saturday, June 19.

The group took its name from the last paved highway on the road to a farm south of Nashville, TN, owned by Warner Bros. representative Doug Grau, where the group rehearsed—Little Texas Lane. It had performed for eight months without finding a satisfactory name until it needed one for a showcase in June of 1989.

The six-member group hit the Top Ten with "Some Guys Have All The Love," which went to number six spot in "Radio & Records" and to number eight in "Billboard."

Now the band has produced an album featuring the single "First Time for Everything" and also including "You and Forever and Me," "I'd Rather Miss You," "Just One More Night," "What Were You Thinkin'," "Down in the Valley" and "Better Way."

Members of the band include Tim Rushlow (lead vocals), Dwayne O'Brien (acoustic guitars, vocals), Porter Howell (electric and acoustic guitars, vocals), Brady Seals (keyboard, lead vocals and background vocals), Duane Propes (bass and vocals) and Del Gray (drums).

Little Texas will perform the evening of June 19 following performances by four area bands. Admission will be $10 in advance or $15 at the gate for the afternoon and evening. Advance ticket sales will begin in May.

Little Texas, an emerging country band with a Top Ten single ("Some Guys Have All The Love") already to its credit, will be the feature band for the St. Hilaire Fun Fest and Country Jam in June.

Soupçon

By Sherry LaCoursiere

Yes you can make your own noodles to put in this really homemade soup. I love to make soup - it makes me feel like such a good mother - and I'm going to make it this weekend:

Chicken and Slippery Noodle Soup

Chicken and Broth
3 to 3 1/2 pound cut up broiler/fryer chicken
4 1/2 cups cold water
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 stalk celery with leaves, cut into chunks
1 medium carrot, cut into chunks
1 small onion, cut into chunks
1 spring fresh parsley

Remove any excess fat from chicken.

Place chicken and all parts except liver in Dutch oven. Add remaining ingredients and heat to boiling.

Skim foam from broth and reduce heat.

Cover and simmer about 45 minutes, or until thickest parts of chicken are tender and cooked. Remove chicken from broth and cook about 10 minutes or cool enough to handle.

Strain broth through cheesecloth-lined sieve.

Remove chicken from bones and skin and cut into pieces. Discard bones, skin and vegetables.

(Skim fat from broth. Use immediately or cover and refrigerate broth and chicken in separate containers for up to 24 hours.)

Soup
2 cups flour
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 medium carrots, sliced (1 cup)
2 medium stalks celery, sliced (1 cup)
1 small onion, chopped (1/4 cup)

Prepare chicken and broth.

To make noodles, mix flour, water, oil and salt in medium bowl. Stir in additional water, 1 tablespoon at a time, if necessary, until dough is stiff but easy to roll.

Roll dough to 1/8 inch thickness on lightly floured surface. Cut into 2x1 inch strips.

Add enough water to broth to measure 5 cups. Heat broth, chicken, carrots, celery and onion to boiling.

Drop noodles, one at a time, into boiling broth; reduce heat. Cover and simmer about 15 minutes or until carrots are tender. Let stand, uncovered, about 10 minutes.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I wish to publicly commend Dale Wennberg, Madeline Vigen, Doug Dallmann and anyone else who put their efforts into the dedication of the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in December.

The job these people did was super and deserves a big round of applause. The evening's activities were so well planned and went off without a bitch. The dinner at Lon's was excellent, the program was meaningful and it was so nice to see such a large turnout of people participating.

The ceremony at the arena was nicely done, and thanks to Northwest Beverage also for the nice social afterwards where the out-of-town guests could visit with the locals before returning to their homes.

Now, another surprise: A book of photo memories for the team of 1945 and/or their families.

A superb job and many thanks.

Sincerely,
Pat Thompson

To The Editor:

In answer to Dorothy Pederson's letter in the January 16 Northern Watch:

The Freedom of Choice Act (FOCA) is a declaration of independence for over half of the population of the country, truly breaking one of the last strongholds that the radical right (i.e. Moral Majority aka religious fanatics aka born again Christians) has on the women of this country.

This is, of course, no surprise to them, the so-called right to lifers. These are the people that throw the bombs and show disgusting commercials on TV.

If the Dorothy Pedersons of this world truly cared about children, they would put all their hard work and emotional energies into bringing salvation to some of the millions of children in need of their loving help.

We will become first class citizens.

Sincerely,
Glenna Messer Hansen

Wikstrom phone customers to choose service

Telephone customers in the Wikstrom Telephone Company service area will receive ballots in the mail during the last week of January to choose their supplier of long distance telephone service.

The Wikstrom company is one of 58 local independent telephone companies in Minnesota which own Polaris Telcom, the group which has confirmed plans to provide long distance services to Wikstrom customers. The services will include outgoing "1+" services as well as incoming "800" number services for both business and residential use.

Tom Kohlbry, sales and marketing director for Polaris Telcom, said that more than 9,000 businesses and 60,000 residential customers chose the company for their "1+" long distance company during last year's balloting process.

People with questions may call the company at 1-800-944-1492.

What To Do When Representative Government Isn't

What do citizens do when their elected representatives do what their constituents don't want or don't do what they are expected to do?

How's that again?

Let's put it this way: We as voters elect people to governmental offices to represent our interests and beliefs. Not infrequently we are disappointed with their activities in office and the legislation that is enacted. When that happens, what can we as citizens do about it?

The answer is: Not much. Oh, sure, maybe two or four or six years down the road at the next election you can elect a new representative. But that is the old story of throwing out the baby with the bath water. Maybe he or she has been a pretty fair representative most of the time and really screwed up only a couple of times. It's the screw-ups that need correction, not the entire office.

Timothy Franklin, editor of "The Pine Knot" in Cloquet, has an opinion about what needs to be done in Minnesota. Following is his editorial:

"We the People"
only a phrase

The Constitution of the United States begins with the words "We the people...." The words are strong, all-encompassing and are engrained in our minds at an early age. Our youth believe that "We the People" can make a difference.

As adults, the perception of making changes in our country or state is different. Even trying to follow the progress of a bill in our state legislature is very difficult for Minnesotans.

This past year, however, there was a growing movement across the nation that people can make a difference in working to better government. A belief began that government is "for the people, not for the government." In Minnesota, a way for citizens to be actively involved in change is in enacting initiative and referendum legislation.

Initiative and Referendum is sometimes referred to as "direct legislation" because it gives voters the power to pass or reject laws. In essence, it is similar to New England-type town meetings which have become very popular.

Initiative is where a certain percentage of voters sign a petition to have a law or constitutional amendment placed on the ballot for either approval or rejection by the voters. Referendum allows voters to accept or reject a constitutional amendment or statute passed by the legislature.

What initiative and referendum does is give the power of governing to the average citizen. The idea is not radical nor new. Some canons (political subdivisions) of Switzerland have used referendum since the sixteenth century. In Minnesota, the issue has been on the ballot in 1915, 1917 and 1980. All three years, the vast majority of people voting on the proposal supported initiative and referendum.

But, according to the state constitution, the majority of people voting in the general election must be in favor of an amendment. People who did not mark either box for initiative and referendum were counted as "No" votes. It should also be noted in the 20 states that have some form of initiative and referendum, no state has repealed the legislation.

Issues such as term limits, reapportionment, a unicameral legislature and pensions will not get effectively addressed in St. Paul because the legislators have a conflict of interest with those issues. With initiative, these important issues can be looked at honestly.

The main way a bill now becomes a law is in joint committees in the legislature in St. Paul. The committees can kill bills or make significant amendments to bills without public input. This is not the way representative government should operate. Lobbyists have a great influence on these committees; it is not the person working on Main Street in small-town Minnesota.

Initiative and referendum could be viewed as a check against abuse of power by legislators. It could also overturn unpopular measures that are passed by the legislature.

Opponents of the legislation say that initiative and referendum is contrary to the principles of representative government, but direct democracy can correct many problems. The opponents shouldn't be afraid of putting the power of government to the people. It was for that reason we fought 200 years ago for the freedoms we now enjoy. Only when initiative and referendum is state law in Minnesota can we truly have "We the People" in action.

That is Franklin's editorial. It has a number of interesting points. Initiative and referendum could provide legislators with some "ducking room," as they could defer action on controversial legislation to a vote by the people. But if the people make a bad decision, they could correct it with another vote at the next election.

We would like to have some more discussion of the initiative and referendum idea. How about it, readers? Send us your viewpoints for our public opinion column.

My mom knew I was a child, not a "choice"

Twenty years have passed since the U.S. Supreme court legalized abortion in its Roe v. Wade decision--20 years and 30 million deaths

That's right...30 million babies have been killed since 1973 because the Supreme court said the "right to choose" outweighed their right to life. But now abortion advocates want to guarantee the death of millions more babies.

They call this radical proposal the "Freedom of Choice Act" (FOCA).

FOCA would:
- Allow abortions at any time during pregnancy.
- Permit abortions for any reason...even for birth control and sex selection.
- Allow repeat abortions...even for the third, fourth and fifth time.
- Require Americans to pay for abortions with their tax dollars.

FOCA would also:
- Bar 24-hour waiting period requirements.
- Prohibit parental consent or notification laws for minors' abortions.
- Prevent laws ensuring informed consent for women contemplating abortion.
- Allow lawsuits against hospitals which do not want to participate in abortions.

You can help our nation return to a more reasonable and humane abortion policy that respects the lives of both mothers and babies. Contact your members of Congress.

TRF boys end basketball losing streak ...

Prowlers pick up first win

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder. Thief River Falls fell well short of perfection Tuesday, but the Prowlers did pick up a win – a 57-45 boys high school basketball decision over Tri-County at Karlstad that snapped a season-long 10-game losing streak.

"It wasn't a real pretty win," admitted Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke, "but I'll take an ugly win over a pretty loss any day. We've played some pretty good basketball lately and had nothing to show for it. The bottom line is winning, and we finally got one. Everybody feels good about it."

Josh Balmer scored 14 points, while Kyle Sanden had a 13-point, 16-rebound effort for the Prowlers, who had quarter leads of 16-11, 29-19 and 42-29.

Thief River Falls shot 43 percent from the field on an 18-for-42 night, and the Prowlers out-rebounded the Wildcats 39-23. But the winners also missed 16 of 31 free throws and turned the ball over 25 times.

Jeremy Anderson scored 13 points and Ryan Olson had 12 for a Tri-County team that turned in a 15-for-55, 27 percent shooting night from the field and had an 11-for-22 showing at the free throw line. The Wildcats turned it over 12 times.

"I thought our defense was pretty good," mentioned Brekke. "We've played well defensive the last two-three games."

Fosston stops TRF girls 52-38

Shooting problems just won't go away for the Thief River Falls girls, who suffered through a 26 percent 16-for-62 night from the field Tuesday in a 52-38 high school basketball loss to visiting Fosston.

It was the fourth straight setback for the 4-9 Prowlers, who have broken the 50-point barrier just once this winter – back on Dec. 15.

"Overall, we played better," said Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse. "The kids worked hard. Defensively we did a pretty nice job, but shooting is starting to be a confidence thing right now. We're getting good shots; they're just not falling."

The two teams played an 11-11 first quarter tie. Fosston had just a 22-20 halftime edge, but opened up a 37-31 third quarter spread and out-scored the Prowlers 15-7 over the final eight minutes.

Both teams had two double figure scorers. Amy Adams led the Prowlers with 18 points and 12 rebounds, while Lori DeLap contributed 10 points. Leah Sonstelie and Angie Carlin netted 11 and 10 points, respectively, for the Greyhounds, while teammates Jill Carlin and Brienna Anderson both picked up 9 in a balanced attack.

Fosston was 19-for-51 from the field (37 percent) and 9-for-17 at the free throw line, where the Prowlers went 6-for-10. Fosston had a 36-30 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 22-16.

Gators out-score Nordics 77-61

Depth, long a strong suit for Marshall County Central, wound up being the difference for Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Tuesday as the Gators out-scored the Nordics 77-61 in boys high school basketball at Greenbush.

Marshall County Central started with a 19-15 first quarter lead, but Badger/Greenbush-Middle River went ahead 40-30 at halftime with a 25-11 second quarter scoring blitz. The Gators maintained a 53-44 third quarter spread, then out-scored the Nordics 24-17 over the final eight minutes to pull away.

"Our people off the bench made a difference," pointed out Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "I thought it ended up being a depth thing. We played a decent ball game. We had an excellent second quarter, and we finished with a strong fourth quarter."

Ryan Rislov scored 23 points to lead the Gators' balanced attack, with Billy Holum netting 16, Matt Kuznia 12 and John Sparby 10. Tim Olson had a strong inside game in leading the Nordics with 22 points and 20 rebounds. He was joined in double figures by teammates Shane Borg and Dean Engen with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 27-for-66 from the field (41 percent), while Marshall County Central went 22-for-49 (45 percent). Both sides had their problems at the free throw line, where the Gators were 16-for-29 and the Nordics finished 11-for-26. The winners had a 46-37 rebound advantage.

"The second quarter was the key to the game," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "They put on a clinic. We just couldn't stop them."

RLCC girls defeat Goodridge/Grygla

An early lead stood up for Red Lake County Central Tuesday as the Mustangs stopped Goodridge/Grygla 47-32 in girls high school basketball at Oklee.

With Dawn Bachand scoring 10 of her team-leading 14 points in the first quarter before she ran into foul trouble, the Mustangs went up 13-5 at the first break. They had a 22-9 halftime cushion and maintained a 31-20 third quarter spread.

"We played well enough to win," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Kolvisto. "We played well defensively in the first half."

Jill Radniecki had a 12-point, 10-rebound game for the winners, while Brandi Stratton came up big for the 4-9 Wolverines with 16 points and 16 rebounds.

"We finally showed some life in the second half," noted Goodridge/Grygla coach Mike Gast. "We were pretty lackadaisical on offense in the first half, but we did battle back."

Red Lake County Central was 18-for-44 from the field (41 percent), but just 11-for-21 at the free throw line. Goodridge/Grygla struggled with a 12-for-51 showing from the field (24 percent) and had an 8-for-17 night at the line. The Mustangs had a 36-29 rebound advantage, but also had more turnovers, 22-20.

Prowlers lose 6-3 game at Warroad

Warroad scored 26 seconds into the game, had a 4-0 lead at the end of the first period and finished with a 6-3 Tuesday night Section 8 high school hockey win over Thief River Falls at The Gardens.

It might have been one of the most lopsided three-goal losses ever experienced by the Prowlers, who were overwhelmed at the start and were out-shot 33-19 for the game. And once again Thief River Falls' season-long won-loss balance beam act dipped below .500 at 7-8. Through 15 games the Prowlers have never put back-to-back wins together, and yet have not lost consecutive games, either.

"Same old story," offered Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo in reflecting upon the Prowlers' inability to get a win streak going. "The results are getting far too common. We're getting pretty tired of it."

It's the final year for the venerable Warroad arena – scheduled to be replaced by a new structure next winter – and the Prowlers aren't likely to miss the old building, especially after watching the Warriors' first line combination of senior Jason Goulet, sophomore Wyatt Smith and freshman Zach Hallett combine on a 12-point night. Goulet scored twice and had three assists, Hallett scored twice and had one assist, while Smith, a product of the Thief River Falls youth hockey program, wound up with a goal and three assists.

Warroad caught Thief River Falls in a quick game-opening line change when Goulet popped in a point-blank backhand to score before the crowd had even settled in for the night.

It was 2-0 exactly two minutes later when an uncontested Hallett caught the short side from close range.

Warroad intercepted a Thief River Falls breakout pass, went in 2-on-1, then had Goulet all by himself in front for a 3-0 game at 9:11, and made it 4-0 when a long slap shot by Smith sailed past Prowlers goalie Eric Dowers at 12:49.

"We dug a hole, and everybody has to accept some of the responsibility for creating that hole," said Chiodo. "Warroad couldn't do anything wrong that first period, and we couldn't do anything right. They beat us to all the loose pucks. They played well."

Thief River Falls finally got on the board at 5:43 of the second period when the Prowlers moved the puck around the zone and Jason Svir went upstairs on a power play slap shot.

But Warroad rebuilt the four-goal spread just 15 seconds later as Hallett pushed the puck through a crowd and past Trevor Haugen, who came on in relief of Dowers late in the first period.

Svir scored again at 2:37 of the third period when he poked the puck away and beat Warroad goalie Willy Marvin on a shorthanded breakaway.

However, just as they did after the first Thief River Falls goal, the Warriors came right back to make it 6-2 just 17 seconds later on a goal by Greg Lien.

A slap shot by Thief River Falls defenseman Marc Haugen hit just under the crossbar on a power play opportunity at 14:29 to close out the scoring.

Thief River Falls lost the services of senior defenseman Shane Skeim to an ankle sprain midway through the first period.

Grygla-Gatzke over Warroad...

Eagles win 66-47

Jeremy Engelstad scored 25 points and grabbed 15 rebounds Tuesday to lead Grygla-Gatzke past Warroad 66-47 in boys high school basketball.

A 48-point second half did it for the Eagles, who trailed 22-18 at halftime.

"I thought overall we played a pretty good game, except that we shot so terrible in the first half," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "We made a few minor adjustments at halftime, but the biggest thing was that our shots started to go in for us."

The Eagles missed their first 13 field goal attempts and were just 6-for-25 in the first half. They turned that into a 19-for-30 second half for a 45 percent figure on the night.

Warroad was 18-for-51 from the field (35 percent) and 10-for-19 at the free throw line, where Grygla-Gatzke went 14-for-22.

The Eagles out-rebounded the Warriors 40-18. The winners had 12 turnovers; the visitors wound up with 11.

Mike Jelle joined Engelstad with double figures in both scoring (10) and rebounding (11), while Rick Warne and Scott Rindahl added their names to the double figure production with 12 and 11 points, respectively. Wade Steinbring led Warroad with 13 points.

Goodridge started slow and never recovered Tuesday in a 59-41 boys high school basketball loss to Kittson County North at Lancaster.

The Cougars had quarter leads of 14-6, 26-13 and 34-28.

Joey Wilebski scored 22 points to lead the Cougars, who were 23-for-51 from the field (45 percent) and 13-for-15 at the free throw line, including a 13-for-14 fourth quarter when the Huskies were forced into a must-foul situation.

"They made the free throws under pressure when they needed them at the end," pointed out Rahn.

A 14-point game by Mitch Smsky led the Huskies, who were 16-for-52 from the field (31 percent) and 3-for-6 at the line. Goodridge finished with a 33-21 rebound edge.

Nordics' second half nets win over Bears

Down 21-20 at halftime, Marshall County Central took over after intermission Thursday and finished with a 43-29 girls high school basketball win over Lake of the Woods in Baudette.

"We turned the defense up a notch in the second half, and we hit the offensive boards really hard," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. The Nordics out-scored the Bears 33-8 in the second half and finished with a sizeable 41-14 rebound advantage, including a 24-2 difference on the offensive end.

"We got a lot of easy baskets on offensive rebounds in the second half," noted Mjelde. "Overall, I was pretty pleased with the way we played."

An inside-outside attack for the Nordics featured a 22-point, 9-rebound game for Sara Lokstad and an 11-point, 11-rebound effort by Shanon Magner.

"When Sara gets the ball inside, she's pretty hard to stop," mentioned Mjelde. "Shanon had a real nice game. She was hitting from the outside, and she got some rebounds for us."

Erika Klassen led Lake of the Woods with 17 points.

The 7-6 Nordics were 20-for-58 from the field (34 percent) and 3-for-6 at the free throw line. The Bears went 10-for-32 from the field (31 percent) and 9-for-12 at the line.

COSMETOLOGY
IT CAN TAKE YOU ANYWHERE!

COMMENTS FROM PAST GRADUATES:

"With the excellent training, support and enthusiasm of the Cosmetology Department Northwest Technical College I was able to fulfill my goal by opening my own salon...having expanded from one to three chairs with possible future expansion."

Darlene Lien — DARLENE'S BEAUTY SALON, Erskine, MN

"The Northwest Technical College Cosmetology Department taught me the basic technical skills I needed to achieve my goal as a salon owner. I wouldn't be what I am today if I hadn't attained their academic requirements."

Jami K. Altum — STUDIO 213 T.R. Falls

"They work hard to keep up with the changing styles... the business is getting more diversified, going into areas which just a few years ago, were never thought of."

Theresa Blazejewski — NEW ATTRACTION T.R. Falls

"It was a great source of background knowledge for beginning a cosmetology career. I hired Teresa Rude, also a student from the Northwest Technical College, who has been a great addition to our shop."

Amy VandeStreek — STYLES BY AMY, T.R. Falls

"The Staff and students of the cosmetology program were excellent to learn from... they also gave me the confidence I needed to start a business of my own."

Kim Olson — SHEAR DESIGN, Karlstad

PUBLIC NOTICE

The CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS Water Department announces that the maximum limit for Turbidity in drinking water was exceeded during the month of December 1992.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand, or organic matter in water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with the Chloramine used for disinfection. However, the high turbidity level did not create a health hazard because the Water Department is able to maintain effective levels of chloramine for disinfection.

The Thief River Falls Water Purification Plant is currently in the construction stage of a 8.7 million dollar expansion and remodeling project. This project will enable compliance with the water quality requirements of the 1986 Amendments to the Safe Drinking Water Act.

Please be assured that the water is safe to drink. Any citizen seeking additional information should contact Allan J. Lamm, at the Water Purification Plant, phone number 681-3809.

Horns of all shapes and sizes fill the floor of Ryan Skoglund's taxidermist shop. Skoglund is also working on 20 shoulder-mounted deer that hunters brought in this fall.

Skoglund builds his taxidermy business

The law limits some taxidermy. "I've had calls from people who want hawks and owls mounted. I turn them down unless they've got the permits. Unless they have the proper paper work on stuff like that, I don't even touch them."

But Skoglund has fleshed some timberwolves and mounted a small owl for the DNR. Other taxidermy laws require a leg tag for migratory birds.

Does he do pets? "I've done a goldfish. It was a big goldfish, but as far as a pet...It must have been a pet. It was big and ugly, I know that," Skoglund said. "I couldn't see doing my dog (Jake — he'll be nine in April)."

Skoglund mounts specimens spanning many sizes, including a 35-pound sturgeon caught in Rainy River. "I've done two four-point bucks (shoulder mounts) and they were little. The owners were happy to get them and they wanted them done, but I guess a trophy is in the eye of the beholder. That's how I look at it."

Skoglund mounts the animals in a variety of poses and settings. Some poses include a fox, or other predator, with prey in its mouth. Deer shoulder mounts are popular and Skoglund said he is working on 20 shoulder mounts this season.

He also is mounting a full deer, one of his hardest projects because of the deer's size. "A lot of sewing — a lot of sewing."

Fish are one of the easiest subjects to mount, Skoglund said, and rug work is the hardest.

Rug work involves skinning, fleshing, tanning, setting the rug shell, head assembly, stretching, trimming, applying backings, padding and denim, facial work and painting. "Most people think it's a quick process to do that stuff, but really it's not. There's a lot of preparing before you can start the mounting," Skoglund said.

Other difficult projects include birds which have skin "just like paper." Correctly arranging the feathers poses another challenge.

Prices of the mounts vary, from $45 for a fish (or $4 an inch if the fish is over 15 inches long) to $200 for a complete fox mount.

Skoglund owns a freeze dryer which currently contains a potpourri of animals, including a flying squirrel frozen in mid flight.

Skoglund uses the freeze dryer to mount smaller animals. He removes the entrails from the animals, replaces them with cotton balls, and sews the animal up. The animal must be positioned in its final pose before it is frozen.

The specimen chamber runs at 10 below and the condensor runs at 50 below. At zero pressure moisture escapes from the animals into the condenser chamber. When all the moisture is gone, the animal is removed from the chamber. Larger animals, such as foxes, may take months before they are done.

"I'll do just about anything as long as I figure I can handle doing it. I guess there's not really too much in this area that could be overwhelming," Skoglund said.

Skoglund gets most of his business in the fall. In the winter, most of his work is limited to fish, caught while ice fishing. In the summer Skoglund works as a painter in Thief River Falls.

AIDS case topic for LHS mock trial team

mock trials each year. In the 12 regional finals this year the trials will be decided by juries selected from local communities.

"Mock trials are an excellent way to increase students' knowledge of the law and the court system," says Robert A. Guzy, president of the Minnesota State Bar Association. "Teachers and students tell us the program is a great way to develop reasoning and communication skills. This year's case is particularly interesting and challenging."

The case involves a neighborhood's reaction to the establishment of a home for AIDS patients nearby. Jamie King, who died from AIDS, set up a trust to establish a home for people with AIDS. The home is called Our House. The neighbors of Our House have formed a group called Neighbors Against AIDS Homes (NAAH) and claim in a lawsuit that the home actually is a health care facility or residential treatment facility and violates local zoning rules.

"The case raises a number of interesting issues for students to explore," Guzy said. "It involves the principle of fair housing as well as the definition of a health care facility. It's a very real issue and demonstrates how the law can be used to settle disputes."

Students have begun preparing their cases and trials are being held this month and in February with the state mock trial tournament to be held in March.

Red Lake Co. investigates theft

Law enforcement officials are looking for a snowmobile reported stolen Thursday night in Red Lake Falls.

Red Lake County Sheriff Al Morken reported Friday morning that during the night a brand new 1993 SLT Polaris Indy had been stolen from The Roads Supper club. The snowmobile was owned by Richard Knott of Red Lake Falls. There was no license on the snowmobile as it was brand new.

Morken said they followed the tracks of the snowmobile to a spot west of Red Lake Falls where they believe it was loaded onto a pickup. The snowmobile was valued at $6,000.

Norm Feske is hired to head Hartz Foods

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

After 39 years in management with Fairway Foods, Inc., and six months of restless retirement, Norm Feske of Fargo, ND, has been hired as president and chief executive officer of Hartz Foods, Inc. of Thief River Falls. He assumed his office and duties Monday, January 25.

"We feel that in Norm Feske we got a perfect fit," stated Mark Larson, a member of the Hartz Foods board and one of the three-member search committee to find a successor for board president Everett Kompelien who recently retired.

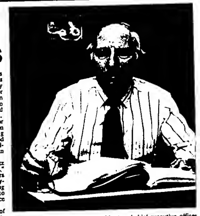
"Our committee screened more than 80 applicants including a large number of capable and qualified people," Larson said. "While a number of these could have served the company well, Norm emerged as the clear choice for the position due to his strong background in general management in the wholesale food industry and his familiarity with the area which Hartz Foods serves."

Larson said that while the sales area covered by the local wholesaler is familiar "home turf" for Feske, the search committee and board believed it would be easier for someone from outside the firm to take on the challenges which the company is facing.

"It is critical that the company has someone of his credentials in a key leadership role at this time," Larson said, "and we are confident he is capable of living up to the task before him."

Other members of the search committee with Larson were Tom Lucca of International Falls, a retail store operator, and Pat Sitter of Thief River Falls, a representative of Hartz Foods management, who served as the committee chairman.

Feske started in the food business in the retail area with Lund Foods in Minneapolis, later joining Fairway Foods as director of produce operations in the Twin Cities area and responsible for all divisions.



From 1968 to 1972 he served as general manager of Little Falls Wholesale, a subsidiary of Fairway Foods. In 1972 he became senior vice president of the corporation and general manager of the Fargo division, a position which he held until his retirement in June of 1992.

At Fargo he was responsible for all of the sales in the $100 million annual volume division, servicing approximately 80 supermarkets and general management of the distribution facility which had more than 100 employees.

TRF fire calls significantly lower in 1992

Fire calls in Thief River Falls were significantly lower than the previous year. Total number of fire calls dropped from 122 in 1991 to 91 in 1992.

Total amount of damage caused by fire was significantly lower, as well. Chief Bjorkman said that of the $285,900 damage loss reported in 1992, a significant portion of the loss occurred from smoke and water damage during a minor fire at Franklin Middle School last summer. None-the-less, the damage loss reported last year, $285,900, was less than the $328,150 reported in 1991.

The statistics appear positive indicators, however, the statistics also show that two people died in fires last year. One death was the result of a motor vehicle accident south of Thief River Falls, and the other occurred as a result of a garage fire.

Nearly every category of fire call reported showed a decline from the previous year. Most calls received were false alarms and home/apartment/garage fires. False alarm reports showed a dramatic decrease. The number of false alarms dropped from 27 in 1991 to 17, which continues a decline since a high of 39 reported in 1989. The trend was also carried over to good intent calls, which dropped from 18 in 1991 to 8 in 1992.

The number of home/apartment/garage fires remained at 17, as they have for the last three years. Auto fires dropped from 17 to 14. Grass fires dropped from 13 to 10. Appliance fires dropped from 2 to 1. Business fire reports dropped from 5 to 1. Spills, leaks and other hazardous conditions dropped from 9 to 7.

There were some increases seen in 1992. The number of chimney fires increased from zero to three. The number of fires in wood or piled materials increased from zero to 1. Extractions (rescue) increased from six to nine. There was one train engine fire report, one electric disturbance report, one trash/dumpster fire report.

Most of the fires reported last year were caused by smoking materials. Five of the fires were caused by smoking materials. Four fires each were caused by woodstoves and appliances. Three were caused by electrical wiring/extension cords. Two fires each were reportedly caused by heating devices and Edgar Hetteen's mother Mae was entering a nursing home. Neither Edgar nor Mae cared for the seating — collapsible, hammock-style wheelchairs.

Because of body positioning in wheelchairs, some nursing home residents were parked in front of a television with their head between their legs, Hetteen said. "The only way they could watch TV was with eyes on top of their head."

To alleviate the problem, Hetteen took a bucket seat out of a Toyota and adapted it to a wheelchair for his mother to use. Thus, the first May (Mae) Chair was born.

The May Chair led to the May Corporation, a Grygla-based business which in 1992 built 2,051 wheeled healthcare recliners.

Hetteen incorporated the business in January 1986 with one other worker, Mike McKeever. Hetteen went on the road to sell the chair and McKeever worked in the shop at Hetteen's farm.

The business added more workers as orders increased and in 1988 the business moved to Grygla. May Corporation chose Grygla as a new home because of loan opportunities from the town and bank.

Today McKeever is manufacturing vice president and supervises 22 workers at the Grygla plant. Hetteen still occasionally helps in research and development.

Arne Fjelland, May Corporation president, operates a five-member sales, administration and data processing crew out of Eden Prairie.

"It (the different location) offers challenges, but we work around it," Fjelland said.

The operation expanded from 150 units in 1989 to 2,000 units in 1990. "The workforce has suffered with the growing pains, through feast or famine," Fjelland said. McKeever said currently the operation averages 12 chairs a day.

As the operation expanded, the chair quickly evolved. "When Edgar and I first started out, it seemed like we'd make a run of 25 chairs and then we'd end up throwing half of them away because we'd talk to the customer and they'd Horns of all shapes and sizes fill the floor of Ryan Skoglund's taxidermist shop. Skoglund is also working on 20 shoulder-mounted deer that hunters brought in this fall.

The law limits some taxidermy. "I've had calls from people who want hawks and owls mounted. I turn them down unless they've got the permits. Unless they have the proper paper work on stuff like that, I don't even touch them."

But Skoglund has fleshed some timberwolves and mounted a small owl for the DNR. Other taxidermy laws require a leg tag for migratory birds.

Does he do pets? "I've done a goldfish. It was a big goldfish, but as far as a pet ..It must have been a pet. It was big and ugly, I know that," Skoglund said. "I couldn't see doing my dog (Jake — he'll be nine in April)."

Skoglund mounts specimens spanning many sizes, including a 35-pound sturgeon caught in Rainy River. "I've done two four-point bucks (shoulder mounts) and they were little. The owners were happy to get them and they wanted them done, but I guess a trophy is in the eye of the beholder. That's how I look at it."

Skoglund mounts the animals in a variety of poses and settings. Some poses include a fox, or other predator, with prey in its mouth. Deer shoulder mounts are popular and Skoglund said he is working on 20 shoulder mounts this season.

He also is mounting a full deer, one of his hardest projects because of the deer's size. "A lot of sewing — a lot of sewing."

Fish are one of the easiest subjects to mount, Skoglund said, and rug work is the hardest.

Rug work involves skinning, fleshing, tanning, setting the rug shell, head assembly, stretching, trimming, applying backings, padding and denim, facial work and painting. "Most people think it's a quick process to do that stuff, but really it's not. There's a lot of preparing before you can start the mounting," Skoglund said.

Other difficult projects include birds which have skin "just like paper." Correctly arranging the feathers poses another challenge.

Prices of the mounts vary, from $45 for a fish (or $4 an inch if the fish is over 15 inches long) to $200 for a complete fox mount.

Skoglund owns a freeze dryer which currently contains a potpourri of animals, including a flying squirrel frozen in mid flight.

Skoglund uses the freeze dryer to mount smaller animals. He removes the entrails from the animals, replaces them with cotton balls, and sews the animal up. The animal must be positioned in its final pose before it is frozen.

The specimen chamber runs at 10 below and the condenser runs at 50 below. At zero pressure moisture escapes from the animals into the condenser chamber. When all the moisture is gone, the animal is removed from the chamber. Larger animals, such as foxes, may take months before they are done.

"I'll do just about anything as long as I figure I can handle doing it. I guess there's not really too much in this area that could be overwhelming," Skoglund said.

Skoglund gets most of his business in the fall. In the winter, most of his work is limited to fish, caught while ice fishing. In the summer Skoglund works as a painter in Thief River Falls.

mock trials each year. In the 12 regional finals this year the trials will be decided by juries selected from local communities.

"Mock trials are an excellent way to increase students' knowledge of the law and the court system," says Robert A. Guzy, president of the Minnesota State Bar Association. "Teachers and students tell us the program is a great way to develop reasoning and communication skills. This year's case is particularly interesting and challenging."

The case involves a neighborhood's reaction to the establishment of a home for AIDS patients nearby. Jamie King, who died from AIDS, set up a trust to establish a home for people with AIDS. The home is called Our House. The neighbors of Our House have formed a group called Neighbors Against AIDS Homes (NAAH) and claim in a lawsuit that the home actually is a health care facility or residential treatment facility and violates local zoning rules.

"The case raises a number of interesting issues for students to explore," Guzy said. "It involves the principle of fair housing as well as the definition of a health care facility. It's a very real issue and demonstrates how the law can be used to settle disputes."

Students have begun preparing their cases and trials are being held this month and in February with the state mock trial tournament to be held in March.

Red Lake Co. investigates theft

Law enforcement officials are looking for a snowmobile reported stolen Thursday night in Red Lake Falls.

Red Lake County Sheriff Al Morken reported Friday morning that during the night a brand new 1993 SLT Polaris Indy had been stolen from The Roads Supper club. The snowmobile was owned by Richard Knott of Red Lake Falls. There was no license on the snowmobile as it was brand new.

Morken said they followed the tracks of the snowmobile to a spot west of Red Lake Falls where they believe it was loaded onto a pickup. The snowmobile was valued at $6,000.

Norm Feske is hired to head Hartz Foods

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

After 39 years in management with Fairway Foods, Inc., and six months of restless retirement, Norm Feske of Fargo, ND, has been hired as president and chief executive officer of Hartz Foods, Inc. of Thief River Falls. He assumed his office and duties Monday, January 25.

"We feel that in Norm Feske we got a perfect fit," stated Mark Larson, a member of the Hartz Foods board and one of the three-member search committee to find a successor for board president Everett Kompellen who recently retired.

"Our committee screened more than 80 applicants including a large number of capable and qualified people," Larson said. "While a number of these could have served the company well, Norm emerged as the clear choice for the position due to his strong background in general management in the wholesale food industry and his familiarity with the area which Hartz Foods serves."

Larson said that while the sales area covered by the local wholesaler is familiar "home turf" for Feske, the search committee and board believed it would be easier for someone from outside the firm to take on the challenges which the company is facing.

"It is critical that the company has someone of his credentials in a key leadership role at this time," Larson said, "and we are confident he is capable of living up to the task before him."

Other members of the search committee with Larson were Tom Lucca of International Falls, a retail store operator, and Pat Sitter of Thief River Falls, a representative of Hartz Foods management, who served as the committee chairman.

Feske started in the food business in the retail area with Lund Foods in Minneapolis, later joining Fairway Foods as director of produce operations in the Twin Cities area and responsible for all divisions.

Dykhuis appointed acting county engineer

Kittson County — Kittson county board has appointed Bill Dykhuis as acting engineer for Kittson county, since Tom Kozojed will be leaving the position February 1. Dykhuis had previously served as acting engineer during the transition between David Olsonawski and Kozojed. The duties of chief county safety officer, which was also a responsibility of Kozojed, was delegated to Bob Laude. (Kittson County Enterprise)

Crookston high school is given banner

Crookston — The family of Craig Peterson will present a banner to Central high school in Crookston in his honor. The banner will be navy blue with gold lettering and has the words to the school song on it. It will be hung in the high school gym. Peterson, who died on Mar. 3, 1992, was a 1969 graduate of the high school and participated in football, basketball and track, as well as serving as co-captain of the basketball and track teams during his senior year. Crookston school board approves new school

Crookston — The Crookston school district decided recently to move forward with a bond issue to build a new high school. The board has acknowledged an overcrowding problem and expects to bring the matter to the voters in April. Two possible locations are a downtown site or on UMC property. Cost of the new high school would by about $15.6 million. (Crookston Daily Times)

Construction at Bemidji school 99% complete

Bemidji — The motto adopted by Northern elementary teachers about the school construction project is "It's a big mess but it's ours." Classes moved into the new addition the day before Christmas but indoor remodeling still had to be completed. The large demolition work was completed during the holidays and construction crews are putting things back together with remodeling due to be completed in March. The addition has eight new classrooms and a new cafeteria, as well as converting a gym into a music room, storage area, speech therapy room and a teacher work station. (Bemidji Pioneer)

VFW Fishing derby another success

Williams — The 36th annual VFW fishing derby was greeted by warm, sunny weather last Sunday as a host of fisherpersons turned out to try their luck at winning armloads of prizes. Jack Erickson won a prize for a 12 ounce walleye; Lonnie Nichols for a 3-pound, 12-ounce northern and Jeff Rawls for the largest sauger, which weighed a mere 5 ounces. Rawls however was beaten in the smallest fish category by Bruce Chapman, who registered a 3-ounce perch. (Williams Northern Light)

Earlier day off returns to haunt students

Williams — For students and staff of Lake of the Woods school, December 7 was a dream come true, when a broken water main required that the school be closed for the day. Unfortunately, the school must be open for 170 days and with that one day off, the school would fall below the requirement and will be forced to make it up. The board therefore has decided that students must attend school on February 12, which was previously scheduled as a day off. (Williams Northern Light)

Norman County West school puts block scheduling on back burner

Norman County — The Norman County West school board has decided to delay plans to try a block scheduling experiment at the high school during the third quarter of this school year. The plan was to make 90-minute "block" periods instead of 45-minute classes. The delay however was due to problems at the Climax and Fisher schools, which cooperate with West school in interactive television. (Norman County Index)

Red Lake Co-op meeting series begins on Monday

A series of five meetings for members of Red Lake Electric Cooperative has been scheduled during February throughout the Red Lake Falls-based cooperative's service area.

Meeting schedule includes the following:

Monday, Feb. 1, 7:30 p.m.—Informational meeting at Oak Ridge Lutheran church in Norden township;

Thursday, Feb. 4, 1:30 p.m.—Informational meeting at Holt community center;

Thursday, Feb. 11, 1:30 p.m.—District 4 meeting at Oklee community hall; 7:30 p.m.—District 1 meeting at St. Peter's Catholic church in Gentilly;

Monday, Feb. 15, 7:30 p.m.—District 5 meeting at Bethany Lutheran church in Smiley township.

Three of the meetings—in the cooperative's Districts 1, 4 and 5—will be held to conduct official business, including the election of a director candidate. Members will be able to nominate director candidates at these three meetings and directors will be elected for three-year terms at the cooperative's annual meeting.

Directors whose terms expire are Norman Dufault, Crookston, District 1; Michael Bachand, Brooks, District 4; and John Hammer, Thief River Falls, District 5.

The same information will be presented to the membership at all five meetings, although there are no directors nominations in the cooperative's other districts. Topics include DBS—rural TV, Operation Roundup, rural electrification in Central America and energy-efficient lighting.

"Every member is invited to attend one of the meetings," says Ron Kennedy, manager. "They are held for the benefit of cooperative members and member participation is encouraged."

There will be free attendance prizes and door prizes and pie, ice cream and a beverage will be served at all meetings.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

President Clinton in his campaign speeches said he would sign the Freedom of Choice Act (FOCA) when it would come before him if he was elected.

What is the FOCA? It is a radical pro-abortion bill that will come before congress, possibly within a few days or weeks.

The FOCA would require abortion on demand in every state for any reason, even for sex selection, as many times as a woman wants one, at any stage of pregnancy, even at nine months. The author of the FOCA, Rep. Don Edwards, has stated it would allow "no exceptions whatsoever."

This law would not only be using our taxes to pay for abortion, but would be killing off our greatest asset for the future of this country, our unborn children.

Some say we already have a law favoring abortion. True, but under the present set-up we can pass laws for parental consent, allow a husband to have a voice on the issue and inform a woman of the problems from obtaining an abortion. We do not pay for abortion through taxes. These privileges (if one can call them that) would all be taken away if the FOCA becomes law.

If you value the future of this country and its children you will notify your U.S. Rep. Collin Peterson and U.S. Senators Paul Wellstone and David Durenberger that you want them to vote against the so-called Freedom of Choice Act.

Sincerely,
Ray Kolb
Mentor, MN

To The Editor:

To tax, or not to tax. That is the question our newly-elected state lawmakers are asking themselves.

Politicians who ran on the campaign pledge of only raising taxes "as a last resort" are now talking about raising taxes with this year's session only a few weeks old.

I agree with Governor Carlson's "state of the budget" address that he gave Tuesday evening, January 26. Like the governor, I feel it is not necessary to increase taxes to deal with the over $700 million shortfall Minnesota now faces.

I have not always agreed with the governor, but on this issue he has 100% of my support. Like the governor said, "Taxes are the poison that kills job growth."

It is time for "We the People" to take back our government by putting pressure on our elected officials to stop the ever increasing tax burden they put us under.

If you feel as I do, now is the time to call or write your local state legislators and let them know it is time for government to put its financial house in order. Governor Carlson is making some bold proposals but he needs your support, and also the vote of your legislators.

Minnesota ranks as the fourth highest taxed state in the nation. Are they trying to make us number one? Enough is enough! Call and write now.

Sincerely,
Sam Dodge
Foley, MN

Opinions

Marvin Lundin
Editor

Editorial opinion published on this page, whether locally written or re-printed from other sources is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Opinions expressed by the editor are his own and not necessarily those of other staff members. Opinions expressed in items from other publications may be contradictory to the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

No Great Solutions In Governor's Budget

Not that we really expected a great deal of hope for relief from the state's financial woes in Gov. Arne Carlson's budget message, but we did expect at least a little more creative thinking than the proposal provided.

As State Auditor under a DFL governor he usually had plenty of opinions about how state finances should be handled. For the most part his ideas seemed sensible and based on his knowledge of the state's financial circumstances as its chief bookkeeper. When he slipped into the governorship through an 11th hour effort during a wave of Rudy Perpich discontent, we had high hopes for translation of some of those ideas into legislative proposals and subsequent legislative action.

In general, we have been disappointed with the outcome (or should we any "output") of the Carlson governorship so far and the budget message this week was no reason for us to change that opinion. A budget proposal that calls for a 9.1 per cent increase in spending in the face of an expected $767 million current budget shortfall doesn't sound too frugal to us, regardless of whether it would be the smallest increase in two decades as the governor claims.

The assessment of legislators and others reviewing the budget that it offers little in the way of innovation is a fair one, no matter which side of the legislative aisle is comes from or who is doing the reviewing.

Gov. Carlson placed considerable emphasis on a public employee pay freeze as a means of closing the $769 million budget gap. This must certainly seem unfair to the public employees who would be affected by such a move, although many probably would accept that situation rather than large scale lay-offs of 10,000 or more. Even the most tunnel-visioned collective bargainer must have enough realism to recognize a good job with no pay hike is better than no job at all.

Further, many and perhaps the majority of working taxpayers in the state's private sector probably have been subjected to frozen salaries, pay cuts or lay-offs while most public employees have received advancements and increments on a regular basis. Number and salaries of public employees, regardless of their dedication and the value of the services they perform, are certainly major factors in the cost of state government.

It will take more than a one-year pay freeze to get the cost of state government back under control. It will take courageous legislators who are able, if not willing, to adopt a realistic viewpoint and rein in spending in accordance with the taxpayers' ability to pay and the state's ability to compete. As a high tax, high cost of living state, Minnesota is losing its businesses and productive workers to other areas of the country, frequently just across the border.

The governor didn't do well with his budget proposal, so it is now incumbent on the legislature to do better. And if past performance is an indicator of what to expect in the future, we don't hold a great deal of optimism for the state's financial picture in the years ahead.

Would President's Order On Homosexuals In The Military Go Far Enough?

One can only guess where President Clinton's priorities lie and his reasons for placing them in that order, but the almost immediate announcement of his intent to issue an executive order permitting homosexuals to serve in the U.S. armed forces strikes us as rather....well....queer.

According to officials in the new President's administration, a two-step plan is in process. The first step would be for President Clinton to simply direct Defense Secretary Les Aspin to halt the practice of asking the sexual orientation of new recruits and stop proceedings to oust declared homosexuals. The second phase would be an executive order formally lifting the ban and addressing the problems raised by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and others.

Let's assume that the new Chief Executive simply wants to assert his belief that there should be equality for all in every phase of life. If that is the situation, his two-phase plan to eliminate discrimination in the armed forces doesn't go nearly far enough. Having a deviant sexual preference isn't the only condition that prevents would-be enlistees from entering military service.

Under present regulations, you can't enlist in the armed forces if you are over 35 years of age (credit is allowed for up to four years of prior military service, so a four-year veteran could enlist at 39). You can't join if you have asthma or —for instance—allergies to bee stings. Uncle Sam doesn't want you in the military if you have poor vision or a hearing impairment. If you have been convicted of a felony, kiss off a job in the army, navy or air force.

Recruiters for branches of the armed forces say there are many questions which prospective enlistees are asked, any number of which could provide cause for rejection. Sexual orientation is only one of the many. Recruiters also say that the ban on homosexuals in the military has been reassuring to enlistees and lifting of the ban could well have a major adverse effect on enlistments by heterosexual men and women.

The U.S. military has a well-defined job to do in protection of the country. Over the years the services have developed procedures which work best in fulfilling that role while providing the greatest safety for each soldier, sailor or aviator and those who serve with them. Experience has apparently shown that the military functions best with men and women who have good vision, good hearing, youthful vigor and good health and are not felons nor homosexuals.

If President Clinton sees fit to change that situation, the sexual preference order would only be pandering to a single element of exclusion. It wouldn't address the discrimination on the basis of age, health, personal history or physical disability. And in our eyes, that makes the President's liberal views a little too narrow.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

We are opposed to the practice of abortion. We find it difficult to understand how a nation which claims a Judaeo-Christian heritage can legitimize the murder of the weakest, most defenseless members of our society—the unborn. In the 20 years since Roe vs. Wade the blood of 30 million innocents has stained our hands.

The Holocaust of World War II took the lives of approximately six million people. It holds a place of infamy and shame in history, yet it pales in comparison to the infanticide occurring every day in the greatest nation on earth; a nation which claims liberty and justice for all!

In the coming months, Congress will be considering the so-called "Freedom of Choice Act" (FOCA). This act is one of the most dangerous pieces of legislation ever introduced. It would guarantee the death of millions of unborn babies, and should more appropriately be called the "freedom to kill bill."

- FOCA would allow abortion throughout pregnancy for the mother's "health." (The U.S. Supreme Court has defined "health" to include social, emotional and financial considerations.)
- FOCA specifically prevents any protection of unborn babies before viability (which is the ability to keep alive).
- FOCA would allow the abortionist alone to decide if a baby is viable.
- FOCA would invalidate regulations saying abortions can be performed only by licensed physicians.
- FOCA would allow abortions for any reason, at any stage of pregnancy.

But FOCA is not only a moral travesty, it actually infringed upon our freedom.

- FOCA would require all U.S. citizens to support abortions with their tax dollars.
- FOCA would not allow conscience clauses for hospitals which do not want to perform abortions.
- FOCA would not allow state laws for informed consent or parental consent.
- FOCA would prevent states from passing abortion regulation.

Any bill which limits our state's rights, and our personal rights, to this extreme is dangerous and must be stopped!

We urge you to write to Sen. Dave Durenberger and Sen. Paul Wellstone at the Senate Office Building, Washington, DC 20510, and Collin Peterson at the House Office Building, Washington, DC 20515. Tell them to vote against FOCA. We cannot afford to keep quiet on this issue. We must speak for those who cannot speak for themselves.

Sincerely,
Barb Kotta

TRF Police investigate early morning burglary at Lon's

Alerted by an alarm, police in Thief River Falls rushed to Lon's Restaurant and Lounge apparantly just missing the intruders.

An alarm went off at 1:42 a.m. Friday morning at Lon's. When police arrived just a short time later they discovered that a door had been pried open and that someone had gone through the pull-tab counter. An undetermined amount of cash is missing from the charitable gambling counter.

The incident is still under investigation and the amount of damage has yet to be determined.

Farm meeting in Hallock

International Farm Symposium is scheduled for Monday, February 8, in the Hallock city hall with registration at 9:30 a.m. and the program beginning at 9:50 a.m. The program will focus on a better understanding of the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Goal of the symposium is to bring together producers from Manitoba and the United States to discuss current farm issues and help everyone attending to understand the different viewpoints that may be presented.

Canadian perspectives on NAFTA will be given in the morning by Earl Geddes, president of Keystone Agricultural Producers, Inc., and U.S. perspectives by Dr. G. Edward Schuh, dean of the Hubert H. Humphrey Institute of Public Affairs.

The afternoon session includes a producer/expert panel on how the agreement may affect various commodity groups.

Registration fee is $8 in U.S. funds to cover program and meal costs. Preregistration may be made at Roseau or Kittson county extension offices.

Sponsors of the symposium include the Minnesota and North Dakota extension services, Manitoba Agriculture, North Dakota Wheat commission, North Dakota Barley council, Minnesota Barley and Wheat Promotion and Research councils, Red River Valley Sugarbeet Growers and Farm Credit Services.

More information is available from the Kittson and Roseau county extension offices in Hallock and Roseau.

All who play musical instruments are invited to participate and spectators are welcome. There is no admission charge. For details call Rodney Myhrum at 435-6913 evenings.

Ag Center sets annual meeting

Annual [illegible] meeting of the Area Ag Information Center of Thief River Falls will be held Monday, February 8, at 7 p.m. at the Northland [illegible] College cafeteria in Thief River Falls. Anyone interested in attending is urged to attend.

Workers at May Corporation assemble the May Chair. The company averages 12 chairs each day. Twenty-two workers perform various tasks, including welding, painting and sewing.

The main floor is quiet during May Corporation lunch break. In 1992 the Grygla-based company manufactured 2,051 chairs. Independent representatives sell the chairs across the United States and Canada. The Grygla location employs 22 workers.

want a change in the chair. And so we'd put the change into production right away and we ended up obsolete on a lot of parts," McKeever said. "The customer pretty much built our chair for us."

The customers still dictate the type of chair they want and numerous options accompany the company's models. "It's not like an easy chair in your living room," Hetteen said." It is tailored for the individual."

The company's three major models are the Posture Value, Posture-Guard and Posture-Guard Plus.

A few of the functions available from the different models include roll head rests, fold-away foot support, tilt-in-space (the back and seat tilt as a unit), independently operated leg rest, shoulder bolsters, removable side arms, privacy panels and tray table.

Chair prices waver around $455 for the Posture-Guard and $665 for the Posture-Guard Plus.

Cushions can be custom-built for the customer and optional chair sizes are available. The company tailor-fits certain backrest cushions for people with Osteoporosis and Kyphosis. McKeever said eventually he would like a separate department to handle all custom work.

Initially May Corporation built the chairs for the home market, with a lot of stained wood to make the chair look like a piece of furniture.

McKeever said the chairs were not acceptable to nursing homes because of maintenance problems. The nursing home proved to be an easier market to sell the chairs so they began to use plastic and steel instead of wood.

"Style right now is one area we're looking at hard and we're trying to get into the home care market because that is a large market. It's a lot larger than the nursing home market," McKeever said.

A majority of the chairs are sold through independent sales representatives across the United States and Canada. In Minnesota the company operates through dealers. Fjelland estimated that Minnesota initially provided 80 per cent of the market and is now only 5 to 10 per cent of the May Chair market.

"The product is designed for the trend of the graying of America, part of what we'll capitalize on. Two things are happening. People are getting older and the older are living much longer," Fjelland said.

With the exception of wheels, the Grygla plant builds and assembles most of the chair parts. The two May Corporation buildings in Grygla contain departments for welding and cutting, sewing, painting and assembly.

McKeever, who learned the design trade at Arctic Enterprises' research and development, is the key chair designer.

"The mechanics are pretty straight forward. I don't think we're doing anything high-tech. It's just the comfort of the chair," McKeever said.

"We're constantly improving. We will continue to do so for some time, otherwise the competition will catch you," Hetteen said.

"It's fun to see what relief you can bring people," Hetteen said. "It (the chair) gives back dignity and comfort. We can take a great deal of satisfaction for the improved quality of life for long-term patients."

entry of large discounters in larger population centers drawing customers who often choose to purchase groceries in those centers, we must do all we can to help home town food retailers retain and gain customers."

Feske said Hartz Foods would continue development and implementation of its programs and plans to assist its stores. He added that the company may well look to geographical expansion of its territory as part of the means to improve its position.

Annual meeting of Hartz Foods, Inc., will be held February 9 at the Best Western Inn. Feske said he is excited about being with the company and looks forward to meeting with customers, stockholders and board members at the annual meeting and receiving their ideas for future planning.

"I believe that Hartz Foods has a strong work force with good people," he said. "Everyone has been great during my first days on the job and I have been pleasantly surprised at some of the things that are being done here, especially in programs and operations. I believe there is a good base to build on."

Feske and his wife Penny have six children, five of whom are married, and 11 grandchildren. Three sons and a daughter live in the Fargo-Moorhead area, one daughter in St. Paul and one son is serving with the U.S. Coast Guard in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

An avid sports spectator, Feske said he loves to watch hockey (one son played with the Moorhead high school team when the family lived in Moorhead and a grandson is now in the PeeWee program in the area) and football. His family has a lake cabin in the Detroit Lakes area but he says fishing and golf are "once a year" activities.

For the present Feske said he will commute to Thief River Falls Monday morning and home Friday evening since his wife and family members have a personal business in Fargo.

1 1/4 cups chicken broth
2 cups cut-up cooked chicken
1 jar (2 ounces) diced pimentos, drained
3 cups hot cooked rice

Cook green pepper and mushrooms in margarine in saucepan over medium heat for about 5 minutes, stirring frequently.

Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Cook over low heat until bubbly, stirring constantly. Remove from heat.

Stir in milk, broth and mushroom liquid. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir for one minute. Stir in chicken and pimentos and heat. Serve over rice.

Try this yummy yeast bread the next time you want to make a special meal—it's easy—made with a mixer and no kneading:

ANADAMA BREAD
3/4 cup boiling water
1/2 cup oats
3 tablespoons shortening
1/4 cup light corn syrup
2 teaspoons salt
1 package dry yeast
1/4 cup warm water (105-115 degrees)
1 egg
2 3/4 cups flour

Grease loaf pan.

Mix boiling water, oats, shortening, syrup and salt in large bowl. Cool to lukewarm.

Dissolve yeast in warm water.

Add yeast mixture, egg and 1 1/2 cups of the flour to the oat mixture, and beat on medium speed for 2 minutes, scraping bowl frequently. Stir in remaining flour until smooth.

Spread batter in pan (batter will be sticky). Brush top with beaten egg white and sprinkle with a mixture of 1/4 cup oats and 2 tablespoons packed brown sugar.

Let rise in warm place for 1 1/2 hours.

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Bake 50-55 minutes until loaf is brown and sounds hollow when tapped. (Cover with aluminum foil if loaf browns too quickly.)

Remove from pan and cool on rack.

Oh, go ahead and try this pie—I bet you'll be pleasantly surprised at the tart, creamy taste:

BUTTERMILK PIE

4 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup buttermilk
1/3 cup margarine or butter, melted
[illegible] flour
1/4 teaspoon salt

Heat oven to 425 degrees. Prepare pastry and bake 5 minutes. Remove from oven and reduce oven to 350 degrees.

Beat eggs and vanilla with hand beater. Beat in remaining ingredients and pour carefully into partially baked pie shell.

Bake 40-50 minutes or until knife comes out clean when inserted halfway between center and edge. Cool slightly and serve warm or refrigerate until serving time.

(Recipe serves 8 and each serving contains 405 calories, 6 g protein, 50 g carbohydrate, 20 g fat, 110 mg cholesterol, 360 mg sodium and 100 mg potassium.)

If you are too timid to try buttermilk pie, you may want to make this more traditional dessert:

CHERRY CRISP
2 cans (16 ounces each) pitted dark sweet cherries, drained (When in season, use 1 pound of fresh dark sweet cherries instead of canned.)
2/3 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 cup flour

1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/3 cup margarine or butter, softened

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Spread cherries in ungreased square pan (8x8 or 9x9).

Mix remaining ingredients with fork and sprinkle over cherries.

Bake about 30 minutes or until topping is golden and cherries are bubbly.

Serve warm with cream or ice cream.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 250 calories, 1 g protein, 40 g carbohydrate, 10 g fat, 0 cholesterol, 160 mg sodium and 240 mg potassium.)

entry of large discounters in larger population centers drawing customers who often choose to purchase groceries in those centers, we must do all we can to help home town food retailers retain and gain customers."

Feske said Hartz Foods would continue development and implementation of its programs and plans to assist its stores. He added that the company may well look to geographical expansion of its territory as part of the means to improve its position.

Annual meeting of Hartz Foods, Inc., will be held February 9 at the Best Western Inn. Feske said he is excited about being with the company and looks forward to meeting with customers, stockholders and board members at the annual meeting and receiving their ideas for future planning.

"I believe that Hartz Foods has a strong work force with good people," he said. "Everyone has been great during my first days on the job and I have been pleasantly surprised at some of the things that are being done here, especially in programs and operations. I believe there is a good base to build on."

Feske and his wife Penny have six children, five of whom are married, and 11 grandchildren. Three sons and a daughter live in the Fargo-Moorhead area, one daughter in St. Paul and one son is serving with the U.S. Coast Guard in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

An avid sports spectator, Feske said he loves to watch hockey (one son played with the Moorhead high school team when the family lived in Moorhead and a grandson is now in the PeeWee program in the area) and football. His family has a lake cabin in the Detroit Lakes area but he says fishing and golf are "once a year" activities.

For the present Feske said he will commute to Thief River Falls Monday morning and home Friday evening since his wife and family members have a personal business in Fargo.

Try this yummy yeast bread the next time you want to make a special meal—it's easy—made with a mixer and no kneading:

ANADAMA BREAD
3/4 cup boiling water
1/2 cup oats
3 tablespoons shortening
1/4 cup light corn syrup
2 teaspoons salt
1 package dry yeast
1/4 cup warm water (105-115 degrees)
1 egg
2 3/4 cups flour

Grease loaf pan.

Mix boiling water, oats, shortening, syrup and salt in large bowl. Cool to lukewarm.

Dissolve yeast in warm water.

Add yeast mixture, egg and 1 1/2 cups of the flour to the oat mixture, and beat on medium speed for 2 minutes, scraping bowl frequently. Stir in remaining flour until smooth.

Spread batter in pan (batter will be sticky). Brush top with beaten egg white and sprinkle with a mixture of 1/4 cup oats and 2 tablespoons packed brown sugar.

Let rise in warm place for 1 1/2 hours.

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Bake 50-55 minutes until loaf is brown and sounds hollow when tapped. (Cover with aluminum foil if loaf browns too quickly.)

1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup buttermilk
1/3 cup margarine or butter, melted
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt

Beat eggs and vanilla with hand beater. Beat in remaining ingredients and pour carefully into partially baked pie shell.

Bake 40-50 minutes or until knife comes out clean when inserted halfway between center and edge. Cool slightly and serve warm or refrigerate until serving time.

(Recipe serves 8 and each serving contains 405 calories, 6 g protein, 50 g carbohydrate, 20 g fat, 110 mg cholesterol, 360 mg sodium and 100 mg potassium.)

2 cans (16 ounces each) pitted dark sweet cherries, drained
(When in season, use 1 pound of fresh dark sweet cherries instead of canned.)
2/3 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 cup flour

1/3 cup margarine or butter, softened

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Spread cherries in ungreased square pan (8x8 or 9x9).

The winners led 38-8 at halftime and had a 54-25 third quarter cushion in going to 7-6 for the year.

Thief River Falls double figure scorers included Nathan Anderson with 13 points, Lee Lund 10 and Preston Treat 10.

Thief River Falls forwards Jason Svir (17) and Rick Ostby (18) pinned East Grand Forks defenseman Mika Kreun against the boards with this forechecking effort during Tuesday's high school hockey game in Thief River Falls. The two teams skated to a 2-2 overtime tie.

TRF, EGF skate to 2-2 tie

Basketball coaches Sally Wiltse and Scott Brekke have watched their teams struggle with shooting problems through much of the 1992-93 season. Glenn Chiodo knows what they are going through. The Thief River Falls hockey coach once again saw the Prowlers come up short on offense Tuesday in a 2-2 overtime tie against East Grand Forks.

The two goalies did their jobs as East Grand Forks sophomore Scott Schulz topped 28 shots and Thief River Falls senior Trevor Haugen came up with 26 saves. For the Prowlers, it was another tough night on offense for a team that has produced just six goals in its last three starts – two losses and a tie, dropping Thief River Falls to 7-9-1.

"Trevor has played very consistent for us," noted Chiodo. "He has put us in a position to win. Now we have to work at getting it done at the other end. We work and work and work to create opportunities, but we've been unable to capitalize. It becomes a frustrating situation."

First goal of the night didn't occur until the final minute of the first period when East Grand Forks' Jon Busby tipped in Jeff Vonasek's slap shot from the point during a 4-on-3 power play.

It stayed 1-0 until the Prowlers' tied it on a power play goal of their own at 2:30 of the third period when Rick Ostby scored on a point-blank rebound.

Travis Lind put East Grand Forks back on top at 11:58 on a goal off a scramble around the Thief River Falls net. Haugen made a couple of big saves on the play, but Lind pulled the puck out of a pile at the side of the net, brought it out front and popped it into an open corner.

However, it was tied again just 44 seconds later when Jason Svir reached out and batted the puck past Schultz at the mouth of the crease.

Best chances in the eight-minute sudden-death overtime were stuffed by the goalies as Haugen made a point-blank save against Jeremy Eckman just 15 seconds into the session and knocked down an uncontested Corey Pesch slap shot from the slot area at 7:48, while Schulz came up big when Carter Rogalla came in alone at 7:36.

"We're not completely satisfied with the tie, but we want to look at the positives," said Chiodo. "We've been on a skid lately, and the tie is better than a loss. And we've kept working. The kids haven't given up. We're trying to get out of this thing."

Scoring

First period - EGF, Jon Suey (Jeff Vonasek), 14:27.
Second period - none.
Third period - TRF, Rick Ostby (Marc Haugen-Jason Svir), 2:30; EGF, Travis Lind (Cory Pulkrabek), 11:58; TRF, Svir (Ostby-Carter Rogalla), 12:42.

Goalie Saves

TRF - Trevor Haugen 10-2-8-6–26, EGF - Scott Schulz 9-8-9-2–28.

Rams come back to beat TRF 58-56

Once again Thief River Falls ran into a third quarter wall Tuesday as the Prowlers saw a first half lead disappear in a 58-56 boys high school basketball loss to visiting Roseau.

Thief River Falls got off to a 17-9 first quarter lead, opened up a 12-point gap, then settled for a 30-24 halftime edge. But only twice this winter have the 1-12 Prowlers had a third quarter scoring advantage, and that trend continued when the Rams went ahead 40-39.

"We just didn't come out real aggressive in the second half," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "I don't know what the problem is, but we've been doing that all year. We've played some good basketball lately, but we end up with one bad quarter and it costs us the game."

Jeff Taylor scored 17 points and Dave Pankratz had 16 for the winners, who turned a one-point affair into a five-point spread with four late-game free throws before the Prowlers' Shane Zutz closed it out with a three-point basket.

Both teams hit 20 field goal attempts, but the Rams won it by cashing in on 14 of 22 free throw opportunities, including a 10-for-13 fourth quarter. The Prowlers shot 70 percent at the line, but it was on a 7-for-10 showing.

"I'm disappointed with the outcome," acknowledged Brekke. "It's one we felt we had a chance to win – if we played well."

John Gunstad did supply a bright spot for the Prowlers' struggling offense with a 16-point game that included a 4-for-4 effort from three-point range.

Thief River Falls was 20-for-43 from the field (47 percent); Roseau went 20-for-47 (43 percent). The Prowlers out-rebounded the Rams 25-20, but had nearly twice as many turnovers, 17-9.

Gators win rematch with Tigers

First Stephen vs. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River match-up earlier this month was played at a slower pace, dictated by the Tigers, who won 49-45, ending the Gators' season-opening eight-game winning streak.

A Tuesday rematch was played at a faster pace, this time following the plans laid out by the Gators, who won the boys high school basketball game in easy 71-49 fashion.

"We got to play our style of basketball this time," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We didn't fall behind (The Gators trailed 15-0 at the end of the first quarter in the Jan. 16 match-up at Stephen), and we were able to control the tempo. The kids played some inspired basketball."

It was a 14-14 tie at the end of the first quarter, but the Gators opened up a 33-21 halftime lead and had a 50-33 third quarter cushion.

Billy Holum and Matt Kuznia led the winners with 18 and 15 points, respectively. Strong Badger/Greenbush-Middle River guard played also played a key role in the outcome as John Sparby handed out 10 assists, while defensive pressure applied by Trent Wahl and David Blazek kept the Tigers from getting into an offensive flow, pointed out Eldon Sparby.

David McGlynn led Stephen in scoring with 14 points.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 53 percent from the field (31/59), while Stephen struggled with a 32 percent figure (18/57). The Gators were 3-for-7 at the free throw line; the Tigers went 5-for-9. The winners had a 44-32 edge.

The Gators are 12-1 for the year.

RLCC girls lose 57-45

Red Lake County Central fell behind at the start and could never make up the difference Tuesday in a 57-45 girls high school basketball loss at Red Lake Falls.

The Eagles had quarter leads of 13-6, 26-17 and 43-31.

"We could never seem to get it under eight points," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Kolvisto. "We were out-hustled."

The play of Angel Mickelson was one of the few Red Lake County Central bright spots, noted Kolvisto, who said the 5-10 junior played the best game of her career in a 21-point, 10-rebound effort that featured 9-for-11 shooting from the field.

But the Mustangs were just 17-for-43 shooting overall, a 40 percent figure that was an anemic 8-for-33, 24 percent showing without Mickelson's numbers.

Eagles' rally fails to produce a win

A late-game Grygla-Gatzke rally ran out of steam down the stretch Tuesday as the host Eagles lost a 61-57 boys high school basketball decision to Kittson County North.

The Cougars had quarter leads of 14-9, 29-22 and 46-36. It was a 16-point third quarter spread when the Eagles kicked their comeback into gear – a rally that put Grygla-Gatzke on top 54-52 with 1 1/2 minutes left.

But the Eagles couldn't finish it off. "We spent a lot of energy just trying to catch up," pointed out Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "We just didn't have anything left at the end. We worked so hard coming back like that, it was too bad we didn't have a win to show for it."

Mike Jelle had a strong 19-point, 16-rebound game for the Eagles, who were without leading scorer Jeremy Engelstad, sidelined by illness. Joey Wilebski of the Cougars matched Jelle's 19-point effort.

Grygla-Gatzke shot 35 percent from the field (22/62), while Kittson County North hit at a 50 percent clip (23/46). The Eagles were 12-for-17 at the free throw line, where the Cougars went 14-for-25. Grygla-Gatzke had a 43-31 rebound advantage, but also had more turnovers, 17-14.

"We played some great defense the last 11-12 minutes of the game," said Johnson, who watched his team come up with 15 steals in the comeback effort.

The Eagles are 6-5.

MCC girls knock off Roseau 46-40

Great defense and adequate offense was a successful combination for the Marshall County Central girls Thursday as they surprised North Border Conference-leading Roseau 46-40 in a high school basketball match-up at Newfolden.

"It was our best game of the year, by far," reported Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "Our defense won the basketball game. We played some outstanding defense, and we played well enough on offense."

The win put the Nordics at 9-7. They will be in Roseau for a quick rematch Monday, but that will be a nonconference affair.

Marshall County Central trailed only at the very start. Once the Nordics went ahead their deliberate style of play provided quarter leads of 12-11, 28-18 and 36-28.

A balanced Marshall County Central offense included 16 points from Sara Lokstad and 14 from Sandi Gustafson on the inside, plus 12 points from Shanon Magner on the outside.

Megan Taylor led Roseau with 13 points and Theresa Gotzlaman had 10 – well below their scoring averages, thanks to strong defensive play by Tara Underdahl and Magner, said Mjelde.

The Nordics were 18-for-41 from the field (44 percent) and made 10 of 14 free throws, including a 6-for-7 fourth quarter to keep the Rams at bay. Roseau went 16-for-53 from the field (30 percent) and 7-for-13 at the line. The Nordics had a 28-25 rebound edge, but they also had more turnovers, 23-11.

Goodridge/Grygla.............37

Krissi Super scored 12 of her game-high 25 points in the fourth quarter as Badger/Greenbush-Middle River pulled away from upset-minded Goodridge/Grygla in the Gators' 51-37 Thursday win at Goodridge.

The 5-10 Wolverines had an 11-9 first quarter lead and trailed the 13-3 Gators just 21-18 and 33-27 at the next two stops before losing ground at the end.

"I was really proud of the kids," said Goodridge/Grygla coach Mike Gast. "They really worked hard. We kept it close, and if we could have made our free throws (5/18), it might have been interesting."

Brandi Stratton led the Wolverines with 11 points, while Jeani Ryan turned in a strong 10-point, 10-rebound game.

"We were just glad to get out of there with a win," offered Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Nelhauer. "We were really slow coming out of the blocks.

TRF Archery Club stages Bowhunter Round tournament

Thief River Falls Archery Tournament hosted one of the first Indoor Bowhunting Rounds of 1993 over the weekend – a fund-raising event that drew 55 participants.

The event earmarked 50 percent of the entry fee profits to the Bowhunter Defense Fund.

Dave Hanson of Thief River Falls and Ken McKinney of Grand Forks both posted solid scores that included a Robin Hood – where the shooter splits an arrow that had already been been ledged in the target.

Club officials extended a thank-you to the participants, and announced that they will be hosting a qualifying Indoor 300 Round tournament Feb. 6-7 for all archers who would like to participate in the MSAA Indoor Archery Championships March 28 in St. Cloud.

Olson, Nordics beat Warroad

Tim Olson supplied the offense and the Marshall County defense did the rest Tuesday as the Nordics beat visiting Warroad 61-41 in boys high school basketball.

Olson scored 28 points and grabbed 16 rebounds as the Nordics improved to 8-4. He was the game's only double figure scorer.

Outside of Olson, the game belonged to the Marshall County Central defense. Warroad trailed at the quarter stops 11-6, 32-11 and 45-20. The Warriors got off just 28 shots, hitting 12 of them, and they were out-rebounded 44-20 – failing to pick up a single offensive rebound in the first half.

"We played our best defense of the season in the first half," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We played aggressive, we scrambled, and we got all the loose balls."

The Nordics shot 46 percent from the field (21/46). Both teams were busy at the free throw line, where Marshall County Central went 17-for-30 and Warroad was 16-for-26.

It wasn't very pretty, but Badger/Greenbush-Middle River did come up with a win Friday in a late-reported 65-55 boys high school basketball game at Warroad.

"It was a flat, uninspired basketball game," reported Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We have no excuses. We just didn't execute."

Scholarship for courage announced

Chancellor Christenson Scholarship for Courage for Minnesota Community college students has been announced and is named after Dr. Gerald Christenson, former head of the Minnesota Community College System.

One award of $1,500 and five for $500 will be announced in May. Scholarships must be used for study at a Minnesota community college.

When Dr. Christenson retired last June, friends and community college foundations contributed funds for a scholarship in his honor.

The award is open to any community college student in good academic standing who has completed between 30 and 80 credits. Rules say the scholarships will be given to "persons who have courageously sought to pursue community college education in the face of demanding personal circumstances—whether those circumstances are social, economic or physical—or to students who have performed personal acts of courage and heroism."

Dr. Christenson often spoke admiringly of students who had begun college at a non-traditional age, often juggling responsibilities for children, jobs and occasionally physical handicaps with their studies.

Applications for the awards are available at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls and the other 20 campuses of the Minnesota Community College System. Deadline for application is March 15.

Teleconference on HIV/AIDS at NCC Feb. 2

Interactive telecast on HIV and AIDS on the college campus and in the workplace will air from 12 noon to 2 p.m. Tuesday, February 2, in room C54 at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls.

The telecast is entitled "Everybody's Business: HIV/AIDS on Campus" and is co-sponsored by the American Red Cross and the American Association of Community Colleges.

In addition to providing information about HIV and AIDS, including transmission and prevention, the program will focus on the issues people face when attending college, working or living with someone who is HIV-positive or has AIDS. Two people living with HIV will be featured.

For more information contact Sue Minnick at Northland, phone 681-2181, extension 149.

Ada/Borup ... 47
Red Lake Co. Central ... 41

A game-long Red Lake County Central lead disappeared in the final two minutes Thursday as the Mustangs lost a 47-41 game to Ada/Borup in Ada.

The Mustangs had quarter leads of 13-3, 29-22 and 37-31, but were out-scored 16-4 down the stretch.

"You can't play much better than we did in the first quarter," noted Red Lake County Central coach Rick Kolvisto."

But a half-court buzzer-beating three-point shot by the Cougars' Katie Thomas cut into a 29-19 Red Lake County Central lead put Ada/Borup on its comeback trail. "That was a big play right there," acknowledged Kolvisto. "You could see the momentum shift on that basket."

The 6-6 Mustangs were 14-for-41 from the field (34 percent) and 13-for-23 at the free throw line. Ada/Borup had similar figures with a 16-for-42 showing from the field (38 percent) and a 14-for-23 night at the line.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

School District 564 orchestra program received a donation of $100 recently from the Thief River Falls Kiwanis club. Club president Earl Gibson made the presentation to orchestra instructor Bonnie Knapp and student Kalale Steiger, who is also Gibson's granddaughter.

Additional land purchased for school building

Purchase of an additional 5.3 acres of land from Abundant Life church for the new elementary school site was approved at the regular meeting of the School District 564 board of education Monday at the school district service center in Thief River Falls.

The 5.3 acres are located on the east and south sides of the church property and acquisition by the school district will permit two preferences to take place: (1) Alignment of the bus entrance with Cherry Street on the north side of the school property; and (2) location of the elementary school building closer to the Airport Road to shorten length of utilities extension. It will also better square up the property lines.

At the request of Supt. Robert Duncan, the board voted to forego the salary increase that had been negotiated with him for the 1993-1994 school year. He indicated that the action would be in line with settlements with other school employee groups which had agreed to no salary increase for the 1993-94 school year.

The board also heard an update on the district's building programs from Supt. Robert Duncan, adopted a change in graduation requirements, approved a number of extra-curricular assignments and adopted a sexual harassment and sexual violence policy.

A recommendation by the district's PER committee to require three years of science instruction for graduation from high school was accepted and will be implemented beginning with next year's freshman class.

Extra-curricular assignments approved were as follows: Everett Marshall, high school stage manager; Angela Hoglo, high school Knowledge Bowl; Elaine Grovum, high school student senate; Carl Lindberg, Mock Trial; Charlie Cornell, Citizen Bee; John Wallberg, Math League and Math Counts; and Alice Hofstad, high school photo club;

Also Sheryl Novacek, 12th grade advisor; Linda Goulet, 11th grade advisor, National Honor Society advisor and Business Club co-advisor; Regina Olson, 10th grade advisor; Cal Lindberg, ninth grade advisor; Connie Stock, spring play director; Darcy Reese, Swingsations; and Dunn Holm Jr., assistant boys swim coach.

Authorization was given to post for instructors for one hour of Introduction to Drafting and one hour of Introduction to Aviation Careers at Lincoln high school. Mary Nordhagen was hired as swimming pool aide effective Oct. 19, 1992.

Lincoln cheerleaders Kristin Boughton and Dana McGeary reported to the board on their trip to Kansas City, MO for the national cheerleading competition in December. Lincoln cheerleaders received the "Spirit" award for their division.

Lydia Morken was recognized as a member of the UND Honors Band. Listed as recently completing high school graduation requirements through the Area Learning Center were John Gooselaw, Oklee; Jessica Bruokhorst, Thief River Falls; Chandra Nelson, St. Hilaire; and Chris Johnson, Warroad.

A number of organizations were also cited for financial contributions to school programs, activities and organizations.

TRF driver wins 1993 I-500 race

Kirk Hibbert, a native of Driggs, Idaho, and a part-time resident of Thief River Falls, won the I-500 cross-country snowmobile race Wednesday aboard a 1993 Arctic Cat 440ZR, beating a field of 218 racers, most of them aboard Polaris Indys.

Hibbert started out the final day of the race in third position three minutes and eight seconds behind the leader, Doug Lasher on a Polaris Indy XCR. Hibbert passed Lasher for the lead with just two miles to go in the race and held him off for a four second margin of victory.

"It was the hardest I've ever ridden in my life," said Hibbert.

The I-500, which was known as the Winnipeg-to-St. Paul I-500 when it used to pass through Thief River Falls in the late 1970s and early 1980s, was a four-day race this year. The race began in White Bear Lake, MN, on Sunday and [illegible] terday with overnight stops in Brainerd, Duluth and Grand Marais. Throughout the race, the drivers faced varied terrain and weather conditions.

Hibbert, age 35, has been racing snowmobiles since 1970, and is a key member of the Team Arctic racing program. Hibbert has earned a reputation as a versatile terrain racer, regularly winning cross-country, sno-cross and hill climb events. He was the racer to watch in 1990 when he piloted Arctic Cat snowmobiles to major victories in the MRP Sno-Cross circuit, Rocky Mountain Cross-Country Racing circuit, Jackson Hole World Championship Hill Climb, and the I-500.

Final results for the top five finishers, in order of name, snowmobile, overall time, and seconds or minutes behind the leader, are as follows: 1. Kirk Hibbert, Arctic Cat 440ZR, 11:37:01; 2. Doug Lasher, Polaris Indy XCR, 11:37:05, :04; 3. Brad Pake, Polaris Indy XCR, [illegible] Polaris Indy XCR, 11:44:04, 7:03; 5. Greg Rugland, Polaris Indy XCR, 11:47:02, 10:01.

Architect's concept of new elementary school for School District 564

Elementary school plans in final stages

Most staff and interest group input received. Board will serve as general contractor under construction management approach

Moving toward a final approval by the School District 564 board at its March 8 regular meeting, plans for the district's new elementary school have been going through a process of review and revision for the past few months. Residents of the district approved the project in a bond issue election held during the September 15 primary election.

"The architects and engineers have spent considerable time with the elementary staff to include each grade level and focus groups in each of the specialty areas such as physical education, technology, media center, food service and music," says Dr. Robert Duncan, superintendent of schools.

"The schematic/design development project committee has been meeting with the architects overseeing the project and is very near completing its work," he added.

Members of that committee are Glenn Espe, Jane Miller, Tom Schafer, Jean Larson, Donna Nelson, Sue LeMoine, Lois Bergland, Jon Broband, Jodie Olson, Al Buhl and Deane Cerny.

Architect's concept of the front view of the new school has been prepared, along with a basic floor plan for the building. Both are published in today's issue of the "Northern Watch." In the near future a scale model of the school will be ready and placed on display in the public library along with a colored drawing of what the front of the building will look like from ground level. (Announcement will be made when the model goes on display.)

A committee will be formed soon to develop a process in which input from the community will be involved in naming the school.

Throughout the discussion, development and revision process, the school has retained the separate "schoolhouse" concept presented during preparation for the bond issue. Separate areas of the school will be designated for preschool, kindergarten and first grades, for second and third grades, and for fourth and fifth grades. Each "schoolhouse" will have its own separate playground area as well as separate entrances.

The building will be constructed of concrete block with a brick veneer exterior. From ground level the roof will appear flat, but will be constructed with a slope so there will be proper water drainage from the roof, Dr. Duncan said.

Students will enter the building from the north side of the school where most of the bus loading and unloading will take place. Main entrance for the public, as well as parking for the public and staff, will be on the south side of the school. A separate entrance and parking will be provided for preschool programs.

The main entrance to the building on the south side will be distinguished by a bell tower. When people enter the building they will have immediate access to the administrative area where they can be directed to specific parts of the school.

Supt. Duncan said the building will cover 138,000 square feet and is designed for eight sections of every grade, but the internal walls of the building will be structured in such a way that room numbers and sizes can be changed to meet specific student enrollment and instructional needs.

"The building will have an excellent system for climate control and air quality throughout the structure," Dr. Duncan said. "The board of education is continuing to look at the feasibility of both heating and cooling the building with a geothermal system which pushes water through underground piping and then bringing it back into the building.

"This method is very similar to the heat pump system and uses a renewable energy source, making the district less reliant on natural fuels. The board will be making a final decision on that issue in the next couple of weeks."

Break-in at McIntosh school

McIntosh — On January 19, thieves entered the McIntosh school building through an ITV room window on the east side. They forced entry into the special education rooms located next to the new gym entrance, but came up empty except for a small amount of cash found in the drawers. They also forced entry into the main office on the second floor and tried to open the safe. They were interrupted when a custodian reported for work. The incident is under investigation by the Polk county sheriff's department. (McIntosh Times)

Predator control discussed in Grygla

Grygla — Wolves and other livestock predators were discussed recently in Grygla during a meeting sponsored by the Northern Lights extension cluster. Among the issues discussed was the increasing number of timber wolves in the area and the shortage of funds to compensate livestock owners for livestock destroyed by wolves. Methods to control predators, including coyotes, bears, foxes, owls and hawks, such as electric fences and guard dogs were discussed and the general feeling was that there should be more compensation for damages. The maximum allowed by law at present is $400 per animal. (Grygla Eagle)

Red Lake Co-op gives power to the people

A Red Lake Falls business distributes its product through one-half inch aluminum lines to 4,689 locations.

Red Lake Electric Cooperative's electric lines stretch 2,557 miles to portions of Red Lake, Pennington, Marshall and Polk counties. In 1992 the co-op distributed 92.4 million kilowatt-hours of electricity.

One kwh would light about seventeen 60 watt bulbs for one hour.

The 3,993 customers/owners of the cooperative compose the sixth most sparsely populated rural electric system in Minnesota with 1.8 customers per mile of line.

The lack of density poses challenges for the system. "It's a different world. We're very rural in nature," said Ron Kennedy, Red Lake Electric Cooperative manager. Cost, maintenance and exposure to the elements provide the most challenges, Kennedy said.

"If a windstorm goes through anywhere in our service area, it's going to get some of our system. With that many miles of line we are exposed to a tremendous amount of bad things that can happen," Kennedy said. "Fortunately a lot of bad things (sleet and wind storms) haven't happened lately."

In 1992 the customers were out of power a 1.1 hour average. "If there is an advantage to having the system spread out, rather than concentrated in an area like Thief River Falls, we can have a problem one place but it only might affect 200 customers instead of 2,000," Kennedy said.

The co-op buys electricity from Grand Forks-based Minnkota Power Cooperative in Grand Forks, N.D., which draws 20 per cent of its electricity from federal dam sys-

Froiland wins spelling bee

Eighth grader Reid Froiland, son of Barry and Susan Froiland and a student at Franklin middle school, won the Thief River Falls public schools spelling bee Tuesday afternoon in the Lincoln high school cafeteria.

Second place went to Nate Keller, seventh grader at Franklin and son of Bruce and Kathy Keller. Both will advance to the regional contest Saturday, March 6, at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls.

Third place winner and alternate to the regional event was Stephanie Wiseth, a sixth grader at Franklin and the daughter of Terry and Darlene Wiseth.

After 21 of the 23 contestants had been eliminated in the spell-down—including Stephanie who missed the word "criticism" and was the 21st to be eliminated—Reid and Nate were matched in head-to-head competition.

Reid spelled "punctually" correctly, but Nate missed "politician." Reid corrected that spelling, then correctly spelled "especially" to win the contest.

Diane Marshall was coordinator for the spelling bee and Pat Johnson pronounced the words for the spellers. Judges were Carol Tranby, Dr. Robert Duncan and Marvin Lundin.

Other contestants in the spelling bee and the parent listed on their school records include the following:

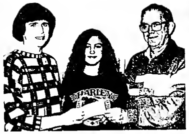
Eighth Grade—Heidi Johnson, daughter of Dr. Peter Johnson; Stephanie Wold, daughter of Richard Wold; Cori Walseth, daughter of Lyle Walseth; and Amber Troy, daughter of Brian Olson.

Sparby seeks state ASCS director post



State Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls is among candidates being considered for Presidential appointment to the position of executive director of the federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) in Minnesota.

Sparby, who was employed by the ASCS for 13 years and managed several county offices including the Pennington county office in Thief River Falls, said that he has asked to be considered for the appointment to be made by President Bill Clinton. A decision is expected in March or April.

The ASCS executive directorship is one of seven federal positions in Minnesota subject to Presidential appointment. Others are three state ASCS committee memberships, state FmHA executive director, a federal marshal and U.S. attorney. These officers serve at the pleasure of the President and often change with a change in administration.

Sparby, who is in his 11th year as a State Representative from District 1B, said the executive director position is "a good job" that a person won't get unless he makes himself available.

If he does receive the appointment, a special election would be held to elect a new representative from District 1B.

Sparby seeks state ASCS director post

State Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls is among candidates being considered for Presidential appointment to the position of executive director of the federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) in Minnesota.

Sparby, who was employed by the ASCS for 13 years and managed several county offices including the Pennington county office in [illegible] he has asked to be considered for the appointment to be made by President Bill Clinton. A decision is expected in March or April.

The ASCS executive directorship is one of seven federal positions in Minnesota subject to Presidential appointment. Others are three state ASCS committee memberships, state FmHA executive director, a federal marshal and U.S. attorney. These officers serve at the pleasure of the President and often change with a change in administration.

Sparby, who is in his 11th year as a State Representative from District 1B, said the executive director position is "a good job" that a person won't get unless he makes himself available.

If he does receive the appointment, a special election would be held to elect a new representative from District 1B.

RLF city clerk resigns

Stephen superintendent to fill in at Kennedy

Kennedy — Jim Schindele, the superintendent of the Stephen school district, will be the interim superintendent for the Kennedy district. Bethel Assembly church has new pastor

Fosston — Rev. Tom Flaherty is the new pastor at the Bethel Assembly church in Fosston. He and his wife, Alice, and their four children moved to Fosston in early January. His last position was as assistant pastor at Madision, WI, in a large church with eight pastors. Flaherty says he is already enjoying small town life, as he is recognized in local stores, which, he points out, would never happen in a large city. (Thirteen Towns)

Border fishing troubles getting worse

Warroad — The trouble between the United States and Canada over border fishing waters is getting worse instead of better. The two sides met recently to talk about ways to cool things down, but the meeting came just after the Canadian decision to increase the daily use for fishing in their waters from $3.50 to $5 per day. One proposal is to issue a stamp for fishing in border lakes and waterways with the proceeds to go to a joint commission to benefit the same lake or river area where the stamp was issued. (Warroad Pioneer)

Liepis hired as Kittson Central superintendent

Hallock — John Liepis, Kittson Central school's new interim superintendent should be familiar to many residents of the former Hallock school district since he was superintendent in Hallock in 1962-68 and returned to the district in 1985 to serve as interim superintendent for a few months following the resignation of Supt. Bruce Montplaisir. Liepis is now retired and living in Bemidji, so he will be returning to Hallock on a weekly basis for three days each week. He is temporarily replacing Jerry Scott, whose resignation was effective February 1. (Kittson County Enterprise)

Quinoa: Crop of the future in Grafton?

Grafton, ND — A crop that has grown in the Andes Mountains region since 3,000 BC has found its way into North Dakota and onto the Walsh county Job Development authority agenda January 26. The crop, pronounced "keenwa," can survive sub-freezing temperatures, droughts, high altitudes and sandy soils and is presently being grown in Colorado. The Walsh county group is planning to study the possibility of growing the crop in the Grafton area. (Walsh County Record)

Clearbrook to host dinner theater Feb. 27

Clearbrook — The Buffalo Creek Players from Glencoe will present the play "Getting Meme-married" Saturday, February 27 in the Clearbrook elementary gym. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. with play following at 8 p.m. The play is a three-act comedy. Cost is $10 for both the dinner and play and $5 for just the play. Call 776-3112 or 487-3262 for reservations. (Leader-Record)

Book lists Bemidji as one of best towns in US

Bemidji — Bemidji has been labeled again. Once deemed the crime capital of Minnesota, residents can now safely say this is one of the best small towns in the country. A new book, The 100 Best Small Towns in America, ranks Bemidji as number 53. Three other Minnesota towns, Red Wing, Grand Rapids and Marshall, also made the list. Criteria to make the list were per capita income, proportion of black and other non-white population, number of serious crimes, local spending on government, percentage of population with four-year college education, number of physicians, and the number of people aged 25-34. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Soupçon

By Sherry LaCoursiere

Warm up these cold February days with soup and sandwiches. This type of meal can be eaten on trays in front of a fire or in front of the television set, if you like. Today we'll give you sandwich ideas; next week, soups!

Make these ahead of time for quick fixing:

BAKED CHEESE 'N HAM SANDWICHES

2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Swiss cheese
1 can (4 1/2 ounce) deviled ham
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
8 slices bread, toasted softened butter
4 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon sesame seed
1/2 teaspoon caraway seed

In bowl, combine cheese, ham and mustard.

Butter toast and spread 1/2 cup of ham mixture on each of 4 slices Top with remaining toast slices.

Quarter sandwiches diagonally and arrange in 3 rows in buttered 8-inch square baking dish, crust side down.

Combine eggs and milk and pour over sandwiches. Sprinkle with sesame and caraway seeds and bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes.

May be assembled ahead of time and refrigerated until ready to bake.)

The kids will enjoy these:

CHEESY PONYTAIL FRANKS

2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
1/4 cup chili sauce
1/4 cup pickle relish
1/8 teaspoon oregano
8 hot dogs
8 hot dog rolls

In bowl, combine cheese, chili sauce, relish and oregano.

Slit hot dogs lengthwise, but do not cut through. Fill with cheese mixture, placing about 3 tablespoonfuls in each.

Place hot dogs in roll and place each on a square of aluminum foil. Seal carefully, twisting ends to make "ponytails."

Heat in 400 degree oven for 15-20 minutes.

These "sandwiches" are pretty enough for company::

HAM AND CHEESE FILLED ROLLS

2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
1 cup ground cooked ham
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup tomato sauce
1/4 cup butter, melted
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
8 Brown and Serve rolls
8 thin strips green pepper
1 hard cooked egg yolk, sieved

In bowl, combine cheese, ham, onion, tomato sauce, butter and green pepper.

Cut thin slice from top of each roll and scoop out center. Fill with cheese and ham mixture and place green pepper strip across top.

Place on baking sheet and bake 12-15 minutes at 400 degrees, or until rolls are browned. Sprinkle top with egg yolk.

This is a delicious way to fancy up tuna sandwiches:

BAKED TUNA SANDWICHES

2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/3 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
8 slices of bread
1 can tuna, drained
4 ounces grated Cheddar cheese
1/4 cup chopped celery
2 teaspoons chopped onion
1/4 cup butter

In shallow bowl, stir together eggs, milk and salt. Dip bread into mixture and set aside on waxed paper to allow bread to absorb liquid.

Mix tuna, cheese, celery and onion and spread between 2 slices of bread.

Melt butter in 9 inch square pan in 350 degree oven.

Place sandwiches, one at a time, in pan, turning to coat both sides with butter.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes, or until golden brown.

This recipe will serve a bunch, but you can adjust for just a few people:

ZIPPY BARBECUED FRANKS

3/4 cup butter
1 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 cup flour
1 1/2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1 1/2 cups water
1 1/2 cups chili sauce
1/2 cup vinegar
1/4 cup Worcestershire sauce
18 hot dogs
18 hot dog rolls

In large saucepan, melt butter and saute onion until tender. Blend in flour, sugar, mustard and garlic powder.

Gradually stir in water, chili sauce, vinegar and Worcestershire.

Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Add hot dogs, cover and simmer for 10-12 minutes.

Brush rolls with barbecue sauce and place on broiler pan to toast.

Serve hot dogs in toasted rolls with sauce spooned over them.

King Agassiz seminar slated

Three segments of interest to farmers in the Red River Valley will be presented Friday, February 12, at the King Agassiz marketing seminar beginning at 9:30 a.m. in the north area of the Red River Valley Winter Shows building in Crookston.

In the first segment, Connie Mehrkens of Thief River Falls, Neil Widner of Stephen and Neil Plante of Crookston will discuss factors they look for in developing a marketing plan for their operations. They will cover how they determine if and when to sell grain or wait for the market to move.

The second segment will feature how the St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator association develops and implements its marketing plan for the year. Discussed will be some of the marketing tools the elevator has available for farmers to use and the elevator management's philosophy in providing services and a competitive price to farmers while remaining a profitable operation.

Final segment will feature presentations from U.S. Congressman Collin Peterson on potential changes in the farm bill and state senate agriculture committee chairman Sen. Joe Bertram on legislation affecting agricultural production in the state. State Sen. Roger Moe will cover the state financial situation and affects which may be seen in agriculture as a result of the state budget.

Some time will be allowed for questions and comments by the audience. The seminar is sponsored by the Winter Shows King Agassiz group and is open to the general public through the regular admission to the shows building.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

A pay freeze for public employees? Why not? After all, they comprise a small enough voting block so as to be insignificant in determining the outcome of any elections.

Governor Carlson, I don't feel guilty about how much I make. My wife and I are both public employees. I have not received a wage increase since January, 1991. For the second year in a row our combined W-2s are less than the preceding year. We do not have a second home in Arizona or on a lake.

At times like this much is made of the fact that, depending on which survey you read, Minnesota is among the top 10 or 15 in terms of taxes. Conveniently forgotten is the fact that Minnesota also consistently ranks among the top five in quality of life. Some of the factors that go into these rankings are things like education, health care, parks, roads and low crime rates. Do these things happen by accident? No. It's because qualified, dedicated people have been attracted to those fields; it's also because our legislators have listened to their constituents and pressed for programs demanded by them.

Who benefits from these programs? Only public employees? No. Every resident of and visitor to this state benefits from these programs. As taxpayers ourselves, anyone who has ever worked for government at any level sees ways to increase efficiency and productivity and is concerned about waste. We are finally being included in the decision-making processes and are asked for ideas to streamline government and increase services.

Those of you successful in private businesses know full well what you could expect in terms of employee morale and productivity if you began treating them as second class citizens. Governor Carlson has not apparently learned this very basic principle.

Much has been made of the lack of layoffs in government. One of the biggest arguments in favor of public service has always been job security. I'd be awfully suspicious of anyone seeking a career in public service to get rich!

However, there have been layoffs; there have also been positions left vacant after retirements. There have been cutbacks in operating budgets and services. You should hear the whining when I have to tell someone I can't take care of a problem right this minute because there's either no one available or no money to get the job done! "Service, please—but I'd rather not pay for it."

I've heard other public employees say that they would be willing to take a hit in their pocketbooks. But they don't see why they alone are being singled out to balance the state's budget, particularly if the problems that created the deficit in the first place aren't fixed. What will you do next year, Governor Carlson, and the year after that when we are faced with the same dilemma?

Back in the '30s my dad found a job working for the State of Minnesota. After a couple of years he quit his job, married Mom and bought a farm. When I asked why he quit his state job he said he couldn't get used to being told what to do and when. I reminded him that he spent the next 40 years being told "what to do and when" by 35 Holsteins. "Yes," he agreed, "but at least the cows appreciated me." Not much has changed in over 50 years.

I'm fortunate to work for an agency that treats its individual employees pretty well, a lot like family. Sadly, I'm advising my family, my kids, not to seek careers in public service. And I'm not alone. We taxpayers should be concerned.

Sincerely,
Chuck Schwartz
Thief River Falls

To The Editor:

In regard to the editorial in the Northern Watch (Jan.30, 1993), I believe the last attempt to get initiative and referendum before the voters of Minnesota was about 10 years ago when the "Minneapolis Daily American," whose editor was Francis McGovern, tried to get initiative and referendum before the legislature. Mr. McGovern furnished petitions for signatures free.

As a subscriber to the "Minneapolis American" I contacted people for signatures. Most people had no idea what this was all about. After an explanation they were very enthusiastic.

The biggest drawback to getting initiative and referendum for voters was our representatives in the legislature. Those that I contacted did not approve of this measure, citing North Dakota as a poor example of referendum. However, they did not mention the power the people of North Dakota had in lowering taxes and reducing waste in government.

The "Daily American's" effort ended with over 6,000 signatures which, when presented to the legislative committee, ended up in the waste basket.

As long as the tax and spend legislature is DFL controlled, this measure does not stand a chance.

Sincerely,
Arnold Honl
Roseau, MN

To The Editor:

I was saddened by the letter of Glenna Hansen in the January 23 issue of the "Northern Watch." Ms. Hansen wrote in support of the Freedom of Choice Act, the bill which asks Congress to turn the judicial law of Roe v. Wade into Congressional legislation, but I'm afraid she wrote hastily and without thought.

It is hardly placing a "stranglehold" upon women to say, "Ma'am, you may not kill your baby." It is hardly accurate to equate born-again Christians and other right to life supporters with bomb-throwing fanatics. It is hardly reasonable to criticize a person who shows a picture of the mutilated body of a child, yet applaud the person who did the mutilation.

Ms. Hansen may, as she predicts, become a first-class citizen, but it will not be through the Freedom of Choice Act, because it isn't the ability to hurt others that makes one a first-class citizen. It is the ability to place the good of all, and especially those least able to defend themselves, before one's own selfish interests.

I hope, incidentally, that you have called your Congressman and Senators to tell them you expect better of them than the Freedom of Choice Act.

Sincerely,
Dale Blanshan
Warroad, MN

Spelling Bees Are Fun.... And Good Learning Indicator As Well

All elements of competition are embodied in the spelling bees which are being held in area schools this time of the year. They are challenges to the students who participate, albeit a little stressful as well. The desire to perform well, often in front of a crowd including classmates, parents, grandparents and other friends and family members, certainly adds to the contestants' nervousness.

Unlike athletic competition, where action often may be the instantaneous result of conditioned reflexes, spelling bees allow each contestant a certain amount of time for thought, reflection and consideration. This also allows time for doubt, second-guessing, loss of confidence and indecision, all of which increase the stress factor and have an effect on performance.

The luck of the draw also plays an important role in the determination of an eventual winner. A speller may know how to spell all but one word on the list, but if that particular word is the one given to him or her to spell, he or she will be eliminated by that one misspelling. Similarly, a speller may know only a few words on the list, but if he or she is given only those words to spell, advancement in the spell-down is assured.

With that said, it is interesting that in the Thief River Falls schools contest Tuesday afternoon it took less than 90 words to eliminate 25 of the 26 contestants—representative of the best spellers in fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades in their respective schools—or an average of less than four words per contestant. Reid Frolland took the championship—his third consecutive title since sixth grade—with correct spelling of "politician" and "especially" in the final spell-down with seventh grader Nate Keller.

Here are some of the words missed along the way: Vacant, mansion, actually, cautiously, candidate, anniversary, aquatic, interupt, sponser, similar, secretary, extremely, assistence, fiery, sentinal, assassination, luscious, schedule, tolerance, posession and criticism. (We intentionally misspelled five of them; did you notice which ones?)

At Goodridge on Friday, January 29, it took 84 of the words from the same list to eliminate 11 out of 12 contestants—an average of nearly eight words per contestant. Does this mean Goodridge students are better spellers than Thief River Falls students? Spelling bee results would indicate so, but are no more than an indicator. The spelling bee is not intended to yield that type of information, nor should it be. It's supposed to be fun.

The oral spelling bee has spectator interest and increases the competitive nature of the entrants. A better indicator of spelling knowledge, however, might be a list of 150 to 200 words, which would be pronounced orally and written by each contestant. The contestant with the most words spelled correctly would be the winner. Ties could be broken with a subsequent 10-word or 25-word test. It would be a little dull, however, to sit and watch students write 150 or 200 words.

Perhaps most people are not as concerned with spelling as those of us in the writing field who deal with the printed word. We are not always correct in our spelling, but we make every effort to be, because it does matter if the spelling of a word is right or wrong. After all, our language as a means of communication is at stake.

(By the way, the five intentionally misspelled words are interupt, sponser, assistence, sentinel and possession. If you spotted them, give yourself an "A" and go to the head of the class.)

One More Shot At Lack Of Class In NFL Players

A few weeks ago we wrote about our revulsion from the rehearsed showboating of National Football League players when they score touchdowns, sack quarterbacks, intercept passes or do some of the other things they are paid more than enough money to do as part of their normal job description. The struts, swaggers, dances, etc., etc., are too egotistical to condone.

So it did our hearts good to have one highlight in the otherwise dull Super Bowl game last Sunday. That was having a showboating player stripped of the ball by a determined defensive back just before he crossed the goal line with a fumble recovery for what should have been an easy touchdown. The ball rolled through the endzone for a touchback and resulted in a loss of ball possession as well as loss of a score.

Never mind that the recipients of hundreds of thousands of dollars wagered in number pools across the country changed on that faux pas. Never mind that the game score was already totally out of hand and another score was meaningless to the outcome. Never mind that the player feels, or should feel, forever embarrassed for his stupidity. It was good to see showboating get what it deserves, although we expect no lessons to be learned from the experience. Some egos are so full they can't be deflated.

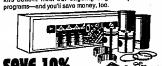
Are you interested in the arts? Would you like to stretch your artistic talents to the max? Then consider the arts school. It may be the place for you.

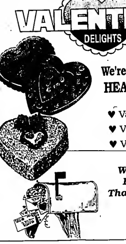
The arts school is a tuition-free, public school for 11th and 12th graders who are highly motivated and committed to serious study. An individualized program is offered which allows students to progress to the highest level of their abilities.

Students with little or no formal education in the arts as well as students with an arts background are encouraged to apply.

Write or call:
Northern Expressions School of the Arts
230 South LaBree Ave.
Thief River Falls, MN 56701
1-218-681-8677
Priority Application Deadline Mar. 1, 1993



What art areas will be offered at the Arts School? The school will have six art areas as its base. These six art areas are visual, media (photography, video, etc.), theater, music, (vocal, orchestral, and band) dance, and literary.



What is the Northern Expressions School of the Arts? The arts school is a tuition-free magnet school for the Seventh Congressional District of Minnesota. It is one of seven in the state of Minnesota. The funding to establish the arts school came from the 1990-92 biennium. Grants were awarded for a two year term to plan and implement a magnet arts school for each of the congressional districts in Minnesota.

What will the Northern Expressions School of the Arts be like? Each student will have an individualized learning plan that will be planned by the student, their parents, and an advisor from the school. The arts and academics are stressed equally and are integrated so students come to understand the relationships among subject areas.

Students elect to study one art area in depth but will be exposed to all six art areas in an interdisciplinary class called "Expressive Connections". The school will also design the learning process around outcomes rather than class time.

Where is the arts school? The Northern Expressions School of the Arts is located at Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls, MN.

Central Marshall County Future Committee set

Concerned residents of central Marshall county have formed the Central Marshall County Project Future Committee as a means of doing something about the future of the Newfolden, Viking and Holt communities instead of just talking about it.

Project Future was started by the Minnesota Extension Service as a way of helping communities to organize themselves, evaluate their communities and plan for future economic and social well-being of the residents. A "town meeting" was held Nov. 19, 1992, when area residents had the opportunity to voice their opinions about the strengths and weaknesses of their communities and volunteer to serve on a steering committee or action teams.

At a meeting of the steering committee January 21, the committee began laying groundwork for the organization, defining duties and responsibilities of officers and members. The name was agreed upon and an outline of the organization's million statement was discussed. A final draft of the mission statement will be prepared and members will vote on its final approval at the February 9 meeting at 7:45 p.m. in the Newfolden community center.

Also discussed at the January 21 meeting were methods of engaging the citizens of the community, getting their input and ideas on what they want their community to be like on one, 10 or 20 years.

"It is vital to the success of Project Future to obtain an accurate assessment of the community, its strengths and weaknesses and what its citizens feel is important to them," states Susan Skadsem, vice chairperson of the committee. "To contact as many people as possible, teams will be contacting the various community organizations in the next few weeks, asking for their input and ideas."

Regular meeting date set for the Central Marshall County Project Future committee is the second Tuesday of every month at 7:45 p.m. in the Newfolden community center. All meetings are open to the public and all interested are encouraged to attend.

A director on the executive committee to represent the Holt area is being sought. Anyone interested in serving the community in that capacity is asked to contact one of the committee members or attend the next meeting and express the desire to serve.

Jim Moe's work is featured

A car customizing project by Jim Moe of rural Thief River Falls is featured in a three-page-plus spread in the February issue of the national "Street Rodder" magazine, now available on local newsstands.

Headlined "One Tough Chop!" the article includes 20 photos of the process required to lower the roof while maintaining proportions of a 1947 Chevrolet sedanette. Moe wrote the brief introductory article which states:

"Last year, Arnold "Phil" Phillips of East Grand Forks, Minnesota, came to me with a challenge: he had acquired a '47 Chevy Fleetline sedanette, and though it was rusty, he had plans to turn it into something unique—a customized street rod—a custom rod!

"he challenged me to chop four inches from the top, but he was concerned about the outcome—he'd seen other chopped Chevys in which the proportions didn't look quite right. The windshields are always too short and the windows too high to be in proportion with the length of the top and trunk. Phil wanted me to do the chop without a 'humped' look at the center.

"Since he would have to drive the car to rod runs all over the country, good visibility was also an important consideration. We decided to lay the windshield back for improved style and better visibility (sacrificing less glass area). We wanted to maintain the original style of the car with a smooth transition—all the way from windshield to rear bumper.

"I readily accepted Phil's challenge, knowing I could accomplish the task, and if problems arose requiring additional body panels, I had my own '47 Chevy Fleetline out back for parts. Fortunately, cannibalization wasn't necessary.

"If you've ever wondered how to hammer one of the General's torpedo-shaped bodies, follow along as we tackle "One Tough Chop."

Photographs on the next two pages illustrated the procedure used to accomplish the project.

Rotary seeks young people to visit China

Five outstanding area business and professional men and women between the ages of 25 and 35 are being sought by the Thief River Falls Rotary club and other Rotary clubs in District 5580 for a visit to Changchun, China, during about four weeks in August of 1993.

The China visit will be under the group study exchange program of the Rotary Foundation of Rotary International. The program strives to improve international understanding by enabling young people from different countries to learn from each other.

To be eligible, team members must have had at least two years in their chosen business or profession and plan to continue in that business or profession. While abroad, team members will visit their professional counterparts, observe their hosts' way of life and study the nation's economic, social and cultural characteristics through travel and discussions.

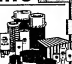
Anyone in the Thief River Falls area interested in participating in the program—for which most of the costs are paid by the Rotary Foundation—may contact project chairman Harold Storhaug or chapter president Barb Kalinoski. Applications must be accepted by the sponsoring Rotary club and returned to the district group study exchange chairman, Gordon Butler of Duluth.

More than 4,200 teams from 100 countries have participated in this Rotary international program since its inception in 1965 at a cost of more than $37.9 million.

Plan business teleconference

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce will participate in a series of legislative teleconferences offered by the Minnesota Chamber of Commerce from February through May.

The teleconferences will take place February 12, May 12, April 9 and May 7 from 8 to 9 a.m. at Northwest Technical College Thief River Falls. Featured will be legislative leaders debating and discussing current business issues at the Capitol.



"The teleconferences are an effective method for our membership's voice to be heard by state lawmakers. Minnesota has many issues that must be worked on to make this state a better place in which to conduct business and be more profitable," stated Delroy Sparby, legislative chairman for the local chamber of commerce.

Local business hit by scam

Last week officials in Pennington county learned that a Thief River Falls business had been hit with a well-known scam.

According to the report from the law enforcement center in Thief River Falls, the local business was contacted by a person representing himself as a California highway patrolman. The person said he was calling for a local resident who supposedly needed money because he had been involved in an accident. He was not hurt but had been speeding and needed money. The individual was able to list names of other stockholders in the same corporation so money was sent. The amount, almost $500, was sent by Western Union. A code name, the name of a stockholder, was used in the transaction.

The money was picked up in North Hollywood by a white male with light brown hair and glasses who was in his mid 40's. The next day, the Thief River Falls business learned that it was a scam.

Law enforcement officials are urging residents to be aware of the scam and check out any contact before sending money.

Arctco sales and earnings both increase

Third quarter net sales increase of 38 per cent and earnings increase of 113 per cent were announced Wednesday by Arctco, Inc. of Thief River Falls.

Sales were up from $45,871,000 at the end of the third quarter a year ago to $63,327,000 on Dec. 31, 1992. Net earnings rose from $2,791,000 or 22 cents per share to $5,953,000 or 46 cents per share during the same period.

For the nine-month period ended Dec. 31, net sales increased 22 per cent to $168,801,000 from $138,726,000 for the same period last year. Net earnings were up 31 per cent to $18,597,000 ($1.44 per share) for the first nine months of fiscal 1993, compared with $14,237,000 ($1.12 per share) earned during the first nine months of fiscal 1992.

The Arctco board of directors also increased the company's regular quarterly cash dividend to eight cents per share from six cents per share, payable on March 2, 1993, to shareholders of record on February 17.

"The decision to increase our regular quarterly cash dividend, which was initially issued last year, reflects our optimism for Arctco's continued growth and profitability," noted Chris Twomey, president and chief executive officer of the company.

Twomey also expressed pleasure with the strong third quarter performance which he said was in line with expectations.

"We have begun initial production and shipping of the Tigershark personal watercraft," he added, "and continue to believe that our fourth quarter results will be consistent with those of prior years."

I Love To Read activities held

Many activities have been scheduled at Goodridge elementary school as classes participate in "I Love To Read" month during February.

Students are being given circles of paper to use in designing an "I Love To Read" button. Entries will be displayed during the month and winners of the button contest will receive books as prizes.

During the week of February 8-11, students will wear a favorite shirt to read in on Monday, keep a rocking chair rocking on Tuesday, observe a favorite character day on Wednesday and make bookmarkers on Thursday. Friday is an in-service day for faculty and staff.

February 16-19 a schedule has been arranged when students "drop everything" else they are doing and read for 15 minutes. Other activities during the week include Valentine parties and Snofest week events.

Concluding events of the month will be award presentations and showing of a movie based on a book. Coordinating the activities is Helen Davidson.

Program set on landscaping

Red Lake county extension service is sponsoring a program on "Trees and Landscaping" Tuesday, February 9, at 1:30 p.m. in the commissioners' room of the Red Lake county courthouse in Red Lake Falls.

The session is intended to help homeowners decide which trees to plant in their yards for appearance and for windbreak purposes. Varieties will be suggested that are hardy for this area and landscaping ideas will be presented.

Presenting the program will be Rhonda Amundson, Red Lake county extension educator. All interested persons are invited to attend.

alter traffic patterns and volume, the district has been working closely with the City of Thief River Falls and Pennington County regarding roads and safety measures. The district also continues to pursue the establishment of a transportation hub through a separate committee. Anyone interested in serving on that committee or providing input may contact Fred Mykleby, transportation supervisor for the district, at 681-7077.

Site preparation and construction on the new elementary school will begin as soon as load limits on roads are lifted this spring. It is planned to have the building ready for use for the start of the 1994-95 school year.

The elementary school is one of several projects in a total $18 million school improvement project for the district. All of the projects, including the elementary school, will be built using the construction management approach.

"This means the board of education will be the general contractor and each division of the building project will be bid separately," Supt. Duncan said.

"For example, divisions will include such construction areas as electrical, mechanical, plumbing, carpet laying, drywall, roofing, bricklaying, steel erection, carpentry, painting, landscaping, site preparation and all other types of work that take place in the completion of a construction project."

The board of education has hired E&V, Incorporated of Minneapolis as its construction management firm. Bill Huttinga is project manager and Jim Haspass will be the site superintendent, providing daily attention to the projects including scheduling, inspection and supervision. He will report monthly to the board of education.

Haspass will move to Thief River Falls and live here for the duration of the district's entire building program, including the elementary school, Lincoln high school, Franklin middle school and school district service center projects.

Supt. Duncan said the construction management firm will also handle all of the bidding including interviewing of the low bidder in each division to make sure the bidder is qualified and equipped to do the work.

"The firm will also hold meetings with contractors who are interested in bidding to explain the scope of each division so that the bidder has a clear understanding of exactly what is in the specifications," Dr. Duncan said. "Review of qualifications will be made before the firm makes its recommendations to the board of education."

Contractors who are interested in being a part of the project are encouraged to contact E&V Incorporated directly at 612-559-4111 or may contact Marcia Sandahl in the superintendent's office (681-8711) and she will forward the information or questions to the company.

"One of the advantages of the construction management approach is that it does give local contractors an opportunity to bid on the project as they will be bidding against other contractors who specialize in the same line of work," the superintendent added.

Specifications are now being developed for the elementary project and bid documents will be prepared.

was a major disappointment for Northland coach Mark Dannhoff following the Pioneers' 75-62 loss to UMC.

"We did not come out with the enthusiasm, intensity and fire we needed," said Dannhoff. "It was quite depressing sitting on the bench and watching the first half. I don't know what the problem was. We did a better job in the second half, but every time we would make a run, Crookston would answer."

UMC led 33-23 at halftime.

"Crookston controlled the tempo in the first half," pointed out Dannhoff. "They slowed it down and lulled us to sleep."

Mike Swanson of the Pioneers led all scorers with 27 points. Jason Hanson had 20 to lead the Trojans.

Neither team shot well – Northland 29 percent (22/76); UMC 36 percent (23/64). But the Trojans cashed in on 24 of 34 free throw opportunities, while the Pioneers were 8-for-13.

Prowlers beat Crookston 4-1

Season-ending Thief River Falls bid to finish above .500 started Tuesday when the Prowlers stopped Crookston 4-1 in Section 8 high school hockey at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Jeremy Olson, Marc Haugen, Jeff Twomey, and Corey Olson scored the goals as the Prowlers ended a three-game winless streak that had dropped them to 7-10-1. They play at Alexandria tonight (Saturday), then finish the regular season at home against Bemidji (Feb. 9) and Fergus Falls (Feb. 13).

Thief River Falls lost a 3-2 overtime decision at Crookston earlier this winter, but the Prowlers were all over the Pirates in the rematch, out-shooting the visitors 37-19.

Crookston goalie Steve Sims faced 18 of those shots in the first period, giving up a goal to Jeremy Olson at 5:29. Marc Seaverson initiated the scoring play when he intercepted a Crookston break-out pass and went to the net for a point-blank shot. Sims made the save, but Olson was there for the rebound and a 1-0 lead.

Thief River Falls pressure on a second period power play wound up producing a 2-0 edge when Haugen's ice-hugging slap shot from the point got through a crowd at the 12-minute mark.

It became 3-0 on another power play goal, this one by Twomey at 5:50 of the third period, as he picked up a loose puck in the slot and got off a quick wrist shot.

Nathan Knutson brought the puck up the ice and Corey Olson finished off the play for a 4-0 cushion at 11:14 – producing Knutson's second assist of the night.

Crookston spoiled a shutout bid by Thief River Falls goalie Trevor Haugen with just 1:05 remaining when a defensive mistake out front allowed Eric Wikoff to bang in his own rebound.

Scoring

First period - TRF, Jeremy Olson (Marc Seaverson), 5:29

Second period - TRF, Marc Haugen (Jason Svir), 12:00

Third period - TRF, Jeff Twomey (Nathan Knutson), 5:50; TRF, Corey Olson (Knutson, Kaine Martell), 11:14; Crookston, Eric Wikoff (Marco Schisano-Justin Paul), 13:55.

NDSCS Wildcats take pair at NCC

Wahpeton's North Dakota State College of Science came up with a basketball doubleheader sweep over host Northland Community College Tuesday, winning the women's game 81-32 and taking the men's game 73-62.

Northland shot just 21 percent from the field (11/52) in losing a one-sided 81-32 women's game.

The bigger, stronger North Dakota State College of Science squad led 34-10 at halftime. The Wildcats shot 49 percent (33/67).

"Our execution was much better than it was over the weekend, but the results were the same," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We're getting plenty of good shots, but they're just not going in."

The winners were also successful at the free throw line with a 13-for-14 showing, while the Pioneers made only 9 of 19 free throws.

The rematch also went to the Wildcats, but this time by 11, 73-62.

"We played really well," said Dannhoff, the Pioneers' first-year coach. "It was probably our best game in terms of staying focused for a full 40 minutes. I think it shows just how much we have improved."

NDSCS won it by shooting 57 percent from the field (28/49), compared to Northland's 35 percent showing (25/71). The Wildcats added a 13-for-22 free throw night; the Pioneers were 7-for-10.

Bemidji swimmers sink Prowlers

Bemidji took care of Thief River Falls 111-78 Tuesday in dual meet boys high school swimming.

It was the Prowlers' first loss in three dual meet starts.

A 1:57.76 first place effort turned in by Daryl Kiesow in the 200 freestyle highlighted the Prowlers' efforts, said Lokken, with Matt Carlson and Brad Cota turning in strong swims with 1-2 finishes in both the 50 and 100 freestyle.

Thief River Falls also won the 200 freestyle relay with Carlson, Cota, Kiesow, and Adam Jacobson, along with the 400 freestyle relay with Kiesow, Brad Kragness, Cota, and Carlson.

Gators, Mustangs add wins

Off nights by a couple of regulars didn't keep Badger/Greenbush-Middle River from going 14-1 Tuesday as 5-8 senior Trent Wahl covered for them with a 21-point night that sparked the Gators past Kittson County North 71-55 in boys high school basketball at Badger.

Wahl was 8-for-12 from the field, 5-for-6 at the free throw line and came up with five steals on an outstanding defensive effort as the Gators shook off the Cougars in the second half. "Trent had a big night," acknowledged Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "He got us going."

Kittson County North stayed within 12-11 and 37-31 at the first two quarter stops before falling behind 54-39 in the third quarter.

"We picked up the pace defensively," explained Sparby. "It was a fast-tempo, good passing game – the style we like to play."

The Gators shot 41 percent from the field (29/71), which included an 0-for-9 effort from three-point range. The Cougars shot 39 percent (22/56). Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 13-for-20 at the free throw line; Kittson County North went 10-for-12.

"Everything went just about right in the first quarter," noted Red Lake County Central coach Todd Fore. "We ran the fast break, we hit the three-point shots, and if we missed, we got the rebound. It was one of our better offensive games of the year."

Four Red Lake County Central scorers hit double figures, led by Aaron Chaput with 15 points.

Grygla-Gatzke, Goodridge results...

Close games are Eagles' specialty

A series of down-to-the-wire finishes for Grygla-Gatzke continued Tuesday when the Eagles edged Argyle 63-62 in boys high school basketball.

Last four games for the 8-6 Grygla-Gatzke squad have been decided by a total of 10 points, including a four-point loss to Kittson County North, a two-point defeat at the hands of Roseau and a three-point win over Goodridge before the one-point home court victory over Argyle.

Grygla-Gatzke, ahead 32-28 at halftime but down 47-41 at the end of the third quarter, took the lead for good on a steal and a basket by Jamie Lunsetter with two minutes left.

A 14-for-17 Grygla-Gatzke fourth quarter free throw performance iced it. The winners were 22-for-29 at the line overall. Argyle made 12 of 17 free throws for the night.

Argyle lost despite shooting 52 percent from the field (24/46). Grygla-Gatzke shot 40 percent (20/50).

Goodridge	53
EGF Sacred Heart	44

Sophomore Mitch Smsky scored 21 points and the Goodridge bench provided a strong supporting role Tuesday as the Haskies came up with a 53-44 win at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

"Our bench saved us," said Goodridge coach John Rahn. "They're bigger than we are. We had to work so hard to stay with them, we got really tired. We needed some help from our bench to stay fresh. It was a good team effort."

Sacred Heart began the game with a 7-0 lead, but Goodridge was ahead 14-9 at the first quarter break, had a 29-22 halftime edge and took a 40-31 advantage into the final quarter.

Goodridge played without the services of Jason Kotrba, sidelined by illness.

Larimore wrestlers top Prowlers 39-33

It was 7-6 Larimore on the mat and 39-33 Polar Bears on the scoreboard Thursday in a dual meet high school wrestling win over Thief River Falls.

Larimore used six pins and an overtime victory to edge the host Prowlers, who picked up points on four pins, a decision and a forfeit.

First match of the night set the stage for the closely contested affair when Thief River Falls freshman Bill Fogarty built a 10-2 first period lead, then held on to edge Nathan Cole 13-12 at 103.

Thief River Falls added a pin by sophomore Dusty Eddleman at 119, and a forfeit for junior Rob Bakken at 140, but fell behind 27-15 before back-to-back pins by senior Lee Nieland at 152 and sophomore John Davis at 160 tied it 27-27.

But the edge belonged to the Polar Bears down the stretch as they finished with two seniors and a sophomore at the final three weights, while the Prowlers lined up with a sophomore and two freshmen.

Larimore senior Randy Moer pinned Thief River Falls sophomore Jason Homme in 1:05 at 171, and after spotting Prowlers freshman Kyle Miller an 8-3 second period lead, Polar Bears sophomore David Brotten recorded a 3:09 pin at 189 to clinch the match, 39-27.

Thief River Falls freshman Matt Lawrence overcame a 7-2 second period deficit to pin Larimore senior Jesse Rutter in the 275-pound finale.

The loss dropped the Prowlers' dual meet record to 3-15-1. It was just the third home appearance of the year for the Prowlers, and their first since the Jan. 9 Thief River Falls Invitational.

UMC sweeps NCC

Area bragging rights went to the University of Minnesota-Crookston Thursday when the Trojans swept rival Northland Community College in a women's/men's Northwest Division basketball doubleheader at Lysaker Gym.

UMC won the women's game 52-42 and added a 75-62 victory in the men's game.

Northland women fell to 6-10, 2-5 in the Minnesota Community College Conference standings, while the Northland men went to 3-14 overall and 0-6 in the MCCC.

Northland	42

A game-long comeback bid by Northland was snuffed out on a single three-point basket as the University of Minnesota-Crookston posted a 52-42 win.

Trailing 26-18 at halftime, Northland managed to make it a five-point game with 7:50 left, only to leave Tricia Swenson open on an in-bounds play, and she hit the trey to stall the Pioneers' rally.

"We had our chances," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "But that three-point basket really hurt. We had expended so much energy getting it back to five, and then all of a sudden it was eight."

"We played much better than we have lately, but we still had a tough night shooting," noted Nikunen.

Thursday area girls high school basketball...

Gators lose to Rams 53-48

Ten-game Badger/Greenbush-Middle River winning streak ended Thursday with a 53-48 girls high school basketball loss to Roseau at Greenbush.

It was the first defeat for the 13-4 Gators since a 57-56 overtime setback at the hands of Climax/Fisher back on Dec. 12. But it was also their second loss of the year to the Rams, who won a 71-59 match-up in early December.

Major problem this time was the Gators' shooting. They usually shoot in the 45 percent range, but against the Rams they had a 32 percent, 18-for-57 night.

And it obviously didn't help matters when Roseau eighth grader Megan Taylor shook off special defensive attention to score 23 points.

"They're a good team," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "They have a lot of weapons. But if we shoot anyway near normal, we would have been in good shape."

Freshman Krissi Super led the Gators with 17 points.

The Rams had quarter leads of 11-7, 26-19 and 39-31.

Tri-County	70
Goodridge/Grygla	33

Goodridge/Grygla missed a bundle of early scoring opportunities, then watched Tri-County take off as the Wildcats blitzed the Wolverines 70-33 in Grygla.

"We played well in the first quarter," reported Goodridge/Grygla coach Mike Gast. "We were aggressive, we did a good job rebounding and we got a ton of good, high percentage shots."

Unfortunately those shots did not fall, and the Wolverines quickly faded. Tri-County had quarter leads of 14-5, 40-15 and 48-26.

Deanna Kotrba scored 14 points and Andrea Pittman had 12 rebounds for the 6-12 Wolverines. Charity Sjodin led the Wildcats with 17 points.

Goodridge/Grygla shot 32 percent from the field (14/44); Tri-County shot 54 per cent (33/61). The Wolverines were 5-for-11 at the free throw line, where the Wildcats went 4-for-6.

Warren	51

Free throws and rebounds carried Red Lake County Central to a 55-51 win at Warren Thursday.

The Mustangs were a busy 19-for-34 at the line, including a 10-for-14 fourth quarter when they turned a two-point deficit into a four-point win. The Ponies had a quiet 4-for-6 free throw night.

"We executed our offense real well in the fourth quarter," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "We drew the fouls and made the free throws."

Red Lake County Central also did the job on the boards with a 41-25 rebound advantage. Dawn Bachand had a 23-point, 16-rebound night, while teammate Angel Mickelson scored 13 points and grabbed 11 rebounds.

Ann Ellerbusch led Warren with 12 points.

Marshall Co. Central	57
Warroad	41

Sara Lokstad got her usual allotment of points, Shanon Magner turned it on in the second half and Jackie Magner's ball handling skills kept the Marshall County Central turnover figure under double digits for the first time this season Thursday as the Nordics knocked off visiting Warroad 57-41.

Lokstad, a 5-6 junior, worked the inside for 23 points. Her job became a little easier in the second half when Shanon Magner, a 5-7 junior, scored all 15 of her points with some outside shooting and a 5-for-6 effort at the free throw line.

Meanwhile, freshman guard Jackie Magner helped keep the Nordics' turnovers to a minimum (7), despite Warroad's pressure defense.

"We did a real good job handling the basketball, probably the best we've done all year," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "Jackie did a real nice job for a freshman."

The Nordics had quarter leads of 12-10, 23-18 and 39-31 before pulling away down the stretch.

"Shanon started hitting from the outside in the second half, and that opened up the inside for Sara," noted Mjelde, whose team went to 10-8.

Marshall County Central shot 47 percent from the field (25/53), while Warroad shot 45 percent (17/38). The Nordics were 7-for-10 at the free throw line, where the Warriors went 7-for-17.

Red Lake Co-op gives power to the people

tems and 80 per cent from lignite coal in western North Dakota.

Electricity usage is twice as high in the winter as in the summer. Customers use most of the electricity — 27 per cent — for off-peak heating. Red Lake Electric sold 2 million kwh of electricity for off-peak heating during its first year in 1980. Sales reached 25 million kwh in 1992.

Low temperatures this year led to record electrical use during one monthly period. Customers used 14.6 million kwh from December 20 to January 20. Lately, however, "The meters aren't spinnin'."

When the meters spin, the first 500 kwh cost 7.9 cents per kwh. Anything over 500 kwh costs 5.3 cents per kwh. Rates remain the customers' chief concern, Kennedy said. "When I say the rate is the biggest concern that's not all bad. That means we're not giving them anything else to be concerned about," Kennedy said.

According to a 1991 statistical summary of Minnesota rural electric systems, Red Lake Electric falls below the average of 6.8 cents per kwh. In 1991 Red Lake Electric's average was 5.6 cents per kwh. The Big Fork cooperative has the highest rates at an average of 9.9 cents per kwh.

In 1992 the system earned $5.4 million in revenue. Wholesale power is the largest expense at 65 per cent of the cost. The co-op owns $14.2 million in assets.

The Red Lake Electric Co-op is not a branch of the Rural Electric Administration. The REA acts as the co-op's banker. "If we didn't owe them any money, they would have no control over us," Kennedy said.

The co-op employs 23 workers. The line department, which maintains the electric lines, employs 11 workers.

The greatest density of co-op customers resides in a five-mile radius outside Thief River Falls. Goodridge is the only town serviced by the co-op. Surprisingly, Kennedy said, only 40 per cent of Red Lake Electric customers are farmers.

Co-op customers steadily declined from the early '80s until 1988 when the numbers stabilized. "In the boom years of the '70s when Arctic Enterprises was booming, we were installing 250 accounts per year, and we're now adding 30 to 40 accounts per year," Kennedy said.

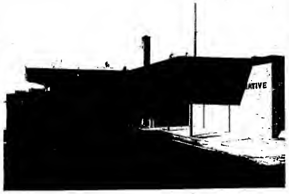
However, customers remaining on the system slightly increased their electricity consumption, Kennedy said. "You look under the Christmas tree every year, stop and think how many things are electric that you're going to be using from now on that you weren't using before," Kennedy said.

"It's tough to make the electric business exciting. People are so accustomed to flipping on the switch, turning on the TV, doing other things that utilize electricity without even thinking of it," Kennedy said. "The product electricity isn't going to get any better. The equipment that utilizes electricity will get better."

The co-op has begun projects other than electricity distribution. "One of our primary concerns is the exodus of people from rural areas. Since 1989 that has stopped. We are essentially level, but not gaining customers. That's not good for an electric utility. We're trying to focus on making the rural area a better place to live, more attractive to people," Kennedy said.

The co-op will offer satellite programming and equipment to customers, beginning in April 1994. "We're getting involved in satellite television business because we're the natural fit. We send all of our customers a bill once a month. Our additional cost to provide the satellite will be minimal. Our administrative costs will consist of one extra line on the bill," Kennedy said.

The Red Lake Electric Cooperative is one of three co-ops in Minnesota which sells and services electrical appliances.



The co-op also started a charitable program named Operation Round Up. Customers have the option to round up their bill to the nearest dollar amount with the difference going into a charitable fund. A 3-member trust board distributes the extra money to local charities and organizations.

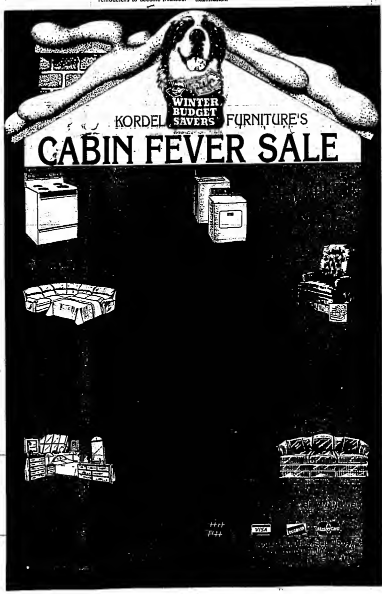
Customer participation in the program is 88 per cent. "Customer participation exceeded my expectations. I was hoping for an 80 per cent participation rate," Kennedy said. Based on current participation, Kennedy estimates the program will raise $20,000 for charities annually.

"We try to be more than just a power company," Kennedy said. "We're trying to make the communities and service areas more attractive places to live."

Red Lake Electric Cooperative's electric lines stretch 2,557 miles to 4,689 locations. In 1992 the co-op distributed 92.4 million kilowatt-hours of electricity to customers in four counties.

The Red Lake Falls-based Red Lake Electric Cooperative employs 23 workers and earned $5.4 million in revenue in 1992. It purchases electricity from Minnkota Power Co-op.

Contractor licensing course set



Two 12-hour preparation courses for contractor licensing will be offered through the Northwest Technical College's six campuses through March. One addresses business and law issues and the other technical skills.

The 1991 Minnesota legislature enacted legislation requiring most residential building contractors and remodelers to become licensed. Initial temporary licenses were granted by application beginning Jan. 1, 1992. Currently there are over 6,000 licensed contractors in the state.

Fifty per cent of the current temporary licenses will expire in March of 1993 and the other 50 per cent in March of 1994. Renewal will require successful completion of an examination.

The Commissioner of Commerce is responsible for testing and licensure and the National Assessment Institute will administer the examinations.

For information about the courses call the customized training and services office of the Northwest Technical College in Thief River Falls, phone 681-5424 or 1-800-222-2884.

Grants help share well sealing costs

The Ground Water Protection Act of 1989 provided funds to the Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR) to establish a grant program to share the cost of sealing abandoned wells. The BWSR, along with other agencies and local government units, selected counties to receive grants and established priorities for well sealing.

As part of the well-sealing cost-share grants program, the BWSR received lottery-dollar funding from the Environment and Natural Resources Trust Fund for continued assistance to local landowners to share the costs of sealing high-priority abandoned wells.

"It's estimated that there are one million abandoned wells in Minnesota," said Eric Mohring of the BWSR. "These wells pose a serious safety concern for our ground water supplies." Unsealed abandoned wells are a potential source of ground water contamination. Properly sealing the abandoned wells eliminates the contamination risk and helps protect ground water supplies.

"Because the number of abandoned wells is so large, the available funding addresses only a small fraction of them," Mohring said. "That's why setting priorities is so important — to ensure that the most effective use is made of the funds and that the state gets the most ground water protection for its money."

An abandoned well is considered high-priority for cost-share funding, if, for example, it penetrates natural confining layers, such as clay, which would ordinarily offer some protection from land surface contamination. If such a well were near a public water supply well, it would be higher priority.

Two additional high-priority wells are multi-aquifer wells that cross-[illegible] aquifers, and agricultural drainage wells that discharge unwanted (and possibly contaminated) water from the land surface directly to ground water.

Mohring expects that about 2,500 high-priority abandoned wells will be sealed as a result of the $750,000 allocation from the Environment and Natural Resources Trust Fund. The program also has helped educate people on the serious environmental problems from abandoned wells, and the benefits of having them sealed.

Fire destroys St. Hilaire Locker Plant

One of St. Hilaire's last remaining "old" buildings in the downtown area was destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning. Burned was the St. Hilaire Locker Plant building which was built in 1921.

The fire was reported at 3:53 a.m. Wednesday by a cleaner who had arrived downtown to begin work cleaning the St. Hilaire Liquor Store located across the street from the locker plant building. First St. Hilaire firemen on the scene said that flames were coming out the roof and windows when they arrived, according to Donovan Foss, fire chief.

Cause of the fire is officially listed as undetermined, following an investigation Wednesday afternoon by the St. Hilaire Fire Department and deputy state fire marshalls Dale Volstad of Clearbrook and Dick Brosma of the Park Rapids area. The investigation began about noon and continued to about 4:30 p.m., according to Dave Haefer, assistant fire chief at St. Hilaire.

Destroyed in addition to the 40x80 brick faced building were the locker plant equipment and food stored in the building's freezer and cooler. The freezer area was about 16x20 feet with a 12-foot high ceiling and the cooler about the same size with a lower ceiling.

The building was owned by Korydon Chervestad of rural Oklee, who purchased it about five years ago from Leonard Brekke of Thief River Falls. It had continued its operation as a food storage locker with about 40 individual rental customers when that part of the operation was closed last June, Chervestad said. Also closed in June was Chervestad's retail operation in the building called St. Hilaire Discount Meats and Groceries.

Leonard Brekke operated the business for 38 years, first as an employee of the St. Hilaire Co-op Creamery Association. He later leased the building and equipment from the cooperative, then purchased them a few years later.

Chervestad currently used the freezer and cooler for the storage of items sold at his store, Kory's Warehouse, in the River Valley area northeast of Oklee. He said that quite a large number of items such as meat, soups, vegetables, pizza and others were stored in the facilities at the time of the fire.

Ceilings of the storage units were wood covered and insulated with cork, according to assistant fire chief Haefer, and they burned through during the fire. Contents of both the cooler and freezer were considered a total loss.

Fire chief Foss said that no other fire departments were summoned to assist because the building was beyond saving and the St. Hilaire department had the equipment and personnel to contain the blaze. He

TRF to initiate volume-based garbage rate

Residents of Thief River Falls will soon receive an explanation about the new volume based pricing system being implemented by the city sanitation department in June.

The changes will represent a increase in the garbage collection rate for everyone, but it will result in fees based on volume.

The State of Minnesota passed legislation requiring implementation of a volume based pricing system on solid waste pickup and hauling by January, 1994. This required the city to develop a monthly charge based on the "amount" of solid waste picked up and transported rather than a monthly flat fee system we now use. The purpose of the new legislation is to encourage people to reduce and/or recycle their garbage.

Rumors, mostly wrong said Robert Jablinske, are already floating around. Jablinske, who is the superintendent of the sanitation department, said the process will begin in July.

The city prefers that plain black bags not be used after July 1, 1993, but the city will continue to pick them up during a system conversion period of July 1, 1993, to January 1, 1994. After January 1, 1994, only bags with the "City of Thief River Falls" on them will be picked up by the sanitation department.

There are exceptions. Small bags containing "wet fraction", such as coffee grounds and other wet garbage, left next to the new bags will also be picked up. Small boxes containing broken glass will also be picked up. Bulky items, such as chairs and appliances, must have an authorized sticker attached to them to be picked up. Customers will receive a minimum of four stickers per year.

How much will it cost? The proposed monthly rate depends on how many garbage bags you request per year.

There are six levels. Level one is for low income residents and senior citizens. Individuals on level 1 will receive 50 bags per year and will be charged $7. The current rate is $6. Level 2 will receive 100 bags per year and will be charged a monthly rate of $12. (The current rate is $11.) All residential users, unless certified as low income users currently fall in Level 2.

Jablinske said most families don't use up the 100 bags they receive each year. But there are many who use much more than 100 bags per year. The remaining levels, 3 - 6, receive 50 additional bags per level. Monthly rates range from $18 at level 3, $24 at level 4, $30 at level 5, and $36 at level 6.

As mentioned above, customers will receive a minimum of four stickers per year for bulky items and for every step increase in the rate schedule over level 2, two additional stickers will be issued. Extra stickers can be purchased at a cost of $5 each.

Residents who discover that they require extra garbage bags can purchase them from the city at $1.50 apiece. The price includes the cost of the bag, bag pick up, transport and disposal. This represents a substantial price increase as a roll of 100 bags previously cost $10. Now the same 100-count box will cost $150. This fits in with the purpose of the new volume based program, which is to encourage recycling.

Jablinske said the new system provides customers with two options if they use all of garbage bags originally issued to them before the next scheduled bag

Goodridge Snofest events start Tues.

Annual Snofest activities get underway at Goodridge high school Tuesday with several of the main events scheduled for Friday, February 19. These include a king and queen coronation, home boys basketball game and Snofest dance. There is no school Monday, February 15, due to the President's Day holiday.

Coronation ceremonies will begin at 1 p.m. in the high school gymnasium and be followed by a number of games for students. Public attendance is encouraged for all of the afternoon events.

Crowning the new king and queen will be Bryce Marquis and Tabitha Downs, who won the titles last year as freshmen. Bryce is the son of Monte and Avis Marquis and Tabitha is the daughter of Randy and Rhonda Downs.

Candidates selected by their classmates this year include the following:

Grade 12—Valerie Horachek, daughter of Donna Horachek, and Tony Cullen, son of Doug and Virginia Cullen;

Grade 11—Stacy Zinter, daughter of Fred Zinter and Chris Iverson, daughter of Margie and Gary Iverson;

Grade 10—Shonda Anderson, daughter of Dale and Patty Anderson and Aaron Miller, son of Judy and Richard Miller;

Grade 9—Andrea Pittman, daughter of Raeann and Roger Pittman and John Gallagher Jr., son of John and Esther Gallagher;

Grade 8—Christy Nelson, daughter of Lee and Donna Nelson and Darrin Arveson, son of David and Linda Arveson; and

Grade 7—Angie Holen, daughter of Jewell and Richard Holen and Ben Hanson, son of Dawn and Dale Hanson.

Under the theme of "Stairway to Heaven," the Snofest will have three areas of activity in which classes can earn points toward coronation of their king and queen candidates. These include dance ticket sales, food collection drive for the county food shelf and a poster contest. Points will be awarded on a per capita basis, giving all grades an equal chance to win, according to Patti Johnson, advisor to the sponsoring Goodridge high school student council.

Home athletic contests during the week include a boys basketball game against Red Lake Falls Tuesday, February 16; a girls basketball game against East Grand Forks Sacred Heart Thursday, February 18; and seventh and eighth grade, junior varsity and varsity boys basketball games against Grygla Friday, February 19.

School spirit will be emphasized with spirit dress and a daily spirit drawing throughout the week. All students, faculty and staff will be eligible to participate. Those who are attired in school spirit clothing each day will be entered in a daily drawing for a $10 cash prize.

Snofest dance will be held Friday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday in the gymnasium. Music will be provided by disc jockey "Music Max."

Wild rice is year around business

Processing plant at Clearbrook employs 30 workers on a regular basis plus 90 more during harvest

During harvest season, wild rice roasters—which hold 700 pounds of green rice each—parch rice at the Gourmet House plant in Clearbrook. The 31 roasters heat the rice to 270 degrees Farenheit for two and one-half hours to give it a "nutty roast taste."

Wild rice, one of Minnesota's oldest crops, is gaining worldwide status with help from a Clearbrook business.

Gourmet House, a subsidiary of Busch Agricultural Resources, Inc., a branch of Anheuser-Busch, processes wild rice twelve months a year.

Minnesota wild rice farmers produce most of the rice. Around 75 per cent of the rice is grown on 10,000 acres within a 15-mile radius of Clearbrook, estimated Dan Erickson, finished rice operations manager.

Around mid-August, wild rice farmers begin bringing their crops to the Clearbrook plant where the rice goes through numerous stages.

During harvest, over the course of one month, the wild rice is cured, roasted, hulled, cleaned, bagged and stored. After harvest the wild rice is post-cleaned, graded, blended, packaged, possibly precooked and dehydrated, and shipped.

"Any more (steps) and the rice would turn to dust," said Pete Iverson, general manager of Gourmet House.

The operations require 12 full-time and 18 part-time workers during post-harvest operations and an additional 90 temporary workers during harvest.

In addition to its major market, the United States, Gourmet House ships the rice to the Middle East, South Africa, Canada, Australia, Japan and, its most popular overseas market, Europe.

"It probably has kept more of a gourmet image in Europe, than in the United States. It's becoming more of a whole grain staple in the United States," Iverson said.

Minnesota retains a large share of wild rice consumers. Iverson estimated that of the 11 million pounds of wild rice consumed on the world market, two million pounds are sold in Minnesota, particularly in the Twin Cities.

"Everyone sends it to their relatives in Indiana, Missouri, Mexico.... Everybody participates in that market on the selling side," Iverson said.

Gourmet House processed a record four million pounds of green rice (1.7 million pounds after it was processed) in 1992.

Gourmet House is the second largest processor in Minnesota in terms of annual volume. Accord-

tems and 80 per cent from lignite coal in western North Dakota.

Electricity usage is twice as high in the winter as in the summer. Customers use most of the electricity — 27 per cent — for off-peak heating. Red Lake Electric sold 2 million kwh of electricity for off-peak heating during its first year in 1980. Sales reached 25 million kwh in 1992.

Low temperatures this year led to record electrical use during one monthly period. Customers used 14.6 million kwh from December 20 to January 20. Lately, however, "The meters aren't spinnin'."

When the meters spin, the first 500 kwh cost 7.9 cents per kwh. Anything over 500 kwh costs 5.3 cents per kwh. Rates remain the customers' chief concern, Kennedy said. "When I say the rate is the biggest concern that's not all bad. That means we're not giving them anything else to be concerned about," Kennedy said.

According to a 1991 statistical summary of Minnesota rural electric systems, Red Lake Electric falls below the average of 6.8 cents per kwh. In 1991 Red Lake Electric's average was 5.6 cents per kwh. The Big Fork cooperative has the highest rates at an average of 9.9 cents per kwh.

In 1992 the system earned $5.4 million in revenue. Wholesale power is the largest expense at 65 per cent of the cost. The co-op owns $14.2 million in assets.

The Red Lake Electric Co-op is not a branch of the Rural Electric Administration. The REA acts as the co-op's banker. "If we didn't owe them any money, they would have no control over us," Kennedy said.

The co-op employs 23 workers. The line department, which maintains the electric lines, employs 11 workers.

The greatest density of co-op customers resides in a five-mile radius outside Thief River Falls. Goodridge is the only town serviced by the co-op. Surprisingly, Kennedy said, only 40 per cent of Red Lake Electric customers are farmers.

Co-op customers steadily declined from the early '80s until 1988 when the numbers stabilized. "In the boom years of the '70s when Arctic Enterprises was booming, we were installing 250 accounts per year, and we're now adding 30 to 40 accounts per year," Kennedy said.

However, customers remaining on the system slightly increased their electricity consumption, Kennedy said. "You look under the Christmas tree every year, stop and think how many things are electric that you're going to be using from now on that you weren't using before," Kennedy said.

"It's tough to make the electric business exciting. People are so accustomed to flipping on the switch, turning on the TV, doing other things that utilize electricity without even thinking of it," Kennedy said. "The product electricity isn't going to get any better. The equipment that utilizes electricity will get better."

The co-op has begun projects other than electricity distribution. "One of our primary concerns is the exodus of people from rural areas. Since 1989 that has stopped. We are essentially level, but not gaining customers. That's not good for an electric utility. We're trying to focus on making the rural area a better place to live, more attractive to people," Kennedy said.

The co-op will offer satellite programming and equipment to customers, beginning in April 1994. "We're getting involved in satellite television business because we're the natural fit. We send all of our customers a bill once a month. Our additional cost to provide the satellite will be minimal. Our administrative costs will consist of one extra line on the bill," Kennedy said.

The Red Lake Electric Cooperative is one of three co-ops in Minnesota which sells and services electrical appliances.

The co-op also started a charitable program named Operation Round Up. Customers have the option to round up their bill to the nearest dollar amount with the difference going into a charitable fund. A 3-member trust board distributes the extra money to local charities and organizations.

Customer participation in the program is 88 per cent. "Customer participation exceeded my expectations. I was hoping for an 80 per cent participation rate," Kennedy said. Based on current participation, Kennedy estimates the program will raise $20,000 for charities annually.

"We try to be more than just a power company," Kennedy said. "We're trying to make the communities and service areas more attractive places to live."

Red Lake Electric Cooperative's electric lines stretch 2,557 miles to 4,689 locations. In 1992 the co-op distributed 92.4 million kilowatt-hours of electricity to customers in four counties.

The Red Lake Falls-based Red Lake Electric Cooperative employs 23 workers and earned $5.4 million in revenue in 1992. It purchases electricity from Minnkota Power Co-op.

Grants help share well sealing costs

The Ground Water Protection Act of 1989 provided funds to the Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR) to establish a grant program to share the cost of sealing abandoned wells. The BWSR, along with other agencies and local government units, selected counties to receive grants and established priorities for well sealing.

As part of the well-sealing cost-share grants program, the BWSR received lottery-dollar funding from the Environment and Natural Resources Trust Fund for continued assistance to local landowners to share the costs of sealing high-priority abandoned wells.

"It's estimated that there are one million abandoned wells in Minnesota," said Eric Mohring of the BWSR. "These wells pose a serious safety concern for our ground water supplies." Unsealed abandoned wells are a potential source of ground water contamination. Properly sealing the abandoned wells eliminates the contamination risk and helps protect ground water supplies.

"Because the number of abandoned wells is so large, the available funding addresses only a small fraction of them," Mohring said. "That's why setting priorities is so important — to ensure that the most effective use is made of the funds and that the state gets the most ground water protection for its money."

An abandoned well is considered high-priority for cost-share funding, if, for example, it penetrates natural confining layers, such as clay, which would ordinarily offer some protection from land surface contamination. If such a well were near a public water supply well, it would be higher priority.

Two additional high-priority wells are multi-aquifer wells that cross-connect underground aquifers, and agricultural drainage wells that discharge unwanted (and possibly contaminated) water from the land surface directly to ground water.

Mohring expects that about 2,500 high-priority abandoned wells will be sealed as a result of the $750,000 allocation from the Environment and Natural Resources Trust Fund. The program also has helped educate people on the serious environmental problems from abandoned wells, and the benefits of having them sealed.

TRF to initiate volume-based garbage rate

Residents of Thief River Falls will soon receive an explanation about the new volume based pricing system being implemented by the city sanitation department in June.

The changes will represent a increase in the garbage collection rate for everyone, but it will result in fees based on volume.

The State of Minnesota passed legislation requiring implementation of a volume based pricing system on solid waste pickup and hauling by January, 1994. This required the city to develop a monthly charge based on the "amount" of solid waste picked up and transported rather than a monthly flat fee system we now use. The purpose of the new legislation is to encourage people to reduce and/or recycle their garbage.

Rumors, mostly wrong said Robert Jubinske, are already floating around. Jubinske, who is the superintendent of the sanitation department, said the process will begin in July.

The city prefers that plain black bags not be used after July 1, 1993, but the city will continue to pick them up during the conversion period of July 1, 1993, to January 1, 1994. After January 1, 1994, only bags with the "City of Thief River Falls" on them will be picked up by the sanitation department.

There are exceptions. Small bags containing "wet fraction", such as coffee grounds and other wet garbage, left next to the new bags will also be picked up. Small boxes containing broken glass will also be picked up. Bulky items, such as chairs and appliances, must have an authorized sticker attached to them to be picked up. Customers will receive a minimum of four stickers per year.

How much will it cost? The proposed monthly rate depends on how many garbage bags you request per year.

There are six levels. Level one is for low income residents and senior citizens. Individuals on level 1 will receive 50 bags per year and will be charged $7. The current rate is $6. Level 2 will receive 100 bags per year and will be charged a monthly rate of $12. (The current rate is $11.) All residential users, unless certified as low income users currently fall in Level 2.

Jubinske said most families don't use up the 100 bags they receive each year. But there are many who use much more than 100 bags per year. The remaining levels, 3 - 6, receive 50 additional bags per level. Monthly rates range from $18 at level 3, $24 at level 4, $30 at level 5, and $36 at level 6.

As mentioned above, customers will receive a minimum of four stickers per year for bulky items and for every step increase in the rate schedule over level 2, two additional stickers will be issued. Extra stickers can be purchased at a cost of $5 each.

Residents who discover that they require extra garbage bags can purchase them from the city at $1.50 apiece. The price includes the cost of the bag, bag pick up, transport and disposal. This represents a substantial price increase as a roll of 100 bags previously cost $10. Now the same 100-count box will cost $150. This fits in with the purpose of the new volume based program, which is to encourage recycling.

Jubinske said the new system provides customers with two options if they use all of garbage bags originally issued to them before the next scheduled bag

Goodridge Snofest events start Tues.

Annual Snofest activities get underway at Goodridge high school Tuesday with several of the main events scheduled for Friday, February 19. These include a king and queen coronation, home boys basketball game and Snofest dance. There is no school Monday, February 15, due to the President's Day holiday.

Coronation ceremonies will begin at 1 p.m. in the high school gymnasium and be followed by a number of games for students. Public attendance is encouraged for all of the afternoon events.

Crowning the new king and queen will be Bryce Marquis and Tabitha Downs, who won the titles last year as freshmen. Bryce is the son of Monte and Avis Marquis and Tabitha is the daughter of Randy and Rhonda Downs.

Candidates selected by their classmates this year include the following:

Grade 12—Valerie Horachek, daughter of Donna Horachek, and Tony Cullen, son of Doug and Virginia Cullen;

Grade 11—Stacy Zinter, daughter of Fred Zinter and Chris Iverson, daughter of Margie and Gary Iverson;

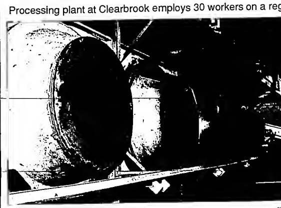
Grade 10—Shonda Anderson, daughter of Dale and Patty Anderson and Aaron Miller, son of Judy and Richard Miller.

Grade 9—Andrea Pittman, daughter of Raeann and Roger Pittman and John Gallagher Jr., son of John and Esther Gallagher.

Grade 8—Christy Nelson, daughter of Lee and Donna Nelson and Darrin Arveson, son of David and Linda Arveson; and

Grade 7—Angie Holen, daughter of Jewell and Richard Holen and Ben Hanson, son of Dawn and Dale Hanson.

Under the theme of "Stairway to Heaven," the Snofest will have three areas of activity in which classes can earn points toward coronation of their king and queen candidates. These include dance ticket sales, food collection drive for the county food shelf and a poster contest. Points will be awarded on a per capita basis, giving all grades an equal chance to win, according to Patti Johnson, advisor to the sponsoring Goodridge high school student council.



Home athletic contests during the week include a boys basketball game against Red Lake Falls Tuesday, February 16, a girls basketball game against East Grand Forks Sacred Heart Thursday, February 18; and seventh and eighth grade, junior varsity and varsity boys basketball games against Grygla Friday, February 19.

School spirit will be emphasized with spirit dress and a daily spirit drawing throughout the week. All students, faculty and staff will be eligible to participate. Those who are attired in school spirit clothing each day will be entered in a daily drawing for a $10 cash prize.

Snofest dance will be held Friday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday in the gymnasium. Music will be provided by disc jockey "Music Max."

Wild rice is year around business

Processing plant at Clearbrook employs 30 workers on a regular basis plus 90 more during harvest

During harvest season, wild rice roasters—which hold 700 pounds of green rice each—parch rice at the Gourmet House plant in Clearbrook. The 31 roasters heat the rice to 270 degrees Farenheit for two and one-half hours to give it a "nutty roast taste."

Wild rice, one of Minnesota's oldest crops, is gaining worldwide status with help from a Clearbrook business.

Gourmet House, a subsidiary of Busch Agricultural Resources, Inc., a branch of Anheuser-Busch, processes wild rice twelve months a year.

Minnesota wild rice farmers produce most of the rice. Around 75 per cent of the rice is grown on 10,000 acres within a 15 mile radius of Clearbrook, estimated Dan Erickson, finished rice operations manager.

Around mid-August, wild rice farmers begin bringing their crops to the Clearbrook plant where the rice goes through numerous stages.

During harvest, over the course of one month, the wild rice is cured, roasted, hulled, cleaned, bagged and stored. After harvest the wild rice is post-cleaned, graded, blended, packaged, possibly precooked and dehydrated, and shipped.

"Any more (steps) and the rice would turn to dust," said Pete Iverson, general manager of Gourmet House.

The operations require 12 full-time and 18 part-time workers during post-harvest operations and an additional 90 temporary workers during harvest.

In addition to its major market, the United States, Gourmet House ships the rice to the Middle East, South Africa, Canada, Australia, Japan and, its most popular overseas market, Europe.

"It probably has kept more of a gourmet image in Europe than in the United States. It's becoming more of a whole grain staple in the United States," Iverson said.

Minnesota retains a large share of wild rice consumers. Iverson estimated that of the 11 million pounds of wild rice consumed on the world market, two million pounds are sold in Minnesota, particularly in the Twin Cities.

"Everyone sends it to their relatives in Indiana, Missouri, Mexico.... Everybody participates in that market on the selling side," Iverson said.

Gourmet House processed a record four million pounds of green rice (1.7 million pounds after it was processed) in 1992.

Gourmet House is the second largest processor in Minnesota in terms of annual volume. According

Head of state Farmers Union to speak here

David Frederickson, president of the Minnesota Farmers Union, will speak at a mid-winter meeting Wednesday, February 17, at 1 p.m. In meeting room D at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

The session is one of eight meetings at which Frederickson will appear around Minnesota in February, according to Lori Olson of Thief River Falls, field representative for the Minnesota Farmers Union.

Topics for the meeting, which is open to the public, will include property tax relief, the threat agricultural limited liability companies pose to family farms and rural communities, expanding health insurance coverage under MinnesotaCare, new wetland regulations being developed and continuing Minnesota's farm credit mediation program, the MFU president said.

"These issues are important to everyone who lives in rural Minnesota," Frederickson said. "Each of these issues is being discussed at the State Capitol. We want to bring some of that discussion and information home to the people who will be directly affected by legislators' decisions."

Soupçon

By Sherry LaCoursiere

Here are recipes for delicious soups to go with those sandwiches I gave you last week.

This is a fast way to cook an old favorite:

VEGETABLE BEEF SOUP
1 pound ground beef
3 cups water
2 medium carrots, sliced (1 cup)
2 medium stalks celery, sliced (1 cup)
1 medium potato, pared and cubed (1 cup)
2 medium onions, chopped (1 cup)
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon browning sauce
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/8 teaspoon basil
1 bay leaf
1 can (28 ounces) whole tomatoes with juice

Cook ground beef in Dutch oven, stirring occasionally, until brown; drain.

Stir in remaining ingredients and heat to boiling. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 20 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. Remove bay leaf before serving.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 180 calories, 21 g protein, 15 g carbohydrate, 4 g fat, 55 mg cholesterol, 640 mg sodium and 770 mg potassium.)

This soup is creamy and tasty, and yet very good for you:

CREAMY FISH CHOWDER
2 cups cubed potatoes (about 2 medium)
1 cup (1/4 inch) sliced carrots (about 2 medium)
1/2 cup chopped onion (about 1 medium)
1 cup clam juice
1 cup water
1 tablespoon reduced calorie margarine
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 pound haddock fillets or lean fish fillets, cut into 1-inch pieces
1 can (6 1/2 ounces) whole clams, undrained
1 can (12 ounces) evaporated skimmed milk
2 tablespoons chopped fresh chives
1 teaspoon paprika

Heat potatoes, carrots, onion, clam juice, water, margarine, salt and pepper to boiling in 3-quart saucepan. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 15-20 minutes, until potatoes are almost tender.

Stir in fish and clams. Cover and heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer about 5 minutes or until fish flakes easily with fork. Stir in milk, chives and paprika and heat through.

(Recipe serves 8 and each serving contains 230 calories, 18 g protein, 32 g carbohydrate, 3 g fat, 20 mg cholesterol, 1080 mg sodium and 660 mg potassium.)

Make this quick soup for the kids' lunch today—they'll love it—it's made with hot dogs:

FRANK 'N VEGETABLE SOUP
2 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 can condensed green pea soup
1 can condensed vegetable soup
2/3 cup instant nonfat dry milk
1 1/2 cups water
1/2 pound hot dogs, cut into 1/2 inch pieces

In saucepan, melt butter and saute onion until tender.

Add soups and dry milk and gradually stir in water. Add hot dogs and heat, stirring constantly, to serving temperature.

(If preferred, use 1 1/2 cups milk and omit dry milk and water.)

How about a really elegant soup—wouldn't this be a great meal with fresh, warm French bread:

SALMON BISQUE
1/4 cup butter
1/3 cup finely chopped onion
1/3 cup finely chopped green pepper
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
4 cups milk
1 cup (7 3/4 ounces) salmon, drained, boned and broken into chunks
2 tablespoons chopped pimento

In heavy, 2-quart saucepan, melt butter. Saute onion, green pepper and celery until tender.

Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Remove from heat and gradually stir in milk.

Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook an additional 2 minutes.

Add salmon and pimento and heat to serving temperature.

One more soup you can serve to company:

Soup Exotic
1 package (10 ounce) frozen chopped spinach
1/4 cup boiling salted water
1-2 cups fresh oysters (or 1 can (10-12 ounces frozen oysters, thawed, or 2 (7 1/2 ounces each) cans oysters)
2 1/2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups light cream
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
1 cup whipping cream
1/4 teaspoon salt
paprika

In small covered saucepan, cook spinach in water until just tender.

In large saucepan, simmer oysters in milk for 5 minutes. Add cream, butter, 1 teaspoon salt, monosodium glutamate, garlic salt and spinach with cooking liquid; heat to simmering point.

Ladle into oven proof soup bowls or 2 1/2 quart casserole.

In chilled bowl, whip cream and 1/4 teaspoon salt until soft peaks form. Top soup with dollop of whipped cream and dash of paprika.

For added color, place under broiler until cream begins to brown slightly. Serve immediately.

Business owners required to return census reports

Business owners who received 1992 economic census forms in December are reminded by the Census Bureau that they are required by law to complete and return them—even if the February 15 deadline has passed.

To assist businesses in completing the forms, the bureau is staffing a toll-free telephone line that will operate from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. (EST) Monday through Friday. The number is 1-800-233-6136. Very small companies that have not received an economic census form are not required to respond.

The census is taken every five years and questionnaires were mailed to more than 3.5 million businesses across the country in December of 1992.

Accidental discovery may end obesity

WASHINGTON --Researchers may have discovered a way to end obesity---- by accident!

In a study with a potential cholesterol lowering agent, scientists noted an unusual side effect. Instead of lower cholesterol levels, patients receiving a natural plant colloid lost weight while body weight in a control group remained constant.

The scientists say the mechanism behind the weight loss is not clear, but suggest it is partially due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories. Scientists in another study published in the British Journal of Nutrition, found that patients consuming the same colloid lost weight in spite of being instructed not to alter normal eating patterns. Despite this evidence, other scientists may not agree on the weight loss benefits of colloids. Someday, pending further study, there could be universal agreement that colloids are helpful in confronting the problem of obesity.

National Dietary Research, whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, has successfully incorporated a series of colloids into a chewable food tablet called FS-1. When used as directed, FS-1 replaces high calorie fats with lower calorie nutrients, thus providing optimum nutrition with a minimum number of fat calories. According to an article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, consciously limiting the amount of food one consumes is not necessary to lose weight, provided you limit the fat.

A Florida company has obtained exclusive distribution rights to FS-1, which is available through pharmacies and other health care professionals.

Volume-based garbage collection delivery date, which is June of each year.

First, they can purchase extra bags at $1.50 each as mentioned above. Secondly, they can elect to move up to the next level on the rate schedule. If a customer elects to move up to a higher level they will receive additional bags, but the number of bags will be pro-rated until the next delivery date. However, they will have to remain at the higher level for one full year from June.

Anyone wishing to move up to the next level on the rate schedule should notify the billing office prior to the 15th of the any month.

The purpose of the new state legislation is to encourage people to reduce and/or recycle their garbage. Part of the city's response to the new legislation is the new volume based pricing system, but the city also makes provision for recycling bins and will continue its leaf vacuum system.

The council will continue to provide "recycling bins" at Future Fuel Inc. The bins will help city residents reduce the amount of garbage that they put out under the new VBP (Volume Based Pricing) collection system. The hours of operation will be Thursday from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to Noon.

Grass and yard waste will not be picked up by the regular route truck. Grass put in garbage cans, boxes, and bags will not require a sticker and will be picked up by a special route truck. Leaves will be picked up in the Spring and Fall by the city's leaf vacuum system only.

Jablinske knows that the new system will raise a lot of new questions — many of which he has not thought of yet. One area of concern is how garbage will be handled at apartments.

The new policy states that all garbage from apartments must also be in City of Thief River Falls bags and placed in the large containers provided by each apartment building.

In situations where the landlord pays all utility bills, the new bags will be given to the landlord and they will be responsible to allocate the bags to the various renters.

In situations where the renter pays their own utility bills, the bags will be allocated directly to them on a pro-rated quarterly basis.

Renters and residents who leave for the winter and drop their utility services for a period of time will receive a pro-rated number of bags.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

It is my understanding that the Sanitation Oepertment plans on charging individuel households according to the number of garbage bags picked up by them.

Personally, I feel this is teaving the door wide open for disputes between neighbors, i.e. if a neighbor puts his or her garbage with yours.

Do we want to incur additional expense for the city of TRF? Who will count these bags and keep e record of them? There will be additional cost of billing, since everyone's bill will be different.

How will you bill businesses that are required to have dumpsters? How will you bill groups of neighbors who have traditionally assembled their trash in one location to save the sanitation department time in collection?

Will there be a base rate plus the number of garbage bags picked up?

What is our goal here? Is it to increase jobs and costs?

Over the last three years our refuse bill has increased three times. We paid $9 in 1990, $10 in 1991 and $11 in 1992. That's an 11.1 increase in 1991 and a 10 per cent increase in 1992, much more than the rise in the cost of living. Can you justify another increase?

I believe the current system is now fair, equitable and convenient for everyone.

What are the views of other residents, business owners and city officials in Thief River Falls?

Sincerely,
Karen K. Ekeren

To The Editor:

I believe it is a sad case of disrespect when The Times would print a cartoon of our Unknown Soldier embroiled with a present-day problem with our military created by our present President.

We get enough of that garbage thrown at us by TV and other newspapers without our own hometown paper following suit. It does not show a good example for our young people to learn respect because it seems nothing is sacred any more.

Sincerely,
Orville Ellingson

To The Editor:

I was insulted by the letter of Oale Blanshan (in the) February 6 Northern Watch. It is just that kind of sexist thinking that insists that women are not capable of "thinking things through," let alone decide what is to happen to their own bodies and lives.

As for the accuracy of linking the so-called right to lifers with bombings, he'll have to take that up with ABC, CBS, NBC, CNN, etc.

Mr. Blanshen does admit that women are not first class citizens now and his patronizing attitude proves he believes we should not become equal in the eyes of the law. The Freedom of Choice Act is not pro-abortion it is pro-cholce. And freedom is what women must have.

It is the laws of the land that make one a first class citizen, and it is time to change the law. Please, let your Congressmen and Senators know. Now is the time to free women.

Sincerely,
Glenns Messer Hansen

Greater Penalties For Some Crimes Proposed

Rep. Steve Wenzel of Little Falis is again planning to introduce legislation in the Minnesota Legislature which would increase mandatory penalties for a number of crimes. Many law-abiding citizens find the stiffening of penalties for criminals an appealing idea, especially as they involve violent acts or crimes against vulnerable people.

To the case of Rep. Wenzel, most of his legislative tenure has been marked by authorship of bills aimed at more certain and severe sentences for criminal offenders. In his words, "the work has been good but incomplete."

It will probably always be so, for a number of Wenzel's proposals seem related to recent specific crimes which may or may not be common. Involved are change proposals for crimes involving death of a law enforcement officer, drive-by shootings, trial of young murderers as adults, profiting from teen prostitution, etc.

His proposal that persons convicted of killing a law enforcement officer would spend the rest of their lives in prison seems to result from the slaying of Sgt. Jerry Haaf in the Twin Cities.

"Last year we estabilshed life-without-parole for murder involving rape," Rep. Wenzel said. "Can we honestly tell Sgt. Jerry Haaf's family that because his death was not brutal enough, his killer may yet again walk the streets that Jerry Haaf worked so hard to keep safe for the rest of us?

"A law enforcement officer puts his life on the line each and every day in his lifelong work.... Law enforcement officers have told me....that there is a new careless brutality and an increasingly casual disregard for human life among criminals. I believe it is time the Minnesota Legislature adopts legislation that sends the strongest possible message that we will not tolerate this kind of violence against the people who step forward to assure the public safety and the enforcemeol of laws," he said.

We understand Wenzel's motivation and his reasoning, but we wonder about its rationality. As vicious o crime as the murder of a law enforcement officer may be, we wonder if that person's life should be held in higher regard under the law than any other human life. If an armed robber is surprised and challenged by an armed officer and fires a hasty but fatal shot, for instance, is the crime deserving of a more severe penalty than—again for instance—the deliberate beating death of a woman or child regardless of their station in the social structure? We would argue it is not.

Rep. Wenzel also proposes to classify a killing in a drive-by shooting as first-degree murder which would carry o "normal life sentence" with parole possible after 30 years and a mandatory seven-year sentence for intentionally shooting at an occupied dwelling or vehicle from a car if no death is involved.

Again we understand the motivation based on prior acts, but we fail to grasp the reasoning that a crime is roore severe if it is committed from o motor vehicle. Is it less of a crime to get out of a car and shoot at a dwelling or another vehicle or a persoo than to fire from inside the vehicle? We don't think so.

Wenzel proposes that youths over age 16 would automatically be tried as adults in murder cases and his bill would make it easier to try youths age 14 to 16 as adults in such eases. There may be some merit to the idea, although age is not always o reliable dividing eriterion.

Another provision of Wenzel's bill would provide for mandatory sentences of 20 years for promoting, organizing and receiving profits from teen prostitution and 10 years for third parties receiving profits from the same. This proposal apparently results from the break-up of a teen prostitution ring in Minneapolis in July of 1991.

Wenzel says that in the case cited the men charged had prior charges and convictions for numerous similar crimes but had usually received probationary sentences. Young girls were treated in a way that affects their hearts and minds for a lifetime, he said, "yet we have treated the perpetrators of these outrageous crimes with light or no penalties. That has to change."

Rep. Wenzel's last statement is the most pertinent of all. It may not be so much the establishment of more severe penalties that will have a deterring effect on lawbreakers as the knowledge that the penalties will be enforced. That is the double key: Assurance of being apprehended and that penalties will be placed in effect. To a violent criminal, and perhaps to most repeat offenders, probation is not a privilege but a license. To their victims it is a travesty.

Attention to enforcement of existing law, including seeing to it that prescribed penalties are indeed carried out, needs to be given before adding more laws to the books.

NBC Blew Up More Than A GM Pickup Truck

You've heard about it by now, haven't you? We mean the report that NBC News used incendiary devices to detonate an explosion and start a fire that destroyed a GMC pickup truck. The "test" of a broadside collision to the truck was televised as if it was an actual happening—not as a staged portrayal of what could have been the result of such a collision.

By engaging in such deceptive reporting, NBC blew up much more than a pickup truck. It exploded the concept of factual, unbiased, accurate coverage of news by not only that network but all television networks.

The news industry must constantly guard against such contrived situations. The ability to now use computers to take several negatives and make "composite" photographs which are almost impossible to detect is another potential problem which is probably not far down the road.

"How is a photo editor to know if he's looking at a doctored-up photo or a 'real' one," Shaw asks. "...Photos in the past were, for the most part, accepted by editors and the public at face value. When newspaper readers viewed a printed photo they assumed it bore close correspondence to what actually happened. Printed photos probably had more eredibility than any other element in the newspaper."

Given the liberties taken by ABC and "Spy" magazine, and likely many others, that eredibility will soon vanish. The news industry must guard against acceptance of such manipulation and uncover and denounce it if it should occur. Readers and viewers deserve better than such shoddy presentations.

The arts school is a tuition-free, public school for 11th and 12th graders who are highly motivated and committed to serious study. An individualized program is offered which allows students to progress to the highest level of their abilities.

Students with little or no formal education in the arts as well as students with an arts background are encouraged to apply.

What art areas will be offered at the Arts School? The school will have six art areas as its base. These six art areas are visual, media (photography, video, etc.), theater, music, (vocal, orchestral, and band) dance, and literary.

What is the Northern Expressions School of the Arts? The arts school is a tuition-free magnet school for the Seventh Congressional District of Minnesota. It is one of seven in the state of Minnesota. The funding to establish the arts school came from the 1990-92 biennium. Grants were awarded for a two year term to plan and implement a magnet arts school for each of the congressional districts in Minnesota.

What will the Northern Expressions School of the Arts be like? Each student will have an individualized learning plan that will be planned by the student, their parents, and an advisor from the school. The arts and academics are stressed equally and are integrated so students come to understand the relationships among subject areas.

County plans to interview 10 for sheriff's position

Pennington county commissioners have reduced the list of 30 applicants for county sheriff to a list of 10 to be interviewed.

Wednesday, February 10, the county commissioners met to review the list of applications for Pennington County Sheriff. Former Sheriff Bob Wold retired on December 18, 1992, with two years remaining to his term. The position of sheriff is an elected office with a four year term. The law allows special elections for county commissioners but not for other elected county officials. As a result, commissioners will appoint someone to fill in as sheriff for the two years remaining to the term. An election will be held in 1994.

The county had received over 30 applications for the position at the close of the deadline for applications Monday afternoon. On Wednesday the list was reduced to 10 individuals to be interviewed for the position.

The final applicants for county sheriff include: Leonard Rowe of Jackson, Richard B. Olson of Thief River Falls, Lester L. Randall of Tracy, Gerald Moe of Glenwood, James Hulteen of Thief River Falls, Charles Schuman of Owatonna, Theodore Economon of Fargo, ND, James Haugen of Thief River Falls, Robert Siems of Greenbush and Scott Eustice of Alexandria.

Interviews for the position will be conducted on February 19 and 22. A decision is tentatively expected on February 23.

Syttende Mai fest at risk of becoming obsolete

Bagley — Residents of Bagley are discussing how (or whether) to celebrate Syttende Mai this year, because the "fun and frolic [of past years] have turned into a chore for the community." In hopes of keeping the observance of Norwegian Independence Day in Clearwater county, the Bagley area chamber of commerce will meet next week to organize the event. A suggestion to skip having a parade, the most difficult part of the celebration to organize, and limiting the observance to a program and musical entertainment is being considered. (Farmers Independent)

Extrication course cut short by fire

Crookston — A school bus extrication course at the fire hall in Crookston was cut short recently. The course, which was the first of its kind to be taught in northwestern Minnesota, was designed to teach firemen an alternative to evacuating kids from a school bus. The course covered, in part, the use of the Jaws of Life, but the school district asked the firemen not to actually use it on the bus they provided for demonstration. Thirty-five full-time and paid on-call firemen as well as bus drivers were at the fire hall when a fire call came in at 7:30 p.m. Twenty-six of the firefighters responded to a mattress fire, reportedly caused by children playing with matches. There were no injuries. (Crookston Daily Times)

Plans to celebrate Crookston's 114th birthday

Crookston — For a 114th birthday celebration Crookston is planning a dinner and auction at the Northland Inn March 26. This is the second annual event to be hosted by the Crookston area chamber of commerce and the Festival committee. A number of businesses and individuals are contributing merchandise to the auction which will raise money for the chamber and the annual Ox Cart Days festival. (Crookston Daily Times)

Jail & Bail event makes one girl "free as a bird"

Bemidji — While 10 of Bemidji's citizens spend time behind bars later this week raising money for the American Cancer society, a Bemidji girl will be as free as a bird, literally, to help bail her father out of jail. Tenth-grader Kari Shefland will fly solo in a Piper Archer from Canada to Mexico in a fund-raising event for the Cancer society. She will fly from Fort Frances, Ontario to Mexico, a 1,500-mile trip. Shefland has been flying this past summer and soloed on her 16th birthday, October 24. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Norman county considering courthouse elevator

Ada — Norman county commissioners are pleased with preliminary sketches for a plan to adjoin the courthouse and annex as part of the elevator additional project. An architect met with the county board recently to discuss the sketch and rough cost estimates, which would include connecting the buildings, a lobby, elevator and handicap accessible remodeling in the old courthouse. Total costs are expected to be in the area of $370,000. (Norman County Index)

Banks in Waubun, Callaway sold

Waubun/Callaway — A group of investors headed by the president of Shooting Star casino's management company has assumed control of the Waubun and Callaway banks. Gaming World International head Angleo Medure, who bought controlling interest in Waubun Bancshares, said the purchase agreement was signed January 29. He states that Gaming World International is not involved in this transaction and that no changes in bank personnel or policies are expected. (Becker County Record)

Nature center hires new director

Bagley — Despite the long term illness of its last director, Bob Boutain, many new projects have been started at the Farm By the Lake Nature center in Bagley. After Boutain's death on Jan. 9, 1993, the board appointed a new director, Margaret Menzies of Walker, who has accepted the position on a one-year interim basis. She had worked with Boutain since 1987 on projects such as banding birds and curriculum design. She has also served on the board of directors. Menzies has a degree in biology from Bethel college in St. Paul. (Farmers Independent)

Designer gathers ideas for Dream Catcher Park

Cass Lake — What started as a common dream for a playground by several community groups in Cass Lake is becoming a reality. Recently the park committee met to design the project, which will be constructed by community volunteers working over a long weekend. The committee has raised a third of the estimated $40,000 needed to complete the playground. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Thief River Falls defenseman Marc Haugen flipped the puck past Bemidji wing Ryan Baer during Tuesday's high school hockey game at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. The Prowlers beat the Lumberjacks for the second time this year, 3-1.

TRF wins swimming triangular

Appearing in a home meet for the first time since mid-December and for only the second time all year, the Thief River Falls boys won eight of 12 events Tuesday while out-scoring Grand Forks and Crookston/Tollefson Home School in triangular high school swimming action at the Franklin Middle School pool.

Thief River Falls finished with 132 points, Crookston/Tollefson Home School 99 and Grand Forks 92.

"It was a fun meet," said Thief River Falls coach Ryan Lokken. "There were a lot of good, tight races. We swam a lot of really good times – which may have had something to do with being at home for the first time since the start of the season."

Individually, Thief River Falls winners included seniors Matt Carlson, 50 freestyle, 100 butterfly; Daryl Kiesow, 100, 200 freestyle; and Adam Jacobson, 100 breaststroke.

TRF 3-1 winner over Jacks

Bemidji goalie Toby Kvalevog made a bundle of saves, including several outstanding stops, but his solo act wasn't enough as the Lumberjacks dropped a 3-1 Section 8 high school hockey game to Thief River Falls Tuesday at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

It's a familiar script for the 2-17-1 Lumberjacks, who feature the premier goalie in Section 8, but come up short elsewhere. The Prowlers out-shot them 46-13, and if it wasn't for Kvalevog, the scoreboard would have reflected Thief River Falls' domination.

"He (Kvalevog) is really a nice hockey player," said Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo. "He's so cool in there. My hat goes off to him."

Kvalevog stopped Jeff Twomey and Jason Svir on first period breakaways; made a save when Rick Ostby got behind the Bemidji defense in the second period – when he also robbed Corey Olson twice in the slot: and came up with a great glove save on a point-blank third period scoring chance by Twomey.

"This was a scary game," said Chiodo. "With their goalie, you know what kind of things can happen. But we stayed with it. We hung in there."

The Prowlers did get on the board in the first period when Nathan Knutson stole the puck in the Bemidji zone and put a nice feed in front for Jeremy Olson at 5:50.

Thief River Falls out-shot Bemidji 21-2 in taking a 3-0 second period lead. Carter Rogalla centered the puck from behind the net and Jason Svir batted it in for a shorthanded goal at 1:29, and Svir, left alone in front of Kvalevog, dug away at a rebound until it went into the net at 12:29.

"With all the opportunities we had in the second period, I think we took some of the steam out of them," said Chiodo.

Bemidji did make it 3-1 at 10:16 of the third period when Bob Brink took a rebound off the boards behind the Thief River Falls net and popped it past goalie Eric Dowers on the short side. But that was one of just four shots the Lumberjacks put on net over the final two periods.

The win was the third straight for the Prowlers, who hit .500 at 10-10-1 heading into their 1992-93 regular season finale tonight (Saturday) against Fergus Falls.

Scoring

First period - TRF, Jeremy Olson (Nathan Knutson), 5:50.

Second period - TRF, Jason Svir (Carter Rogalla), 1:29; TRF, Svir (Rogalla-Rick Ostby), 12:29.

Third period - Bemidji, Bob Brink (Ben Hopkins-D.J. MaGaum), 10:16.

Goalie Saves

TRF - Eric Dowers 9-2-1–12; Bemidji, Toby Kvalevog 9-19-15–43.

TRF girls fall 64-52 to Lakers

Detroit Lakes grabbed an early 11-2 lead and never trailed as the Lakers beat Thief River Falls 64-52 Tuesday in girls high school basketball.

"They (Lakers) played real well," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse. "They came out and shot the ball really well, and they never faltered."

Thief River Falls climbed back within 17-14 by the end of the first quarter and trailed only 32-28 at halftime. The host Lakers moved out to a 45-37 third quarter lead.

"We didn't panic when we fell behind," noted Wiltse. "We were patient. We kept applying pressure and kept hoping they would start making mistakes. But they never did."

Amy Adams had a 19-point, 10-rebound game for the Prowlers, with teammate Lori DeLap contributing 10 points. Lisa Althoff led Detroit Lakes with 14 points, while Jill White and Jodi Jost both had 13.

Thief River Falls shot 32 percent from the field (20/62) and went 10-for-16 at the free throw line. Detroit Lakes shot 41 percent (25/61) and wound up 14-for-19 at the line. The Lakers had a 31-26 rebound edge, while the Prowlers topped the turnover charts 13-9.

The loss left the Prowlers 7-11 for the year and 1-4 against North Sub-Section 8AA foes.

Scoring

Balanced Gators beat Rams 91-60

Five Badger/Greenbush-Middle River scorers reached double figures Tuesday as the Gators rolled to a 91-60 boys high school basketball win over Roseau in Greenbush.

Matt Kuznia led the balanced attack for the winners by scoring 16 points, with Trent Wahl and Billy Holum both netting 14, while Ryan Rislov and John Sparby added 12 each.

"We shot a decent percent, and we had some real unselfish passing," noted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "It was fun to watch. When the ball goes in the basket everything looks good."

The Gators shot 47 percent (35/74), which included a 6-for-9 effort from three-point range. The Rams shot only 36 percent (18/50).

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 15-for-23 at the free throw line, where Roseau went 9-for-22.

The 16-1 Gators, who have won eight straight, led at the quarter stops 25-16, 46-29 and 65-45.

Jeremy Engelstad scored 26 points and grabbed 15 rebounds Tuesday as Grygla-Gatzke defeated Lake of the Woods 66-42.

A 44-24 rebound advantage helped the host Eagles improve their record to 9-8.

"We had a good defensive effort in the middle two quarters," noted Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "And we finally ran our offense. We did a nice job getting into the flow of the game."

Scott Rindahl and Ben Saurdiff played key roles in running the Eagles' attack, pointed out Johnson. "They got our offense going," he explained. "They set Engelstad up for some good shots."

Tim Barry scored twice for the winners, while Jared Lee, Jason Cota and Cory Jenkins picked up single goals. Scott Grand had two assists.

Thief River Falls, now 13-5-1, out-shot Bemidji 31-14. Jeff Lundgren and Ryan Skibicki shared the Thief River Falls goaltending.

Moorhead boys romp 114-29...

Spuds belt Prowlers

Moorhead overwhelmed Thief River Falls 114-29 Tuesday in North Sub-Section 8AA boys high school basketball.

The 14-2 Spuds, ranked No. 8 in the latest Class AA state poll, had quarter leads of 31-5, 57-12 and 92-22. The loss dropped the Prowlers to 1-15.

Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke knew the Prowlers faced a difficult, if not impossible task, when his team left for Moorhead, but he was not expecting an 85-point final spread. "I don't even have words to describe it," he offered. "We're a lot better team than we showed, but they're a great team. You would be hard-pressed to find a better team in the state. They have great athletes, they're tall, they're fast, they can all jump, and they can all shoot."

Thief River Falls was limited to 12-for-36 (33 percent) shooting, along with a 4-for-8 night at the free throw line. Moorhead was 38-for-66 from the field (58 percent) and a busy 28-for-42 at the line. The Prowlers also had a tough time holding on to the ball – turning it over 41 times. The Spuds had 16 turnovers.

MCC girls win 58-46

■ RLCC wins overtime game

Outside shooting by freshman Tricia Pederson took some of the pressure off Sara Lokstad on the inside Thursday and Marshall County Central went on to beat Lake of the Woods 58-46 in girls high school basketball at Newfolden.

The 11-9 Nordics had quarter leads of 13-6, 34-29 and 42-30.

Pederson finished with 15 points, including four long range first quarter baskets, while Lokstad netted 14 and Shanon Magner 12.

"They (Lake of the Woods) really concentrated on Sara inside in the first quarter," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "Tricia opened things up when she hit those outside shots."

Marshall County Central shot 40 percent (26/63), while Lake of the Woods shot 33 percent (19/58). The Nordics went 8-for-12 at the free throw line, where the Bears with 7-for-17. Lake of the Woods finished with a 35-33 rebound edge.

Red Lake Co. Central 63
Win-E-Mac 57

Red Lake County Central turned in a great first half, but then had to survive overtime before laying claim to a 63-57 win over Win-E-Mac Thursday in Oklee.

The 11-7 Mustangs had a 14-9 first quarter lead and were up 31-15 at halftime. But the Patriots cut the gap to 37-31 in the third quarter, then overcame a seven-point final minute deficit to force overtime at 43-43.

Two free throws by Angel Mickelson with a minute to go in overtime provided Red Lake County Central with a 61-57 edge and two free throws by Dawn Bachand with time expired provided the four-point final.

"We played real well in the first half," reported Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "Our passing was outstanding. Too bad it takes four quarters to complete a ball game."

Most of the Mustangs' 31 turnovers came in the second half.

Red Lake County Central shot 51 percent from the field for the night (23/45), which included a 63 percent 14-for-22 first half. Win-E-Mac shot 40 percent (25/63). Depth carries Gators to 63-38 win over RLF

Red Lake Falls' defense slowed down the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River offense, but the Gators' depth won out in a late-reported 63-38 Friday (Feb. 5) boys high school basketball win.

The two teams played to an 11-11 first quarter tie. The favored Gators went ahead 27-19 at halftime and had a 41-28 third quarter advantage.

"Defensively, that's as good a team we've seen all year," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby in praise of the Eagles' performance. "Offensively they have some trouble, but they played awfully well on defense. I think our numbers just wore them out."

Depth carries Gators to 63-38 win over RLF

Red Lake Falls' defense slowed down the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River offense, but the Gators' depth won out in a late-reported 63-38 Friday (Feb. 5) boys high school basketball win.

The two teams played to an 11-11 first quarter tie. The favored Gators went ahead 27-19 at halftime and had a 41-28 third quarter advantage.

"Defensively, that's as good a team we've seen all year," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby in praise of the Eagles' performance. "Offensively they have some trouble, but they played awfully well on defense. I think our numbers just wore them out."

Wild rice process reviewed

ing to Iverson, it's one of the five largest volume plants in the United States.

Most of the wild rice, 80 per cent, has industrial uses. It ends up as a mix with white rice or with vegetables in food items such as frozen entrees. Gourmet House also sells some of the wild rice to food services for restaurants.

Gourmet House bought the 32,000 square foot Clearbrook building in 1982. The building previously served as a potato storage facility and an Arctic Enterprises plant before it was renovated for wild rice processing.

The Clearbrook location previously served as a harvest season-processing plant and was only in operation from mid-July until late October. Post-harvest processing was located in Grand Rapids.

In 1991 all Gourmet House wild rice operations moved to Clearbrook and it will move its main offices from Grand Rapids in the second quarter of 1993. The company moved "to make better use of the asset base," Iverson said.

Wild rice processing

Minnesota was the original site of cultivated wild rice. In the mid-eighties, Iverson said, California white rice growers grew a large supply of wild rice in unused fields and joined the competition.

Today, California and Minnesota closely compete in the area of wild rice production. Erickson estimates that 7.5 million pounds of wild rice are produced in California, six million pounds in Minnesota and one million pounds in Canada.

About 90 per cent of wild rice produced by Gourmet House is cultivated, or paddy, rice. The other 10 per cent is lake rice, grown in lakes and harvested in the more traditional method.

In Minnesota lake rice must be harvested traditionally, by using a canoe and manually knocking the rice into a canoe. Mechanized wild rice harvesting is legal in Canada where harvesters use air boats to harvest rice.

Minnesota labeling laws require processors to state if the rice is lake rice or paddy rice and where it was grown.

"Some people who are purists, (enjoy) the flavor of hand harvested lake rice, or they may prefer Minnesota wild rice, rather than Canadian harvested rice. A lot of customers prefer black shiny rice. Other people want rice with the bran scratched because it cooks quicker and it's softer," Iverson said.

Many times, how the rice is harvested, stored and processed has a large affect on the wild rice's taste.

Harvesters bring their rice to the processor with 35 to 45 per cent moisture. One hundred pounds of green rice, at 40 per cent moisture, yields about 40 pounds of finished rice.

The rice is weighed and placed in rows on 6.5 acres of asphalt. It is turned and watered for several days, which helps the rice develop color and flavor.

Then workers feed the wild rice into 31 roasters which each hold 700 pounds. Roasting takes two and one-half hours. This process gives the rice much of its "nutty roast taste." The rice is heated to 270 degrees Fahrenheit. Only 150 degrees is required to kill bacteria.

Roasting also helps remove the hull. The wild rice is sent on conveyor belts and is fed between two rollers rotating at different speeds. The speed difference rips off the hull. If the hull remains, the rice is fed through a cylinder with gum rubber linings which rubs the hull off of the rice.

The rice travels up another conveyor belt to a drum with different sized dimples. This separates the long rice from broken rice.

Gravity cleaning separates fat and thin kernels by vibrating the rice on a table.

At this point, Gourmet House can store the wild rice indefinitely. The different size rice can be combined to customers specifications. Some rice is precooked and dehydrated.

The rice is then packaged and shipped to locations all over the world.

A Clearbrook-based wild rice processor, Gourmet House, employs 12 full-time and 18 part-time workers during post-harvest operations. During harvest, Gourmet House hires 90 additional workers. It processes four million pounds of wild rice each year.

Steam rises from precooking vats full of wild rice. After workers boil the rice, they dry it in ovens. Precook worker David McDougall is pictured.

Duane Parsley faces charge of first degree manslaughter

Duane Parsley has pled not guilty to the shooting death of Steven James Klasen.

Following a grand jury indictment last week, Parsley appeared before Ninth District Judge Dennis Murphy Wednesday, February 10, on a charge of first degree manslaughter. Parsley entered a plea of not guilty. His next appearance in a Ninth District court is scheduled for March 17 at 10:30 a.m.

The charge of first degree manslaughter stems from the shooting death of Steven James Klasen of Oklee. Originally, the shooting, which occurred during a party on January 9, was believed to have been an accident. But on January 12 Parsley was arrested and charged with murder in the second degree. It was alleged that Parsley had been handling a gun during the party and had deliberately pointed it at Klasen and pulled the trigger. A bond set at $10,000 was posted, and Parsley was released.

In another twist to this case, Red Lake County Attorney Dan Geller then requested a grand jury to hear evidence in the case. During the week in which the grand jury heard the case, the charges against Parsley presumably remained in effect.

The grand jury eventually returned an indictment against Parsley and on February 10 he was charged with first degree manslaughter.

said the main concern was to prevent spread of the fire to stacks of plastic pipe stored south of the building by St. Hilaire Supply Co. Had the pipe caught fire, he said, it would probably have been necessary to evacuate people from residences on the south side of town, downwind from the fire.

Chervestad said that he had about 10,000 pounds of food products stored in the freezer and cooler and that all were considered unsalvageable. He said he hauled 3,000 pounds of items that he could get loose out of the building Thursday and destroyed it in the presence of a state inspector.

Because he planned to transfer storage to a trailer he had located at the Kory's Warehouse site in January, he had not renewed his insurance on the St. Hilaire site and the loss of $10,000 to $15,000 in food items was not insured, he said.

TRF council studies construction proposal

Thief River Falls city council discussed a feasibility report for 1993 sidewalk and utilities improvements Monday night in city council chambers. The council is preparing for a public hearing on the subject which will be held March 16 at 7 p.m. at the city auditorium.

Many options have to be discussed before the hearing on the proposed 1993 sidewalk and utilities improvements project, and the project is approved. Those options will be discussed in committee and at the public hearing. The project report presented Tuesday included many elements and a $1.58 million price tag.

Elements of the proposed project can and probably will change before the public hearing on March 16. sidewalks currently in the project include: portions of the west and east side Conley avenue from First street to Nora street; portions of the west and east side of St. Paul avenue from First street to Nora street; both sides of St. Paul avenue from Nora street to Annie street; portions of the west and east side of Markley avenue from First street to Nora street; a portion of the west side of Markley avenue south of Nora street: portions of the west and east side of Tindolph from First street to Nora street: portions of the east side of Merriam avenue from First street to Hughes: portions of the west and east side of Kneale avenue from First street to Nora street.

Ron Lindberg, city engineering department supervisor, explained that the tax and finance committee had previously recommended that benefited frontage or equivalent frontage assessment rates for sidewalk projects be established at 80 per cent of the project cost per foot of installation plus 100 per cent of the cost of driveway and private entrance walk installation. The city has paid 20 per cent of the project cost per foot for frontages and 100 per cent of the cost of side street construction if a benefited property has sidewalk along two sides. The city has assumed the cost of the curb ramps at intersections to allow handicap accessibility.

Over the past three years, this formula has allowed the city to recover approximately 60 per cent of the total project cost through assessments at benefit rates varying from $9.40 to $10 per foot.

This year's project includes only a small portion of side street walk replacement, therefore, the 100 per cent city cost items would be confined to curb ramps at street intersections. If past assessment formulas were applied to this year's estimated costs the frontage rates would be approximately $11.30 per foot and the city would recover $138,000 or 70 per cent of the project cost.

Assessments will be discussed in committee before the public hearing. Residents will have an opportunity to discuss the scope of the project and the impact it will have on them. At that time, Lindberg, should be able to provide residents with a cost estimate.

The estimated cost for sidewalk improvements totaled $195,000.

The major expense to the $1.58 million project involves a water main extension to the airport. This project will provide adequate water to the site of the proposed elementary school and provide water for

Meadowbrooke no secret to dancers

Ballroom on the prairie "at the end of the world" frequently filled to capacity (and a little beyond)

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Resting in the middle of fields and shelterbelts a couple of miles west of Highway 32 near Middle River, the Meadowbrooke Ballroom seems unlikely to attract a great deal of attention. But there are times when its capacity is pushed to the limit.

"Some of the bands from Nashville would come up and they'd say it's like driving to the end of the world," said Peggy Peterson, who owns the ballroom with her husband Vern.

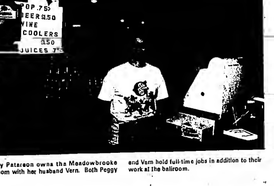
The ballroom at "the end of the world" draws in people from miles around. It seats 450 people and has served up to three wedding parties at one time.

Musical groups ranging from the polkaing Laverne and the Starlites to sixties group Herman's Hermits have performed at the ballroom.

Dozens of band pictures line the north wall and Peggy has anecdotes about all of them.

Peggy was pregnant when Jean Shepard sang at Meadowbrooke. She began to have labor pains and held off on delivering the baby so she could listen to Shepard. She gave birth at 4 a.m. and named her daughter Jena.

Peggy remembers singing songs all night with Boxcar Willie and listening to teen idol Bobby Vee. "That's my generation and the people were really excited to see Bobby Vee."



Other performers weren't as hot. "I think it was the Bellamy Brothers — when they came in they had armed guards. I mean they didn't get in with the public too much. Herman's Hermits: "You couldn't even hear the phone ringing it was so loud. I wasn't impressed with their music at all."

Music at the Meadowbrooke Ballroom has evolved over the years.

When the Petersons initially built the building with Don and Phyllis Blazek, they had "ballroom music" in mind — polkas and waltzes. After six months they decided to go with country and rock music to draw in more people. Currently a majority of customers are 20 to 40 years old, Peggy estimated.

Most bands that now perform are local. "Local bands are more reasonable (price) and a lot of local bands have a following," Vern said. "We went into country stars.

Wild rice process reviewed

ing to Iverson, it's one of the five largest volume plants in the United States.

Most of the wild rice, 80 per cent, has industrial uses. It ends up as a mix with white rice or with vegetables in food items such as frozen entrees. Gourmet House also sells some of the wild rice to food services for restaurants.

Gourmet House bought the 32,000 square foot Clearbrook building in 1982. The building previously served as a potato storage facility and an Arctic Enterprises plant before it was renovated for wild rice processing.

The Clearbrook location previously served as a harvest season-processing plant and was only in operation from mid-July until late October. Post-harvest processing was located in Grand Rapids.

In 1991 all Gourmet House wild rice operations moved to Clearbrook and it will move its main offices from Grand Rapids in the second quarter of 1993. The company moved "to make better use of the asset base," Iverson said.

Wild rice processing

Minnesota was the original site of cultivated wild rice. In the mid-eighties, Iverson said, California white rice growers grew a large supply of wild rice in unused fields and joined the competition.

Today, California and Minnesota closely compete in the area of wild rice production. Erickson estimates that 7.5 million pounds of wild rice are produced in California, six million pounds in Minnesota and one million pounds in Canada.

About 90 per cent of wild rice produced by Gourmet House is cultivated, or paddy, rice. The other 10 per cent is lake rice, grown in lakes and harvested in the more traditional method.

In Minnesota lake rice must be harvested traditionally, by using a canoe and manually knocking the rice into a canoe. Mechanized wild rice harvesting is legal in Canada where harvesters use air boats to harvest rice.

Minnesota labeling laws require processors to state if the rice is lake rice or paddy rice and where it was grown.

"Some people who are purists, (enjoy) the flavor of hand harvested lake rice, or they may prefer Minnesota wild rice, rather than Canadian harvested rice. A lot of customers prefer black shiny rice. Other people want rice with the bran scratched because it cooks quicker and it's softer," Iverson said.

Many times, how the rice is harvested, stored and processed has a large affect on the wild rice's taste.

Harvesters bring their rice to the processor with 35 to 45 per cent moisture. One hundred pounds of green rice, at 40 per cent moisture, yields about 40 pounds of finished rice.

The rice is weighed and placed in rows on 6.5 acres of asphalt. It is turned and watered for several days, which helps the rice develop color and flavor.

Then workers feed the wild rice into 31 roasters which each hold 700 pounds. Roasting takes two and one-half hours. This process gives the rice much of its "nutty roast taste." The rice is heated to 270 degrees Fahrenheit. Only 150 degrees is required to kill bacteria.

Roasting also helps remove the hull. The wild rice is sent on conveyor belts and is fed between two rollers rotating at different speeds. The speed difference rips off the hull. If the hull remains, the rice is fed through a cylinder with gum rubber linings which rubs the hull off of the rice.

The rice travels up another conveyor belt to a drum with different sized dimples. This separates the long rice from broken rice.

Gravity cleaning separates fat and thin kernels by vibrating the rice on a table.

At this point, Gourmet House can store the wild rice indefinitely. The different size rice can be combined to customers specifications. Some rice is precooked and dehydrated.

The rice is then packaged and shipped to locations all over the world.

A Clearbrook-based wild rice processor, Gourmet House, employs 12 full-time and 18 part-time workers during post-harvest operations. During harvest, Gourmet House hires 90 additional workers. It processes four million pounds of wild rice each year.

Steam rises from precooking vats full of wild rice. After workers boil the rice, they dry it in ovens. Precook worker David McDougall is pictured.

James Hoks

James Hoks receives Silver Beaver award in Scouting

The Boy Scouts of America recently awarded James Hoks the Silver Beaver Award, the highest honor the BSA can bestow upon local council volunteer Scouts.

Hoks and nine other recipients accepted the honor at a meeting in Grand Forks on Saturday, January 23. The Northern Lights Council presents the award annually with National Council approval for outstanding service to youth.

Hoks has served 15 years in [illegible] troop and district level. He is currently an institutional representative for Troop 59 and is a co-den leader for his son's den.

Hoks has served as scoutmaster of Troop 59 for six years, troop committee chairperson, served on district camporee staff, district scout show staff, district scouting for food staff, a member of the Canadian scout exchange committee, district advancement chairperson, served on district roundtable staff, district pow wow staff, assisted with district popcorn sales, and is currently involved with one of his two sons in Tiger Cubs.

Hoks assisted many troops with Eagle boards of review, Eagle ceremonies and is sought after as a speaker at Eagle Ceremonies.

Boy Scout officials say his ideas and ideals are highly respected at district level. He is a Brotherhood Member of the Order of the Arrow, received the Scoutmaster Training Award, Scouter's Key and District Award of Merit.

Hoks is also active in Zion Lutheran Church, serving as youth board chairman and Stephen minister. Hoks and his wife Heidi also have a puppetry ministry.

He has served as a member of the Jaycees and Kiwanis Club. He also served on Chamber of Commerce Committees and is active in the United Way.

TRF council studies construction proposal

Thief River Falls city council discussed a feasibility report for 1993 sidewalk and utilities improvements Monday night in city council chambers. The council is preparing for a public hearing on the subject which will be held March 16 at 7 p.m. at the city auditorium.

Many options have to be discussed before the hearing on the proposed 1993 sidewalk and utilities improvements project, and the project is approved. Those options will be discussed in committee and at the public hearing. The project report presented Tuesday included many elements and a $1.58 million price tag.

Elements of the proposed project can and probably will change before the public hearing on March 16. sidewalks currently in the project include: portions of the west and east side Conley avenue from First street to Nora street; portions of the west and east side of St. Paul avenue from First street to Nora street; both sides of St. Paul avenue from Nora street to Annie street; portions of the west and east side of Markley avenue from First street to Nora street; a portion of the west side of Markley avenue south of Nora street; portions of the west and east side of Tindolph from First street to Nora street; portions of the east side of Merriam avenue from First street to Hughes; portions of the west and east side of Kneale avenue from First street to Nora street.

Ron Lindberg, city engineering department supervisor, explained that the tax and finance committee had previously recommended that benefited frontage or equivalent frontage assessment rates for sidewalk projects be established at 80 per cent of the project cost per foot of installation plus 100 per cent of the cost of driveway and private entrance walk installation. The city has paid 20 per cent of the project cost per foot for frontages and 100 per cent of the cost of side street construction if a benefited property has sidewalk along two sides. The city has assumed the cost of the curb ramps at intersections to allow handicap accessibility.

Over the past three years, this formula has allowed the city to recover approximately 60 per cent of the total project cost through assessments at benefit rates varying from $9.40 to $10 per foot.

This year's project includes only a small portion of side street walk replacement, therefore, the 100 per cent city cost items would be confined to curb ramps at street intersections. If past assessment formulas were applied to this year's estimated costs the frontage rates would be approximately $11.30 per foot and the city would recover $138,000 or 70 per cent of the project cost.

Assessments will be discussed in committee before the public hearing. Residents will have an opportunity to discuss the scope of the project and the impact it will have on them. At that time, Lindberg, should be able to provide residents with a cost estimate.

The estimated cost for sidewalk improvements totaled $195,000.

The major expense to the $1.58 million project involves a water main extension to the airport. This project will provide adequate water to the site of the proposed elementary school and provide water for

Meadowbrooke no secret to dancers

Ballroom on the prairie "at the end of the world" frequently filled to capacity (and a little beyond)

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Resting in the middle of fields and shelterbelts a couple of miles west of Highway 32 near Middle River, the Meadowbrooke Ballroom seems unlikely to attract a great deal of attention. But there are are times when its capacity is pushed to the limit.

"Some of the bands from Nashville would come up and they'd say it's like driving to the end of the world," said Peggy Peterson, who owns the ballroom with her husband Vern.

The ballroom at "the end of the world" draws in people from miles around. It seats 450 people and has served up to three wedding parties at one time.

Musical groups ranging from the polkaing Laverne and the Starlites to sixties group Herman's Hermits have performed at the ballroom.

Dozens of band pictures line the north wall and Peggy has anecdotes about all of them.

Peggy was pregnant when Jean Shepard sang at Meadowbrooke. She began to have labor pains and held off on delivering the baby so she could listen to Shepard. She gave birth at 4 a.m. and named her daughter Jena.

Peggy remembers singing songs all night with Boxcar Willie and listening to teen idol Bobby Vee. "That's my generation and the people were really excited to see Bobby Vee."

Other performers weren't as hot. "I think it was the Bellamy Brothers — when they came in they had armed guards. I mean they didn't get in with the public too much." Herman's Hermits: "You couldn't even hear the phone ringing it was so loud. I wasn't impressed with their music at all."

Music at the Meadowbrooke Ballroom has evolved over the years.

When the Petersons initially built the building with Don and Phyllis Blazek, they had "ballroom music" in mind — polkas and waltzes. After six months they decided to go with country and rock music to draw in more people. Currently a majority of customers are 20 to 40 years old, Peggy estimated.

Most bands that now perform are local. "Local bands are more reasonable (price) and a lot of local bands have a following," Vern said. "We went into country stars.

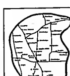
Local students help hurricane relief efforts

Heather Olson of Thief River Falls and Leah Anderson of Newfolden left Friday for Homestead, FL, with the Concordia College Habitat for Humanity chapter to assist victims of Hurricane Andrew.

Both sophomores at Concordia, Heather is the daughter of Myles and Susan Olson and Leah is the daughter of Dean and Mary Anderson.

Students and faculty members who make up the 100-volunteer group will repair and reconstruct homes damaged by the hurricane in August of last year. They will work from February 22 through February 26 and be back in Moorhead February 28.



Habitat for Humanity was organized in the belief that all people have a right to affordable and adequate housing. Concordia's chapter was established in 1991 and has contributed to worksites in Mississippi, South Carolina, Georgia, Texas, St. Paul, Grand Forks, ND and the Fargo-Moorhead area.

Insurance advocacy

Tri-Valley Opportunity Council's Insurance advocate program is expanding its service delivery plan by using trained volunteers in several communities throughout Region I.

The program assists senior citizens and low-income individuals to resolve problems arising from the complexities of medical billings and reimbursements and provides information about other entitlement or assistance programs that could lessen the burdens of medical care.

Persons who need help may contact the advocate program at 1-800-584-7020 or the volunteer in their community. Among the contacts is the civic center in Grygla, phone 294-6292. Other volunteers are at Ada, Twin Valley, Fertile and Stephen.

Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer worker in this service project may call the project director, Diane Baune, at 1-800-584-7020.

NCC Phi Theta Kappa chapter commended

Northland Community College chapter of Phi Theta Kappa society was recognized at the regional convention in the Twin Cities recently by being named a "Three Star" chapter.

To attain the "Three Star" designation, the chapter must have completed the following requirements:

- Implement current honor study topic "Dynamics of Discovery 1492-1992;"
- Conduct four service projects;
- Publish events in a college newspaper;
- Enter two regional awards;
- Inform new members of various programs with PTK; and
- Hold two meetings a month.

The chapter's achievement will be cited in the 1993 International Awards Program and distributed to more than 2,500 chapter representatives attending the annual international convention in Dallas, TX, April 15-17.

For a small college like Northland and a small Phi Theta Kappa chapter like we have, it takes a significant effort on the part of our students to achieve this designation," said Avis Dyrud, NCC chapter advisor.

Members of the Northland PTK chapter are Maripat Oberg, Alvarado; Brent Glass, Angus; Andrew Dahlen, Goodridge; Wanda Rose, Grand Forks, ND; Jacqueline Foster and Susan Wilebski, Greenbush; Judy Blanton and Charlene Wanck, Karlstad; DeAnne Ryan, Mahnomen; Barbara Bengtson, Minneapolis; Sharon Ekman, Newfolden; and Patricia Olson and Dolores Schindler, Red Lake Falls;

Also Keith Nelson, Roseau; Donna Westlund, Strathcona; Kelly Engelman, Barbara Grund, Melinda Hausker, Shannon Olson, LuCinda Patterson, Darcie Senum, Patricia Stephens, Annette Swanson, Darla Swanson, Lee Vedbraaten and Gloria Wilson, Thief River Falls; Chad Bjorgaard, Viking; and Judy Anderson and Krystal McDonough, Warren.

Area residents attend workshop in Detroit Lakes

Central Marshall County Project Future Committee representatives David and Connie Strandquist, Susan Skadsem and Tammy Bagnall attended a Development 93 workshop in Detroit Lakes last Friday, February 12, 1993. The one-day conference, sponsored by Congressman Collin Peterson, was the first of its kind in the area. "New and Innovative Business Ideas to Boost Your Income" was the theme, and more than 1700 people turned out to make the conference a huge success.

Conference goers had a choice of attending one of 19 different classes every half hour, with a total of 11 "class" periods throughout the day. Some of the many classes dealt with business development and retention, feasibility studies, tourism, record keeping, export potentials to Canada, and various grant and local programs. Also included were agricultural possibilities like raising peas, strawberries, herbs, wild berries, or hybrid poplar trees. According to Congressman Collin Peterson, "the purpose of the conference was to present ideas to individuals and groups that will stimulate economic and community development in the Seventh Congressional District of Minnesota."

Members of the Central Marshall County Project Future Committee, are hopeful that their community can benefit from workshops like Development '93, and that some of the ideas shared might be suitable for the area and its future continued success.

To The Editor:

Special thanks to Glenna Messer Hansen for expressing so clearly the issue involved in the abortion question. Ms. Hansen stated "And freedom is what we women must have."

She couldn't have stated it more clearly. Women are demanding freedom to kill babies before they are born; pro-life people are demanding freedom for babies to live to be born. Ms. Hansen is demanding freedom from responsibility, freedom from consequences of selfish behavior, and freedom from any pangs of guilt at memories of destroyed babies.

No matter how many FOCA bills are passed, nothing can give the freedoms being demanded. Only the uneducated or uninformed think that a baby sucking its thumb while swimming in the womb is just a blob. No matter how loud the protest, the guilt cannot be totally silenced.

But please, will someone explain why the murder of an innocent preborn life does not demand a jail sentence equal to the murder of any other human? And what about the "women" being murdered before they are born? Did they not want their freedom, too?

FOCA is an evil bill with evil purposes, taking away all freedom from states to control abortion. Thanks for making it so clear, Ms. Hansen.

Sincerely,
Nancy Johnson

To The Editor:

Your correspondent (Northern Watch Public Opinion, Feb. 13) Glenna Hansen accused me of patronism, sexism and calling women second class citizens because I wrote a letter opposing the Freedom of Choice Act.

Ms. Hansen is apparently a member of that unfortunate group of people who have been taught by the feminists and pro-abortionists that propaganda will pass for argument, and who then become frustrated when it doesn't. Her frustration is not the fault of people who refuse to be sidetracked from real issues, but her own fault for allowing herself to be deluded into accepting propaganda for argument in the first place.

It is not patronism to tell a Ms. Hansen, "you are not thinking things through." It's an assertion of fact, which Ms. Hansen is free to rebut as she is able. It is not sexism to insist that the propounders of a fictitious woman's right do so with reason. It is not oppression to say to a woman, "Have all the control you want over your own body, just don't harm the body of that child within you."

People have been far too easy on the feminists and abortionists. They're not doing us a service.

Sincerely,
Dale Blanshan

Bill On Initiative And Referendum Introduced

"I believe initiative and referendum will truly give the people a right to be able to initiate action that maybe the Legislature has been unwilling or unable to deal with for some reason," states Rep. Tony Onnen of Cokato, House author of the initiative and referendum bill which has been introduced.

Issues he cited on which legislators have been reluctant to act include reducing the size of the Legislature, term limits for legislators and constitutional officers and reinstating the death penalty.

Even if 99 per cent of the people of Minnesota support a proposal, he points out, no law will result unless the Legislature acts by adopting a bill to create a law. Initiative and referendum provide a detour around the roadblock of an unresponsive legislature.

Rep. Onnen's point is well made, although most legislators will insist—and we would probably agree—that if there is extensive statewide support for a law, the legislators will be climbing over one another to be the first to introduce it and take credit for its passage.

What is at least equally and perhaps even more important than the initiative portion of the bill is the referendum issue. Initiative would allow a percentage of the voters to bring a petition on a certain subject to the legislature for action. If the legislature does not act, the bill would be put to the voters to decide.

Referendum, on the other hand, would allow voters to remove a law from the statutes through a similar procedure. Many times it is more difficult to remove a bad law than it is to pass a good one.

Onnen's bill calls for a constitutional amendment to be placed on the November 1994 general election ballot. A similar effort was made in 1980 but failed to pass, although a majority of those voting were in favor of it. There were 970,407 votes in favor and 854,164 opposed, but enough people not voting on the amendment to result in its defeat. Law requires a favorable vote by a majority of all people who voted in the general election that day, not only those who voted on the amendment. No vote is the same as a "No" vote.

Onnen said he's confident that a strong voter education campaign would lead to a victory for the constitutional amendment in 1994. We believe he is right.

"I believe that the people are very frustrated and that they want a more active part in government," he said. "Initiative and referendum would truly provide an opportunity for them to have their say, to feel a greater part of it."

We wouldn't like to see initiative and referendum become a substitute for responsible and responsive representative government, but we believe it could be added incentive for elected officials to provide that responsible and responsive representation. It would be one more insurance policy for good government that citizens would have at their disposal.

Insurance Questions? Call 1-800-642-6121

Do you have a question about an insurance matter, aren't satisfied with your agent's response but too timid or busy to check around and make comparisons or ask questions? The place to go for help is just a phone call away at the Minnesota Insurance Information Center.

The center is a nonprofit information organization which is sponsored and funded by the insurance industry in Minnesota. Its president and CEO is Dave Cummings, an officer who is dedicated to maintaining the integrity of the center as a service provider which is truthful and unbiased in its presentation of information.

"Insurance protection is becoming a much more important part of everyone's life today," he said. "Minnesotans are more interested in the cost, quality and comprehensive nature of their insurance coverage. They're reviewing their personal insurance situations much more frequently and carefully."

That's good. Insurance is a good idea and a necessity for economic protection, but it can often be confusing and frustrating. The Insurance Information Center can help in both cases.

"Our consumer response program helps consumers make successful insurance decisions by directly answering their questions about different types of insurance, explaining how claims are processed and outlining the availability of specific coverages in this state," Cummings said. Staffed by retired insurance professionals, the program may be contacted Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. toll-free at 1-800-642-6121.

If you call, you won't be unique in seeking help. During 1992 the consumer response program received 18,370 inquiries—a 20 per cent increase from 1991.

Cummings attributes at least part of the increase to last year's inordinately high number of natural disasters, rising health care costs, the attention given to insurance issues during the 1992 legislative session and the state and presidential political campaigns.

Thirty-nine per cent of the 18,370 inquiries (7,076 calls) related to health care. Automobile insurance inquiries prompted 4,024 calls and annuities brought 1,901 calls. The remaining 20 per cent involved homeowners, Medicare supplement, liability, property, workers' compensation and motorcycle insurance.

If you have questions about an insurance situation that you don't understand or are having problems with your insurance in one way or another, call the 800 number listed above.

Soupçon

By Sherry LaCoursiere

Today's recipes are for hearty, but healthy, main dish meals to chase away the winter blahs.

This tasty dish takes very little time to prepare and makes a bright, colorful meal, high in fiber but low in cholesterol and fat:

BEANS AND RICE MEDITERRANEAN

1 Chicken breast, split, boned, skinned and cut into thin strips
2 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil
1 (16 ounce) can pork and beans, undrained
1 (16 ounce) can tomatoes, coarsely chopped and undrained
3/4 cup uncooked rice
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup sliced green onions
1 teaspoon oregano
1 clove garlic, minced
1/8 to 1/4 teaspoon liquid red pepper sauce
1 green pepper, cut into strips

In large skillet, saute chicken in oil over medium-high heat until chicken is white, about 2 minutes.

Stir in remaining ingredients except green pepper. Bring to a boil and then reduce heat and cover and simmer for 10 minutes.

Add green pepper and continue to simmer for 10 minutes or until rice is tender, stirring occasionally.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 260 calories, 36 g carbohydrate, 15 g protein, 6 g fat, 500 mg sodium, 70 mg calcium, 20 mg cholesterol and 4 g dietary fiber.)

This delicious dish is a Help Your Heart recipe from the American Heart Association:

ENCHILADA BAKE

1/2 cup dry beans, cooked (or 2 cups canned)
1 onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
5 or 6 mushrooms, sliced
1 green pepper, chopped
1 1/2 cups stewed tomatoes
1 tablespoon chili powder
1 teaspoon ground cumin
1/2 cup dry white wine
8 whole wheat corn tortillas
1/4 cup grated mozzarella cheese (low fat type)
1/2 cup ricotta cheese (made from partially skimmed milk)
1/4 cup low fat plain yogurt
6 black olives

Saute onion, garlic, mushrooms and pepper. Add beans, tomatoes, spices and wine and simmer gently for about 30 minutes.

Mix ricotta cheese and yogurt.

In oiled 1 1/2 quart casserole, put layer of tortillas, layer of sauce, 1 1/2 tablespoons grated mozzarella and 4 tablespoons of cheese-yogurt mixture. Repeat process until all ingredients are used, ending with sauce and cheese-yogurt mixture and black olives.

Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 343 calories, 15 g protein, 11 g total fat, 2.9 g saturated fat, 10 mg cholesterol, 48.8 g carbohydrates, 183 mg calcium, 770 mg potassium and 667 mg sodium.)

A tangy sauce of tomatoes, raisins and brown sugar makes this dish different:

SWEET AND SOUR CABBAGE ROLLS

1 large head cabbage, (about 3 1/2 pounds)
Water
2 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil
1 medium onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 pound lean ground beef
1 cup white rice, cooked
1 egg
1/4 cup raisins
3/4 cup dill weed
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

SAUCE.

2 cans (16 ounces each) whole tomatoes in puree
1/2 cup raisins
3 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons packed brown sugar

Remove and discard tough outer leaves and core of cabbage.

In large saucepan, place cabbage and add water to cover halfway. Bring to a boil over high heat and cook, uncovered, for 5 to 8 minutes, until outer leaves of cabbage are fork-tender.

Remove tender leaves to bowl and set aside.

Continue to cook and remove cabbage leaves to bowl as they become tender until there are 12 cooked leaves. Remove remaining cabbage from saucepan, drain and set aside in refrigerator for another meal.

In small saucepan, heat oil and then add onion and garlic. Cook until soft, stirring occasionally.

In medium bowl, combine onion mixture, beef, rice, egg, 1/4 cup raisins, dill weed, salt and pepper, mixing well.

To make cabbage rolls, place about 1/3 cup of meat mixture at one end of cabbage leaf and then fold sides over meat and roll as for jelly roll. Make 12 cabbage rolls.

In large skillet, over medium heat, cook tomatoes, 1/2 cup raisins, vinegar and sugar, stirring to break up tomatoes. Gently add cabbage rolls and bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 40 to 50 minutes, until meat is cooked and tender.

(Recipe serves 6 and each serving contains 450 calories, 19 g protein, 21 g fat, 47 g carbohydrates, 520 mg sodium.)

Here is one more flavor-filled meal that is easy to make all-in-one dish:

SPANISH RICE AND CHICKEN

2 to 2 1/2 pounds chicken, cut up
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1 cup uncooked rice
3/4 cup chopped onions
3/4 cup chopped green peppers
1/4 cup snipped fresh parsley
1 cup chopped tomatoes
1 1/2 teaspoons chili powder
1 1/2 cups chicken broth

Season chicken with paprika, garlic salt and celery salt. Place skin side up in greased, shallow 2 1/2 quart baking dish or 9x13 inch pan. Bake at 425 degrees for 20 minutes.

Push chicken to one side of dish and add rice, onions, peppers and parsley.

Combine remaining ingredients in saucepan and heat to boiling. Pour over rice mixture and stir well. Arrange chicken over rice, cover and continue baking for 30 minutes more, or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed.

No classes for students on March 1

There will be no classes for students in the Thief River Falls public schools Monday, March 1, as teachers will be working on various curriculum reviews with a main focus on the reading program.

The work day is part of the school district's comprehensive curriculum review process.

"The six-year curriculum review cycle is making a difference in the school district and taking time for staff to work on this curriculum has a very direct benefit to our students," states Dr. Robert Duncan, superintendent of schools.

Last year the school district held a curriculum review day in which mathematics was the key review area. This year the district has implemented a K-12 comprehensive math program which, in part, was the result of the curriculum review day, Dr. Duncan said.

All elementary teachers and communication arts (English) teachers in the middle school and high school will be working on the reading project. The K-12 communication arts curriculum review committee will soon be making a decision as to what the reading program will be in the school district. That decision will then go to the PER committee for its review and then to the board of education.

"In order to make sure the reading program that is selected fits the learner outcomes being developed by the committee and is properly sequenced from one grade to the next, it's imperative that all staff work together on it at the same time," Supt. Duncan added.

"Staff members who are not involved in reading will be working on their own curriculum review including music, dance, science, theatre, social studies, world language guidance and mathematics," he said.

NCC, UMC split pair of close doubleheader decisions

There were no titles on the line and no state tournament berths at stake, but the intensity level was still high, and the finishes were as exciting as anything you'll see in championship games Thursday when Northland Community College and the University of Minnesota-Crookston renewed their athletic rivalry with a Northwest Division basketball doubleheader in Thief River Falls that produced a pair of down-to-the-wire finishes.

The opener went to the Pioneers, who won the women's game 66-65. The nightcap went to the Trojans, who took the men's game 79-77.

Northland women finished the year at 8-13 overall, 4-7 in the Minnesota Community College Conference while gaining a measure of revenge against the state tournament-bound Trojans, who beat them 52-42 two weeks earlier.

"Winning this game was like getting to the state tournament for us," said Northland women's coach Rick Nikunen. "Once we were out of it (the Northwest Division race), winning this game was our goal. It was our best game of the year, by far. We came out intense, we executed our offense, we rebounded, shot the ball well, and we played good defense. I was really proud of the way they played."

Northland men fell to 3-18 overall and 0-10 in the Northwest Division. They wrap up the season today (Saturday) with a 2 p.m. non-conference game against UND-Lake Region.

It was the second Northland loss of the year to UMC, but Pioneers made a better showing the second time around after a lackluster effort in a 75-62 loss to the Trojans earlier.

"That was a great college basketball game," offered Northland coach Mark Dannhoff. "It was a heck of an effort by both teams. There was nothing a stake, but pride and the competitive spirit. I was really proud of the guys. I feel bad for them because I know how hard they worked. It just came down to the last shot."

Northland........................66
UMC..............................65

A one-point Northland halftime lead stood up as the Pioneers edged University of Minnesota-Crookston 66-65 in the women's game.

The two teams were never separated by more than six points in the second half. It was tied for the eighth and final time at 61-61 on a short turnaround jumper by the Pioneers' Jill Brantl with 3:26 remaining.

Gina Wardner gave the Trojans a 63-61 lead on a drive to the basket with 3:05 left, and after a free throw by Northland's Holly Gram, another basket from underneath by Wardner made it 65-62, UMC, with 52.4 seconds showing.

Jodi Chaplinski pulled Northland within 65-64 by drilling a 15-footer with 31.1 seconds to play, and the Pioneers promptly put the Trojans' Sabrina Flatland at the free throw line for a bonus opportunity. She missed the first shot, Northland gained the rebound and Gram got what proved to be the game-winning basket on an offensive rebound with 18 second left.

UMC still had time to come back, but Lori TeHennepe missed a wide-open lay-up with 7.4 seconds showing. With the Trojans gaining possession when the rebound was batted out of bounds, they got the ball to Wardner, who missed a base line jumper with 5.1 seconds to go before the Pioneers gained control and ran out the clock.

Chaplinski led a balanced Northland attack with 14 points, Gram had 13 and Renae Blazejewski 11, while Brantl and Susie Bengston both netted 9.

Wardner was game-high scorer with 17 points, while Kari Klassen collected 16 and Amy Blackmun had 14 with some impressive three-point shooting off the bench.

Northland shot 46 percent from the field (29/63) and went 7-for-11 at the free throw line. UMC shot 38 percent from the field (24/63) and made 10 of 18 free throws. The rebounds were even at 35-apiece. Northland topped the turnover charts 23-13.

UMC..............................79
Northland........................77

Just like the women's game where a one-point Northland halftime lead led a one-point win, a two-point University of Minnesota-Crookston edge at intermission in the men's game wound up as a 79-77 UMC victory in the doubleheader nightcap.

The lead changed hands six times and there were two ties before UMC went into the lockerroom with a 30-28 halftime advantage.

They swapped leads 10 more times in the second half, along with a couple of ties, before a three-point basket by Chad Brekke gave the Trojans a 52-50 edge with 12:02 remaining.

Northland never regained the lead, but the Pioneers made it interesting down the stretch.

It was tied at 67-67 when Chip Carter of the Pioneers banked in a short jumper with 3:24 to play. But the next three Northland possessions were stopped by two blocked shots and a turnover as the Pioneers fell behind 72-67 on a put-back rebound basket by Bryan Ambuehl with 1:43 showing.

It looked to be out of reach when Jason Yutrzenka went in for a fast break lay-up with 27.9 seconds left, making it 77-70. And when the Pioneers' Dan Hoffard was hit by a technical foul for grabbing the rim on tha play, a free throw by Mark Dick made it 78-70, with the Trojans maintaining possession.

Things were a bit muddied at that point when the Northland bench argued that Dick, who wasn't in the game at the time of the technical call, should not have been allowed to shoot the free throws. After a lengthy delay, the situation remained unchanged. But a quick steal and a lay-up by Carter did cut the difference to 78-72, and after another UMC turnover, two free throws by Mitch Bernstein made it a suddenly close 78-74 game with 20.8 seconds to play.

Cerdon Johnson missed two free throws with 19.3 seconds remaining that could have all but wrapped it up for the Trojans, and Northland promptly made it 78-77 when Ryan Walseth scored on a rebound, drew a foul and added the free throw with 11.8 seconds left.

Yutrzenka made one of two free throws with 10.4 seconds showing, and when Northland grabbed the rebound, the opportunity was there for a tie or a win at the end. But Yutrzenka played tough defense against Carter on a drive to the basket and his contested shot was off the mark as the final seconds ticked off the clock.

Yutrzenka led all scorers with 27 points. Maurice Jackson added 16 to the Trojans' total and Brekke had 14. Bernstein paced the Pioneers with 18 points, while Hoffard had 16 and Carter 15.

Northland shot 34 percent from the field (25/73), while UMC shot 42 percent (29/69). The Pioneers were 22-for-33 at the free throw line, where the Trojans went 17-for-30.

Nordics knock off Gators 60-58

Marshall County Central made nine of 12 overtime free throws Tuesday to knock off Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 60-58 in a match-up of top Section 8A Sub-Section 4 boys high school basketball contenders at Newfolden.

It was just the second loss in 19 starts for the Gators, while the Nordics made amends for a 77-61 loss in the first meeting between the two teams back on Jan. 19. Marshall County Central is 13-5 for the year.

"It wasn't particularly well-played, but it was unbelievably intense and physical," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "The gym was full. It was a great atmosphere to play a basketball game. I can't remember as much emotion in a regular season game."

Marshall County Central led by as many as 10 points, but settled for quarter leads af 16-13, 29-25 and 44-37 before Badger/Greenbush-Middle River tied it 51-51 at the end of regulation time.

The Gators scored at the start of the three-minute overtime, but the Nordics won out at the free throw line, were Jake Rantanen was 4-for-4 in the extra session as part of a 16-point night. Tim Olson led the winners with 17 points.

Ryan Rislov scored 16 points to lead the Gators, while Matt Kuznia and David Blazek both had 11.

"It was an exciting game, but I didn't think it was well-played," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby, echoing the thoughts of Ueland. "They out-played us. They got an early lead, hit their shots when they needed them and made their free throws at the end. We had to play catch-up ball most of the night, and we didn't shoot particularly well."

Marshall County Central shot 47 percent (23/49), while Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 41 percent (24/58). The Nordics were 14-for-23 at the free throw line; the Gators went 6-for-11. The winners had a 33-25 rebound edge, and also had more turnovers, 18-16.

RLCC pins 50-15 loss on Lincoln

Red Lake County Central's young line-up beat Thief River Falls' young line-up 50-15 Tuesday in high school wrestling.

There were just two seniors among the 26 wrestlers who took part in the regular season-ending dual – Lee Nieland of the host Prowlers at 152 pounds and Gus Vettleson of the Mustangs at 275. Rest of Thief River Falls' line-up included one junior, four sophomores, three freshmen, and four eighth graders. Remaining Red Lake County Central wrestlers included two juniors, two sophomores, five freshmen, two eighth graders, and a seventh grader.

The Prowlers wound up with just three wins for the night – pins for eighth grader Luke Davis at 112 and sophomore John Davis at 160, along with a one-point decision for Nieland over junior Adam Lundeen in the most entertaining match of the night.

Nieland took a 3-2 lead into the third period, gave up an escape point, but then gained a take-down for a 5-3 edge. Lundeen tied it on a reversal with 26 seconds left, but Nieland broke away for an escape and a win just six seconds later.

Six of the Mustangs' wins came on pins by freshman Brian Lundeen at 125, junior Paul Konickson at 135, sophomore Eric Reinbold at 140, freshman Scott Waldal at 171, sophomore Jeff Aakhus at 189, and Vettleson.

The Prowlers finished the regular season with a 3-18-1 dual meet record.

Argyle free throws top Prowlers 70-58

Argyle grabbed an early 9-0 lead, then used a decided edge at the free throw line to pick up a 70-58 boys high school basketball win over Thief River Falls Tuesday.

The host Eagles were a productive 20-for-25 at the free throw line, where the Prowlers were a quiet 1-for-2.

"You're not going to win many games with a difference like that at the free throw line," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke.

Argyle never lost that early edge, sitting on quarter leads of 19-14, 35-31 and 50-44.

"We didn't play bad, but we didn't come ready to play at the start," noted Brekke. "You can't spot a team like Argyle nine points and expect to get back in it."

Thief River Falls was never really out of it, however, until the end. The Prowlers were still within 58-54 with 3:42 remaining, but were out-scored 12-4 down the stretch as the Eagles made 10 of 13 fourth quarter free throws.

Nathan Lubarski of Argyle and Kyle Sanden of Thief River Falls shared game-high scoring honors with 22 points apiece. Sanden also had 10 rebounds.

Both teams shot only 38 percent from the field, with the Prowlers going 27-for-71 while the Eagles finished 24-for-63. Thief River Falls had a 32-28 rebound edge, but also topped the turnover charts 15-7.

Goodridge balance is key in win

Four Goodridge players hit double figures Tuesday as the Huskies beat visiting Red Lake Falls 65-50 in boys high school basketball.

"We had good balance," noted Goodridge coach John Rahn. "I think we've won every time when we've had four double figure scorers."

The 8-11 Huskies turned a 12-10 first quarter lead into a 30-15 halftime cushion, and managed to maintain a 48-38 third quarter spread even though the Eagles' Nathan Patnode scored 17 of his game-high 28 points that period.

Goodridge shot 47 percent (27/58), while Red Lake Falls shot 39 percent (20/51). The Huskies were 6-for-11 at the free throw line, where the Eagles went 5-for-9.

Mustangs hold off Norman Co. East, win 43-38

Farrah Brantl came up with a steal and a fast break lay-up to snap a tie with 15 seconds remaining, sparking the Red Lake County Central girls to a 43-38 win over Norman County East at Plummer.

The Mustangs added three free throws in the final moments to pad their lead.

It was an exciting finish, but otherwise a less-than-memorable outing, according to Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "It wasn't pretty, but we won," he said. "It was kind of a lethargic game."

Dawn Bachand shook off early foul trouble to share game-high scoring honors with teammate Jill Radniecki with 13 points each.

Red Lake County Central shot 42 percent from the field (19/45), while Norman County East shot 44 percent (18/41). The Mustangs went 5-for-12 at the line, where the visitors were 2-for-2.

Northland came from behind to beat Brainerd 60-55, but lost to Fergus Falls 79-51 in recent late-reported women's community college basketball.

Kim Peterson scored 20 of her game-high 23 points in the second half as Northland overcame a 30-23 halftime deficit in a Saturday (Feb. 13) home court win over Brainerd.

"It was our best effort of the year," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. The Pioneers had just six players on hand, but four of them scored in double figures.

Northland shot 39 percent (24/62), while Brainerd shot 34 percent (20/59). The Pioneers were 12-for-24 at the free throw line, where the Raiders went 3-for-8.

Lokstad leads MCC past Warren girls 54-46

Sara Lokstad scored 24 points to lead Marshall County Central past Warren 56-46 Thursday in regular season-ending girls high school basketball at Newfolden.

The Nordics led only 21-18 at halftime, with Lokstad netting 15 of those 21 points.

"Overall, I was pretty pleased with the game, but we didn't get that balanced scoring we've seen recently," reported Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde, whose team heads into Section 8A Sub-Section 4 tournament play with a 12-9 record.

The Nordics shot 41 percent from the field (19/46) and had a productive 18-for-23 night at the free throw line, including a game-clinching 11-for-15 fourth quarter. Warren shot 38 percent (18/47) and went 9-for-17 at the line.

Red Lake County Central played a strong Climax/Fisher team on near-even terms before surrendering a 65-54 decision to the Knights in Fisher.

The Mustangs trailed only 47-43 through three quarters.

"I was really pleased with the effort," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "We played well."

Angel Mickelson had a 20-point, 11-rebound game for the Mustangs, who finished with a 12-8 regular season record. Marcia Nichols led the Knights with 25 points.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 53 percent from the field (20/38) Thursday in beating Tri-County 57-40 at Greenbush.

The 16-4 Gators jumped out to a 9-0 lead and were never headed, snapping an eight-game winning streak for the Wildcats.

"We had a real good first quarter," pointed out Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "After that, we played well in spurts. We had way too many turnovers (23) for Game No. 20."

Krissi Super scored 13 points to lead the Gators, and Sara Melby deserved recognition, said Neibauer, for coming up with 14 defensive rebounds from her guard position.

The winners cashed in on 17 of 27 free throw opportunities, while the visitors were just 2-for-9 at the line.

Goodridge/Grygla.................53

A 52 percent shooting performance from the field wasn't enough to keep Goodridge/Grygla out of the loss column Thursday as the Wolverines dropped a 68-53 decision to East Grand Forks Sacred Heart in Goodridge.

"That's the best we've shot all year," noted Goodridge/Grygla coach Mike Gast, after watching his team hit 24 of 46 shots. "But we had a little trouble getting the ball down the floor, and we gave them some easy baskets off our turnovers."

Nichole Fontaine led the Eagles with 17 points, while Kristy Johnson paced the Wolverines with 16.

Sacred Heart shot 46 percent from the field (27/58) and had a 12-for-25 night at the free throw line, where the Wolverines were 4-for-9.

Northland shot 33 percent from the field (20/60) and went 10-for-18 at the free throw line. Fergus Falls shot 49 percent from the floor (32/65) and went 13-for-16 at the line.

Kevin Crossley-Holland

English writer to speak in Roseau Feb. 22

English writer Kevin Crossley-Holland will appear at one program in Warroad and several in Roseau on Monday, February 22, under sponsorship of the Roseau Area Friends of the Library.

He will spend time with students in the Roseau elementary school in the morning and make a brief appearance in Warroad before returning to Roseau for evening events at the Evangelical Covenant Church.

The schedule includes a catered supper at 5:30 p.m., a program entitled "Kevin Crossley-Holland Shares His Work" at 6:30 p.m. and a writers' workshop from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Tickets are available at the Roseau public library.

On display this month at the Roseau public library are 12 works by Roseau artist Darcy Hollestad, who moved to Roseau last July and has used six different art media singly or in combination to create the 12 items.

Oklee business loses food stamp program permit

Kary's Warehouse Salvage, route 1, Oklee, has been disqualified from the Pennington County Food Stamp Program for a period of six months beginning January 4, according to a news release from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The firm was charged with repeatedly accepting food coupons in exchange for ineligible items such as vacuum cleaner bags, shampoos, toothpaste, soap, trash bags, tissue, a sponge, a doll, aluminum wrap, plastic spoons and a can opener.

Karydon Chervestad, owner, may apply for reinstatement of the firm in the Pennington County Food Stamp Program at the end of the disqualification period. The firm may not accept food coupons before reinstatement.

A USDA official explained that food coupons can be used to buy only food for human consumption and for plants and seeds to grow food for the household.

Monroe Woods, Midwest Regional Administrator of the USDA's Food and Nutrition Service which administers the program, explained that before being authorized to accept food coupons, firms must agree to abide by the regulations governing the Food Stamp Program. Woods said that any firm which violates the regulations, and anyone who pressures a firm to do so, weakens and endangers the whole program which was established to combat hunger and malnutrition.

As a means of protecting the integrity of the Food Stamp Program, each retail food store authorized to accept food stamps is required to post in a suitable and conspicuous location in the store a sign which provides information on how persons may report abuses they have observed in the operation of the program. Food stamp fraud in Pennington County can be reported to USDA, Food and Nutrition Service, 2619 Tower Ave. Superior, WI, (715) 392-7178 or the USDA, Office of Inspector General (toll free) 1-800-424-9121.

On March 10 at 12 noon at the Backyard Restaurant in Bemidji and at 11:30 a.m. March 11 at Mac's Cafe in Fertile the program will be presented by consultant Bonnie Stewart on the topic: "Is Your Time Managing You, Or Are You Managing Your Time?"

The Meadowbrooke Ballroom lies in the middle of fields and shelterbelts a couple of miles west of Highway 32 near Middle River. Some Nashville bands would tell the owners, "It's like driving to the end of the world." A wide variety of bands have performed at Meadowbrooke.

The Meadowbrooke Ballroom seats 450 and has hosted as many as three wedding parties at one time. The ballroom has been open for almost 15 years.

Pictures of bands and performers line the north wall of the Meadowbrooke Ballroom. Bands ranging from the polkaing Lavarna and the Starlites to sixties group Herman's Hermits have performed at the ballroom. Local country bands provide most of the music.

some did very well for us and some of them didn't, depending on how big the name was," Peggy said. "Maybe you had 50 people. If you're paying $1,000 or whatever...."

The Petersons have booked a variety of venues, such as the Chippendale dancers. Peggy received calls about the dancers from people all over Minnesota and North Dakota. "They were taking buses down here...it was crazy," Peggy said.

There were also the female mud wrestlers. "A couple of big guys were out there and these gals would lift these guys up. There is still mud on the ceiling from those guys," Peggy said.

Occasionally they still host polka-type music, something Blazek still prefers. Blazek sold his shase of the business in its first year.

Blazek owned the Wagon Wheel, a Middle River bar/cafe, at the time they built the ballroom. "It was always something I wanted to do," Blazek said.

And the name? Meadowbrooke is situated by a field which might double as a meadow, but there is no brook in sight. "We were looking for something soft and easy, not a hard name," Blazek said. "Now people call it 'The Brook.' 'Let's go out to The Brook,' or 'What's happening at The Brook.'"

The Meadowbrooke Ballroom celebrates its 15th year of business in April. The Petersons and Blazeks built the Meadowbrooke in spring 1978.

"On opening day we didn't have any chairs or tables up and they came in big cartons and here we are panicking. They were still working on the plumbing and they turned the water on and there were leaks all over and I thought 'Oh no! We're going to be open in how many hours?' But they got it fixed, so we did have opening night," Peggy said.

The ballroom is open Saturday evenings. At one time it was open Fridays and Sundays, but the hours cut into "family time" for Peggy and Vern, who also have full-time jobs. Now the ballroom is occasionally open Fridays and Sundays for teen dances and special events hosted by organizations.

Peggy plays many rolex — cook, waitress and bartender to name a few. She also books the bands. The position is ideal for people-watching. "You get all kinds. Of course sometimes you're not really impressed," Peggy said. "I have to be a bouncer once in awhile. I look for somebody really big to come with me."

"I'm kind of the janitor," Vern said. Vern handles building maintenance.

"They're easy to get along with... good managers. They're pretty easy going," said William Jesme, who bartended at Meadowbrooke.

On busy nights the ballroom employs three bartenders and four waitresses.

Patrons can buy 3.2 beer, wine coolers and setups from the red shag carpet bar.

The Meadowbrooke Ballroom serves snack food such as barbeque, polish sausage and hot dogs. "Some guys have three, four, five barbeques before they go home," Peggy said.

Peggy said minors trying to purchase alcohol pose the biggest problem. They are allowed into the ballroom for wedding parties when accompanied by an adult.

Wedding parties are Meadowbrooke's biggest business. Peggy said there is usually about one a week during summer months.

Peggy held her daughter Kari's wedding reception in the ballroom. "That was nice because I could have the whole works here and we could just open the doors," Peggy said. The ballroom gives 20 free admission tickets to wedding parties and they try to honor band requests.

The 40 by 40 sunken dance floor remains the building's biggest selling point, Vern said, but the ballroom has other uses as well.

Organizations use the facility for class reunions, banquets, benefit dances and fundraisers — both Democrat and Republican. "We don't have a party you know," Peggy said, "we just let anybody in."

fire protection at the airport.

Beginning near Highway 32 and the Occupational Development Center, the pipeline will cross the river at Mark avenue before turning south on Pennington avenue to the airport where it will empty into a reservoir. This portion of the project will cost nearly $1 million.

Other elements of the proposed project include: a sanitary sewer and water main looping to Country Lake Foods; a storm sewer extension to Oakland Park road; a sanitary sewer extension on Baken street; and a sanitary sewer to serve Occupational Development Corp.

It is possible that of the $1.58 million project, over $1 million will be assessed to property owners.

In addition to the street and utility improvement project, Lindberg discussed a $108,000 improvement to the wastewater treatment ponds. The improvement would involve removal of some culverts, repairing ice damage, and replacing manholes.

Notices of the hearing will be mailed to property owners around March 5. That notice will inform property owners of improvements adjoining or near their property and of possible assessments. Affected property owners are encouraged to attend the hearing currently scheduled for 7 p.m. March 16.

Lengby community center to hold open house

Lengby — The newly remodeled Lengby community center will hold an open house Saturday, February 27 from 1 to 4 p.m. Lengby Mayor Ethel Nestad stated that coffee and donuts will be available. Since last summer, a new roof, floor with floor heat, kitchen and bathrooms have been put into the building. In addition, the ceiling was lowered and new insulation and interior walls were added to the building. (Thirteen Towns)

Winnipeg beefing up operations

Red Lake Falls — About 30 agricultural representatives from Winnipeg ventured south early this week to hear about beef and buy some bulls. They visited the Gary Purath farm Wednesday to discuss ways of raising cattle. The group was interested in determining marketing strategies for beef cattle and comparing Minnesota's methods of consumer-oriented beef to Manitoba's beef-producing methods. The group also visited Tilden Farms in Mentor, the Red River Valley Beef show in Crookston, the University of Minnesota, Crookston research facility and Thief River Falls. (Gazette)

Smokers still welcome in Kittson courthouse

Hallock — Tobacco has not been banned in the Kittson county courthouse, despite a request from county department heads to make county buildings and vehicles tobacco-free. It was pointed out that many county offices are already basically smoke-free, including Welfare/Social Services, Sheriff, Nursing, Assessor, ASCS, SWCD and FmHA. The last three are federal offices which were designated tobacco-free as of January 1. Commissioners however felt that at least one area of the courthouse should be left available for smokers. (Kittson County Enterprise)

Playground planned in Gonvick

Gonvick — A small group of concerned residents are beginning the planning stages of a playground in Gonvick for 2-5 year olds. The area, which would be located near the ECFE center and next to the school playground for older children, would include a bench and picnic table and playground equipment which is considered safer for young children than the standard slides and swings. A fund-raising effort for the new facility is also being planned. (Leader-Record)

Elected officials serve on many committees

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Perhaps because of the poor image and the complexities of committee structure and lack of attention paid to them by the media, few people understand how time consuming it is to serve on local government boards.

Over time, the list of committees with specific purposes has increased. For local government officials, however, time is such a limited resource that, committees that overlap in purpose or are no longer active, are set aside as quickly as possible. Nevertheless, sometimes meetings are held for the sake of making contacts and listening to updates.

Pennington county commissioners receive a per diem for service on any of the 22 approved committees. Those committees include sub-committees of the board and a host of others that have a strong impact on decisions made by the government. The commissioners share duties and responsibilities on these committees and divide up the work load.

There are six basic sub-committees of the Thief River Falls city council. No more than four councilmen can serve on a committee. These committees meet at least once per month. In addition to the six sub-committees, councilmen often find themselves serving as a liason on other committees, such as Community Education, an advisory board for School District 564.

At the beginning of each year, the school board appoints its members to serve on a list of committees. This year, there are 16 committees. For the most part, these committees deal with various educational issues and departments.

■ What are the financial rewards for local government officials?

The following is a brief explanation of the salaries and benefits local government officials earn:

Pennington county commissioners are paid a base salary of $9,000 per year. In addition they can earn $35 per meeting for attending approved meetings. They also can participate in the health and life insurance policies offered by the county. Two county commissioners did not participate in the health plan. The county pays for a single policy. If the commissioner wants a family policy they have to pay 20 per cent of the cost.

Salaries for Thief River Falls city council members vary from $5,400 to $6,000. The Mayor, Robert Reeve, earns $500 per month, the vice mayor, Jean Heinrichs, earns $475 per month, and the other councilmen, Milt Burstad, David Carlson, Dale Wennberg, Don Barron, Frank Hamerlinck and John T. Anderson earn $450 per month. They can participate in a retirement plan but they receive no other benefit or per diem. If, however, they attend a seminar or workshop for the city, their expenses are covered by the city. Insurance is not available.

Salaries for public officials serving on School District 564 board vary from $3,000 to $3,750. There are seven board members. The chairman, Larry Belmont, earns $3,750. The vice-chairman, Dennis Kiesow, earns $3,500. The clerk, Darla Twomey, earns $3,400. The treasurer, Carl Clark, earns $3,200. The remaining directors, Harry Sjulson, Maryel Anderson and Hank Hallstrom, earn $3,000.

Different methods of paying elected officials used

What do public officials in other communities earn?

Defining what public officials are being paid, is always a difficult task. Under the category of "insurance coverage" in the graph above on "Paying Elected Officials," for example, different policies on insurance exist. Some public bodies make insurance available. The public official can either choose to pay for the coverage or not receive it. Other public bodies pay a certain percentage of the total cost. Others have chosen to pay for the cost of single coverage and if the members want family coverage they have to pay the difference. Some don't even offer it. Whatever can be said about insurance coverage, it does have a significant impact on the overall cost of local government.

Polk County, which includes Crookston and East Grand Forks, pays board members $16,583 per year. They also can earn a per diem of $35 per meeting. Everyone in county employ is entitled to single insurance coverage. If they want family coverage, the cost of single coverage can be deducted from the total cost.

School District 593 (Crookston) pays a base salary of $1,200 per year. The chairman, secretary and treasurer earn an additional $1,200 per year. Board members also earn $50 extra per day for every approved meeting out of town. There are no insurance benefits

In Crookston (pop. 8,119), councilmen earn $6,000 per year. The Mayor earns $7,600 per year. If they are on the budget board or board of review they earn an extra $50 per meeting. Insurance is available but they pay for it.

City council puts sales tax issue on hold for '93

Thief River Falls city council has put plans to present the sales tax proposal to the state legislature on hold — at least for 1993.

During a council meeting in the city auditorium Tuesday night, the council approved a motion recommending that a number of public meetings be held by wards later in 1993 to explain the local sales tax concept, gather public input as to possible projects and how those projects could be funded. If a positive reaction is received, the ICAC would recommend that the city take their request to the 1993 session of the State legislature for special legislation to allow a public referendum on the concept. The vote could occur in 1994.

The recommendation was the result of a discussion at the city's finance committee meeting on Monday, February 22. Prior to the recommendation, the city council had tabled the sales tax concept in order to study the issues and consequences of a recommendation from the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce board of directors. The chamber board voted against the proposal because they believe an economic impact study needs to be completed and proposed projects need to be clearly defined.

What this means, said Mayor Robert Reeve, is that nothing will be done during the 1993 legislative session.

Elected officials face difficult challenge

by David Hill
Associate Editor

During these years of fiscal restraint and slow economic growth, elected officials are often criticized for taking little action and earning too much as public officials.

One of the first lessons elected officials learn is that serving in local government is very time consuming, and the rewards are more intangible than financial.

"How can someone with a business do it?" wondered Thief River Falls Councilman John T. Anderson, who was elected to office only two years ago.

Anderson quickly fired off the times and dates of the more than a dozen meetings that he attended the previous week. "It's time consuming," he concluded. "And that (week) was nothing really abnormal," he said.

Despite the time commitment, and $400 per month he receives as compensation for his work on the Thief River Falls city council, Anderson finds other rewards to being a councilman.

There's the feeling of having some input into what happens to you and fellow citizens, he listed. And, you do get to participate in some successful projects.

However, he added, you don't get a big feeling of importance because there's so much to do and so little you can control. Anderson was referring to some of the exas-

Burbot spawned Baudette drug business

Ugly fish no longer used but production of pharmaceuticals is big business at manufacturing firm on Lake of the Woods

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Burbot, which some describe as an ugly, inedible fish, spawned a multi-million dollar Baudette pharmaceutical industry.

Solvay Pharmaceuticals is latest in a line of three entities which owned the Baudette plant.

The original Baudette company, Burbot Liver Products Company, sold products containing liver oil from burbot caught in Lake of the Woods. The oil contained eight times as many A and D vitamins as cod liver oil.

Rowell Laborotories (the name changed) discontinued its burbot product line long ago and vitamins remain only a small portion of Solvay's product line, namely prenatal multivitamins.

The company employs 160 workers and produces drugs in areas of obstetrics, gynecology and gastroenterology. New developments are in areas including the central nervous system, cardiovascular and hormone replacement.

Solvay Pharmaceuticals is part of a Solvay health supplies branch which passed the $100 million sales mark last December.

Parent company Solvay & Cie is headquartered in Brussels, Belgium. The Solvay worldwide health sector earned $1.1 billion in 1991.

Local media representatives and politicians toured the Baudette plant last Friday. The tour featured the company's $8 million, four-year upgrade of equipment and facilities.

The construction will add 115,030 square feet and replace 23,000 square feet of the existing building. The expansion is part of a Solvay effort to become a bigger presence in the U.S., said David Hiller, manufacturing director.

The company contains a maze of small rooms, each labeled with wards such as lithobid or zenate. In each room workers perform a different function, such as pressing tablets, coating tablets, or filling capsules.

Raw pharmaceutical materials are shipped to Baudette, with the exception of lithium carbonate, which is purified on the site.

The raw materials are individually processed into liquid, capsule or pill form in the small rooms. Solvay produces 51 products which are presented under 74 labels. The company also does a "little bit" of contract manufacturing, Hiler said.

New tablet presses are capable of making 2,700 tablets each minute compared with old tablet presses which only made 100 tablets.

Employees who operate the machines wear white or blue gowns and hair nets in accordance with federal Food and Drug Administration rules. (Hair is considered a chief contaminant). Epoxy paint covers the walls to make it dust-free and easier to clean.

Each room has a support station — expansive machinery in an adjoining room which filters out air contaminants. Individual contractors dispose of the waste.

The Meadowbrooke Ballroom lies in the middle of fields and shelterbelts a couple of miles west of Highway 32 near Middle River. Some Nashville bands would tell the owners, "It's like driving to the end of the world." A wide variety of bands have performed at Meadowbrooke.

The Meadowbrooke Ballroom seats 450 and has hosted as many as three wedding parties at one time. The ballroom has been open for almost 15 years.

Pictures of bands and performers line the north wall of the Meadowbrooke Ballroom. Bands ranging from the polkaing Laverne and the Starlites to sixties group Herman's Hermits have performed at the ballroom. Local country bands provide most of the music.

Meadowbrooke no secret

some did very well for us and some of them didn't, depending on how big the name was,' Peggy said. 'Maybe you had 50 people. If you're paying $1,000 or whatever...'

The Petersons have booked a variety of venues, such as the Chippendale dancers. Peggy received calls about the dancers from people all over Minnesota and North Dakota. "They were taking buses down here...it was crazy,' Peggy said.

There were also the female mud wrestlers. "A couple of big guys were out there and these gals would lift these guys up. There is still mud on the ceiling from those guys,' Peggy said.

Occasionally they still host polka-type music, something Blazek still prefers. Blazek sold his share of the business in its first year.

Blazek owned the Wagon Wheel, a Middle River bar/cafe, at the time they built the ballroom. 'It was always something I wanted to do,' Blazek said.

And the name? Meadowbrooke is situated by a field which might double as a meadow, but there is no brook in sight. 'We were looking for something soft and easy, not a hard name,' Blazek said. 'Now people call it 'The Brook.' 'Let's go out to The Brook,' or 'What's happening at The Brook.'"

The Meadowbrooke Ballroom celebrates its 15th year of business in April. The Petersons and Blazeks built the Meadowbrooke in spring 1978.

"On opening day we didn't have any chairs or tables up and they came in big cartons and here we are panicking. They were still working on the plumbing and they turned the water on and there were leaks all over and I thought 'Oh no! We're going to be open in how many hours?' But they got it fixed, so we did have opening night," Peggy said.

The ballroom is open Saturday evenings. At one time it was open Fridays and Sundays, but the hours cut into 'family time' for Peggy and Vern, who also have full-time jobs. Now the ballroom is occasionally open Fridays and Sundays for teen dances and special events hosted by organizations.

Peggy plays many roles — cook, waitress and bartender to name a few. She also books the bands. The position is ideal for people-watching. "You get all kinds. Of course sometimes you're not really impressed,' Peggy said. 'I have to be a bouncer once in awhile. I look for somebody really big to come with me.'

'I'm kind of the janitor,' Vern said. Vern handles building maintenance.

"They're easy to get along with, good managers. They're pretty easy going,' said William Jesme, who bartended at Meadowbrooke.

On busy nights the ballroom employs three bartenders and four waitresses.

Patrons can buy 3.2 beer, wine coolers and setups from the red shag carpet bar.

The Meadowbrooke Ballroom serves snack food such as barbeque, polish sausage and hot dogs. "Some guys have three, four, five barbeques before they go home,' Peggy said.

Peggy said minors trying to purchase alcohol pose the biggest problem. They are allowed into the ballroom for wedding parties when accompanied by an adult.

Wedding parties are Meadowbrooke's biggest business. Peggy said there is usually about one a week during summer months.

Peggy held her daughter Kari's wedding reception in the ballroom. "That was nice because I could have the whole works here and we could just open the doors," Peggy said. The ballroom gives 20 free admission tickets to wedding parties and they try to honor band requests.

The 40 by 40 sunken dance floor remains the building's biggest selling point, Vern said, but the ballroom has other uses as well.

Organizations use the facility for class reunions, banquets, benefit dances and fundraisers — both Democrat and Republican. 'We don't have a party you know,' Peggy said. 'we just let anybody in.'

the protection at the airport.

Beginning near Highway 32 and the Occupational Development Center, the pipeline will cross the river at Mark avenue before turning south on Pennington avenue to the airport where it will empty into a reservoir. This portion of the project will cost nearly $1 million.

Other elements of the proposed project include: a sanitary sewer and water main looping to Country Lake Foods; a storm sewer extension to Oakland Park road; a sanitary sewer extension on Baken street, and a sanitary sewer to serve Occupational Development Corp.

It is possible that of the $1.58 million project, over $1 million will be assessed to property owners.

In addition to the street and utility improvement project, Lindberg discussed a $108,000 improvement to the wastewater treatment ponds. The improvement would involve removal of some culverts, repairing ice damage, and replacing manholes.

Notices of the hearing will be mailed to property owners around March 5. That notice will inform property owners of improvements adjoining or near their property and of possible assessments. Affected property owners are encouraged to attend the hearing currently scheduled for 7 p.m. March 16.

Lengby community center to hold open house

Lengby — The newly remodeled Lengby community center will hold an open house Saturday, February 27 from 1 to 4 p.m. Lengby Mayor Ethel Naastad stated that coffee and donuts will be available. Since last summer, a new roof, floor with floor heat, kitchen and bathrooms have been put into the building. In addition, the ceiling was lowered and new insulation and interior walls were added to the building. (Thirteen Towns)

Winnipeg beefing up operations

Red Lake Falls — About 30 agricultural representatives from Winnipeg ventured south early this week to hear about beef and buy some bulls. They visited the Gary Purath farm Wednesday to discuss ways of raising cattle. The group was interested in determining marketing strategies for beef cattle and comparing Minnesota's methods of consumer-oriented beef to Manitoba's beef-producing methods. The group also visited Tilden Farms in Mentor, the Red River Valley Beef show in Crookston, the University of Minnesota, Crookston research facility and Thief River Falls. (Gazette)

Smokers still welcome in Kittson courthouse

Hallock — Tobacco has not been banned in the Kittson county courthouse, despite a request from county department heads to make county buildings and vehicles tobacco-free. It was pointed out that many county offices are already basically smoke-free, including Welfare/Social Services, Sheriff, Nursing, Assessor, ASCS, SWCD and FmHA. The last three are federal offices which were designated tobacco-free as of January 1. Commissioners however felt that at least one area of the courthouse should be left available for smokers. Playground planned in Gonvick

Gonvick — A small group of concerned residents are beginning the planning stages of a playground in Gonvick for 2-5 year olds. The area, which would be located near the ECFE center and next to the school playground for older children, would include a bench and picnic table and playground equipment which is considered safer for young children than the standard slides and swings. A fund-raising effort for the new facility is also being planned. (Leader-Record)

Elected officials serve on many committees

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Perhaps because of the poor image and the complexities of committee structure and lack of attention paid to them by the media, few people understand how time consuming it is to serve on local government boards.

Over time, the list of committees with specific purposes has increased. For local government officials, however, time is such a limited resource that, committees that overlap in purpose or are no longer active, are set aside as quickly as possible. Nevertheless, sometimes meetings are held for the sake of making contacts and listening to updates.

Pennington county commissioners receive a per diem for service on any of the 22 approved committees. Those committees include sub-committees of the board and a host of others that have a strong impact on decisions made by the government. The commissioners share duties and responsibilities on these committees and divide up the work load.

There are six basic sub-committees of the Thief River Falls city council. No more than four councilmen can serve on a committee. These committees meet at least once per month. In addition to the six sub-committees, councilmen often find themselves serving as a liason on other committees, such as Community Education, an advisory board for School District 564.

At the beginning of each year, the school board appoints its members to serve on a list of committees. This year, there are 16 committees. For the most part, these committees deal with various educational issues and departments.

■ What are the financial rewards for local government officials?

The following is a brief explanation of the salaries and benefits local government officials earn:

Pennington county commissioners are paid a base salary of $9,000 per year. In addition they can earn $35 per meeting for attending approved meetings. They also can participate in the health and life insurance policies offered by the county. Two county commissioners did not participate in the health plan. The county pays for a single policy. If the commissioner wants a family policy they have to pay 20 per cent of the cost.

Salaries for Thief River Falls city council members vary from $5,400 to $6,000. The Mayor, Robert Reeve, earns $500 per month, the vice mayor, Jean Heinrichs, earns $475 per month, and the other councilmen, Milt Burstad, David Carlson, Dale Wennberg, Don Barron, Frank Hamerlinck and John T. Anderson earn $450 per month. They can participate in a retirement plan but they receive no other benefit or per diem. If, however, they attend a seminar or workshop for the city, their expenses are covered by the city. Insurance is not available.

Salaries for public officials serving on School District 564 board vary from $3,000 to $3,750. There are seven board members. The chairman, Larry Belmont, earns $3,750. The vice-chairman, Dennis Kiesow, earns $3,500. The clerk, Darla Twomey, earns $3,400. The treasurer, Carl Clark, earns $3,200. The remaining directors, Harry Sjulson, Maryel Anderson and Hank Hallstrom, earn $3,000.

Ex-television reporter, cameraman plead guilty in staged drinking party

Bemidji — A former television reporter and former cameraman accused of staging a party for a story on teen-age drinking pleaded guilty Monday to furnishing alcohol to a minor. Reporter Kelly Nelson and cameraman Jim Talley, both 23, were accused of buying two cases of beer and bringing it to a cabin near Bemidji, where they filmed teenagers drinking. They face up to one year in jail and a $3,000 fine. The pair worked for KCCO-TV in Alexandria at the time of the incident. The station has broadcast an apology to the teen-agers, their parents and its viewers after learning of the allegations. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Fisher couple claims state lottery prize

Fisher — Carroll and Nancy Beck of Fisher knew they had matched all five numbers to win $100,000 in the Minnesota state lottery's February 6 Powerball drawing, but couldn't squeeze in time in the first two weeks to make the six-hour drive to lottery headquarters in Roseville. The couple's son plays high school basketball and they were busy with his schedule as well as not wanting to take time off from work. The family was returning from a basketball game when they heard the Powerball numbers on the radio and wrote them down. They later called the retailer and local television station to confirm the winning numbers. The couple has collected $64,000 after withholding. The winning numbers were 19-23-25-31-41. (Crookston Daily Times)

Crookston school board approves high school site

Crookston — The Crookston school board has approved a motion recently to allow negotiation for the purchase of land as a site for a new high school. A figure of $160,000 was also authorized for the project. The board has reviewed eight locations and chosen a site east of Barrette street. The board is interested in about 40 acres of land. The parcel, which contains 148 acres, is tax forfeited. The plan to build a new high school is still contingent on whether the voters approve a bond issue for the project. (Crookston Daily Times)

How about getting rid of the winter blahs with a batch of homebaked cookies?

A reader requested that I reprint a recipe for really old fashioned oatmeal cookies that she had tried and liked, but lost. After much searching, I think I have finally found it (at least I hope this is the right one):

OATMEAL COOKIES
2 cups oatmeal
1 cup hot lard
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup raisins
1/2 cup sour milk
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 1/4 cups flour

Pour hot lard over oatmeal and let stand until cool. Add remaining ingredients and mix well.

Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased cookie sheets and bake in hot oven.

You chocolate lovers will love these cookies:

DOUBLE CHOCOLATE COOKIES
1 cup butter or margarine, softened
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups flour
2/3 cup cocoa
3/4 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups chocolate chips
1/2 cup chopped nuts (if desired)

Heat oven to 350 degrees.

In large bowl, beat butter, sugar, eggs and vanilla until light and fluffy.

Stir together flour, cocoa, soda and salt. Add to creamed mixture. Stir in chips and nuts.

Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 8-10 minutes or until just set. Cool completely on wire rack.

Here's a good snack cookie to have on hand, and it tastes great warm from the oven:

MERRY MUNCH COOKIES
1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
1 1/2 cups packed brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup raisins
1 cup walnuts

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease cookie sheets.

Combine butter, brown sugar, egg and vanilla and beat until light and fluffy.

Stir in flour, baking powder and salt and mix well. Add raisins and walnuts.

Drop by teaspoonfuls onto cookie sheets and bake in upper third of oven for 10-12 minutes. Cool on racks.

White chocolate and macadamia nuts make these cookies extra fancy (they are also good made with regular chocolate chips and walnuts if you can't wait until you get to the store):

WHITE CHOCOLATE COOKIES
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup shortening
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1 egg
1 3/4 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla
10 ounces white chocolate (coarsely chopped)
1/2 cup macadamia nuts, lightly toasted and chopped

In large bowl, cream butter and shortening. Gradually add sugars, beating until light and fluffy. Add egg and mix well.

Combine flour, soda and salt and add to creamed mixture. Stir in chocolate and nuts and cover and chill dough for 1 hour.

Drop by heaping tablespoonfuls (3 inches apart) on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 12-14 minutes, until lightly golden. Let stand a few minutes before removing to wire rack to cool.

Get the kids into the act and let them drop these no-bake cookies onto waxed paper after you put them together in just a minute or two:

TWO MINUTE COOKIES
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup milk
2 cups sugar
3 cups oatmeal
5 tablespoons cocoa
1/2 cup raisins, chopped nuts or coconut

In large saucepan, heat butter, milk and sugar. Bring to a boil, stirring occasionally. Boil for 1 minutes and then remove from heat.

Stir in oatmeal, cocoa and raisins, nuts or coconut. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto waxed paper.

One more quick recipe that you can make with the kids:

ALMOND APRICOT DROPS
4 cups Crispix cereal (or other crisp cereal)
1 cup slivered almonds
1 cup chopped dried apricots
1 1/2 pounds almond bark, chopped

In large bowl, combine cereal, almonds and apricots. Set aside.

In micro-safe bowl, melt almond bark on high for 2 1/2 minutes, stirring after 1 minute. Stir melted almond bark into cereal mixture.

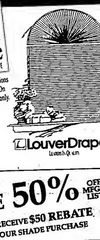
Drop by teaspoonfuls onto waxed paper and let cool until set. (Work quickly lest almond bark start to harden.)

(Recipe makes about 5 dozen drop cookie treats and each drop contains 90 calories, 5 g fat, 2 g saturated fat, 0 cholesterol and 150 mg sodium.)

County board studies list of sheriff applicants

Pennington county board of commissioners met at the county courthouse Tuesday to discuss the applicants for sheriff.

The board did not make a decision on who will be the next sheriff, or reduce the list of finalists. Pennington county auditor Ken Olson said the board will conduct further research and make background checks on the applicants before the next meeting on the subject. The subject has been placed on the agenda for a meeting at 4:30 p.m. on March 1.



On February 19 and 22 the board conducted interviews of the nine candidates who agreed to be interviewed. The final nine candidates, listed in no particular order, are: Robert M. Siems, Richard B. Olson, James L. Hulteen, Charles Kevin Schuman, Lester L. Randall, Leonard R. Rowe, Gerald E. Moe, James R. Haugen, and Scott D. Eustice.

Can enzyme regimen end obesity?

WASHINGTON — A nutritional research organization says that a special enzyme regimen can promote extremely fast, yet safe weight loss.

National Dietary Research, an organization whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, says that the regimen called the Metabolase Plus Thermogenic Weight Loss System utilizes biological information often overlooked in diet programs. With the Metabolase Plus System, you consume at least 6 meals a day from a wide variety of foods followed by the enzymes to overcome the body's natural resistance to weight loss.

To demonstrate the effectiveness, NDR sponsored a promotion where free samples were given to 50 people. The results found that women following the regimen lost over a pound a day and men lost over two pounds a day. The director of research and development at NDR cautions that these results may not necessarily be indicative of what the average consumer could expect because the rate of weight loss for individuals varies.

A firm located in Tampa, Florida has exclusive distribution rights to the enzyme regimen. The Metabolase Plus Thermogenic Weight Loss System is available through physicians, pharmacies, and health food stores without a prescription. However, because of the overwhelming demand, quantities are sometimes limited.

10 ounces white chocolate (coarsely chopped)
1/2 cup macadamia nuts, lightly toasted and chopped

In large bowl, cream butter and shortening. Gradually add sugars, beating until light and fluffy. Add egg and mix well.

Combine flour, soda and salt and add to creamed mixture. Stir in chocolate and nuts and cover and chill dough for 1 hour.

Drop by heaping tablespoonfuls (3 inches apart) on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 12-14 minutes, until lightly golden. Let stand a few minutes before removing to wire rack to cool.

Get the kids into the act and let them drop these no-bake cookies onto waxed paper after you put them together in just a minute or two:

TWO MINUTE COOKIES

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup milk
2 cups sugar
3 cups oatmeal
5 tablespoons cocoa
1/2 cup raisins, chopped nuts or coconut

In large saucepan, heat butter, milk and sugar. Bring to a boil, stirring occasionally. Boil for 1 minutes and then remove from heat.

Stir in oatmeal, cocoa and raisins, nuts or coconut. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto waxed paper.

One more quick recipe that you can make with the kids:

ALMOND APRICOT DROPS

4 cups Crispix cereal (or other crisp cereal)
1 cup slivered almonds
1 cup chopped dried apricots
1 1/2 pounds almond bark, chopped

In large bowl, combine cereal, almonds and apricots. Set aside.

In micro-safe bowl, melt almond bark on high for 2 1/2 minutes, stirring after 1 minute. Stir melted almond bark into cereal mixture.

Drop by teaspoonfuls onto waxed paper and let cool until set. (Work quickly lest almond bark start to harden.)

(Recipe makes about 5 dozen drop cookie treats and each drop contains 90 calories, 5 g fat, 2 g saturated fat, 0 cholesterol and 150 mg sodium.)

County board studies list of sheriff applicants

Pennington county board of commissioners met at the county courthouse Tuesday to discuss the applicants for sheriff.

The board did not make a decision on who will be the next sheriff, or reduce the list of finalists. Pennington county auditor Ken Olson said the board will conduct further research and make background checks on the applicants before the next meeting on the subject. The subject has been placed on the agenda for a meeting at 4:30 p.m. on March 1.

On February 19 and 22 the board conducted interviews of the nine candidates who agreed to be interviewed. The final nine candidates, listed in no particular order, are: Robert M. Siems, Richard B. Olson, James L. Hulteen, Charles Kevin Schuman, Lester L. Randall, Leonard R. Rowe, Gerald E. Moe, James R. Haugen, and Scott O. Eustice.

Can enzyme regimen end obesity?

WASHINGTON – A nutritional research organization says that a special enzyme regimen can promote extremely fast, yet safe weight loss.

National Dietary Research, an organization whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, says that the regimen called the Metabolase Plus Thermogenic Weight Loss System utilizes biological information often overlooked in diet programs. With the Metabolase Plus System, you consume at least 6 meals a day from a wide variety of foods followed by the enzymes to overcome the body's natural resistance to weight loss.

To demonstrate the effectiveness, NDR sponsored a promotion where free samples were given to 50 people. The results found that women following the regimen lost over a pound a day and men lost over two pounds a day. The director of research and development at NDR cautions that these results may not necessarily be indicative of what the average consumer could expect because the rate of weight loss for individuals varies.

A firm located in Tampa, Florida has exclusive distribution rights to the enzyme regimen. The Metabolase Plus Thermogenic Weight Loss System is available through physicians, pharmacies, and health food stores without a prescription. However, because of the overwhelming demand, quantities are sometimes limited.

Well drilling benefit set for Sportsmen club

With more and more organizations making use of the Pennington County Sportsmen Club property north of Thief River Falls, need for water at the clubhouse becomes more apparent, according to Allan Paulson, chairman of the recently approved well digging project.

Initial fund-raiser for the well digging effort will be a pancake breakfast to be served Sunday, March 7, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Eagles hall in Thief River Falls. A free-will donation will be accepted for a breakfast of pancakes, sausage, milk, coffee and juice.

Paulson said that the clubhouse was constructed with the intention of having water available on the site and that a kitchen sink, bathrooms and related plumbing are in place in the building. Drilling a well has been discussed off and on for about 15 years, but has been considered more seriously recently with increased use of the clubhouse and grounds.

"The Boy Scouts use the facilities quite extensively," Paulson said, "and having water available on site would be a benefit to them, especially to have indoor toilets for winter camping and other overnight activities."

The clubhouse, grounds and/or shooting range are used for the Red River Valley Peace Officers Association meeting and pistol shoot, a two-day Minnesota State Patrol pistol shoot, sighting-in days for deer hunters, Department of Natural Resources youth programs, firearms safety training, Jaycee outings, 4-H club and family picnics, Deer Hunters Association events and other uses.

"Our estimates are that it will cost about $5,000 to drill a well, pipe the water to the clubhouse and install equipment that will allow water to be used but easily drained during the winter," Paulson said.

Anyone who would like to make a donation to the project but is unable to attend the breakfast Sunday, March 7, may send it to: Sportsmen Club Well Fund, Northern State Bank, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Drug Company Pricing A Prescription For Public Indignation

An apparent tendency to charge as much as the public will bear is buying a lot of ill will for the U.S. drug industry. Slapped on the wrist by no less a public figure than the President of the United States—albeit a fledgling President who is just trying his wings—the drug industry has been scrambling to explain its position and justify its pricing.

As we have stated editorially before, we have some sympathies for the drug companies' situation. We don't fault them for spending as much money on advertising as on research because there is no business sense in discovering and producing a product if you can't sell it. There are high costs in development before a drug can be placed on the market, and those costs must be recovered. And for that matter, does the government really have any business interjecting itself into what admittedly must be purely a private independent business decision?

But we can also understand the difficulties and the anger of the millions of Americans who perceive themselves as being unmercifully gouged by what they believe to be unnecessarily high prices for products they depend on for relief or even sustaining of life itself.

Being a resourceful people, however, many Americans—those who are able to find a way—are getting around the high prices by taking their business elsewhere—primarily South of the Border, Down Mexico Way. In old Mexico the same drug companies sell the same product for a fraction of the price they charge in the United States. Why? Because people in Mexico can't afford to pay U.S. prices, and if the drug companies want to sell their product there, they have to sell it for less. Drug company spokesmen make that very point themselves.

Ron Pollack, executive director of Families USA Foundation, points out that some Americans who travel to Mexico are not lured by white sand beaches or Aztec ruins. They are seeking affordable health care. Half of the Americans doing so have health insurance, but their deductibles in the U.S. are higher than the entire cost of care in Mexico.

Pollack points out that a survey by his organization found that first-time visits to a Mexican doctor average $25, compared with $65 in three U.S. communities along the border. Among hundreds of Mexican doctors surveyed, 99 percent are seeing American patients. Some drugs cost up to six times as much in the United States as in Mexico. Local druggists, who must pay the higher prices to the drug manufacturers and suppliers and pass them along to their customers, get caught in the middle. They are on the front line to meet the attack of the angry consumer.

What is happening, of course, is that the drug companies are subsidizing their foreign sales through high prices on U.S. sales. They could not afford to sell all of their product for the prices they charge in Mexico and other countries. And those who go to Mexico for health products and/or services are taking advantage of the depressed economy of a neighbor, just as the physicians, dentists and pharmacists who ply their trade in the Mexican border towns are geared to serve Americans rather than the native population.

"It's really a disgrace that Americans are forced to go to a foreign country for care," Pollack says. "For our pride as Americans, as well as for the health of our families, it's time we created a comprehensive and affordable health care system that will keep Americans from having to travel abroad for health care."

Making such a demand is easy. Making it work is something else. There will have to be some major societal changes before there will be much change in the U.S. health care system.

"The Money Really Wasn't An Issue....."

We don't usually devote a whole lot of editorial space to sports of one form or another, but once in awhile something comes along that catches our attention and seems to invite comment. Most often that something involves one or more professional athletes and their opinions of themselves.

Just this week, for instance, the Minnesota Twins signed relief pitcher Rick Aguilera to a two-year contract for an amount roughly equivalent to the Gross National Product of some emerging countries. According to an Associated Press report, Aguilera will get $7.81 million for a two-year extension of his contract covering the 1994 and 1995 seasons. It consists of a $1 million signing bonus, $2.71 million in 1994 and $3.8 million in 1995. There is also a $4 million option for 1996. If he is used as a starting pitcher he could earn another $400,000 a year in bonuses ($100,000 each for pitching 150, 175, 200 and 225 innings). And if he is traded, the contract automatically jumps to $9.06 million.

And then he was quoted as follows: "I may have got more money somewhere (else). I realized that most of my success comes from the way I'm used by (manager Tom) Kelly and I've been fortunate to play on a good team that wins a lot of games and that's where most of my success comes from. Living in Minnesota, I've felt welcome here by the fans. I don't feel I'd be happy anywhere else. That's what it basically came down to. The money really wasn't an issue."

"The money really wasn't an issue?
"The money really wasn't an issue!

Not as long as there was enough of it, it wasn't an issue. Just about anyone could be happy in Minnesota with an annual salary of $3.9 million, even if he had to work for a few minutes three or four days a week for seven or eight months out of the year.

At least Aguilera is part realist. He seems to know he benefits from a manager who gives him every break possible. He pitches virtually every time it is possible to earn a save, including with multiple run leads. He usually comes in to start an inning rather than be called on in the clutch. When he does come in with men on base he frequently allows them to score, with the runs being charged against previous pitchers, not his own ERA. In 1991, for instance, he had 42 saves while appearing in 60 games and pitching only 69 innings.

A likely first place winner in the Jeff Reardon look-alike contest, Aguilera has the formula for success as a relief pitcher at Minnesota: Wear a dark beard, scowl and glare a lot, pitch every time there is a likelihood of earning a save, give up runs charged to other pitchers and have an outfield of multi-millionaires who can pick 400-foot drives off the fences.

And work where you'll be happy—where the money isn't an issue.

perating mandates from state government that affect decisions and budgets.

"But you know what," Anderson said, "I don't know any councilmen who complain a lot about it (the time commitment). They even seem to go after the job with zest," he said.

The amount of time a person puts on a board varies individually, said School District 564 Board member Dennis Kiesow. Some are on more committees and that takes up more time, he said.

For Kiesow, who serves on two different boards and works as an investigator for the police department, it gets very time consuming at times.

Kiesow quickly added that it isn't unbearable. It's worthwhile to see improvement in the school district. It's exciting to see the school district move forward, and that gives you a feeling of being part of that movement.

After thinking about it a short time, Kiesow said that for some people exercise provides a release from stress and tension. Kiesow said attending these meetings outside his normal work activities provides that release for him.

Ken Murphy, who was elected to serve on the county board two years ago, has spent a lifetime serving on various public boards including 12 years on the school board, and nine years on the city council before becoming a county commissioner.

"When you become an elected official," Murphy said, "you quickly realize that you don't serve on that board alone. There are other board members with thoughts on how things should be done. In addition, no board or commission is isolated. It has to be a participant in making decisions with other boards and commissions."

As a result of his service on the county commission, Murphy also serves on an Office of Waste Management board, a board of the Minnesota department of transportation, and a multi-jurisdictional committee chaired by the Lt. Governor.

"It does take a lot of time — a considerable amount of time," Murphy rephrased. "If you're in it for the money or ego, you're in it for the wrong reason," Murphy said.

Murphy explained that for him it's not enough to be recognized on the street. To be effective — a goal by which he determines whether he will continue to serve or not — Murphy said, means people must have faith enough in him to bring him their problems because they believe he can do something for them.

Murphy is now retired, but it wasn't always so. Recently, he put in two 60-hour weeks in a row serving on various committees and boards. In the past, he would mark down his time and then reimburse his employer by working during vacation time. That averaged about 10 days a year.

Before going into public office, Murphy suggested that a self-employed person sit down and determine what amount of time can be sacrificed away from work. If employed, the prospective candidate should sit down with a current board or commission member to get an idea of the kind of time commitment and expenses will be encountered. Then the person will have to sit down with his or her employer and work out some of the details.

A question pondered by many including city finance officer Roger DeLap, is whether the reward is enough to attract good candidates to serve on local government boards. That's a question that seems to come up every once in a while, said DeLap. What is obvious is that they sure put in a lot of time, he added.

It is clear from the comments of the local government officials that their job is a difficult one. It appears, however, that knowing whether the rewards are enough to keep good people in office with any confidence, will occur only when people stop running for office.

Well drilling benefit set for Sportsmen club

With more and more organizations making use of the Pennington County Sportsmen Club property north of Thief River Falls, need for water at the clubhouse becomes more apparent, according to Allan Paulson, chairman of the recently approved well digging project.

Initial fund-raiser for the well digging effort will be a pancake breakfast to be served Sunday, March 7, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Eagles hall in Thief River Falls. A free-will donation will be accepted for a breakfast of pancakes, sausage, milk, coffee and juice.

Paulson said that the clubhouse was constructed with the intention of having water available on the site and that a kitchen sink, bathrooms and related plumbing are in place in the building. Drilling a well has been discussed off and on for about 15 years, but has been considered more seriously recently with increased use of the clubhouse and grounds.

"The Boy Scouts use the facilities quite extensively," Paulson said, "and having water available on site would be a benefit to them, especially to have indoor toilets for winter camping and other overnight activities."

The clubhouse, grounds and/or shooting range are used for the Red River Valley Peace Officers Association meeting and pistol shoot, a two-day Minnesota State Patrol pistol shoot, sighting-in days for deer hunters, Department of Natural Resources youth programs, firearms safety training, Jaycee outings, 4-H club and family picnics, Deer Hunters Association events and other uses.

"Our estimates are that it will cost about $5,000 to drill a well, pipe the water to the clubhouse and install equipment that will allow water to be used but easily drained during the winter," Paulson said.

Anyone who would like to make a donation to the project but is unable to attend the breakfast Sunday, March 7, may send it to: Sportsmen Club Well Fund, Northern State Bank, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Drug Company Pricing A Prescription For Public Indignation

An apparent tendency to charge as much as the public will bear is buying a lot of ill will for the U.S. drug industry. Slapped on the wrist by no less a public figure than the President of the United States—albeit a fledgling President who is just trying his wings—the drug industry has been scrambling to explain its position and justify its pricing.

As we have stated editorially before, we have some sympathies for the drug companies' situation. We don't fault them for spending as much money on advertising as on research because there is no business sense in discovering and producing a product if you can't sell it. There are high costs in development before a drug can be placed on the market, and those costs must be recovered. And for that matter, does the government really have any business interjecting itself into what admittedly must be purely a private independent business decision?

But we can also understand the difficulties and the anger of the millions of Americans who perceive themselves as being unmercifully gouged by what they believe to be unnecessarily high prices for products they depend on for relief or even sustaining of life itself.

Being a resourceful people, however, many Americans—those who are able to find a way—are getting around the high prices by taking their business elsewhere—primarily South of the Border, Down Mexico Way. In old Mexico the same drug companies sell the same product for a fraction of the price they charge in the United States. Why? Because people in Mexico can't afford to pay U.S. prices, and if the drug companies want to sell their product there, they have to sell it for less. Drug company spokesmen make that very point themselves.

Ron Pollack, executive director of Families USA Foundation, points out that some Americans who travel to Mexico are not lured by white sand beaches or Aztec ruins. They are seeking affordable health care. Half of the Americans doing so have health insurance, but their deductibles in the U.S. are higher than the entire cost of care in Mexico.

Pollack points out that a survey by his organization found that first-time visits to a Mexican doctor average $25, compared with $65 in three U.S. communities along the border. Among hundreds of Mexican doctors surveyed, 99 per cent are seeing American patients. Some drugs cost up to six times as much in the United States as in Mexico. Local druggists, who must pay the higher prices to the drug manufacturers and suppliers and pass them along to their customers, get caught in the middle. They are on the front line to meet the attack of the angry consumer.

What is happening, of course, is that the drug companies are subsidizing their foreign sales through high prices on U.S. sales. They could not afford to sell all of their product for the prices they charge in Mexico and other countries. And those who go to Mexico for health products and/or services are taking advantage of the depressed economy of a neighbor, just as the physicians, dentists and pharmacists who ply their trade in the Mexican border towns are geared to serve Americans rather than the native population.

"It's really a disgrace that Americans are forced to go to a foreign country for care," Pollack says. "For our pride as Americans, as well as for the health of our families, it's time we created a comprehensive and affordable health care system that will keep Americans from having to travel abroad for health care."

Making such a demand is easy. Making it work is something else. There will have to be some major societal changes before there will be much change in the U.S. health care system.

"The Money Really Wasn't An Issue....."

We don't usually devote a whole lot of editorial space to sports of one form or another, but once in awhile something comes along that catches our attention and seems to invite comment. Most often that something involves one or more professional athletes and their opinions of themselves.

Just this week, for instance, the Minnesota Twins signed relief pitcher Rick Aguilera to a two-year contract for an amount roughly equivalent to the Gross National Product of some emerging countries. According to an Associated Press report, Aguilera will get $7.81 million for a two-year extension of his contract covering the 1994 and 1995 seasons. It consists of a $1 million signing bonus, $2.71 million in 1994 and $3.8 million in 1995. There is also a $4 million option for 1996. If he is used as a starting pitcher he could earn another $400,000 a year in bonuses ($100,000 each for pitching 150, 175, 200 and 225 innings). And if he is traded, the contract automatically jumps to $9.06 million.

And then he was quoted as follows: "I may have got more money somewhere (else). I realized that most of my success comes from the way I'm used by (manager Tom) Kelly and I've been fortunate to play on a good team that wins a lot of games and that's where most of my success comes from. Living in Minnesota, I've felt welcome here by the fans. I don't feel I'd be happy anywhere else. That's what it basically came down to. The money really wasn't an issue."

"The money really wasn't an issue?

"The money really wasn't an issue!

Not as long as there was enough of it, it wasn't an issue. Just about anyone could be happy in Minnesota with an annual salary of $3.9 million, even if he had to work for a few minutes three or four days a week for seven or eight months out of the year.

At least Aguilera is part realist. He seems to know he benefits from a manager who gives him every break possible. He pitches virtually every time it is possible to earn a save, including with multiple run leads. He usually comes in to start an inning rather than be called on in the clutch. When he does come in with men on base he frequently allows them to score, with the runs being charged against previous pitchers, not his own ERA. In 1991, for instance, he had 42 saves while appearing in 60 games and pitching only 69 innings.

A likely first place winner in the Jeff Reardon look-alike contest, Aguilera has the formula for success as a relief pitcher at Minnesota: Wear a dark beard, scowl and glare a lot, pitch every time there is a likelihood of earning a save, give up runs charged to other pitchers and have an outfield of multi-millionaires who can pick 400-foot drives off the fences.

And work where you'll be happy—where the money isn't an issue.

Baudette company grows

ages the drugs, they are shipped to Marietta, GA, and sent to wholesalers. If a Baudette resident wants to purchase a Solvay product made in Baudette, the product must first travel to Georgia, then to the Twin Cities, and then back to Baudette.

Remodeling at the plant will increase the size of the rooms and add more automated equipment. "The challenge is keeping up with growth," Hiller said.

The only research and development at Baudette deals with the mechanical process and not cause and effect.

Marietta is the company's United States research and development center. It also produces 10 to 15 per cent of Marietta/Baudette output.

By 1993, Baudette will house the entire production line, leaving Marietta with research and development as well as sales, marketing and administration.

Baudette to Brussels

The original Baudette pharmaceutical company, Burbot Liver Products Company, started by selling burbot liver extract.

Two Men and a Fish, a book written by Jenny Moorman, documents the history of Rowell Laboratories.

According to Two Men, Ted Rowell, Sr. began to investigate the oil's properties after his Baudette drugstore burned down in 1929.

Rowell's father was a commercial fisherman and also raised blue foxes. He fed the foxes the rough fish he caught. Rowell and his father observed thicker pelts when the foxes' meals consisted of burbot.

Rowell also received testimonials from people who claimed the liver kept them healthy.

Using his pharmaceutical background, Rowell tested the vitamin A and D properties of burbot liver oil. He used a steam cooking procedure to extract the oil. Burbot Liver Products Company was incorporated in 1935.

The company grew rapidly and began to manufacture other pharmaceuticals such as cortenima, a product which treats ulcerative colitis. It later discontinued the burbot liver oil products.

Rowell Laboratories reached the $1 million annual sales mark in the early sixties. Today, Hiller said, "An occasional truckload (of finished products) is maybe worth $1 million."

In 1985, Reid-Provident, a pharmaceutical company based in Atlanta, GA, acquired Rowell Laboratories, forming Reid-Rowell, Inc.

Solvay, a Brussels-based corporation, bought Reid-Rowell in 1986. It closed the Atlanta-based manufacturing site and moved most production to Baudette, the larger of the two sites, with the headquarters in Georgia. Solvay also purchased the Baudette air to ground radio station and adapted it into a hormone production plant.

The Reid-Rowell acquisition caused a "lot of winnowing of the product line," Hiller said. Areas such as cough and cold remedies were consolidated.

At first, Hiller said, "The changes were a little unsettling for Baudette as an area."

The Baudette-Marietta set-up is similar to other Solvay pharmaceutical operations, Hiller said. Production companies in France and Holland are located in small, rural settings with headquarters located in metropolitan areas.

An advantage of the rural setting is a low worker turnover rate and good work ethic, Hiller said.

The policy was developed in response to state and federal legislation. City councilman Dale Wennberg, pointed out that the policy applies to "parent", male or female.

■ Superintendent of Utilities, Arlo Rud, provided the council with an update on progress at the water treatment plant.

Two of three new basins have been filled with water at the water treatment plant. Rud said work on piping is progressing. The contractor is making modification to an existing basin. He said he expects the entire plant to be on line in one to one and one-half months.

In an interview on Wednesday, Al Lamm, water treatment plant supervisor, said the plant is treating water on a straight coagulation process. Without a long explanation, the only difference residents will notice is in taste. Lamm said he doesn't know what that will be yet. Lamm also expects the plant to be substantially complete in four to six weeks.

In other business, the council: the council approved the purchase of a tractor following receipt of quotes; approved a contract for services between the city and Northwest Regional Development Commission for preparation of a 1993 Small Cities Development Block Grant application; hired Greg Habedank at a higher step at the liquor store; hired Kirk Jenson as an employee at the liquor store; approved a progression raise for Gary Page, chief power plant operator; approved a request to advertise for material bids for the 1993 Electric department construction season; approved a request to advertise for the position of line worker following the resignation of Ted Schmitz; increased hours available to arena ice attendants; approved a request for a dance permit from Ryan Walseth for March 5 at the Armory from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Out of town expenses are reimbursed when they are on official business for the school district. There are no other benefits or per diems. Insurance is not available to them.

Committees

Local government officials serve on many different committees. Some committees are actually subcommittees of the council, commission or board they were elected to serve on. Many more, however, are committees that have an impact on how decisions at the local government level are made.

Many commissions, councils and boards pay a per diem to officials who attend approved hearings. In Northwestern Minnesota, only county boards or commissions tend to award per diems. Per diems can have a significant impact on the cost of local government.

■ Approved Pennington county commissioner committees:

On December 22, 1992, the county board approved a $35 per diem for the following meetings: Welfare Board; Oakland Park Home Board; Law Enforcement Union Negotiation committee; Welfare Union Negotiation committee; Solid Waste Committee; Juvenile Training Center board; Highway committee; Building and Maintenance committee; Road, Bridge and Culvert committee; Law Library committee; Association of MN counties meetings; Chamber of Commerce board; Inter-County Community Council board; NWRDC board; NWRDC Transportation committee; NWRDC committee on aging; Representative to Jobs Inc. board; Northwest Regional Library board; Comprehensive Local Water Plan Joint Power board; Community Education committee; Oyrstad — Local/State Government Relations committee; Water Survey Steering committee; any other committees that are established by the county; board or appointments made or meetings attended while representing Pennington county. Not all of the committees meet monthly. Some may meet only once a year. The county board meets as a whole for the Welfare board and Oakland Park home board.

■ The county board meets twice a month. Generally, it meets on the second Tuesday of the month at 10 a.m. and on the fourth Tuesday of the month at 5 p.m. The chairman of the county board is Oliver "Skip" Swanson. The vice-chairman is Ken Murphy. The other county commissioners are Don Jenson, Arden Comstock and Charles Naplin. The County Auditor is Ken Olson. The County Attorney is Dave Olin.

■ Thief River Falls city council committee assignments:

Committees have been where most of the problems faced by the city council are ironed out. In the last few years, the emphasis on working out problems in committee has been even stronger. There are six basic committees: Liquor; Utilities; Labor; Airport and Public Safety; Street, Health, Sanitation, Engineering and Buildings; and Finance, Tax, License and Insurance. In addition, there are many other committees that take up time, such as the Board of Zoning and Appeals, the Planning commission, Jobs Inc., Chamber meetings and many others. Some of these committees meet at regular times during the month, some are scheduled as time permits. During one month, as many as 20 committee meetings can and will be held.

During the beginning of each year, committee assignments are made and approved. The following assignments were approved at the beginning of this year:

- Liquor — Jean Heinrichs, John T. Anderson, and Dave Carlson;
- Utilities — Don Barron, Milt Burstad, Frank Hamerlinck, and Dale Wennberg;
- Labor — Dale Wennberg, John T. Anderson, Frank Hamerlinck;
- Airport and Public Safety — Robert Reeve, Jean Heinrichs, and Dale Wennberg;
- Street, Health, Sanitation, Engineering and Buildings — Milt Burstad, John T. Anderson, Dave Carlson, and Frank Hamerlinck;
- Finance, Tax, License and Insurance — Don Barron, Milt Burstad, Jean Heinrichs, and Robert Reeve.

■ The city council meets every second and fourth Tuesday of the month at 5 p.m.

■ School District 564 committee assignments:

Committee assignments for the school board are as follows: Finance committee — Larry Belmont, Carl Clark and Harry Sjuison; Center School Governor board — Dennis Kiesow; Chamber of Commerce and Jobs Inc. board — Superintendent Bob Duncan; Minnesota State High School League board representative — Darla Twomey and District representative — Terry Soine;

Also, Continuing Education committee, K-12 — Maryel Anderson; Block Grant Advisory committee — Larry Belmont; Interim Citizens Advisory committee — Darla Twomey; PER committee — Larry Belmont and Darla Twomey; District-wide Staff Development committee — Maryel Anderson; Community Education — Carl Clark and Dennis Kiesow;

Also, Effective Schools (Knox and Mark Twain) — Hank Hallstrom, (Washington and Northrop — Maryel Anderson; Area Learning Center — Larry Belmont; Technology Utilization — Darla Twomey; Indian Education Advisory committee — Dennis Kiesow; Northwest Technical College District board — Dennis Kiesow; and Teacher Bargaining — Carl Clark, Larry Belmont and Hank Hallstrom.

Other committee appointments are made during the year.

■ Generally, the school board meets first and third Monday of every month beginning at 7 p.m.

Second half shooting sparks Prowlers past Nordics...

TRF rally tops MCC 73-67

Thief River Falls had won just twice in 19 starts coming into the game, so calling Tuesday's come-from-behind 73-67 boys high school basketball win over Marshall County Central the highlight of the 1992-93 season would hardly be an exaggeration. But even if the Prowlers had won a fair share of their games, the second half effort against the visiting Nordics would probably still rank among the more memorable efforts on the books.

Marshall County Central, capitalizing on 10 first quarter Thief River Falls turnovers, jumped out to a 23-8 lead with just 7:17 elapsed.

The Nordics matched that 15-point spread at 38-23 when Tim Olson hit a short jumper with 1:28 left in the first half. The final margin seemed to be the only question at that point.

However, back-to-back three-point efforts by Preston Treat turned out to be a sign of things to come as the 5-11 junior hit a jumper in traffic and added a free throw with 1:10 left, then moments later connected on a three-point shot from the corner to make it 38-29.

Two free throws by the Nordics' Travas Knutson with 26 seconds left closed out a 40-29 first half, but even then, Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland was concerned.

"They got that little run at the end of the second quarter," pointed out Ueland. "I think that's when the game swung around. Those couple of possessions were the key. If we could have gone into halftime with a 15 or 16-point lead instead of 10-11, I think it would have been a lot different game."

Thief River Falls then opened eyes with a 63 percent second half shooting display that began with baskets by Tony Greene, Treat and Kyle Sanden in the first minute to quickly close the gap to 40-35.

That was part of an 11-2 Thief River Falls run, which ended on a short turnaround jumper by Jason Lambert to pull the Prowlers within 42-40.

Thief River Falls finally managed to overtake Marshall County Central on a 7-0 surge late in the third quarter as Greene hit from three-point range, Treat dropped in a short jumper and Jason Schuster scored on a fast break to make it 55-52.

A short turnaround jumper by the Nordics' Dean Engen closed out a 55-54 third quarter.

It stayed close until the Prowlers put together a game-winning string of 12 unanswered points, wiping out a 61-59 deficit on a fast break by Schuster, a three-pointer by John Gunstad, two free throws by Gunstad, a fast break lay-up by Treat, a basket underneath by Lambert, and a free throw by Sanden for a 71-61 gap with just 1:12 remaining.

The Nordics weren't done, however. A three-point basket by Shane Borg, a free throw by Jake Rantanen and a drive by Brandon Borg made it 71-67 with 28 seconds still showing, and an ensuing Thief River Falls turnover gave the visitors a chance to do some serious damage to the Prowlers' lead.

But the Marshall County Central possession did not produce a score, and Treat wrapped it up by making two free throws with 12 seconds to go.

In addition to their 15-for-24 second half field goal shooting, the Prowlers went 12-for-14 at the free throw line, including a 9-for-11 fourth quarter.

"Our intensity level was much higher in the second half," explained Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "We came out with a lot more fire and enthasiasm. We got our transition game going, we shot the ball really well, we made some big shots, and we made our free throws."

Meanwhile, Marshall County Central shot only 39 percent in the second half (12/31) and had a quiet 2-for-5 second half at the line.

"They (Prowlers) put on a shooting clinic in the second half," said Ueland. "I didn't think we played poorly. We played hard. We just didn't make the shots, and they didn't miss. It was a real disappointment."

Treat had a 23-point night for the winners, with Gunstad and Sanden both netting 15. Rantanen and Olson both scored 16 points for the Nordies, while Engen picked up 11.

For the night the Prowlers were 27-for-53 from the field (51 percent). The Nordies were 28-for-62 from the field (45 percent) and 7-for-13 at the line. Marshall County Central finished with a 24-17 rebound edge and Thief River Falls topped the turnover charts 23-15.

The loss put the Nordics at 14-7.

Prowlers beat Lakers 54-43

Thief River Falls free throws and Detroit Lakes turnovers were the key items Thursday as the Prowlers beat the visiting Lakers 54-43 in regular season-ending girls high school basketball.

Detroit Lakes out-scored Thief River Falls 40-36 from the field, but the Prowlers had a productive 18-for-27 night at the free throw line, where the Lakers were a quiet 3-for-3.

Throw in 32 Detroit Lakes turnovers and you have the 11-point spread at the end.

The two teams are apparently ticketed for a quick post-season rematch in opening round North Sub-Section 8AA tournament play Tuesday, with Thursday's outcome putting the game right back in the Lincoln High School gym instead of Detroit Lakes – where the Lakers beat the Prowlers 64-52 earlier this month.

Thief River Falls finished the regular season at 9-13.

The game was closer than the final score would indicate. The teams were never separated by more than five points until Thief River Falls went on a game-winning 11-0 run over the final 1:48.

The lead changed hands nine times and there were three ties in the first half that found the Prowlers leading 12-9 at the end of the first quarter and the Lakers up 25-23 at halftime.

Detroit Lakes still had a two-point lead at the end of the third quarter, 35-33, and it was tied for the last time at 43-43 when Jodi Jost made two free throws with 2:09 remaining.

Those were the final points of the night for the Lakers. The Prowlers took the lead for good when sharp passing opened up the back door for Lisa Rendulich, who made the lay-up and added a free throw for a three-point play and a 46-43 edge with 1:48 left.

Everybody on the court got into the act in the rest of the Prowlers' game-ending run that included a free throw by Toni Chiodo, a drive by Amy Adams, two free throws by Lisa Utrich, a basket from underneath by Lari DeLap, and a free throw by Rendulich with 12 seconds left to finish it off.

That kind of teamwork showed up in the balanced Thief River Falls scorebook as Adams netted 14 points, Chiodo 10, Utrich 9, Rendulich 8, and DeLap 8.

Detroit Lakes' scoring was also spread out as Lisa Altheff and Jost, a pair of six-foot front line players, collected 13 and 12 points, respectively, while 5-8 guard Jill White had 10.

Thief River Falls shot 33 percent from the field for the night (18/55), while Detroit Lakes shot 36 percent (20/56). But the Lakers' field goal edge was erased by the difference at the free throw line, and a 38-28 Detroit Lakes rebound advantage was wiped out by the turnovers. The Prowlers lost the ball 18 times themselves, but that was still 14 fewer turnovers than what the visitors had.

NCC wins last start

Northland Community College men's basketball team found wins hard to come by this winter, but the Pioneers at least finished on a winning note Saturday (Feb. 20) in a late-reported 75-68 home court decision over UND-Lake Region.

Two of the Pioneers' four wins in a 4-18 season came against the Royals.

"We played well," said Northland coach Mark Dannhoff after the 1992-93 finale. "It was a good way to finish the year. For about eight minutes in the second half we played like we should have been playing all year – we played together as a team, we were unselfish with the basketball, we moved the ball, we took good shots, those shots were dropping, and we played some defense."

Mike Swanson led the Pioneers with 26 points, while Marty Henderson paced the Royals with 18.

Detroit Lakes' Lisa Althoff went above Thief River Falls' Amy Adams and Lori DeLap (51) for a short jump shot during Thursday's high school basketball game in the Lincoln gym. The Prowlers beat the Lakers 54-43.

Season ends for G/G

Two regular season Goodridge/Grygla wins over Kittson County North did not carry much weight into post-season play Thursday as the cold-shooting Wolverines fell to the Cougars 43-22 in opening round Section 8A Sub Section 4 girls high school basketball tournament action at Northland Community College.

Goodridge/Grygla made just three of 22 first half field goal attempts and wound up with a 9-for-46, 20 percent figure for the night.

"We couldn't hit a thing," acknowledged Goodridge/Grygla coach Mike Gast.

It was 6-4 when the Wolverines' Jamie Berndt hit a short jumper four minutes into the game. But a rebound basket by Jenny Swenson, an inside move by LaVonne Nelson and a free throw by Nelson put the Cougars ahead 11-4 by the close of the first quarter.

A 9-0 Kittson County North surge continued when 5-11 sophomore Jenny Steen scored twice from underneath to start the second quarter, making it 15-4.

Goodridge/Grygla never recovered. It was 19-8 at halftime and 36-15 through three quarters.

Nelson, a 5-8 sophomore, led all scorers with 13 points, while teammate Jenny Swenson, a 5-6 junior, netted 10. The Wolverines, who were unable to get inside the Kittson County North zone, did not have a scorer with more than five points.

"I knew if we were going to beat them we had to hit from the outside," noted Gast. "And we didn't do it."

Gast had to do some juggling in the personnel department, with illness, an injury and discipline situations putting six eighth graders in uniform. "I was really happy for those young kids," he said. "They were just thrilled to be there, and when they got a chance to play, they played hard."

Goodridge/Grygla finished the year at 6-16.

In other first round games Thursday, Argyle eliminated Warroad 44-31 and Stephen ousted Lake of the Woods 54-37.

A 35-35 third quarter tie was shattered when Badger/Greenbush-Middle River opened the fourth quarter with 20 unanswered points Tuesday en route to a 64-52 boys high school basketball win over Tri-County at Karlstad.

"They (Tri-County) played well; we didn't," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby.

But despite the off-night effort, the Gators went to 19-2 for the year.

Public Notices

PUBLIC NOTICE

The CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS Water Department announces that the maximum limit for Turbidity in drinking water was exceeded during the month of January 1993.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand, or organic matter in water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with the Chloramine disinfection. However, the high turbidity level did not create a health hazard because the Water Department is able to maintain effective levels of chloramine for disinfection.

The Thief River Falls Water Purification Plant is currently in the construction stage of a 6.7 million dollar expansion and remodeling project. This project will enable compliance with the water quality requirements of the 1986 Amendments to the Safe Drinking Water Act.

Please be assured that the water is safe to drink. Any citizen seeking additional information should contact Allen J. Lemm, at the Water Purification Plant, phone number 681-3809.

Wagon Wheel, Inc. fears loss of pull tabs

Middle River — The Middle River Jaycee officers were shocked this week when they were notified that they would not be able to sell pull tabs on the premises of the Wagon Wheel for one year. The news came as a result of the bust and confiscation of an illegal sports board (Super Bowl board) in January from the Wagon Wheel. The Wagon Wheel has now been prohibited as an on-site location for any gaming operations. This leaves the Jaycees with a gaming license, but no site. The manager of the Wagon Wheel states that all bars in the area have run football boards for years and adds that he believes this should have been a local police matter instead of a matter for the state gaming board. Sally Oentry, bookkeeper for the local gambling fund, says that she thinks the state is cracking down on businesses that sell pull tabs to try to boost sales of lottery tickets. (New River Record)

Mystery of Red Lake Falls Graves solved

Red Lake Falls — A 28-year-old sister-in-law of Dr. John Watson, who died of tuberculosis, has been identified as the second body in the graves discovered in April 1988 on the banks of the Clearwater river in Red Lake Falls. Della Conklin was the sister of Amanda Conklin Watson, who had originally been thought to be the second body. Della died sometime between Dec. 8, 1887 and Aug. 29, 1888. Because she was a small women, her body was first believed to be that of a child. The other body found at the site was Margaret Watson, 20-month-old daughter of John and Amanda Watson, who died of meningitis on Nov. 17, 1885. The information was discovered after a grand-nephew of Amanda and Della wrote to the library and requested information on the family. (Gazette)

Fosston named "Tree City USA"

Fosston — Fosston has been named a "Tree City USA" for the first time. The National Arbor Day Foundation, a non-profit educational organization dedicated to tree planting, announced the designation, which was recommended by state foresters, who co-sponsor the program. The 1992 tree planting program in Fosston was one of the reasons for the decision. (Thirteen Towns)

Stephen — On February 27, shortly after 10 p.m., a Burlington Northern unit train loaded with wheat derailed 3 1/4 miles north of Stephen. Because of the snow and ditches in the area, not all of the wheat will be recovered. (Messenger)

Opponents to sales tax keep up the pressure

Opponents to the proposed local sales tax intend to keep up the pressure against the proposal even though the city council and the Interim Citizen's Advisory Committee (ICCC) have decided to wait until 1994 to re-introduce the proposal for a referendum to the state legislature.

Bob Carlson, who is leading the opposition, has sent information out to people he knows that support the sales tax. That information contains a news article written by Bill McAuliffe of the Star Tribune. Carlson said he thinks it tells the real story of how taxpayers feel about any more increases in taxes, especially local sales taxes.

The story examines the efforts of some of St. Paul's leaders to introduce a proposal to levy a half-cent sales tax to help pay for $83 million in improvements to the St. Paul Civic Center, neighborhood redevelopment and enhancement of the downtown cultural corridor.

St. Paul is one of the newest entrants to the sales tax battle. Since 1986, the article points out, 11 cities and two counties have won legislative authority to levy various special local sales taxes. Of the four that won permission to bring the issue before voters last year — Brooklyn Center, Ely, Roseville and Thief River Falls — none have imposed the sales tax. Tax proposals failed in Brooklyn Center and Ely and referenda were never attempted in Roseville and Thief River Falls.

The article cites a growing reluctance among some of the state legislators to allow local sales taxes to be imposed. Most of the reluctance results from criticism from taxpayer advocates who claim the taxes are "hidden" taxes. In addition, they say the sales tax tends to be paid by people who weren't able to vote for them, and who don't receive direct benefits.

Carlson said, "We are pleased that the Minnesota Tax Payers Association, along with Sen. Doug Johnson, Chairman of the Senate Tax Committee, are listening to our concerns and our strong opposition to the sales tax in Thief River Falls.

"I might be out of office, but I can assure you I am not out of touch with my former constituents and my many friends in Northwestern Minnesota. A vast majority of them are telling me — 'No sales tax in Thief River Falls!'. We don't oppose some of the projects you have been proposing, but we do oppose the method of financing via a sales tax.

"We would be happy to support some of these projects providing they were presented to the taxpayers of this city with a referendum and to be financed by bond issues, if that is what the taxpayers wanted.

"Let us all work together for the good of Thief River Falls and our trade area. We intend to follow this issue closely and will be in touch with legislators such as Sen. Johnson and others who support our views."

Postal employees wait for word on jobs

Over a year ago the announcement of a new area mail processing plant meant the loss of several jobs in Thief River Falls. The plant which will house the new automated equipment in Grand Forks has been completed, but the equipment hasn't been purchased and no jobs have been lost — yet.

Thief River Falls Post Master Dick McCloskey said he doesn't know what's happening with the project. Everything has been put on hold, he said.

Clem Felchle, plant manager in Fargo, explained that a new Post Master General took over in July and a reorganization of the entire postal service began. The reorganization meant a restructuring and rethinking some of the past policies. Officials began to take a second look at the automated systems and restructuring that would lead to situations similar to Thief River Falls where the mail would be sent to Grand Forks for processing. In the rush to put in place the new automated systems, some forgot about service, he said.

The proposal to ship mail from Williston, to Bismack, ND, is an example of a situation that was reexamined. In that situation, mail would routed from Williston to Bismarck for processing. That's 250 miles one way, he said. In North Dakota where they experience long winters, the mail would be on the roads for a long time. Service did not improve under that arrangement. The number of places that would receive mail overnight declined. That proposal, he said, is dead. In Thief River Falls, the proposal was approved because more places will receive overnight mail service as a result of the change.

Felchle said the building in Grand Forks has been built, and the change over has been approved. He doesn't know when the equipment will be purchased or put in

Gerald Moe accepts job as new sheriff

Gerald Moe, Pope County Sheriff, has accepted the position of Pennington County Sheriff. The acceptance capped a two and one-half month search for someone to fill the sheriff's position which was vacated by Bob Wold.

Moe told Pennington county commissioners Tuesday, March 2, that he was very impressed with the community and would be happy to accept the position of county sheriff. Moe said he had a few things to clear up in Pope county, such as the conclusion of incomplete cases, and a three-week notice to Pope county.

While in Thief River Falls Tuesday, Moe had an opportunity to visit with other law enforcement officials and visit the schools. Moe explained that he has two sons, Paul, who is a senior and Luke, a sophomore. Paul will complete school at Minnewaukon. Moe said Paul is interested in going into law enforcement so he might attend Northland Community College. His youngest son, Luke seemed to enjoy his visit and was impressed with the high school.

Reaching a decision on whether to take a chance on a one and one-half year appointment was something Moe said he and his wife Paulette considered seriously. Moe said he was impressed with the equipment and personnel at the law enforcement center. He said it seemed that he would be coming Smoke detectors are now being given to the parents of each newborn baby at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls by the Thief River Falls Morning Kiwanis club. First recipients were Lori Marquis and her son Brody. They are pictured with Jan Milandar, RN; Dr. A. F. Schaunaman, who delivered Brody; and Earl Gibson, president of the Kiwanis club.

Kiwanis to give smoke detectors to new parents

To protect children's lives and motivate parents toward fire safety, the Thief River Falls Morning Kiwanis club has initiated a project to donate a smoke detector to the parents of each newborn baby at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

First recipient of a club-donated alarm was Lori Morquis and her son Brody.

The project has been undertaken by the club in cooperation with Ace Hardware, according to club president Earl Gibson.

"The objective of this project is to save children's lives, to motivate parents to learn the importance of and to practice fire safety and to continually re-emphasize to our community the importance of fire safety and fire prevention," Gibson said.

He invited other businesses or individuals that would like to become supporters of the project to contact project chairman Carl Clark at 681-4433 or Earl Gibson at 681-4838.

Clark said the project was initiated based on some impressive statistics regarding fire deaths of young children. These facts include the following:

• In the United States, 27 per cent of all fire related deaths are children five years old or younger;

• There are 400 fire related deaths of infants 0-2 years old in the United States each year;

• For children ages two to five, the figure doubles to 800 deaths per year;

• It is estimated that 60 per cent of homes in the United States do not have a working smoke detector;

• Statistics show that having a working smoke detector in the home cuts the risk of dying in a fire by half.

"We hope that this effort by our club increases public awareness of fire safety," Clark and Gibson said.

Buffalo roam near Mike Marvin's home

Warroad restaurant owner likes his American Bison—in the pasture and on the menu at The Patch

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

"Oh give me a home, where the buffalo roam...." Mike Marvin of Warroad alleviated this problem. He raises buffalo.

The 41 buffalo form an odd welcoming committee for travelers driving into Hockeytown east on Highway 11. They gather, graze and glare at passersby from a pasture south of the highway.

Marvin has raised buffalo since 1972. Lately, buffalo have charged back into the limelight with the help of movies such as "Dances with Wolves" and increased awareness of their profitability.

"Anyone who puts up a fence can usually come ahead on buffalo," Marvin said. "Where there were just fools and dreamers who had them before, now there are business people who have them."

Buffalo have a turbulent history. Businesses and government brought the buffalo to the brink of extinction and back again. An estimated 60 million buffalo thrived in the mid-1800s, but by 1900 their numbers were thinned to 100. Now 120,000 buffalo roam North America in parks and ranches. The March/April Audubon magazine estimates that 80 per cent of the buffalo are privately owned.

One area sign of the buffalo uprising is a proposed $1.38 million packaging plant in mid-eastern North Dakota.

Marvin, who owns and operates The Patch Restaurant, raises buffalo on a smaller scale than full-time ranchers. He produces buffalo for buffalo burgers ($4.95 with the works), ground buffalo meat, and an occasional steak.

The buffalo meat is so popular he can't produce enough. Marvin obtains about two-thirds of the meat he sells from a Grand Forks producer.

He doesn't do much marketing other than the buffalo burger's prominent top-left spot on the menu and table tents scattered around the restaurant reading "Real men (and women) don't eat quiche, they eat buffalo."

Marvin extols the virtues of buffalo as a health food. A report from an Ohio buffalo farm lists 93 calories and 1.8 grams of fat in three ounces of bison, as opposed to 183 calories and 8.7 grams of fat in the same serving of beef.

Most buffalo aren't pumped with hormones and growth stimulants, Marvin said, and few people are allergic to their meat or fur.

The Art of Raising Buffalo

Marvin started raising buffalo as a hobby. When he went into the restaurant business he created a market for the buffalo.

He regards the buffalo as a low-maintenance livestock. "You don't have to go to cattle school because you don't dehorn them, and you don't do much vaccinating — if any, and you don't castrate them and you don't help them give birth. You don't plan their breeding. You don't have to be as knowledgeable. You have to be willing to build a better fence and corral," Marvin said.

Fencing is key in buffalo raising. Marvin surrounded his 130 acres of pasture with barbed wire and steel netting attached to six foot railway ties.

An animal which can reach one ton in weight and run 30 miles an hour is able to throw its weight around. When tending buffalo "I'm always near a fence or a pickup." Marvin said

Occasionally, because of an open gate or deep snow, the buffalo escape. Escaped buffalo roam — and roam where they want to. The problem is "You don't shoosh buffalo," Marvin said. "There's kind of a joke with buffalo. You can herd buffalo anywhere they want to go."

One evening, around 11 p.m., Marvin awoke to a phone call from the Thief River Falls State Highway Patrol dispatcher who told him some buffalo had escaped and were wandering around the highway.

With the help of a patrol car's spotlight Marvin walked through the ditch and talked the buffalo back into the pasture. "It's easy when they haven't strayed far from where they've come from because they'll go right back to where they came out," Marvin said. After fourteen years by the highway, Marvin reports no buffalo-vehicle accidents.

One bull escaped the pasture and appeared to be looking for Marvin.

Buffalo glare at intruders with the arched position of their tails showing excitement. Mike Marvin of Warroad owns the herd of 41 buffalo. The pasture is immediately west of Warroad next to Highway 11. Marvin has owned buffalo since 1972.

Mike Marvin, owner of The Patch Restaurant in Warroad, maintains a 41 buffalo herd.

"Anyone who puts up a fence can usually come ahead on buffalo," Marvin said. "Where there were just fools and dreamers who had them before, now there are business people who have them."

Buffalo have a turbulent history. Businesses and government brought the buffalo to the brink of extinction and back again. An estimated 60 million buffalo thrived in the mid-1800s, but by 1900 their numbers were thinned to 100. Now 120,000 buffalo roam North America in parks and ranches. The March/April Audubon magazine estimates that 80 per cent of the buffalo are privately owned.

One area sign of the buffalo uprising is a proposed $1.38 million packaging plant in mid-eastern North Dakota.

Marvin, who owns and operates The Patch Restaurant, raises buffalo on a smaller scale than full-time ranchers. He produces buffalo for buffalo burgers ($4.95 with the works), ground buffalo meat, and an occasional steak.

The buffalo meat is so popular he can't produce enough. Marvin obtains about two-thirds of the meat he sells from a Grand Forks producer.

He doesn't do much marketing other than the buffalo burger's prominent top-left spot on the menu and table tents scattered around the restaurant reading "Real men (and women) don't eat quiche, they eat buffalo."

Marvin extols the virtues of buffalo as a health food. A report from an Ohio buffalo farm lists 93 calories and 1.8 grams of fat in three ounces of bison, as opposed to 183 calories and 8.7 grams of fat in the same serving of beef.

Most buffalo aren't pumped with hormones and growth stimulants, Marvin said, and few people are allergic to their meat or fat.

The Art of Raising Buffalo

Marvin started raising buffalo as a hobby. When he went into the restaurant business he created a market for the buffalo.

He regards the buffalo as a low-maintenance livestock. "You don't have to go to cattle school because you don't dehorn them, and you don't do much vaccinating — if any, and you don't castrate them and you don't help them give birth. You don't plan their breeding—You don't have to be as knowledgeable. You have to be willing to build a better fence and corral," Marvin said.

Fencing is key in buffalo raising. Marvin surrounded his 130 acres of pasture with barbed wire and steel netting attached to six foot railway ties.

An animal which can reach one ton in weight and run 30 miles an hour is able to throw its weight around. When tending buffalo "I'm always near a fence or a pickup," Marvin said.

Occasionally, because of an open gate or deep snow, the buffalo escape. Escaped buffalo roam — and roam where they want to. The problem is "You don't shoosh buffalo," Marvin said. "There's kind of a joke with buffalo. You can herd buffalo anywhere they want to go."

One evening around 11 p.m., Marvin awoke to a phone call from the Thief River Falls State Highway Patrol dispatcher who told him some buffalo had escaped and were wandering around the highway.

With the help of a patrol car's spotlight Marvin walked through the ditch and walked the buffalo back into the pasture. "It's easy when they haven't strayed far from where they've come from because they'll go right back to where they came out," Marvin said. After fourteen years by the highway, Marvin reports no buffalo-vehicle accidents.

One bull escaped the pasture and appeared to be looking for Marvin.

Buffalo glare at intruders with the arched position of their tails showing excitement. Mike Marvin of Warroad owns the herd of 41 buffalo. The pasture is immediately west of Warroad next to Highway 11. Marvin has owned buffalo since 1972.

Mike Marvin, owner of The Patch Restaurant in Warroad, maintains a 41 buffalo herd.

McCloskey said he hopes to know more about the proposed change in the near future. "It's a heck of a thing to have hanging over your head," McCloskey said for postal employees.

Felchle said as far as he knows, the change-over won't take place in the immediate future, perhaps in several months.

A Heart Chec Plus wellness assessment will be available as well as special activities for children. (Kittson County Enterprise)

Crookston Times files complaint against Polk county

Crookston — Attorney Michael Tye filed papers in Polk county district court recently on behalf of the Crookston Daily Times against the Polk county board. The newspaper is claiming that there were defects in the bidding process for the official county newspaper and that the county failed to consider pertinent facts. The complaint states that the East Grand Forks Exponent, which was named by the county board as the 1993 official paper, was allowed to give oral supplement to its written bid, while other bidders were not given this opportunity, and the Exponent was not asked to submit a bond, as the Times has done in past years. (Crookston Daily Times)

Red Lake students develop science books

Red Lake — Five Red Lake high school students are working on compiling several zoology textbooks, a project that grew up of an Anishinabe science class they took at Bemidji state university. The students have completed the first of the book series, which deals with the Native American historical uses of the white cedar tree. These included talcum powder, insect repellent, fish decoys, drums, grave markers and baby carriers. The group is also planning to prepare similar books on the uses of fish and moose. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Mortgage burned for Clearbrook community pool

Clearbrook — A special meeting of the Clearbrook community club was held recently to authorize the final payment of $15,000 for the Clearbrook community swimming pool. The pool was built in 1989 at a cost of $233,696. The community club was instrumental in financing the project. (Leader-Record)

Polk county Central Cities searches for new director

Polk County — A three point plan was agreed to by the members of the Polk county Central Cities project, including McIntosh, Mentor, Winger, and Fertile, since the recent resignation by Lola Baron, executive director of the Partners in Transition program. The first step in the plan is to contact the Northwest Minnesota Initiative Fund to obtain an agreement to continue the project. Additional steps will be to advertise for a new director and also contact people who had been interviewed originally for the position. The group hopes to have someone in place by the end of March. (Fertile Journal)

Sandhills Snofest is on Sunday

Snow snakes competition and schmoosh races will be part of Fertile's Sand Hills Snofest Sunday, March 7, with the main activity along the Sandhill river just west of the Strem bridge—west of Fertile off highway 32 on Summit Avenue about 3/4 mile.

In the snow snakes game darts or javelins are hurled along a trench in the snow to see whose "snake" will go the greatest distance and win a prize. Competition will start at 1:30 p.m.

Schmoosh races involve ski races between two four-member teams—except that the skis are 2x4s and all four team members are strapped to the same pair, attempting to move in unison.

A poker run on skis will begin and end at the bonfire and pass through the Sand Hills where participants will pick up tickets along the way to exchange for cards upon their return to the bonfire.

Hot chocolate and peanuts will be available as well as roasting sticks for those who want to bring wieners or marshmallows. The day's scheduled activities will end about 4:30 p.m. For further information call 945-3129.

1/3 cup vinegar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 small bell pepper, chopped

Mix brown sugar and cornstarch in skillet. Stir in pineapple and syrup, vinegar and soy sauce. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. (Recipe serves 4 and each serving contains 475 calories, 35 g protein, 65 g carbohydrate, 8 g fat, 145 g cholesterol, 740 mg sodium and 720 mg potassium.)

Use leftover chicken or turkey to make this easy dish:

CHICKEN FRIED RICE

3/4 cup diced cooked chicken
1/2 teaspoon cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon oil
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon oil
1 can (8 ounces) sliced water chestnuts, drained
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons oil
3 cups cooked rice
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon chopped green onion with tops
Dash of pepper

Mix chicken, cornstarch and 1/4 teaspoon salt.

Heat wok or skillet until very hot. Add 1 tablespoon vegetable oil and rotate to coat sides.

Add eggs and cook and stir until eggs are thickened but still moist. Remove from wok.

Heat wok and add 1 tablespoon oil, rotating. Add chicken, water chestnuts, mushrooms and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Stir fry for 1 minute and remove from wok.

Heat wok and add 2 teaspoons oil, rotating. Add rice and stir fry for 1 minute. Add soy sauce and then chicken mixture, eggs and remaining ingredients. Stir fry 30 seconds.

(Recipe serves 4 and each serving contains 480 calories, 15 g protein, 55 g carbohydrate, 22 g fat, 130 mg cholesterol, 720 mg sodium and 420 mg potassium.)

You'll love this dish; it can be ready to serve in minutes:

PAN-FRIED SHRIMP

1 tablespoon dry white wine
1 teaspoon soy sauce
2 green onions with tops
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1/4 cup ketchup
1 tablespoon soy sauce
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
2 teaspoons finely chopped gingerroot

Remove legs and tail from each shrimp. Leaving shell intact, cut through shell lengthwise down back to within 1/4 inch of each end, using scissors. Remove vein with toothpick.

Toss shrimp, wine and 1 teaspoon soy sauce in medium glass or plastic bowl. Cover and refrigerate 20 minutes. Cut onions into 2 inch pieces.

Heat wok very hot. Add oil and rotate to coat sides. Place shrimp in single layer in wok (do not overlap).

Fry about 4 minutes, turning once, until pink.

Refractive Surgery Can Dramatically Enhance Your Eyesight, So You're Much Less Dependent on Glasses or Contacts.

Glasses and Contacts Can Be a Hassle. Nearsightedness, farsightedness, and astigmatism affect more than 100 million people in North America ... and the quality of their lives. So, if you're tired of wearing glasses or contacts for cosmetic reasons or because of lifestyle or job limitations, Refractive Surgery may be worth looking into.

Richard L. Lindstrom, M.D.
Consultative Ophthalmology, Refractive & Laser Surgery

Refractive Surgery Works to Correct the Cause of Vision Problems. Refractive Surgery has been designed to correct nearsightedness. The precise micro-surgery works by changing the shape of the cornea, thus correcting the way the eye focuses light. The 20 minute outpatient procedure can correct vision to 20/40 or better in 90% of the cases, and it's virtually painless. In fact, most patients return to work in two to three days. Even more reassuring is the fact that nearly 1,000,000 surgeries have been performed nationwide.

A World-Renowned Refractive Eye Surgeon in the North Country. Dr. Richard L. Lindstrom is widely regarded as a leader in corneal, cataract, refractive, and laser eye surgery. And now, select Eye Specialists in northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota are able to offer Dr. Lindstrom's world-class Refractive Surgery services to their patients.

Is Refractive Surgery Right for You? To find out more about Refractive Surgery, you or a family member may want to attend a free information seminar. This eye-opening presentation lasts about one hour. Of course, there's no obligation, and free literature will be available. Space is limited, so call the phone number listed here today and let us know you'll be attending.
